Stubborn Rhee Stalls Efforts To Settle Truce

Climax in Armistice Crisis Is Predicted Within Hours

By SAM SUMMERLIN

SEOUL (AP) — President Syngman Rhee's price for an armistice —United States assurance of a unified Korea—temporarily stalled U. S.-South Korea "little truce talks" today.

Neither Rhee nor President Eisenhower's envoy, Walter S. Robertson, would comment after their sixth secret meeting this morning. But a reliable source said the talks are stalled while both sides consider their stands.

No time was set for the next meeting.

Rhee apparently is demanding unification or more war, and the U. S. is holding out for unification by negotiation.

His obstinate refusal to accept the terms Ike's envoy agreed upon by Allies and Reds stopped the full-dress P a n m u n j o n negotiations and brought on the "little truce talks" at Seoul after Eisenhower sent Robertson on a mission to coax Rhee into a truce.

However, South Korean leader maintains that it will take arms, not words, to unify Korea.

South Korea's foreign minister, Pyun Yung Tai, said his country has no faith in political conferences and will agree to take part in talks aimed at peaceful unification only if a time limit is imposed.

Climax Near

Meanwhile, Washington officials predicted a climax in the armistice crisis within hours, with a clear answer whether Rhee will accept the armistice plan announced new Saturday and try to fight on alone.

There were strong indications the U. S. would go ahead with a truce even if Rhee doesn't agree, and a well-informed source said he believes the Reds would accept on that basis.

Robertson landed in Seoul June 23 after a flight from Washington at the request of President Eisenhower.

The talks apparently have lasted longer than was first anticipated and a solution is not yet in sight.

Produces New Demands

A competent source revealed Wednesday that Rhee last Saturday had told Robertson all his demands had been met by Eisenhower. But the next day, Rhee produced new demands which Robertson quickly turned down. The source said one of these demands was a 90-day limit on a post-truce political conference.

Faced with Robertson's rejection, Rhee said he would write "in his own hand" another version of his stand. This was relayed to Robertson by an aide Wednesday.

Robertson discussed the message with Rhee when he went to the presidential mansion for the latest meeting.

The envoy waved to newspaper men that he hoped fighting could be stopped soon.

Eisenhower Hopeful

In Washington, President Eisenhower told a press conference he believes a satisfactory truce solution is in the making, said Mrs. Ed Cox.

Rep. William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.) said on a radio panel discussion that a solution would be to have Communist China on a par with world powers and the UN guarantee her security.

He said he thought Russia and China would accept a settlement if such action would give reasonable assurance Korea would not be used as a jumping-off place for aggression.

Queen Mother Princess Given Hearty Welcome

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret received a royal welcome from thousands of excited Rhodesians Wednesday as they opened a 16-day Rhodes centenary tour of this central African colony.

The mother and sister of Queen Elizabeth II rested in the evening after their overnight jet flight from London into the heart of Africa. They have no further official engagements until their special train leaves tonight for a 300-mile journey to Bulawayo.

There on Friday the Queen Mother will open a Rhodes exhibition honoring the South African statesman who pioneered the development of South and central Africa: Rhodes was born in 1853.

Crowds of white and native Africans lined the dusty sun-baked highway under a blazing sun to watch the royal party in a state from Salisbury's new airport to the colonial.

African school children waved Union Jacks and called out in lisping voices as the 15-car procession passed.

Outside Salisbury a mounted escort of 16 lance-bearing policemen met the royal visitors and led the procession to Government House.

The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret will spend 10 days with Maj. Gen. Sir John Kennedy, governor of Southern Rhodesia and Lady Kennedy.

Allied Planes Catch Red Tanks Hiding in Valley

SEOUL (AP)—Allied Sabre jet fighter-bombers smashed 20 to 40 communist tanks in a camouflaged valley that bulged the western front today and saturated the area with 1,000-pound bombs.

Black smoke filled the valley, making an accurate count of wrecked tanks impossible, the U. S. Air Force said.

Not since early in the war has a comparable concentration of Red armor been spotted so near the Korean front.

The 8th Army, meanwhile, reported that heavy fighting cost the Reds 36,000 killed and wounded last month, the equivalent of about three Red divisions.

The communists answered with the heaviest artillery and mortar fire of the war. Almost 1,500,000 rounds hit Allied lines during June, nominally double the rate of the monthly record.

The front was relatively quiet today. South Korean troops drove Chinese Reds off a dominant knob on a Punch ridge during the night, the 8th Army said.

There was little fighting on Looker mountain and Virginia hill on the eastern front, scene of vicious see-saw battles in recent days.

Cloudy skies curtailed aerial activity, but the planes of the Sabre fighter-bombers had no complaints about the weather as they returned from their tank-busting mission in which they dropped 44 bombs.

There was no immediate reaction from army officials as to why the Reds had concentrated so much armor less than 15 miles behind the front.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Warm humid air producing the usual mixture of cloud and showers, showers and thunderstorms appears in store for most of Ontario today. However, a zone of relief is in sight as drier and slightly cooler air is moving in behind a disturbance situated near Lake Superior. The arrival of this new air mass will bring clearing skies to all southern regions Friday but some cloud is likely to persist in the Timmins-Kapuskasing and James Bay regions. Friday's temperatures will be mainly five to 10 degrees cooler than today but the humidity will drop noticeably.

Beard-Growing Prize Winners at Trenton Centennial

CHEESE, BUTTER IMPORT QUOTAS SLASHED BY U.S.

Canadian Cheese Limit Is Cut 75 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (CP) — Despite Canadian protests against tradethrottling import restrictions, the United States agriculture department has announced new butter limitations as part of a general reduction of dairy imports.

The announcement Wednesday followed a strongly-worded note from Canada to the U. S. protesting new American quotas on foreign shipments of dairy products, fats and oils.

The Canadian note criticized the new rules as not only further impairing trade between the United States and Canada but also violating in effect American pledges to expand, rather than restrict, world commerce.

Cheese Hard Hit

Canadian shipments of cheddar cheese are hard hit under the new quota arrangement, with a limit of 500,000 pounds annually instead of the 2,000,000 previously imported by the U. S.

Canadian officials have estimated that the new curbs will likely reduce Canada's dairy trade with the U. S. by some $2,000,000 a year—from $2,700,000 to $700,000.

Two Killed

LINDSAY (CP) — A Toronto motorcycle child died Tuesday in a collision between a small English-type automobile and a motorcycle on a road in one of two world powers and the UN guarantee her security.

He said he thought Russia and China would accept a settlement if such action would give reasonable assurance Korea would not be used as a jumping-off place for aggression.

Wife Says Her Husband Could Not Fight Way Out of a Paper Bag

MONTREAL (CP)—A mother of five children said Wednesday night she was never divorced her husband, now planning to marry a 37-year-old girl in Germany.

"And I'll ever see him again I will beat him," said Mrs. Ted Woods in an interview at her home here. "I'll kill him."

Mrs. Woods said she "hinted way" when she served a new dish patch a few weeks ago saying her husband, with the Canadian army in Hannover, plans to marry and settle in Germany.

In an interview in Hannover Wednesday, Woods said he is trying to get a divorce from his Montreal wife "and I'm going to get it."

He said that when he left Canada to return to Germany his wife had agreed to a separation providing he supported her and the children. He indicated that for certain reasons he subsequently cut off financial support.

Woods was described as a civilian employee of the Canadian army as a physical training officer.

Said Mrs. Woods:

"He just walked out on me and the children and if I ever see him again I'll beat him up. The story said he was a jujitsu expert but he couldn't fight his way out of a paper bag . . .

I hope the girl doesn't know he's married. I'm just sorry for her. But if she does, I'd like to beat her up too.

Constitutional Issues Raised By Prime Minister in N.B.

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's 86th birthday Wednesday furnished an apt excuse for election campaigning on constitutional issues. Prime Minister St. Laurent raised them in Charlottetown where the ground-work of Confederation was laid in 1864.

Meanwhile, Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, took a day's rest from campaigning in the West to attend a stampede celebration of Dominion Day in south-central British Columbia.

However, he charged on the eve of Dominion Day that B.C. markets for salmon, lumber and other products were lost "because the (Liberal) government didn't have enough interest in the British market to keep it open."—he told a New Westminster, B.C., audience that they can be regained.

International Trade

In Ottawa, Solon Low, Social Credit leader, also dealt with international trade in a national radio address. He proposed that Canada accept sterling in trade.

In another national radio address, Donald MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said the CCL is supporting the CCF in the Aug. 10 election because the CCF promises a better life for all who work for a living in factory, office or on farms.

Mr. St. Laurent, speaking outside the building where union delegates met in 1864, said he believes "spokesmen of all the provinces will be able to agree on a method of amending the constitution here in Canada which will give full protection to provincial autonomy."

Can Amend Act

The provinces can amend the British North America Act on purely provincial matters. Parliament can amend it on federal matters. But changes of joint interest still must be made in the British Parliament.

He gave a group of youngsters a talk on the meaning of Confederation and Dominion Day in the Confederation Chamber.

Mr. St. Laurent struck a similar note in Saint John, N.B., the previous night. He said any permanent "whittling away" of federal powers by a constitutional change will have to be made by some other government than his. The federal government might be hamstrung in an emergency.

Raid on Powers

Any such shuffling of tax rights would be a "raid on federal powers." I would feel it was a crime against the Canadian nation to take any risk at the last kind."

Canadians Attend Barbecues, Picnics on Dominion Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canadians celebrated Dominion Day by attending sports events, barbecues and picnics, by taking one-day trips to points in Canada or to neighboring United States cities.

Killed were Mrs. James Alexander, 27, and her son, James, 2. James Alexander, 27, the husband and father, suffered severe head and chest injuries.

Canadians attended Dominion Day ceremonies at Fredericton served 4,800 persons and turned another 1,200 away.

Campobello Bicentennial

Most Ottawans spent the holiday at cottages along the Gatineau, Rideau and Ottawa rivers near the capital. A heavy thunderstorm broke over Toronto late in the day, drenching competitors in the last two events of the Dominion Day regatta.

Edmonton was clear and warm for the holidays but some scattered showers and thundershowers fell elsewhere on the Prairies. Baseball tournaments were staged at Lethbridge, St. Paul, Alta., and Saskatoon.

The day was marked at Kingston by the ceremony of the changing of the guard at old Fort Henry, watched by some 12,000 persons.

Mock Battle Staged

The entertainment from the Royal Canadian School of Signals took over from the Fort Henry guard and the uniforms of British regulars of the Confederation era. A mock battle was staged between five RCN ships and the Fort Henry guard with rockets and mortar fire.

In day-long celebrations, which opened with high mass and included a fireworks display, races, games and dances, Windsor's Dieppe Park celebrated their patron saint, Jean Baptiste.

Ottawa's Lansdowne provided the out-door mass.

In Britain, the United States, France and Korea Canadians gathered to observe the anniversary.

There was an open house at Canada House in London.

Repeats Broadcast

The John Cameron Forum program put the spotlight squarely on Canada, with a panel answering questions from the audience about the senior Commonwealth partner from Down Under.

A rebroadcast of "The Flower in the Rock," by Joseph Schull of Montreal, was also scheduled. The play was first heard in February and was so popular the BBC decided to repeat it. The cast included Bernard Braden of Vancouver, Stanley Maxted of Ottawa and Macdonald Parke of Cornwall, Ont. formerly a player with the Toronto Argonauts football club.

SOCIAL CREDIT SEEMS HEADED FOR B.C. VICTORY

Big City Ridings Key To Working Majority

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP) — Social Credit appeared today to be marching toward majority government in British Columbia with final success hinging on continued strength in the multiple-seat ridings.

Returning or leading in the interior seats it captured in 1952, and making inroads for the first time on Vancouver Island, the party now looks to the big city ridings for a working majority in the 48-seat legislature.

Tuesday, the to-be-continued provincial election picked up where it left off three weeks ago and there was no change in the trend which showed itself voting day.

The latest standing showed: Elected: Social Credit 27; CCF 12; Liberals 3; Labor 1 and Progressive Conservative 1. Leading: Social Credit 10; CCF 2. Total 48.

Need Six Seats

With 19 seats in the bag—the same number with which it formed a minority government in 1952—Social Credit was six seats short of a working majority.

HOME FROM KOREA

VICTORIA (CP)—The Canadian destroyer Crusader returned to Esquimalt harbor Wednesday, completing her Korean tour. The 245 officers and men were greeted at the Esquimalt naval base by crowds of wives, relatives and friends. The sailors were loaded with souvenirs, duffle bags packed with gifts from the Orient.

SHEDS FIFTH WIFE

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., 55, shed his fifth wife Tuesday, in a brief hearing before district Judge John Belford. Vanderbilt was a divorce on grounds of extreme cruelty from Mrs. Patricia Murphy Wallace Vanderbilt, 33. She and Vanderbilt were married in 1948.

ARCHBISHOP OF OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Archbishop Ildebrando Antoniutti, Apostolic delegate to Canada, announced Wednesday that Most Rev. Maurice J. Lemieux, bishop of Gravelbourg, Sask., has been named archbishop of Ottawa by the Pope. He succeeds Archbishop Alexandre Vachon, who died suddenly last March 30.

Assassin Kills Tunisian Heir

TUNIS (AP)—An assassin's bullet Wednesday snuffed out the life of Prince Azzedine Bey, heir presumptive to the Beylical crown of Tunisia and one of the few remaining places France could count on in her troubled North African protectorate.

The murderer crept into the palace of the 33-year-old cousin of the ruling monarch, Sidi Lamine Bey, and fired twice. One of the bullets penetrated the prince's stomach and lodged in the intestine. The other went wild.

The prince's son, Abdel Hamid, helped capture the attacker.

Identity of the assassin was revealed as Hedi Ben Brahim Ben Mohamed Sfaxi, 33, an ex-convict who had served prison terms for robbery, swindling and assault.

ARCHBISHOP OF OTTAWA

OTTAWA (CP) — Archbishop Ildebrando Antoniutti, Apostolic delegate to Canada, announced Wednesday that Most Rev. Maurice J. Lemieux, bishop of Gravelbourg, Sask., has been named archbishop of Ottawa by the Pope. He succeeds Archbishop Alexandre Vachon, who died suddenly last March 30.

Paper Claims 18 Soviet Soldiers Executed for Refusing Orders

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin newspaper, Telegraf, says today 18 Soviet soldiers were executed by firing squads last week-end for refusing to fire on German rioters in Magdeburg when called in to quell the June 17 workers' revolt.

According to The Telegraf, the soldiers even refused to arrest the rioters after the Germans assured them that their uprising was not directed against the Soviet troops.

The executions were said to have been carried out in a Soviet army camp in a woods between Biederitz and Gommern, near Magdeburg.

No source was given by The Telegraf for its report, which did not appear in any other Berlin paper and could not be confirmed by any official source.

This was the first report of any Soviet soldier being executed, although several Communist peoples' police were reported shot for joining the rioters instead of fighting them.

Railway Bridge Bombed As Queen Visits Belfast

Electric Power Cut Off As Elizabeth Enters City

BELFAST (CP) — Suspected sabotage by Irish nationalists cut off electric power in this industrial capital of Northern Ireland today at the moment the Queen entered the city for the first state visit of her reign.

A railway bridge near the southern border was bombed in an apparent attempt to stop special trains bringing citizens of the Irish republic to see the Queen. Traffic was blocked between Dublin and Belfast for several hours, and some excursion trains were delayed.

The Queen and the Duke are staying at Government House, just outside Belfast and 36 miles from where the bomb exploded.

Strategic ship-building yards, aircraft plants, and hundreds of other industrial plants were paralyzed for two hours by a mysterious breakdown—reputedly in dynamo—at Belfast's harbor power station at 11:15 a. m., the moment the Queen was entering the city on a route from Government House 15 miles away where she had spent the night. The city knew of the rumors—all officially denied—that a bomb would be set off to "deliberate interference" was not being overlooked.

On Three-Day Visit

The Queen and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, arrived Wednesday for a three-day visit that is part of the Coronation celebrations. Northern Ireland's six counties are under British sovereignty —a situation that the Republic of Ireland and a minority of anti-royalists here find hard to accept.

The power breakdown did not interfere with the routine of the Queen's visit. After a round of functions at Queen's University she drove through cheering crowds for a reception and lunch at British city hall. Cooks at city hall who normally use electric ovens switched over to gas when the power breakdown came.

There were no reports of any casualties in either of today's two incidents.

Queen and Duke Given Welcome In North Ireland

BELFAST (AP)—A roaring welcome and a special armed police detail greeted the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh Wednesday on their arrival for a three-day Coronation season visit in Northern Ireland.

This trip, following a similar tour in Scotland last week, will take the royal couple by train and boat on a 100-mile swing through the six northern counties. It is the first visit here for the Queen since 1946.

The Queen, in a light pastel green summer coat and matching hat, inspected an RAF honor guard and drove through the green countryside from Aldergrove air base to Hillsborough Castle, official residence of Northern Ireland's governor, Lord Wakehurst, where the royal party is staying.

Some Northern Irish bitterly are opposed to the link with England. Strong contingents of police guarded the 15-mile route from the airbase to Hillsborough.

But there was no sign of any nationalist demonstrations and all along the way the local Irish whole-heartedly welcomed the Queen.

Every village was decked with red, white and blue flags, bunting, and pictures of the Queen.

Shortly before the royal plane landed, there were major explosions in Belfast's city council when members of the Eire Labor party—for a reception and lunch in honor of the Republic of Ireland—bitterly protested they had been excluded from all official functions during the Queen's visit.

Labor spokesmen on the council said the Labor members had not been given invitations because all 10 Labor members publicly had refused to drink the Queen's health.

Govt. Protects Dairy Imports Curbs by U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government Tuesday officially criticized the United States government for imposing new dairy import curbs and expressed a fear that surplus American agricultural products may be dumped into the Canadian market.

An official protest against the curbs was presented to the U.S. state department in Washington Tuesday by Canadian ambassador Hume Wrong. Mr. Wrong made a similar protest last week.

Identical notes were made public after the new restrictions several days. They said they are bound to raise "grave problems" not only for international trade but for the whole field of international co-operation.

The Canadian government observed that the new curbs were proclaimed by the U.S. government without advance consultation on the problems of joint concern which are thus created."

SMALL CHILD SUFFERS SLIGHT INJURIES WHEN HIT BY TRUCK

Alan Ineson, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Ineson, 233 Station street, suffered leg injuries when struck by a truck over the holiday.

The boy, is said to have been hit by a truck driven by Jack Farrell, who was backing the vehicle out of a driveway. Farrell told investigating police he looked back twice and saw nothing. The third time he saw the child lying on the sidewalk.

CUSTOMS RETURNS SHOW INCREASE

Customs returns from the Port of Belleville continue to show an increase over the preceding period of last year. For June, 1953 the returns were $657,781.53—while for June, 1952 the returns were $520,714.15.

Mixed Doubles Won by Edneys Of Kingston

Under ideal weather conditions and on perfectly groomed greens the mixed doubles tournament of the Belleville Bowling Club was held in this city on the holiday. There were 80 rinks in attendance which included Kingston, Madoc, Trenton, Stirling, Brighton, Campbellford and Belleville,this tournament is an annual affair and although the entry list was not as large as other years, other tourneys in the district had their effect on the attendance.

Some excellent bowling was seen throughout the day and in many games the winner was not declared until the last bowl had been thrown. A large number of extra ends were played to decide the winners.

Of the seven three-game high winners, Belleville club supplied four of that number, they being Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin, Austin Watkin and his mother, Mrs. George Watkin, and L. E. McLean and his daughter, Mrs. Gerald B. Hyde, and Harold Parker and Mrs. F. Scott of Campbellford. Dick Edney and his wife, Mary, were the top bowlers of the tournament, while Percy Locke and Mrs. F. Moon of Madoc and Mr. and Mrs. Morley Galt of Kingston were the other three-game winners.

"Davey" Davidson and Mrs. Charles A. Mott won the two-game high score, while Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Watkin of Kingston had the one-game high count.

The draw was conducted by W. B. Skitt, Vandervoort and Gordon Edwards, while Gerald B. Hyde, president of the club, welcomed the visitors.

Pupils of Moult's School Provide Funds for Trip

On Friday last, the pupils of Moult's School treated their parents and friends in the school section, to a visit of the city of Ottawa, travelling in Mr. Arthur Boldrick's bus.

On their arrival in Ottawa, they first enjoyed a visit to the Experimental Farm. The men were very interested in the demonstration of grass silage being served in horizontal silos. Other crops were viewed and profitable information given regarding fertilizers, rotation crops and pastures and the trials of the various methods showed definite results. The rose garden presented a beautiful picture as well as the rock garden and other flowers.

Dinner in the form of a basket picnic was enjoyed on the grounds of the Experimental Farm.

They then visited the Royal Mint and learned the processes of making money.

While part of the group were visiting the Mint, the others toured the War Museum and the Archives. At the War Museum, they saw guns, shells, uniforms, a mine, a tank, a bomber and various equipment used in World War I and II. At the Archives were treasures of pictures of kings and queens, and of many famous historians, such as Sir John A. MacDonald and James Wolfe. There, too, was a beautiful illustration of the city of Quebec showing all important places and buildings.

A tour of the parliament buildings followed, with a splendid view of Ottawa, Hull and the surrounding country from the Peace Tower. The magnificent hand carving, the beautiful portraits and the grandeur of the parliament buildings will long be remembered.

A visit to the museum concluded the day. The children were greatly enthused with the animals, birds and portrayals of the Indian and Eskimo life there.

Lunch at Silver Lake provided a pleasant rest on the return trip. Gratitude was expressed to Mrs. Boldrick and pupils for providing and arranging a very pleasant and educational trip. The pupils deserve a great deal of praise for having sufficient funds during the school year to meet the expenses of the trip.

Maj. O. Drysdale Retires As C.O. Of Tech Squadron

With the completion of organization of the unit, Major Alpin, O. Drysdale, is relinquishing officer of No. 27 Technical Squadron, RCEME (Reserve) has relinquished his command. He is succeeded by Capt. Robert Murphy, a former flight lieutenant of the Royal Air Force.

A graduate of McGill University in 1941, Major Drysdale joined the RCEME and served with it in Northwest Europe, where he was "mentioned in despatches" for meritorious service.

In 1947 he joined the reserve army as second-in-command of the Third Technical Squadron RCEME, Montreal and on transfer from civilian duties from that city to Belleville, he volunteered to organize and activate the 27th Technical Unit. Major Drysdale is assistant superintendent of the Canada Cement Company's Point Anne plant.

He was successful in his organization efforts, securing office accommodation, arranging for equipment and being instrumental in forming personnel. One troop of this specialized unit specializes in automotive mechanic training.

The squadron was activated on March 2, 1951 and has 30 all ranks in its strength at the present time. The training establishment is 59 officers and 207 other ranks. A contingent from the squadron will attend summer camp at Barriefield starting July 19 under Lieut. A. Slacker. Other officers include Captain Lionel Baker and Captain W. M. Rice.

Captain Murphy the new commanding officer, was born at Stalybridge, Cheshire, England and joined the RAF in 1928. He served in India from 1934-38 and was at Peshawar, NWFP, with No. 20 Squadron RAF. He was awarded the India Service medals for active duty against the Afghan tribes.

During World War II Captain Murphy served in England, Africa and West Africa. He was commissioned in 1942 and discharged in 1944 with the rank of flight lieutenant. He joined the 27th Technical Squadron in September, 1952.

Captain Murphy is business methods supervisor with the Northern Electric Company here.

Twelve Appear, Pay Fines In Village Court

Six motorists were convicted and a similar number of persons paid fines for offences against the Liquor Control Act at Magistrate's Court here.

Speeding cost George Yateman of Bancroft and Marguerite Knowlton of Bowmanville $5 and costs, whilst George Degeer of Bancroft was fined $10 and costs.

Fines of $5 and costs were levelled against Archie Rupert of L'Amable and Hugh Kerr of Bancroft for improper lighting.

For failing to stop, Christopher Musclow of Bird's Creek was fined $5 and costs.

Rolland Miles of Picton, charged with the theft of scrap iron received one year's suspended sentence and was ordered to pay costs of $14.50.

Illegal possession of a mink pelt cost M. J. Budarick, of Boulter a fine of $10 and costs.

Convicted of being in illegal possession of liquor, Alexander Willes of Peterborough and John Wrenn of Boulter were fined $15 and costs.

William Crawford of Madoc, Keith Aggett of Coe Hill and John Hinze of Oshawa paid $10 and costs for similar offences.

One Car Wrecked

Week-end accidents in the district wrecked one late model car and caused extensive damage to another. No one was badly injured in either accident.

Mrs. Emily Vallier of Toronto, driving with her husband, and two small children lost control of her car on a detour three miles west of Bancroft on Highway 28 about 10 a.m. on Saturday. The car left the road, rolled over and came to rest of the roof in a ditch on the north side of the highway. Mrs. Vallier sustained a cut elbow but the rest of the party was uninjured.

Provincial police declared the steering of a car driven by Donald E. White of Orthons Mills to be faulty, when the vehicle went out of control on Highway 62 near Stirling on Saturday afternoon. Five guard rail posts were torn out of the highway and the car sustained damage estimated at $150.

OPP Officer M. Perry investigated both accidents.

GETS CHEQUE BOOK

NEW YORK (AP) — A pay cheque whirled away by a tornado at Worcester, Mass., and lost for 21 days has been returned to railway mail clerk Charles F. Nowlin. Rain-streaked but still legible, the cheque landed 60 miles away at the South Weymouth navy base, near Roxbury, Mass. It was found by John J. Landry, a sailor and returned to Nowlin. "The twister flattened Nowlin's house.

Obituary

CHARLES HENRY SAUNDERS

A resident of Belleville for the past 43 years, a veteran of the First World War, a chicken breeder of note in this district, and who has been in ill health for some time, Charles Henry Saunders, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday evening.

He was born in Sussex, England 79 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Saunders. He came to Canada as a young man and settled in this city. He served in the First World War and after discharge came back to this city. Charlie Saunders was a man held in high regard by a wide circle of friends, especially among the veterans of the community and district.

For many years he raised prized poultry and took numerous prizes both at the local fairs and at the C.N.E. He took great pride in his stock and was always ready to show anyone his poultry houses.

He was a member of Christ Church and an active and enthusiastic member of the Canadian Legion, Branch 99, of this city.

Surviving are his wife, the former Mary Agnes Henley, three sons, Charles of Weston, Leslie of Belleville, Stan at home, one daughter, Mrs. William (Phoebe) Keegan of Belleville; two brothers, Walter of Bermuda, and Sussex, England and 13 grandchildren.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral announcements will be made elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. EMMA ELIZABETH BALCANQUEL (Corbyville)

After a brief illness, Mrs. Emma Elizabeth Balcanquel, 51, a possession of Thurlow township, near Corbyville, died in the Belleville General Hospital late Tuesday afternoon. She was born in Thurlow township, 77 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Mather and had resided in that community all her life, where she was well known and highly respected.

The late Mrs. Balcanquel was an active worker when health permitted in Gilead St.' Andrew's United Church and was a member of the Women's Auxiliary and a life member of the W.M.S.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Raymond (Cecile) Fretts, of Napanee, Mrs. Franklin (Helena) Sherman of Belleville, one son Arthur Balcanquel of Thurlow township, one brother, Peter B. Mather of Calgary, also passed away on Tuesday, 1953 and one sister, Mrs. Agnes Martin of Selby.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral announcements will be made elsewhere in this edition.

ALBERT CLEMENTS

The funeral of Albert Clements was held from his late residence, Ivanhoe on Wednesday afternoon. The service in the home was conducted by Rev. J. F. Lane of Madoc, who also said the last rites in White Lake cemetery.

The large number at the service, and the floral tributes testified to the esteem of the deceased in the community.

The bearers were Albert Reid, Arthur Wood, Thomas Fleming, Fred Mills, William Shaw and Earl McMasters.

TWO PRISONERS KILLED

PUSAN (AP)—Two North Korean Communist war prisoners were killed and three were wounded Monday on Koje Island when a 30-man POW work detail attacked United States and South Korean guards, the UN prisoner-of-war command announced today. The guards opened fire as the prisoners rushed toward them.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were mixed in moderately forenoon stock market trading today.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals were somewhat neglected and weaker.

Industrials were led upward by papers, steels, refining oils and manufacturing companies as gains of $1 appeared occasionally in the list. CIL, Dominion Foundry 4½ percent preferred and White Pass and Yukon were in the dollar class.

Western oils snapped their five-day losing streak as they forged ahead in four out of five issues traded. Federated Petroleum and Bailey-Selburn slipped.

Higher-priced base metals continued Tuesday's shelter trend as Consolidated Smelters and Noranda eased fractions. Among lower-priced stocks, Canalar, East Sullivan and Mercur suffered losses ranging to 20 cents.

In golds, seniors mixed while juniors were holding companies tended lower. Preston East Dome, a junior producer, slipped 10 cents. McIntyre dropped ½ in seniors.

Bay of Quinte Links Selected For Golf Trials

The Bay of Quinte Country Club has been selected as one of five, where qualifying rounds for the Ontario Junior Golf championship will be played. Other centres are Windsor, Sarnia, Hamilton and Toronto.

The round is open to players of the district under nineteen years of age, they will tee off tomorrow morning starting at 10 o'clock. Twenty-five youthful golfers are expected to take part.

The Ontario junior championship will be played on the links of the Oakdale Club, Toronto, on July 16.

The qualifying round will be eighteen holes medal play, and players will be divided into three age classes, viz: "A" for players 16, 17, and 18 years of age; Class "B," 14 and 15 years and Class "C" 13 and under. One of every three in the three-age groups in Class "A" will be qualified; one in four of Class "B" groups and one in five of Class "C."

F. A. Carruthers, Bay of Quinte Club secretary, is in charge of the play. Four prizes will be awarded. There will be an entry fee charged.

UNDER-ESTIMATING THE ENEMY?

Since the June 17 riots in East Berlin there has developed a decided, and we believe dangerous, tendency to regard this spontaneous uprising as a sign of general weakness in the Communists' hold on Eastern Europe.

There are sound reasons to believe this view of the situation is erroneous. The error might do no great harm were it not for the fact that, particularly in the United States, there has arisen a demand that we revise our foreign policies in conformity with the new theories as to the Soviet Union's strength—or weakness.

Some statesman—his name escapes us, but the sentiments sound Churchillian—once advised that before a war there was always a tendency to under-estimate the enemy's strength, and once the war was started a likelihood of over-estimating the foe's power of resistance. In other words; nations are frequently daring, when they should be cautious, in times of peace; timid when they should be bold once the battle has been joined.

The argument now being advanced is that we should adopt a daring policy dealing with Russia, since the East Berlin riots have torn a rent in the Iron Curtain and revealed chaos and discontent behind it.

This seems to under-estimate the courage and to overestimate the tenacity of a tyrant—any snob.

When Hitler was in the hey-day of his power, before his storm-troopers were facing armed men of other nations, the clock-work of his regime would defy him by raising clenched fists and shouting "Red Front." But when the war was in swing, these domestic foes of the Fuehrer were simply silent and completely futile.

Western military men, close to the scene of the rioting, do not seem to share with the Congressmen and publicists in Washington offices the same optimistic opinions regarding Russia's weakness. The Association Press reports, instead, that these experts "reached some eye-opening, and chilling, conclusions." Instead of weakness, they see strength. The Soviet occupation army is not soft, but a hard-hitting juggernaut, well trained, well equipped and so well disciplined that the loss of life they inflicted on their soldiers was kept to a minimum.

This hardly supports the theory that now is the time to foment rebellion amongst the satellite states, that the Communist regime is collapsing and must be denied the prestige of being consulted on any settlement that will end of the cold war is in sight and that victory lies within our grasp if we will but refrain from granting the Malenkov regime a respite by agreeing to any overture.

Victory, a cheap easy victory quickly obtained, would be sweet indeed, but if we grab for it we may find that we have underestimated our foe, that where we thought there was merely weakness there is still much strength, that instead of obtaining peace we have forced a war.

THE INDIAN SIGN ON FINGERPRINTS?

Calm has redescended bn the headquarters of that great Canadian institution, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

From Deadman's Creek came the menace, a nasty little bit of foul play which not only threatened to destroy the Mounties' reputation for always getting their man but also imperilled the very foundations of the criminal investigation system of the entire civilized world.

You have heard about, it, of course, this horrible insinuation that the fingerprints of a dead man had appeared on the fingers of an Indian named Ignace who, at Deadman's Creek, B.C. The Indian folk of the area wondered if the Indian sentenced to six months on an assault charge was a reincarnation of a dead Indian, hanged 34 years ago for a beautiful "evil". The R.C.M.P. could have endorsed the reincarnation theory and protected the sacred inviolability of the finger-printing system. But, more practical than the Mounties, they were not romantic. Instead they investigated and came up with the information that the fingerprints of Ignace were, indeed, similar to those of the man who was hanged, that the hanged man who had been hanged. The man now jailed is not Ignace but Eneas. Furthermore, there is no similarity between the fingerprints of the living Eneas and the dead Ignace.

So is calm restored to the halls of justice—and only in low and cunning minds in newspaper offices does the doubt linger. Another "job was" triumphantly solved, another triumph of defective work. And yet—and yet—a couple of billion of people on earth and they being replaced and replenished at the rate of one or so a second, together with so many fingers and thumbs. Sometimes, surely, the law of probabilities is that all those little whorls on some finger are going to resemble all the little whorls on some other finger, and that in a couple of billion or so of million times before somebody notices the fact. Still, with the increasing use of fingerprints for everything from petty larceny to election fraud, with their increasing important portion of the populace employed by governments to check things like fingerprints or pulsebeats, sometime, before the world grows old and cold, two people with identical fingerprints are going to be discovered.

And what will the Mounties do then, poor men!

INSTALMENT PAYMENT OF FINES

The movement in favor of instalment payment of fines is growing in popularity, Harry C. Nixon, former premier and provincial secretary, being the latest to throw his weight behind the movement. We can remember a feeling of disgust when two men were fined for exactly the same offence. One pulled out his wallet and paid the fine while the other had no money and had to go to jail. He would be off to jail and, quite likely, quite liked when he came out would find himself without any job. It never seemed fair." Of course there would have to be regular instalment payment of fines.—(Niagara Falls Review.)

THE NATION'S BOYHOOD

I'd say, should service be the test
The Lord above employs,
They serve both God and country best
Who give their hearts to boys.
To take the streets and they,
With training that endures
Return them to the world as men,
Our way of life insures.

'Tis saving many a talent rare
That theft untrained were lost
With courage for the right to dare
At such little cost.
So much is done by evil men
That brought destruction,
We serve both God and country when
We give our hearts to boys.

OFF THE RECORD

"Look at the exciting dinner I've planned for tonight."

LOOKING BACKWARDS
GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE DAYS

50 YEARS AGO
July 2, 1953.

The Rev. Dr. James Semple, who has been the leading figure in the city to assume his duties as Principal of Bridge Street United Church. He succeeds the Rev. Dr. R. H. Bell, who accepted a call to the United Church in Aurora.

Miss Doris Hilton, Catherine Street, is spending her vacation with friends in Fort Erie and Buffalo.

Ald. Clifford Walker and family left Lake where they will spend the summer at their cottage.

Major T. Y. Wills is spending a week-end in Toronto.

Mrs. H. P. Clarke and Miss Hilda Collier were guests at a wedding in Oakville yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Reid will celebrate the 50th year of July at the cottage at Moira Lake.

Miss Ethel Adams has returned to the city after completing her course at the library school, Toronto University.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Sandercock have returned home from Strathroy where they attended the convention of superintendents and matrons of homes for the aged. Mr. Sandercock was elected a member of the executive of the association.

25 YEARS AGO
July 2, 1953.

Twenty-one happy boys have left for the community camp at Smith Lake where they will spend three weeks. Following are the names of the boys in camp, the last five mentioned are the leaders: Lawrence Burke, Kenneth Clarke, Stanley Wilbur, V. Hobson, Orlitt Lloyd, Leonard Graham, Charles Mullin, Walter Savage, Arthur Savage, Walter Scriven, Reggie Scriven, Thomas Lewis, Jack Gardiner, Orville Spear, John Fisher, Harry Gilbert, Harry Post, Austin Wilbur, Harold Facer, R. B. Morden and William Fitzgerald, the latter being the cook.

Mrs. A. J. McCroden of Toronto, formerly of this city, is visiting friends here.

Mr. Alan Bennett has returned to Detroit, Mich., after visiting his parents at their home on Charlotte Street.

Mr. John Covert of Rochester, N.Y., formerly of this city is renewing acquaintances in town.

50 YEARS AGO
July 2, 1853.

Mr. F. M. Clarke has resigned as an alderman of the city of Belleville and his resignation has been accepted. The cause of leaving the council is owing to an amendment to the Municipal Act which went into effect yesterday and which rules that no person holding a commission from the Ontario Government may act as a councillor. Mr. Clarke holds a commission as Clerk of the Division Court and this fact puts him under the ruling.

Mr. George Hibbard was home from Oswego to spend Dominion Day.

Mrs. Jane Dowzer has left to visit her on Frank in Chicago, Ill.

Mr. W. E. Tummon, Reeve of Huntingdon township, was in town yesterday.

Mr. Jack Pasker of Toronto, and Mr. Frank Panter of Peterborough, were home to spend Dominion Day.

50 YEARS AGO
July 2, 1903.

Mr. Joseph Mills of Tweed spent Dominion Day here with friends.

Mr. F. W. Armstrong of Campbellford was a visitor in town yesterday.

Miss Walker, former matron at the D. & D. Institute here, is visiting friends in town.

Miss Lois Rayner is visiting friends here.

Mr. Harry Wilson of St. Paul, Minn., is visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Farwell of Oshawa are visiting friends here. Mrs. Farwell was formerly Miss Ella Metcalf of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Chancey Ashley have returned home after spending some time in New York City.

Strength for the Day
DR. EARL DOUGLASS

EVERYBODY IS IMPORTANT

There is nothing which raises us to heights of dignity and grandeur so much as the feeling that others are needed. People who cease to feel that they are needed become bitter or wither up and die.

Many a man has lived a life of supreme wedded bliss although his marriage consisted in little more than taking care of a delicate, invalid wife. This responsibility and the feeling that he was needed appeared to bring him joy and even given him nobility.It compensated for all sacrifice and deprivation involved in his wife's condition.

Mothers work their fingers' ends off for children, and continue to do so until they are old and broken. There is another love behind this, the greatest force in the world—but we also in the calculating experience of knowing that one is desperately needed.

Above everything else we must learn how to serve other people, but it is almost equally important that we learn how to accept gracefully the loving service which others offer us. Nothing will kill the spirit of a true man or woman so much as to be rejected and given the feeling that he or she can contribute nothing to the life of the loved one or to the welfare of a social group or a community

Suez Canal Centuries Old
(By the Royal Ontario Museum)

A "Suez Canal" existed at the time of Rameses II of Egypt (1301-1234 B.C.) and probably many centuries earlier, according to officials of the Royal Ontario Museum. Later kings who cleared and deepened it were Necho (609-594 B.C.), Darius I (522-485 B.C.) and Ptolemy II (285-247 B.C.) The northern terminus of the canal of the pharaohs was a point on the easternmost branch of the Nile about sixty miles from the mouth. Its southern terminus was close to the modern Suez, at the northwestern tip of the Red Sea.

Although Mediterranean ships could reach it, the chief purpose of the ancient canal was to connect the Nile Valley and its great cities with the Red Sea, for the trading expeditions to the east coast of Africa could be undertaken without trans-shipment. Such an expedition is graphically described on the walls of Queen Hatshepsut's great temple at Thebes (about 1500 B.C.)

As might be expected, it was not until Egypt was firmly ruled by an empire centred outside the Nile Valley that a canal terminating directly on the Mediterranean Sea was proposed. The Persian Darius (Dahyus-I-Ashabi-Ji D. 79S-809), of Arabian Nights fame, considered it, and decided against it on account of the danger of silting up the Red Sea. His rivals, the Byzantine emperors. Napoleon ordered a survey for such a canal, but the modern canal was not begun until 1859, and owed its existence chiefly to the intervention of Western European countries.

On Being Nobbled
(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

Have you ever been incarcerated in durance vile? That is to say, nobbled, run in, pinched, or slapped in the cooler?

You haven't? Well, friend, the way the laws are going these days, and considering the kind of statistics that show more people in jail in Canada than in any comparable countries, it is just as well to face the fact that it might yet happen to you.

Did you know that there is a right way and a wrong way of dealing with the coppers—er—that is, the constabulary? Did you know that some people could have raised out of the "jug" had they been in possession of the information that is now being handed out in this editorial!

For instance, when on the public highways and byways, you chance to find yourself accosted by a constable, who makes legal inquiry into your identity, possible destination, means of subsistence and kindred matters, be subtle, be polite.

Do not shout in a raucous voice "Yah, go fly a kite," or, "Go peddle yer papers." Do not, if you're known to annoy the constabulary, accuse them of being assistance in the form of a black wagon, colloquially known as the "Black Maria," a police patrol wagon, van, or more simply, the patrol wagon.They have them in many places.

This vehicle is staffed by a policeman, and is commanded by men who have the authority to decide who will and who will not ride in the patrol wagon.It is useless to protest that you are not going to ride in that thing.

Like the Gurkha, who never removes his kukri until it has drawn blood, the police do not like to take the wagon out only to return empty-handed, and their arrival on the spot where you are standing, or lying, depends upon the constable who has effected the arrest and your attitude toward the situations, usually means that you are going for a ride.

As you are assisted up the rear step of the vehicle, in a lying, standing, sitting, reclining or dragging position, do not call out asking, "Where are we, me?"

Some of them probably will, and quite hardy, too, for the police are equipped for just such emergency requests, and are sometimes bothered by it, feel, while makes them quite touchy.

On arrival at the station, you will be taken before some senior officer usually a sergeant or an inspector. In the interests of expediency, you should be warned that this is definitely not the time to make a speech indicating that the constable who arrested you did so out of sheer political spite, and that the same constable is blind and deaf when other serious crimes are being committed right under his nose.

A noticeable flexing of your muscles is also inadvisable in the provinces of Magna Carts, or a passing reference to your political connections, will avail you nothing.

"To shout loudly 'Do you know who I am?'" is to invite trouble. For the coppers have an investigation department which is employed not only to find out who you are, but also who you used to be. Possessing all this data, this can be quite embarrassing.

They may remove the contents of your pockets, with or without your consent and for safekeeping, your wallet don't ask them if they are saving up for old age.This applies to bottles or other people who are continually putting up a fight. Bottles or other people very rarely reach any old age.

Now there's nothing much let but to submit to the matter.Furnished rooms at the rear of the station are, to put politely, as the matchet can be carried, for willing hands make light work.

Now, what are in. You, John Citizen.The man they couldn't pinch.

They can't do this to you? What are you going to do about it, my friend?

Letter to the Editor
Agriculture's Role Gains in Importance

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

May I have the privilege of saying a word or two by way of, I hope, constructive comment on that keen though somewhat partial page entitled "Bed of Roses for Youth" (Farmer's Advocate) opening thus: "Never before in history have agriculturists been graduates of schools and universities been presented with so many opportunities for gainful employment. The Minister of Labor has said there are jobs waiting for the 11,000 graduates of universities."

Need I say, in the first place, that I wish those silent young Canadians the best of luck—with, perhaps, also a little born inserted from the 'school of experience' as to the unlikelihood of the road ahead being exactly a "Bed of Roses"?

However, what I have in mind to say is that it was never in the history of the fraction of the above graduates directly linking their future to agriculture (perhaps about 3% per cent. Doubtless the young people who majored in other vocations also in the humanities and engineering) will make notable contributions to the most mightiest and most essential activity of the race. As one expresses it, in groundline terms: "Without food, no one eats." It is denied, the fact remains that 'the three persons' that 'all of us' are in the city or on the farm—consider necessary for our physical well-being, are dependent upon agriculture.

The higher our urban industrial towers reach, therefore, the more necessary will be the rural roots and foundations (running out into the fields) are in sharp focus and action so.

Only the other day I ran across an interesting and timely thought, in which a newspaperman asked the U.S. Agricultural Secretary at Washington, if the trend to urbanization of the population was menacing the importance of agriculture? The answer was strikingly and importantly: "I would say in one sense Agriculture is in a position where Agriculture men are more people dependent on agriculture for their livelihood than ever before in the history of our people lived on the farms."

Finally, to quote the Ohio Action Committee for Agricultural Conservation and Education: "As cities grow and industry expands, farming becomes increasingly a more vital — in production, in marketing, in research." (Manitoba Co-operator).

Peace and Plenty,

Engineers Are Scarce
(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

Canadian engineers appear to be up in arms because of the number of "foreign" engineers employed on construction in this country. J.B. Stirling, retiring president of the Engineering Institute of Canada, goes so far as to say that what is needed is the invasion of Canada by foreign engineers to undertake big construction jobs . . . may result in the Canadian economy so far as the engineering profession is concerned.

The plain truth, as everyone in the construction industry knows is that engineering schools in Canada have been working on a . . . basis for years and figur . . . but such is the demand . . . illed engineers that the . . . nd still far exceeds the s . . . For every engineer graduate there are two or four available jobs. Such being the case it is quite unreasonable to talk about the "invasion" of foreign engineers, most of whom are British and American, "wrecking the Canadian economy" by Canada's dynamic expanding economy. It would seem the height of folly, however, to attempt to bar engineers from abroad because Canada and their services are needed and the interests of the Canadian engineering profession are in no way prejudiced.

Goose Grease For Sunburn
(Windsor Star)

A panel of skin specialists at the Canadian Medical Association has come to the support of our grandmothers.They claim cold water and vinegar, or salt and vinegar perhaps better, than many sunburn lotions:

Goose grease, of course, was known as a remedy for sunburn of the medicine cabinet in earlier days. It served as an ointment and as a curative. It would be applied externally and it would be in case of a sore throat, or taken internally when mixed with other ingredients. It was a remedy brought from Europe by our ancestors and many Europeans still use goose grease in one form or another, and for one purpose or another. But it has the disadvantage of having an unpleasant aroma and even more unpleasant taste.

Speaking of sunburns, another old-fashioned remedy still is good. That mix a bit of vinegar and water and apply to the burns.The slight smarting of this mixture is felt immediately

DOPE VERSUS IODIN RATION

DR. Brady

My sister feels 'dopey, nods off when I see her, when friends are visiting us, wants more clothes and covers all the time that any one else, writes W. . . X. When she was thirty she was always full of pep and full of fun but within the past year or two she has changed . . . (W.K.)

I'm 26 writes Mrs. L. McA., from the golfre belt (Great Lakes basin). I'd felt so lazy all the time, no ambition to do anything but sit around and read or nap, although I got plenty of sleep nights. So I followed your suggestion, began taking Iodin Ration. In two weeks I'd was a new person. "get up and go" to satisfy anybody, so I'd discontinue the Iodin Ration. Then in a couple more weeks I'd be right back where I was at the beginning. Another person who swears by life for a few weeks, and presently down in the dumps again. The same thing happened to me. Finally I learned to regard it as essential food, not medicine, as you have so often told us. Now I take my Iodin ration and began eating it, as regularly as I eat breakfast, lunch and dinner. This is the only solution I've found that keeps me feeling right all the time. We moved from Virginia to Ohio, not another Mrs. C. and may have some bearing . . . . Anyway I certainly feel a lot peppier and more confident about it.

When I get my regular Iodin Ration (Mrs. L. McA.)

All we know is that W.K.'s sister is past 30. Also, alas, that she has changed. All right, all right. Can't stop to wrangle about that now.

She informs me that when she asked her doctor about taking Iodine the doctor said she would have to take a metabolism test first. After the test the doctor said she didn't need Iodine, and told her to take 2 aspirins every 2 or 3 hours for her arthritis. . . . Here's the time to letter with the words "For Your Information."

It seems regrettable that a doctor can do no better than recommend overindulgence in painkilling, acetyl-salicylic acid (aspirin) kills ache or pain or numbs the sensation for a while, but has no remedial value. In my opinion it is too dangerous to use indiscriminately, but more about that another time.

If a doctor can't determine the cause of her metabolism by regular examination perhaps the weird machine will help him and at the same time lessen the confusion. But as I have told you—or tried to tell you—so many times, you have no effect on the value of taking Iodine in any form to the thyroid gland, which regulates. The Iodin Ration I recommended for every man, woman and child is the type of twelve, that Dr. Reid her doctor are both evidently confused about it.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

Poultry men can tell you to the last ounce how many pounds of feed it takes to grow a chicken from the egg up to the age it is wrapped in cellophane and put on the market. Hog raisers can estimate exactly how many pounds of feed it takes to fatten one hog to market weight. I wonder if anybody has ever figured how many pounds of feed it takes to raise a boy to a man.

Say, from the age of 1 to the age of 21. Starting on the day he gets his first bottle, and adding the ounces, then the pounds, up to the day he starts on his psblum; and from then into the arrowroot biscuits, and oit up through the ties of stracted beets, strained carrots, and all that nutritious fodder which comes by ounce can by can, bottle by bottle, bushels by bushel and by rather terrifying figure in pounds and dollars by the time the young rascal is old enough to have a plate of real stuff set before him at his high chair.

Measure his w . . . at the age of 1 and figu . . . ave gone into him and dollar . . . ave gone into him weight in gold

But, ah, from the age of two to the age of twelve, what feed economics is this? According to medical requirements a boy of twelve should weigh 74 pounds. To get that measly result, what carloads of groceries must be shown the chute! Not beef and potatoes alone, not bacon and eggs, not cornflakes and galleries of milk but tank-cars of milk, ice cream by the thirty-one flavors, and pies? And how many cakes, including two layer and three layer, with chocolate mocha icing, not to mention angel cake, and cookies, and chocolate bars?

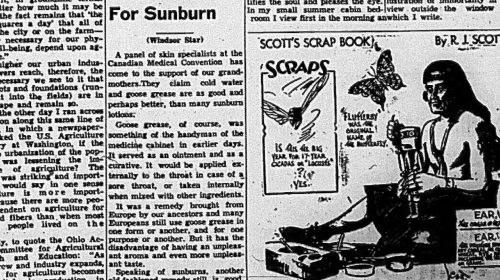
And candy bars, and wheelbarrowfuls of ice cream cones, and cola and watermelon, apples, peaches, berries of every kind, and bushels of nuts.

To get a boy to market size, age 21, he must likely eats his weight in gold

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

VIEWS

Now that vacation time is on we will be experiencing views that we have never seen before, and many of them will be added to the gallery of our mind.The magic of the modern car and the speed with which we can get out of doors that ought to be our own, to spend time and to feel at home, is delightful memories.



It's our car, however, not to the automobile, that we miss this experience. I recall reading of a Spaniard coming to the United States England for the first time. Looking out of the train window he saw row upon row of houses and exclaimed: "These people have no fields!" Thereupon she put her hands to her face and wept.

The most delightful scenery and the appointments are those that are high where there is room. People build their homes in the country where they can have the most inspiring view. View is necessary to the soul as it satisfies the soul and pleases the eye. In my own community there is room I view first in the morning and unobstructed expanse of water and a few evergreen trees that early birds use as a playground. It's always a happy experience.

In riding upon a train, or when travelling by car, I am caught by the views along the way is an important part of their enjoyment. People of tourists miss out on many a glorious view because they deem speed more important than people in traveling pay too much attention to their destination, and to the way they are views, many of them unique.

A friend of mine, in the early days of Miami Beach, built a beautiful home upon an area above, but he sogn sold it and built another on the western side so that he might view the moonlight paths across the water and those wonderful Florida sunsets. Have his soul nourishment.

It is with the eyes of faith that we look out upon life and see all its miraculous incentives. Heaven and earth become one. Love as illustration of immortality in every view outside the window from room I view first in the morning and

Circus Lived Up to Its Name, 'The Greatest Show on Earth'

By GEO. H. CARVER

The circus came to town yesterday.

And as before, the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey 'Big Top' sawdust extravaganza, lived up to its slogan, "The Greatest Show on Earth."

It was, in the opinion of nearly 10,000 youngsters, some of them their elders, just what the name implies.

The colossal, magnificent, tremendous, breath-taking and similar superlatives used by the circus public relations staff, barkers and other media of advertising, were perhaps nearer the mark than ever before.

Without a doubt, and this is a consensus, the 1953 edition of the famous international show was one of the most colorful, artistic productions of its kind to show on a Belleville circus lot.

From the time the pantomimic clown prince, Otto Griebling, self-appointed emcee in unsaw-peeting ladies makes his entrance to the cracking colorful "Cavalcade" finale, the circus unfolds in a breath-taking sequence that had consequential lulls or gaps or chasms of memory for comparison.

More Lavish Scale

It was the same circus you saw [illegible] ago, but on a more lavish, more tremendous scale. Perhaps one of the most striking impressions gained by veteran and present day circus patrons was the air of cleanliness that was apparent in all phases of the "Big Top." There were no offensive odors. The tanbark and sawdust was spotless. The animals were groomed to perfection.

The costumes were dazzling and looked as though they had just emerged from the tailor or dressmaking establishment.

Individual artistry, featured by the fabulous five-year old boy wonder, "Mr. Mistic," who astounded and amazed his audiences with his marvellous ability with the xylophone, was pleasantly apparent.

Brought from all parts of the world, the various artists and their companies thrilled, excited and thrilled again the afternoon and evening audiences with sheer daredevilry; ability and a beauty of presentation that was the acme of entertainment.

But to this circus-hungry observer, who bemoaned the lack of two extra pairs of eyes, the features that brought out gasps of wonder, screams and sheer enjoyment, were the four magnificent extravaganzas that for sheer color, beauty and pageantry outshone anything of its kind ever presented here.

Dazzling Displays

They were the super-spectacle, "Candy Land"; the dazzling aerial ballet, "Derby Day Hoopmen", the colorful Indian musical spectacle "Minnehaha," and the smashing finale, "Canadiana, U.S.A."

The costuming, trappings, the beauty of the young girl performers, the lighting effects, the vivid colorings of these pageants transcended all imagination efforts ever achieved by any circus to visit Belleville.

There were dazzling parades of beauty, music, color, strikingly beautiful appeal, lovely girls in symmetry of motion that only the "Big Top" can produce.

"Mr. Mistic," the child musical wonder, star of "Candy Land," who weighs 36 pounds and stands three feet in height, gave a superb performance. The plaudits lized wonder, who still has his "baby teeth" nearly crushed the canvas" with a brilliant rendition of the famous "Poet and Peasant Overture". He encored with "Harvest Moon" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," and drew rounds of applause with his child-like requests for community singing.

"Go Sing With Me" and "I Don't Hear Something" evoked rounds of merriment. "Mr. Mistic", for the record, made his debut with a Belgian circus in Antwerp at the unbelievable age of two.

Wealth of Clowns

The circus without clowns would be like the family salt-shaker minus pal pepper. And headed by the inimitable Emmett Kelly, master of pathos and Otto Griebling, a be-medalled ex pantomime, was a troupe of funny men grotesquely garbed and "made-up" in riotous individual and collective comedy acts. Their "army" skit when a mule clown is "shot" out of a cannon, was hilarious. Kelly and Griebling had the "tent in stitches" with their hilarious antics.

Konyot's lions gave a splendid performance as trained Numas. The trained's mastery over his animals which exhibited plenty of jungle savagery was uncanny. with the act climaxed with a parade of leaping tawny bodies hurtling through the air in a flash of color.

Superb horsefiesh was seen in the Liberty dobbins, and in the familiar horseback riding acts. Roberto de Vasconcelles, a master of dressage riding, gave a finished performance with his mount "Eric," the only horse "that can canter backwards."

Audience Held Spellbound

Beautiful Pinito del Oro, Spanish star of the swinging trapeze, gave a finished performance high above the eagles nest to treat. The dainty star held her audience spellbound with the head-balancing trick. Another outstanding feature was the juggling act of slack-wire artist, Dieter Tasso, who balanced a half-dozen teacups tossed from a foot to his head, topped the whole with a teapot, and tossed in a spoon for good measure.

Space will not permit a detailed description of all the acts. Suffice it to say the audiences were held practically enthralled from the start of the show to the finish.

The smashing musical climax, "Canadiana, U.S.A.", is a brilliant climax to a colorful show. The circus band, gorgeously apparelled, heads a parade that for sheer beauty and color has never been equalled here. The "finale max" comes when beautiful girls are raised on a platform as the Canadian Englan slowly unfolds with the music of "The Maple Leaf".

By no means least is the splendid circus band under the baton of Merle Evans, one of America's outstanding bandmasters. Their rhythm and timing marks the musical organization as outstanding ability and their performance was but another feature of a feature-packed show. An electric organ also dispensed enlivening melodies during the performances.

Splendid Menagerie

The menagerie lived up to the famous name of the show. Two young gorillas, monkeys, savage Bengal tigers, a blue mandrill, lions, tigers, "Mamma and Baby" hippopotami, giraffes, in fact nearly every phase of jungle animal life was represented.

Then, of course, there was the colorful sideshow with all its characteristic novel attractions. There were vendors of all descriptions who sold concessions of all varieties.

The advent of mechanization into the life of the Big Top, while a triumph in facilitation of unloading, transportation and erection of tents, etc., has failed to eradicate the sawdust, pink lemonade, peanuts atmosphere that is part and parcel of the circus.

The high-geared tractor has replaced the stodgy but effective elephant as far as heavy work goes. The "Big Top" itself springs like a giant mushroom into the early morning air, in the space of minutes. The staccato blows of a mechanized stakedriver replaces the "heave-ho" of rousabout darkies. Readying the big tent and the show proper is the masterpiece of modern mechanical efficiency.

A tented "city" sprang up on Sidney Street grounds early Wednesday morning. Crowds watched the "unloading" and watched spellbound as hundreds of men and machines geared to swift action, readied the big show.

But mechanical efficiency or otherwise! The old circus atmosphere was there. And it seems it will always be that way.

SOCIAL CREDIT

The Vancouver riding, still a riddle in the counting confusion, would provide this strength, lack of which toppled Premier W. A. C. Bennett's minority government after seven stormy months in office.

The CCF, it appeared, would again form the official Opposition under school principal Arnold Webster who, like Premier Bennett, was one of the first to be declared elected in the June 9 balloting.

Defeated by Social Credit in last year's June,12 voting, the Liberals went into the new election with six members and salvaged three in counting Tuesday and Wednesday. Sitting member Dr. Lorne Giovando has been the only Progressive Conservative elected.

Standing at dissolution in the spring was: Social Credit 18; CCF 18; Liberals 8; Conservatives 2; Labor 1; vacant 2. Total 48.

Social Credit stormed into the Liberal stronghold of Victoria in counting completed Wednesday night and captured all three seats there for a total of four on Vancouver Island.

"B. C. was voting for the second time under the alternative system of balloting. The three-week period before returning officers started on the count of alternative choices was to allow for transfer of absentee ballots to their proper constituencies.

As of Wednesday night five of Premier Bennett's cabinet ministers had been returned to office. Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston, meanwhile, was fighting it out in Vancouver-Point Grey with Liberal leader Arthur Laing, while Health Minister Eric Martin and Provincial Secretary Wesley Black were leading in their respective ridings. Attorney-General Bonner was in the lead in three-seat Point Grey with Mrs. Rolston.

One disappointment for Social Credit was the defeat of Finance Minister Einar Gunderson in Oak Bay, where Progressive Conservative leader Deane Finlayson also suffered personal defeat. The seat was won by Phillip Gibbs, a Liberal and sitting member.

Up to Wednesday night, Social Credit had gained two seats from the CCF and three from the Liberals. The Liberals had gained one from the CCF and one from the Progressive Conservatives, in turn, Socialists gained one from the Liberals.

Recounts of first-choice ballots showed counting to a small's pace in Vancouver and returning officers said it would be days before the final outcome is known.

The ridings of Vancouver-Burrard, Vancouver Centre, Vancouver East and Vancouver-Point Grey hold nine seats, seven of them undecided after the first count.

The CCF was elected in one and was leading in one, while first-count figures put Social Credit ahead in the other seven, more than enough for a majority if first-count strength can be continued.

Northern Girls Win Over Jets

The Northern Electric Girls downed the R.C.A.F. Jets 18-12 at the R.C.A.F. field Monday, June 30.

Northern scored seven runs in the first, two in the second, three in the third, two in the fifth and four in the seventh to account for their 18 runs.

The Jets scored one in the first, seven in the second and four in the fourth to account for their 12 runs.

For the electrics, Slade walked eight and struck but three. She was relieved by Reeve in the second who walked one and out one.

King started for the Jets. She walked three and stuck out five. Baker relieved her in the fourth striking out six and walking seven.

Weddings

ALLIN—HOGLE

A lovely, double-ring wedding ceremony was solemnized in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, June 20, at 2:30 p.m., by the Rev. R. A. Rowley, pastor of the church, when Betty Lou Hogle, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hogle, became the bride of Franklin Charles Allin, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Allin. Tall white standards of white and pink peonies and ferns adorned the chancel rail and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. C. E. Templer, guest organist, provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloists, Miss Joan Shindell, who sang "The Lord's Prayer", during the ceremony, and Miss Suzanne Cavers, who sang, "The Wedding Prayer", and the girls' chorus of 14 voices of which the bride is a member, who rendered "Wherever You Walk", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her full-length bridal gown of Valenciennes lace and nylon net over satin, fashioned with fitted lace and nylon net bodice having standup scallops at the shoulderline. The sweetheart neckline was outlined with matching Valenciennes, lace and the long, tight-fitting sleeves ended in lily-points over the hands. The graceful crinoline skirt was accented with scalloped, matching lace gathered at the side by mother-of-pearl sequins. She wore a tiara encrusted with seed pearls and rhinestones which held the full-length Valenciennes lace-trimmed veil of tulle illusion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink roses and white stephanotis, showered with orchid. A single strand pearl necklace, worn by the brides of four generations, completed her ensemble.

Miss Lorella Shaw, of Toronto, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing a full-length gown of blue nylon net over taffeta, featuring a lace bolero. She wore a bandeau of pink roses and matching lace mitts, and carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of orchid and blue cornflowers centred by pink roses, surrounded with maidenhair fern.

Miss Anita Leavitt, of Frankford, was bridesmaid, gowned in green nylon net over taffeta, fashioned with matching bolero. Her headdress was a matching floral bandeau. She wore matching wristlets and carried a bouquet of orchid and blue cornflowers centred by pink roses and surrounded by maidenhair fern.

Miss Beverley Lidster, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid, dainty in her pink net over satin, featuring a ruffled skirt and berthe, with cut-de-sheath neckline. She wore a matching net poke-bonnet and mitts, and carried a similar bouquet to that of the senior bridesmaid.

The flower girl, Little Vicky Lynn Carruthers, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was sweet and demure in her frock of rose taffeta with lace-edged berthe, and full-length skirt. She wore a ribbon and floral bandeau and carried a nosegay of orchid and blue cornflowers, centred with a pink rose, and edged with maidenhair fern.

Mr. Charles Letman, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Morley and Harvey Hogle, of Mimico, Ontario, cousins of the bride, and Messrs. Ernest Finkle and James Mott, both of Belleville, were ushers.

The reception was held at the summer cottage of the bride's parents, Trent Road, which was appropriately decorated with summer flowers for the occasion. The bride's mother received, wearing a full-length gown of French lace with matching accessories and corsage of tea roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a full-length gown of cerise crepe with grey accessories and corsage of cream roses.

A buffet luncheon was served to about 100 guests by nine girl friends, Misses Lois McMullen, Nancy Russell, Caryl Allin, Audrey Purdy, Jeanette Fink, Maxine Cross, Maribeth Bristol, Marlene Letman and Mrs. Yvonne Allin.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Charles Allin are shown signing the register following their wedding in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Betty Lou Hogle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hogle, and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Allin, also of Belleville.

For travelling to the Thousand Islands, Finger Lakes, and Niagara Falls, the bride chose a honey beige orlon suit with white accessories and a mauve orchid corsage. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Allin will reside in Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at showers given by Mrs. Audrey Purdy, Miss Lois McMullen and Miss Anita Leavitt.

CRAWFORD—BLACK

Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, beautifully decorated with bestkets of orange blossoms, peonies and delphinium, was the setting for a very pretty wedding when on Saturday, June 27, Mary Cecile Black, daughter of Mrs. James J. Black, Marmora, became the bride of David George Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lionel K. Crawford, of Belleville.

The marriage was solemnized and Nuptial Mass said by Rev. J. A. O'Neill. Mrs. H. Brady was organist and the Very Rev. H. J. Farrell of Perth, guest soloist for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported bridal satin silk. Venice lace formed the standup collar and was appliqued in a beautiful design on the molded basque and cathedral train. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a tiara of pearls and she carried a crescent bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Harry Byers, Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Verna Black and Mrs. C. J. Shannon, sisters of the bride. They were gowns of imported French net over taffeta with Swiss lace bodice jacket and mittens in shades of apple green, biscuit and orchid. They carried bouquets of cream, pink and yellow roses and wore matching bandeaux of the same roses.

Patricia Flook, of Toronto, cousin of the bride, made a charming flower girl. She was gowned in petal pink net over taffeta with matching bolero, mittens and bandeau of tulle and roses. She carried a basket of Sweetheart roses.

The best man was Dr. Thomas McNally, Harry Black, of Toronto, and Harry Byers, of Belleville, were ushers.

The wedding breakfast was served in Sacred Heart Parish Hall with several ladies from the Catholic Women's League catering.

Ray Black acted as toastmaster.

The bride's mother received, wearing a gown of rose powder crepe with Cluny-type lace, a large picture hat of the same shade and corsage of cream Lester Hubbard roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted in navy sheer with a hat of navy taffeta and matching accessories and wore a corsage of Talisman roses.

After the reception at the home of the bride's parents, the young couple left for Limberlost Lodge.

For travelling, the bride donned a dress of Irish linen boucle with matching stole in natural shade, petal pink hat and gloves and corsage of Sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Belleville, Kingston, Toronto, Perth, Trenton, Campbellford and Cobourg.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford will live in Hamilton, where Mr. Crawford is on the staff of Westdale Collegiate.

DE MILLE—ROSS

CARMEL—A quiet but lovely wedding took place on Saturday, June 27, at 2 p.m., at the bride's home, in the setting of pink and white streamers and baskets of beautiful summer flowers, when Betty Beverley Ross, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ross, of Corbyville, became bride of Milton Wayne De Mille, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry De Mille, Halloway. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. R. Mack, Carrollton, assisted by Mr. Douglas Ross, brother of the bride.

Miss Grace Juby, Foxboro, was pianist. During the signing of the register, Misses Eileen and Donna Ray sang "Bless This House".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a floor-length dress of white net over powder blue taffeta, with fingertip veil and bouquet of summer flowers and pink satin ribbon.

Miss Mary Homan, bridesmaid, wore a floor-length dress of pink net over taffeta. Her bouquet was of summer flowers with blue satin ribbon.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Glenn Ross, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served by Mrs. C. Britnell and Miss Ruth Britnell, assisted by the Misses Eileen and Donna Ray and Bernice O'Carroll. The bride's mother wore a printed nylon dress with white accessories and corsage of red roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a grey brocaded satin dress with white accessories and corsage of red roses.

The young couple left for a short honeymoon, the bride wearing a suit of mist-blue gabardine with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Guests were present from Foxboro, Belleville, Trenton, and Halloway.

A telegram of congratulations was received from relatives in Alberta, during the day.

TO CUT TAXES

CANBERRA (Reuters)—The acting prime minister Arthur Fadden, also treasurer, told Australians today they could look forward to further tax cuts. He said the country had a surplus of $13,100,000 (about $30,000,000) and described the financial future as "a pleasant prospect."

GROWING CITY

CALGARY (CP)—The 1953 city directory estimates Calgary's population at 143,000, a jump of 8,281 in one year. It shows 722 Smiths residing here and lists 417 persons whose names start with the letter Z.

PARENTS GIVE SELVES UP

TORONTO (CP)—The parents of a five-week-old boy who was abandoned on an East Toronto lawn Saturday gave themselves up to police Tuesday. Officers would not identify the unmarried couple but said they were from Fort Erie. The child has been placed in the care of the Children's Aid Society.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Wedding Plans Under Way She Finds She's Not In Love

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am supposed to get married in two weeks. All the invitations have been sent out, and all plans have been made. The awful thing is that I am sure now, that I don't love the boy and never will. You see, I never was really in love with him, but I liked him very much, and he is such a fine boy that I hope he would make any girl a wonderful husband. So I thought that once we were married I would grow to love him.

My parents don't know anything about how I feel and I am afraid to say anything at this late date, for I don't think I can go through with it, and I wondered if you could suggest a solution to this terrible problem.—Helen B.

Dear Helen:

No matter how far your plans have gone, there is, of course, only one right thing to do, and that is to call them off. However distressing it would be to do so at this point, surely you must realize that it would be far worse to go into marriage under such circumstances. And not be the first girl to call off a wedding at the last moment. Plenty of others have done the same thing and lived through it. You can, too.

Entirely aside from dooming yourself to unhappiness if you marry a man you don't love, there is the fact that it would be most unfair to the man himself to carry out a pretense of loving him. To call off the marriage is certainly going to hurt him badly, but to have him find out the true state of affairs afterward would be to hurt him even worse.

My advice to you is to tell your fiance and parents immediately how you feel and that you think it would be wrong from every angle to go through with the marriage. Then stick by your decision and don't let any of them persuade you to do otherwise.

Why Is Smart With This Foolish Girl

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Recently I met a very nice girl to whom I was greatly attracted. We have gone out together a few times, but on our last date she told me that she loved someone else and so could not see me again. She also told me, though, that the boy she loves has never even asked her to go steady, and that he wouldn't be angry if he knew I went out with me.

I would like to know if I should still ask her to go out with me.

Bob W.

Dear Bob:

Your girl friend seems to me very foolish if she intends to give up all her other boy friends for sake of one who apparently shows no real interest in her. You don't think she is just giving you a rather awkward brush-off, do you?

Personally, I think you'd be smart if you didn't try to press this girl. As she thought you were losing interest in her, she might have changs of heart. If you force yourself on her, she probably won't.

Your Butcher Is Your Friend

By Mary Moore

Food buying is a fine art, and meat buying requires all of the skill you can muster.

The friendship of a good butcher is indispensable to young brides and inexperienced meat buyers. Knowing and experienced housewives have the good sense to keep on the right side of their butcher.

When you observe Mrs. Average Housewife buying her meat for Sunday's dinner she appears to limit herself to roast beef, roast pork and chicken.

Why limit the possibilities by snuggling down in this kind of a rut and blinding yourselves to the limitless food horizon?

How many of you make pressed octopus, or compound beef and cabbage a la Jiggs, or boil a whole Restigouche salmon as they do in the Maritimes, for Sunday's dinner?

Your butcher can tell you if you ask him what inexpensive cuts are available and how to cook them.

Would you know what cut to buy for the pot you put roast and if so, would you know how to cook it to the best advantage and what to serve with it. There is a boiled beef and noodles dish that I think should be in every cook's meat file. See it below.

You will have noticed in many of the supermarket advertisements red and blue brand beef is listed. Now red and blue brands very nearly suit the same price, but are usually put in the same numbers together. When you examine and turn over the cuts you will find, often as not, merely informative cut to carry one red brand cut. Choose the red brand cut, for your cuts are clearly marked on the skin in continuous red ink. The red brand beef is from carcasses that have been government inspected and stamped "top grade" by government inspectors. These skilled gentlemen know the choice beef carcasses when they examine them, which they do all of the time for you. "If you could give me some suggestions on how to prepare the cheaper cuts of meat —that is the theme of many of the letters I receive from you. Here's one suggestion that you will find popular.

Boiled Beef With Noodles

The girl who originated this dish made her own noodles, but that's asking too much I'm afraid.

Buy a 3 or 4-lb. shank of beef. If the meat is still on the bone the broth has better flavor. Cover with cold water, add 4 bay leaves and about 1-4 teaspoon pepper, bring to boil, reduce heat and simmer about 3 1-2 hours or until meat falls from bones. (If this is cooked in pressure cooker have pressure at 15 lbs. for 75 minutes.) One-half hour before serving time, fish out the bay leaves and add the finest noodles you can buy and about 2 teaspoons salt and simmer the noodles until tender. Lift out the meat, and place at centre of hot platter. Strain out the noodles and arrange in border around meat. Thicken the broth with 2 pads of 2 tablespoons flour stirred into 1-4 cup cold water. Pour a generous amount of this gravy over the meat and around the inside edge of the noodles. Garnish lavishly with parsley.

Thus you have the hot part of a summer meal cooked in one pot and served on one serving dish. Did you think that there are no onions in it? Sometimes I think I am too heavy-handed with onions in my cooking.

Corned Beef (to slice cold)

Ask the butcher for brisket point. This part of the brisket has the lean meat in 2 thick layers and slices most satisfactorily. Ask for "corned" brisket.

Wipe the meat with cold, damp cloth. Put in kettle. Cover with cold water and bring to boil. Boil for 3 minutes then skim off scum. Reduce heat, cover and let simmer until tender, allowing about 3 1-4 hours at least. Let meat cool in cooking liquor until warm. Then, transfer to platter and cover with another dish, and place weight on top to press meat together, having layered side parallel with platter. Chill until very cold. Slice crosswise of grain. This is delicious for a cold supper served with fine slaw and mustard pickles.

Exactly same cut and method are used for New England Boiled Dinner but meat is put chilled, and vegetables are added during last half hour, such as potatoes, cabbage, turnips and carrots, and horseradish is served with this dinner.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECKMAN

Today's Good Hint For Good Manners

A word of appreciation, of understanding, of praise, is a stimulating word. Everyone thrives on it!

An "Au Revoir" Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

Very dear friends of ours are moving very soon from our apartment house to their new home. Our friendship with them is a fine and firm one, and we would like to make some gesture to them as an "au revoir" since we, and other friends in this locality, will probably not be able to visit them very often in their new home some distance from here.

(1) Do you think that a cocktail party would be appropriate?

(2) If so, would it be proper for us to invite six or eight of their close friends and four friends of ours invite the husbands too, even though you have not met them. (This is, of course, a different situation than is the second question)

(4) To such a small, informal party, you may properly telephone the invitations. Or, if you prefer, write cordial little notes on your

Informals.A Greenback Shower Not In Good Taste

Dear Mrs.Beeckman:

Is it proper to give a Greenback Shower as a baby shower?

D.

No, it is not considered proper or appropriate or in good taste to give a greenback shower for any shower occasion. The charming idea of a shower is for the intimate friends of the guest of honor to gather together happily, bring gifts chosen with special thoughtfulness and interest, and present these nice gifts to the guest of honor to open and comment on delightedly. It should all be very warmly friendly, very personal because of the personality of the gifts chosen and received. But for guests to come bringing one or more greenbacks is a "contribution" to the guest of honor seems to me unfriendly and impersonal, entirely lacking in the spirit of a shower, which is to show imagination in the selection of gifts

Certainly there must be someone in the group planning the shower who can discreetly find out about one or more items very much needed by the guest of honor . . . then each guest could be asked to contribute her portion of the cost, and the welcome gift or gifts could be bought, gaily wrapped and presented at the shower.

The Quick, Easy Way to make Delicious Jams and Jellies

RESULTS ARE SURE WITH Certo

and Certo Short-Boil Recipes give you 50% MORE from your fruit

It takes only 15 minutes from the time your fruit is prepared to make a batch of jam or jelly with Certo. It's the easy way because Certo is a highly concentrated fruit pectin product — the natural jellying substance extracted from fruit.

With Certo you use only a ONE-MINUTE full, rolling boil. You don't boil down your juice, so you average 30% more jam or jelly. You keep the lovely fresh-fruit taste and color, too. There's a separate kitchen-tested Certo recipe for each kind of fruit. Follow the simple directions carefully to be sure of sparkling, taste-tempting jams and jellies.

ST. PAUL'S W.A.

The monthly meeting of St. Paul's Women's Auxiliary, Marmora, was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. R. G. Winslow. There was a good attendance of members. The president opened the meeting.

The bale was then packed to be sent to All Saints' Indian School, Prince Albert. The local branch accepted the invitation of the W.A. of St. Mark's, Bonarlaw, to be their guests on the afternoon of Friday, July 3.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. J. M. Brownlie, after which refreshments were served.

In keeping with the custom of past years there will be no meetings in July or August.

BETHANY W.M.S.-W.A.

Corbyville—The June meeting of the Bethany W.M.S. and W.A. was held in the evening with Mrs. Clarence Embury as hostess. There were 24 in attendance. Mrs. John Ritz presided, the theme for the worship being "The Holy Bible".

Mrs. Frank Walker read the Scripture lesson which was followed by a reading by Mrs. Ritz, "The Bible."

Mrs. Wm. Casey was in charge of the interesting program. Meditation, "For We Are Laborers Together With God" by Mrs. Casey.

A temperance dialogue was given by Mrs. Russell Ritz, Mrs. Douglas Tummon, Mrs. Charlie Helms and Miss Erma Embury.

A poem, "The Sins of Omission," was given by Mrs. Fred Hanley, and a reading "Here Comes the Church Lady" by Mrs. S.C. Cooley. A poem, "The Thanks of a Shut-in," by Mrs. Frank Walker was enjoyed.

Mrs. Orval Beer gave a Christian Stewardship reading, followed by a poem "Is Anybody Happier?" by Mrs. Clare Sills. Mrs. Horace Casey gave a reading "From Slave Girl to Teacher."

Mrs. Casey thanked all the ladies who had helped her with the program. Mrs. John Ritz led the business period. The treasurer's report, by Mrs. George Sills. It was decided to hold an open meeting in the fall.

A note of thanks was read from Mrs. William Dorrator.

W.A.

Mrs. Grant Cole, president of the W.A. took charge of a short business period. A letter of thanks was read from Mrs. Norman Christie for flowers she had received. It was noted August 13th will be the next time the W.A. is to cater at Belleville Livestock Sales.

Mrs. Embury and her fourth line assistants served tea and cookies and a social time was spent.

National Music Festival Brought Step Nearer

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — A national music festival was brought a step nearer Tuesday by the Federation of Canadian Music Festivals meeting in annual convention here.

The more than 30 delegates from every province except Quebec decided to have the director from each province submit a list of ideas to the 1954 convention on the possibility of such a festival.

The question was first raised by the federation last year and at that time a committee was formed to consider the question.

Wanda Dick of Winnipeg won the tankard for the best performance of a Bach prelude and fugue. Honorable mention went to Lloyd Zurbrigg of Stratford, Elsie Wicks and Sheelagh Gilmour of Winnipeg and Claire Snoulion of Toronto.

Lunch Interrupted

HAMILTON (CP)—A family of four from Cornwall had their lunch interrupted alongside No. 5 Highway near Dundas Tuesday when a car went out of control and knocked down the roadside table where they were standing.

Mr. and Mrs. John Greer and their two young sons were about to start eating when the car veered into a tree and struck the picnic table.

Business, Industry in U.S. Maintaining High Level Pace

By T. H. APPLEGATE

NEW YORK (AP)—Business and industry in the United States are sweeping past mid-1953 at just about the same high pace they've held for several months.

Many half-year production records—in steel, automobiles, electric power, rubber products—will tumble as June ends.

Estimates put six-month output at 58,500,000 tons of steel; 3,250,000 passenger automobiles.

There was no slackening of speed as the mid-year point approached. Factories hummed; retail stores reported trade volume well ahead of its 1952 level.

Here were some high spots reached in the latest week:

Electric power output was the highest in history, totalling 8,328,697,000 kilowatt hours; freight loadings of 812,578 cars were largest since last November, and heavy construction contract awards hit a big since January at $484,411,000.

For months, in the middle of each boom indicators as these, economists have been looking for some erosion at the base of the business plateau.

See No Let Up

At the start of the year some of them professed to see probable easing in the economic picture by mid-year. Later predictions put this off to the third quarter. And now many see no indication of much let-up before the end of the year.

As the predicted date for a downturn in activity retreated farther into the future, business polished a little finger.

The total output of goods and services—gross U.S. national product—climbed to record rates well above $360,000,000,000 annually.

In the face of a "hard money" policy that sent interest rates higher, business actually boosted its spending plans, indicating probable capital investment of about $26,000,000,000 this year.

This was a striking evidence of confidence in future profit prospects regardless of the course of truce negotiations in Korea. The truce talks appeared to have their main effects on stock market prices which slumped from a January high, and in the more sensitive commodity futures markets.

Many economists find a few danger signals flying as the first six months of 1953 end. They cite the following:

Consumer credit has soared beyond $26,000,000,000.

Some industries like home building and machine tools have failed to show normal seasonal upturns this spring.

Some defence contracts, especially for aircraft, have been cancelled with resulting lay-offs of workers.

Backlogs of orders in certain fields, such as railroad equipment, have shrunk.

Turnover of used automobiles has failed to maintain its historic position relative to new car sales.

Output of some major appliances has been curtailed.

Some companies have reduced dividend payments.

But all these put together have not been enough to cut deeply into the over-all business boom.

Fifteen Deaths From Accidents On Dominion Day

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fifteen Canadians died in accidents across the country during Dominion Day celebrations. Seven persons were drowned, five were traffic fatalities, two died in a fire and one was killed by a train.

A Canadian Press compilation showed 11 deaths were reported in Ontario, two in Quebec and one each in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. No fatalities were reported from western provinces.

Four persons were fatally injured in a head-on collision between a car and a truck near Tilbury, Ont. Dead are Wilfred Lajoie, 67, of Windsor; Garry Steele, 16, of Camden Township; Shirley Amy, 17, of Windsor, and James McCarthy, 17, of London.

In Ottawa, Leo Laframbroise, 7, and his sister, Pauline, 6, were suffocated when their home burned down. Ten other Laframbois children were rescued from the blaze which occurred while both parents were at work.

Other Ontario deaths: Kathleen Phyllis Calver, 15 months, of South Napanee, when the light truck in which she was riding crashed into a ditch; John Furario, about 28, of Windsor, was drowned while swimming in the Detroit River; Jim Marr, 21, of Toronto was drowned in the Humber River retrieving a ball thrown to him in the water; Edith Scoging, 21, of Port Arthur, was drowned in Boulevard Lake; James Verity, 40, of Windsor, was drowned in Lake Erie while trying to save his daughter who got into difficulties while swimming.

Junior Jumble

By J. ALLEN FRANCIS

Careless practices on the farm and in the home can cause death, and injury. This was stressed in a film, "The Miracle of Paradise Valley" at a meeting of the South Hastings 4-H Tractor Club in the agricultural office, in Stirling. The film showed that accidents do not just happen, but are caused through carelessness.

Mr. Ralph Gregg, agricultural engineering fieldman, was in charge of the meeting and gave an informative lecture on ignition systems. Mr. Gregg discussed the types of ignition systems found on the farm tractor, their operation and maintenance. The regular tractor club meetings stress the proper care, maintenance and operation of the farm tractor, and anyone interested is invited to attend.

JOINT MEETING HELD
By JOHN CRAIGHEAD

On June 23rd, at the Ivanhoe township hall, the Grain Club, Grain Corn Club, Swine and 4-H Calf Clubs in Hastings county, held a joint meeting. At this meeting, a film, "Feeds for Livestock," was shown followed by a discussion on the value of feeds for dairy cattle, beef cattle, and swine. There was instruction given on judging grain, and club members judged one class of oats, wheat and barley.

Delegates representing the Youth Farmers' Clubs of Great Britain were introduced. Miss Elizabeth Bush is from Knoll House Farm, Edenbridge, Kent. Mr. James Muir is from Fowle Green Farm, Commondale, in North Yorkshire.

The meeting concluded with a film on feeding swine, for better bacon quality.

WILL HOLD FIELD DAY

The Hastings County Junior Farmers' Association will be holding its annual field day at Frankford on July 15th. At this field day the six Junior Farmer clubs and four Junior Institutes, will be competing. The winners in the various events will represent the Hastings County Junior Farmers at the Quinte District field day to be held at the Ontario School for the Deaf, July 2nd.

The events at the field days will be girls' softball, boys' softball, 100-yard dash for boys, boys and girls softball throw, 75-yard dash for girls, relay races, high jump and tug of war. A new feature of the field day will be a shoe-kick for girls.

DESERONTO

St. Mark's Holds Garden Party

DESERONTO.—The ladies of St. Mark's had a lovely day for the recent garden party held on the church lawn. The grounds and tables presented a lovely scene with its bright decorations and the summery finery of the ladies.

Home baking table was in charge of Mrs. R. Wearman and Mrs. W. J. Field. The candy table was conveyed by Mrs. Edwin Harvey and the opportunity table was in charge of Mrs. A. Walker and had many rare and beautiful treasures for sale while the fancy work tables was in charge of Mrs. George Soal and Mrs. Harold Topping.

Mrs. A. Fraser "the lady with a hundred pockets", proved as popular with both young and old that her pockets were soon emptied of the packages.

The children's "costume parade", convened by Miss H. Bowen, drew a number of gaily attired contestants.

The judges were, Mrs. J. White, Mrs. E. Roach and Mrs. E Robinson, who found it a difficult task to choose the winners and at last decided each contestant deserved a prize.

Refreshment booth was in charge of Miss Marion Cruise.

Afternoon tea was served by the members of the Evening Guild. The garden tables were attractively arranged on the terrace where everyone could enjoy their tea and watch all activities as well.

Assisting at serving the dainty sandwiches and small cakes and cookies were, Mrs. G. Rickwood, Mrs. J. Spence, Mrs. K. Blachford, Mrs. Mayhew, Mrs. C. Grey, Mrs. T. Bowen, Mrs. Hunt, Mrs. B. Twiddy, Mrs. Roth, Mrs. W. Joyce, Mrs. T. Scott, Mrs. A. B. Ross and Mrs A. Fraser.

Mr. J. Prickett was in charge of the sale of tickets for the afternoon tea.

Mrs. Frank Spring of Peterborough, was a recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alf. Harvey and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clarke and children of Belleville, were Sunday guests of the former's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. George Hopping.

Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Clare included Mr. and Mrs. Ward Valleau, of Gananoque; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Valleau, of Kingston and Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Mowers, of Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Potter and family of Belleville, spent the week-end at the family cottage, on the Bay of Quinte.

Mrs. C. M. Luffman was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. Brundige, and Mr. Brundige, of Brockville.

Miss Molly Forbes, of Prescott, spent the week-end at her home in town.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Atkins and family, of Toronto, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Fox. Mrs. Atkins, Carroll and Michael are spending their holidays at camp on the Bay.

Miss Margaret Potter, of Belleville, was the week-end guest of her cousins, Phyllis and Lyn Bender, over the week-end.

Mr. E. Maybee will spend the next few days in Toronto, engaged in marking examination papers for the Department of Education.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Father's Day Marked By Family Reunion

WHITE'S DISTRICT — A happy event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Christopher, when all the family joined to honour their father last Sunday on Father's Day. This being a yearly event, no one was left out except one son, George, who was on his way home from the Coronation ceremonies in London.

All enjoyed a real home-cooked meal, including 15 grandchildren, who could hardly wait for the festivities to begin.

The guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Christopher and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim White and family, Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Christopher and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Elliott and family, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Christopher and family, all of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Hart and family, of Centenary; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christopher and Miss Barbara Christopher, at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Reid attended the wedding of their niece at Kemptville, then spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Crowe at Cascade, Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Reid spent last week-end in Ottawa and vicinity.

Master Raymond Masse was a Monday visitor of his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Duetts, at their summer cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Yeteman and Brenda were recent Sunday visitors in Coe Hill, and attended service at the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hannon, of Toronto, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Rush.

At the recent field day held at the O.S.D. for the Sidney schools, Master Floyd Kleinsteiber, Master Richard MacKenzie and Miss Gail Goldie, of Quinte View school, were honors in the broad jump and races.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young attended the wedding on Saturday of Miss Marion Daniels, of Foxboro, and the Rev. Lloyd Shorten, of Peterborough, at the Foxboro United Church.

The patients at Bayside Rest Home enjoyed a fine service of song and praise last Sunday morning through the kind generosity of the Trenton Salvation Army.

Congratulations are extended to all successful pupils who are now enjoying holidays for two months. Several students, including Miss Joan Shoemaker, Miss Susan Ghent, and Mr. Raymond Masse, were dismissed early, being successful on their year's work. The pupils of Grade 8 of the local schools enjoyed a bus trip to Kingston on Monday and visited several places of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Halsey and Mrs. Everett Nicolson were Sunday visitors at Cedardale.

Radioactive Calandria

The stained aluminum calandria — believed the largest radioactive object ever handled — is taken out of the NRX reactor structure at Chalk River, Ont. The calandria is 16 feet high and eight feet in diameter. The radiation field around this tank is approximately equal in strength to that of half of all the radium that has been produced in the world. To remove the calandria took place after the 70-man team had been trained on a scale model filled with sand. — (CP Photo.)

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Dawson Family Holds Reunion

WHITE'S DISTRICT — A happy time was enjoyed recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hockaday, the occasion being a family reunion of the Dawson family.

Many of the relatives spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Hockaday, but the main event was on Sunday when all gathered on the spacious lawn of the tourist home.

The day was perfect for an outdoor party and all were tired, but happy, at the end of the day.

Those who attended were all relatives of Mrs. Hockaday: her father, Mr. John Dawson, of Hinchcoe; her sisters, Mrs. Wilbert Reddick, Mr. Reddick and family, of Oakville, and Mrs. C. Hall, Mr. Hall and family of Waterford; her brothers, Mr. Ross Dawson, Mrs. Dawson and family, of Niagara Falls, N.Y. and Mr. Raymond Dawson, of Niven, Ont.; her niece, Mrs. J. Taylor and Mr. Taylor and family of Stratford; her aunt, Mrs. Edwin Hill and Mr. Hill, of Vanessa.

WELLMAN'S

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Norman Clinton was hostess at an afternoon tea recently at Clinton Lodge, given in honor of Mrs. William Hirst, who is leaving this week for Ottawa.

Miss Colleen Yandt and Miss Marilyn Callow left on Saturday to spend the summer at West Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Tanner, of Sydenham, were guests over the week-end of Dr. and Mrs. Dale and family.

Sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mr. Harry Qualtf, of Wauposos, who passed away on Wednesday, June 24, also to his brother and sister, Mrs. Will Thompson and Mr. F. Qualtf, of Wellington. The late Mr. Qualtf lived here for many years before moving to Wauposos.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Ogilvy was the scene of a family party in honor of Mrs. Wellington Hirst and Billy before their departure for Ottawa. Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. George Carver and Peter, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. George Baitley, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Baitley and Robert, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Channel, Harry and Wayne, Mr. Byron Baitley, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ogilvy and Donnie.

Recent guests at Grahamcrest were: R. W. Rayolds, Hamilton; W. R. Scott, Waterdown, Ont.; G. D. Hogan, Hamilton; W. W. Cahill, Brighton; W. G. Wilson, Wellington; Shirley Ann Sinclair, Detroit, Michigan; Mrs. Ola Beatty and Mr. and Mrs. F. Dunning, Picton; Mr. and Mrs. William Dunning and family, Bloomfield; Mr. Charles Bookman, Orangeville; S. K. Mahood, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Harold King, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. A. Knight, Rochester, N.Y.; R. Dawe, Picton; R. H. Graham, Canton, N.Y.; C. J. Agnilina, Ajax; Mr. and Mrs. K. Schneider, Toronto; L. B. Garins, Belleville, and Rev. G. Mulligan, D.D., Marquis, Sask.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Dodd, Mr. and Mrs. L. Dodd, of Kingston, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Graham. Mr. and Mrs. K. Graham and Terry, of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Laver, and Betty and Lynda were Sunday evening dinner guests at the same home.

A dinner party was held recently at Grahamanor for the teachers of Queen Elizabeth school. Those present were: Louise Brodford, Audrey Chase, Mr. and Mrs. T. Bradford, Julia Lowe, Dorothy Weese, Eleanor Taylor, George Downs, Warren Chase, Bob Eager, all of Trenton; Bob Safer and Robert Rogers, Stirling; Tom Johnston, Owen Sound; Miss Daniel, Ottawa, and Virginia Thompson, of Frankford.

Mr. D. MacArthur, of Welland, is spending the holidays with his aunt, Mrs. Craig Platt.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion held a strawberry, pie and ice cream social on the Ogilvy's lawn on Saturday night. A good attendance soon put away the pies. Proceeds were nearly $50.

School closing and the hot weather is bringing in the campers, as nearly all the cottages here are being filled.

Deepest sympathy goes out to the Wight family in the loss of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Harry Wight.

Mrs. Ralph Ellis, Dale, and Gail spent the week-end in Peterborough.

MADOC

MADOC — Before the closing of Madoc public school, the staff, pupils and caretaker assembled in Grade 8 room to pay tribute to their principal, W. Rothwell, who has tendered his resignation and will take up duties in the Campbellford public school, at the fall term. Lamoine Love, read an address and Carol Armstrong made the presentation of a sunbeam electric shaver to Mr. Rothwell on memories from his pupils, staff and Mr. and Mrs. Edwards.

A few days previous the staff presented Mrs. W. Gordon, a teacher in the school, who also has tendered her resignation with a cup and saucer. Mrs. Gordon received her thanks for the gift.

Mr. and Mrs. W. McBain, of Toronto, are spending their holidays camping at Moira Lake.

Norman Derry is visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. White at Brooklin, Ont.

Misses Margaret Derry and Josh. Holmes left this week to spend the summer at White Pine Lodge, near Bancroft.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Woods this week are: Mr. and Mrs. Beaton, of Herschell, Sask.; Mrs. Jacob Pringle, Peterborough; Mrs. Pringle, of Victoria, B.C., and Robert Fraser, of Elgin, Manitoba.

Floats, Old-Time Vehicles Seen In Centennial Parade

The greatest show of colorful floats, and the citizens' ingenuity and co-operation in their preparation, attracted thousands of people to watch the huge Centennial parade at Trenton on Wednesday. Mayor Harvey J. McFarland of Picton with Picton town solicitor, Fred L. Ward and a band of costumed riders, led the 50-float procession depicting past and present history concerning Trenton. Mayor McFarland (right) is shown with C. G. Alyea, Centennial chairman, on the left. Mrs. Ward and Fred L. Ward, Q.C., are in the centre. The group is shown standing in front of Mayor McFarla'n's first car, a model T Ford.

Ingenious workmanship was displayed by the members of the Rondeaunettes Singing Club who built the above replica of the famous excursion steamer "Varuna" which carried picnic parties and package freight on the Bay of Quinte during the early days of the century. This float was judged second to the Knights of Columbus exceptionally fine exhibit titled "Champlain on Mount Pelion 1615," which was judged the winner. An entry by the Brownies took the third prize. Honorable mention went to an entry from the combined Dutch population in the community and Grant Rathbun's prize stage coach.

Diana Renton Presents Memorial Trophy

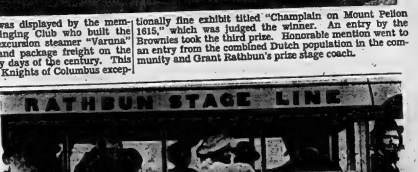
Presentation of the Dr. J. E. Renton Memorial Trophy struck a serious note in the day and night celebration. The late Centennial chairman's daughter, Diana Renton of New York, handed over the trophy to Gordon Burley of Oshawa, winner of the commemoration race.

RCAF Trenton Swimmers Carry Off Majority of Prizes

RCAF Trenton "Water Birds" swam away with a total of twenty-three silver cups and ribbons Tuesday, in the Trenton Centennial swimming meet held off the government wharf.

F/O Ken MacDonald earned the title of the "Swimming Padre" when he walked away with four silver cups—one large and three small—and a blue ribbon. The large trophy inscribed "Trenton Centennial, 1953 Water Events" went to F/O MacDonald for placing first in the 25 yards breast stroke. The three smaller cups were won for placing second in the 25-yard underwater frogman event, second under water swim, and the 25-yard backstroke. A ribbon was awarded to the "Swimming Padre" for taking third place in the 50-yard frogman event.

Three times a winner wefe W/C K. C. Maclure and Cpl. H. V. Scott, who received two large silver trophies and one small. W/C Maclure took first place cups in the 25-yard backstroke and 50-yard free style, and a second place cup in the 50-yd. frogmen crawl. In the 25-yd. underwater swim and the 25-yd. free style Cpl. Scott swam his way to first place. He placed second in the 25-yard breaststroke to F/O MacDonald.



Closest race of the event was the 50-yard frogmen crawl in which 17-year-old Keith Williamson, son of S/L. and Mrs. H. G. Williamson, of 78 Dixon Drive, Trenton, nosed out W/C Maclure, president of the RCAF Trenton "Water Birds."

In the junior event Jack Finlay, son of S/L and Mrs. K. D. Finlay, of 9 Kerr Crescent, Trenton, captured the top award. AW2 Kinnunen took top honors in the ladies' swimming event.

The following is a list of winners by events: 50-yard free style (28.2 sec), Maclure, Finnigen and Hagihm. 25-yard free style: Scott, Sims and Evans. 25-yard breaststroke: (16 sec.), MacDonald, Scott and Finnigen. 25-yd. free style for ladies (17.25 sec.): Kinnunen, Lilly and Mueller. 25-yd. backstroke (17.5 sec): Maclure, MacDonald and Sims. 25-yd. free style for junior boys and girls (16.75 sec.): Jack Finlay, Doug Jones and Norm Johnstone. 25-yd. underwater stroke (16.75 sec.): Scott, MacDonald and Finnigen.

25-yd. underwater swim for frogmen (18.5 sec.): Evans, MacDonald and Mills. 50-yd. crawl by frogmen—Williamson, Maclure and MacDonald. An exhibition relay event concluded the program.

Cups and ribbons were awarded by Mayor Harry Chifley to the successful participants.

The Rathbun entry brought back memories of the past when the stage line operated between Trenton and Belleville in 1905. Costumed passengers and driver added to the realistic appearance of the coach. 20th Anniversary Dinner Given by Downs, Coulter & Co.

On Tuesday evening on the occasion of the Downs, Coulter and Co. 20th. anniversary, William Downs, O.B.E., one of the principals of the firm, gave a dinner with 37 people attending.

The dinner was given to 13 of the company's English employees and directors and their wives, and was an opportunity for the company to show their appreciation and pay their tribute to those present who had emigrated from the Old Country to take up their lives anew in the town of Trenton, and to help build the company's Canadian textile business to its present position.

Mr. Downs expressed his thanks to those present for their very great contribution to the success of the company's operations, and for the generous way they had used their native skill and taught their highly specialized craft to other employees of the company, who are residents of Trenton, and who prior to this operation had no knowledge of the intricate processes which turned fine wool into fine worsted cloth.

Mr. Downs said that he was proud of the fact that all those who had come to Canada for the company were from Yorkshire, the county of broad acres. Yorkshiremen were proud of their history—they stood won the War of the Roses, which finally decided that the House of York should be the Royal rulers of England. Yorkshiremen, therefore, had great reason to feel a very personal pride that year in the Coronation of that great lady, Elizabeth the Second.

Mr. Downs said he was proud to feel that these, Yorkshiremen, now Canadians, had made such a mark in Trenton, amongst them were those who had been or were members of the hospital board, the town council, the Rotarians, the Y.O.N., the Scout movement, the religious organizations and many other activities in Trenton.

They had given unselfishly of their services, to the town of their adoption and were good citizens of a vigorous and healthy growing community, and were living up to that fine motto — "man's greatest gift — unselfish service to his fellow men."

After dinner and a toast to the Queen, Mrs. William Downs presented to rstth of those present a sterling silver salver, engraved with the name of the recipient and embellished with the company's crest and Latin motto reading: "Pannis MIhi Pannus", which when translated means "Cloth is my bread."

Those receiving the presentations were: Ada Bower, Ruth Wilman, Doris Smith, Lewis Robinson, John Austin, John Price, Harold Camp, Jack Bennett, Herbert Scarborough, Samuel Mowbray, Alec Wilson, James Uttley.

On behalf of the staff, Mr. J. E. Uttley (managing director of the company) thanked Mr. Downs for the hospitality enjoyed that evening and expressed his keen appreciation of the way their service had been acknowledged.

Mr. Uttley presented Mrs. Downs with a bouquet of flow-

Two U.S. Tourists Rescue Airmen As Canoe Upsets

TRENTON (Special)—A daring rescue yesterday by two American tourists was credited with saving the life of one of the two airmen thrown into the bay when their canoe tipped over in rough water off Robert's property at the east end of the town.

LAC. Gui Culiiev of the Trenton Air Station, a non-swimmer, became panicky when the upturned craft started to sink. His friend, LAC. George Tanner, forced him to hold on to the bottom of the boat and kick his feet. His screams for help were heard by the visitors on the shore and they set out in a boat using boards as paddles. The canoe tipped over about 200 yards from shore.

Names of the U.S. residents who had presence of mind to act quickly are James Quinn, New York City and Guy Del Percil, New Jersey.

Mr. Downs read a telegram from his father in England, now 87 and president of the company, the telegram read: "Mr. and Mrs. Downs send congratulations on the occasion of your twentieth anniversary. Good wishes for a happy gathering tonight, and future prosperity to all."

LUMBER KING

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP)—The "lumber king of the north" celebrated his 90th birthday recently. J. J. McFadden acquired the nickname from his fabulous life-long lumber dealings.

Biggest Problem During Centennial Is Parking

TRENTON (Special) — Parking has been one of the biggest problems for police during the Centennial.

Last night space ran out when the most cars ever to swarm into Trenton had even the police worried. It was simply impossible to park a car within four blocks of the waterfront area where the entertainment and carnival holds forth.

Chief Constable F. J. Taylor asked for aid from the Belleville Police Department and his requests met with immediate action from Chief Constable Walter Gilbert a member of the Trenton force from 1910 to 1920 over the Chief's job in the neighboring city.

NEWSPAPER VETERAN DIES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Funeral services are to be held here today for Francis Cornwallis Pickwell, 78, veteran newspaper and magazine man who died Tuesday in hospital here.

Mr. Pickwell worked on the New Westminster Daily Columbian, the old Regina Standard and a Toronto weekly. Saturday night he came to Winnipeg in 1909 as Saturday Night's Western editor.

SEEK SHOOTER

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Police are seeking a shooter whose marksmanship cost fire inspector Neis Rathburn a new windshield. The bullet hit his car as he drove past a swamp.

Rita Bennett Acclaimed Queen Of Centennial

TRENTON, (Special)—A pretty Trenton entrant Rita Bennett was acclaimed Beauty Queen of the Centennial last night winning over nine local and out-of-town beauties.

Be-bearded Mayor R. E. Whitley placed the crown on Miss Bennett's head and presented her with a bouquet of red roses. She also received $25 in cash and the sum of $50 will be held by the sponsors to be used by the queen as she pleases, she decides to enter Miss Toronto contest in the near future.

In addition Miss Bennett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bennett of Coulter Crescent, was presented with two tailor-made Celebrity suits.

Miss Bennett is a high school student popular in the community among the younger people.

END GRABLE CONTRACT

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One of the most successful combinations in show business history, Betty Grable and 20th Century-Fox ended Tuesday as the studio announced her contract had been dissolved. The action marks the finish of a 13-year, multi-million dollar combination. During that time Ruth Elizabeth Grable rose from a dancing starlet to the most noted, salable female figure in history.

Hydro Bulldozer Still on Property Of Colin Crews

TRENTON (Special) — The difference between Colin Crews a Wooler Road farmer and the Ontario Hydro has not improved over the week-end. A caterpillar bulldozer and six large powerline poles are still sitting on Mr. Crews' property on the highway, four and a half miles north of here. Mr. Crews said today that he was given to understand that the matter had been placed in the hands of Crown Attorney Harry Deyman of Cobourg. "I do not want the bulldozer or the poles," he stated. All the government has to do is to figure how to get their equipment without trespassing on my property."

On Saturday Mr. Crews ordered two hydro workers off his land. Then he sat on the bulldozer they left in his orchard watching all day for trespassers.

The Hydro wants to buy 3.3 acres of Mr. Crews' choice orchard land for $450. He refused to accept the offer and asked to have the land valuated. The Hydro expects him to pay for the survey threatening to enforce expropriation clause in the Hydro Act.

Meanwhile the Hydro moved in on the orchard before the dispute was settled.

The Mr. Crosby referred to in Tuesday's story was not Carl Crosby of this city but of the adjustment staff of the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission.

RELAX FIRST

WINNIPEG (CP)—Relax before starting your vacation, warns R.B. Baillie, provincial highway safety director. He says tired drivers are a menace to themselves and others.

Reciprocal Trade Bill Is Certain Of U.S. Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bill to extend the reciprocal trade agreements law for one year comes up in the Senate today with strong bipartisan backing assuring passage.

The present law expired June 12, and Eisenhower administration leaders are anxious to get it back on the books.

Senate leaders promised their colleagues that they can have a long Fourth of July holiday if they pass the extension bill during the day or tonight.

The Reciprocal Trade Act, first passed in 1934, permits the president to lower tariff rates in return for concessions granted by other countries. Although the law has now expired, existing agreements are not affected.

Asks Extension

President Eisenhower asked Congress for a simple one-year extension.

Attempts by Republicans in the House of Representatives to write various restrictions into the law slowed action, but in the end they compromised on an amendment to add a seventh member to the tariff commission and assure Republican control.

Ever since its establishment in 1916, tariff commission membership has been divided by law among three Republicans and three Democrats. The commission's job is to advise the president on tariff rates.

The Senate finance committee rejected by-13-3 the House provision to add another member to the commission, and there was no indication that recommendation would be changed by the Senate itself.

In the measure is provision for 17-member trade study commission, asked by Eisenhower. He said the commission would make a

Studebaker Will Resume Work Next Tuesday

HAMILTON (CP)—The Studebaker Corporation of Canada Limited will resume work July 7, one week ahead of the expected date, due to the settlement of a strike at Borg-Warner Corp., Muncie, Ind., which has crippled Studebaker production throughout the continent.

D. C. Gaskin, president of the Canadian corporation, said that the Hamilton plant would receive preference over all other Studebaker works in the shipment of transmissions from Borg-Warner.

Mr. Gaskin said recall notices had been distributed to the 653 employees who had been laid off since May 22 as a result of the strike.

year's study of trade policies with a view to enactment of more permanent legislation next year.

GREGG NOMINATED

FREDERICTON (CP) — Labor Minister Milton Gregg received a unanimous nomination Tuesday as Liberal candidate for York-Sunbury in the federal election August 10. He will be opposed by E. C. Atkinson, Progressive Conservative who was defeated in the 1949 election, and Charles A. Watson, a CCF candidate.

MORE PRODUCTION

SALTCOATS, Sask. (CP) — The need for more sheep and better wool production was stressed by W. Boucher, district agriculture representative, at a sheep-shearing demonstration here. Flock management and parasite control also were urged.

Causes of Insect Outbreaks Listed At Kiwanis Club

According to Howard House of the Entomological Laboratory in the city, man has not the supremacy on earth he thinks he has. Mr. House advised the members of the Kiwanis club at the noon luncheon on Tuesday that a war is presently going on between man and insects for the conquest of the earth.

"The struggle is really one of bitter rivalry," the speaker stated, "and it would appear as if insects are holding their own. Man may be winning battles, but he certainly isn't winning the war."

"The struggle is really one of bitter rivalry," the speaker stated. Mr. House noted there are 22 orders of insects to be found in this country, with each order having a type of injurious species. However, the speaker told members man was most concerned with only six of these types.

Listing the causes of insect outbreak, he topped the list with the main cause which he said was the abundance of food, such as, a good crop of a certain produce. When the harmful insects are placed in an area where they gain freedom from their natural enemies and when climatic conditions are favorable, we have another cause of insect outbreak. "Modern agricultural methods are often a menace as well," the speaker stated. "Also man in his travelling often introduces new species to areas lacking the insects' natural enemies."

"Five means of control," Mr. House said, four of which it is within man's power to institute and the other one being beyond the control of anyone.

"Adverse weather conditions are an excellent means of insect control," he said. "Unfortunately, this is the one man has nothing to do with at all."

The four other means of control, according to the speaker are: natural, biological, chemical and legislative.

Dwelling briefly upon chemical control, Mr. House described it as having spectacular success at times, but, also being extremely costly. Chemicals have also been known to kill off harmful insects' natural enemies and plant pollinators.

"We are outnumbered by insects," he told members, "they reproduce enormously, are able to adapt to new conditions easily and quickly, are also able to maintain a balanced diet, sometimes on anything organically and they are rapidly increasing their tolerance to insecticides."

In concluding, the speaker cautioned his audience. "The outcome of this battle between man and the insects appears extremely precarious. We do not know what developments are in the future, but whatever they are to be, they will have to be enormously powerful if we are to win the battle.

Mr. House was introduced by A. S. Robb and the thanks of the club were extended by A. O. Drysdale.

Sent for Trial

ARNPRIOR (CP)—Kenneth Wilson, 32, Tuesday was committed for trial on a charge of murder in the beating death of his wife, Lois, 28.

Dorothy Vilon, Wilson's 14-year-old niece, testified during the preliminary hearing that Wilson caused Wilma kicking his wife and shouted: "I don't care if I have to hang for this."

Mrs. Wilson died May 7 after being beaten in her home near this town 32 miles northwest of Ottawa.

Victoria Cross For Scouts Given Member

OTTAWA (CP)—James Mathieson, 11-year-old Edmonton Wolf Cub, has been posthumously awarded the Cornwell Scout Badge, scouting's Victoria Cross, it was announced Wednesday.

Cub Mathieson, a member of 13th Edmonton cub pack, won the badge for "remarkable courage and endurance when suffering from first degree burns." He died in hospital five days after being burned in an accident.

The award was one of 30 Dominion Day honors announced by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, governor-general and Canada's Chief Scout.

Fifth Cross winners included assistant scoutmaster William J. Rverse, 36, Elmcore, Ont., who saved a toy from drowning in the Lynn river.

Meritorious conduct certificates went to scout James Hamilton, 16, Kirkland Lake, and to scout James Tyson, 8, Cobourg, Ont., who put out a gasoline fire with sand and saved farm property from serious damage.

Scout John Walden, 13, Port Hope was awarded a letter of commendation.

Medals of merit for good services to scouting went to: Frederick Oliver Barnett, Napanee, Ont.; and Gerald C. Faulker and Norbert C. Faulker, Preston.

MARMORA

Marmora Man Heads Federation Of Mens Teachers

At a recent meeting of District No. 4 of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation sixty members assembled at Tweed for their annual spring get-together. After a very fine banquet at St. John's Anglican Church, they were favored by a short address by Mr. Lehman, Chief Forester for the district, who spoke on the work of the Forestry Department, dividing it into three parts: Protection, Reforestation and Management. Mr. Conner, principal of Tweed Public School, then presented his interesting church choir, which gave five choir numbers and two solos.

The business part of the meeting was held at Tweed public school, with the president, Mr. M. Snider, of Wellington, in the chair. After the minutes and treasurer's report had been adopted, correspondence was received from which was learned of the appointment of Mr. T. Bedford, of Trenton, to the provincial policy committee.

Salary was given by Mr. F. Sherbert of Trenton.

The report of the nominating committee was read and adopted with the following being elected as officers for the coming year:

Past president, Mr. Snider, of Wellington; president, E. Prentice, Marmora; vice-president, G. Locklin, Belleville; secretary-treasurer, T. Bedford, Trenton; representative, F. Sherbert, of Trenton, and T. Bedford, Trenton.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Thos. Aldcorn, of Toronto, the new president of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation, provincial body. He spoke on federation work and public relations. He stressed the fact that the federation is to guard and protect the interests of the teachers, and to further the education of the pupils. He also stated that the men teachers strongly opposed any lowering of standards for entry into the profession and maintained that the basic requirements for a permanent first class certificate should be Grade 13 graduation in nine subjects, two years of training college and two years' successful teaching. He then teachers reaffirmed their stand that there should be a single salary schedule whereby all teachers with equal qualifications, responsibilities, and experience should receive equal salaries regardless of the type of school in which they are teaching. Mr. Aldcorn further stressed the fact that salaries of teachers depend more on the relations between the teachers, the school boards, and the parents, that on any strong-arm or threatening methods that might be used.

The district president, Mr. Snider, then thanked the executive for the co-operation that he had received during the past year and turned the meeting over to the president-elect, Mr. Prentice, who invited the assembly to Marmora for the fall meeting and banquet.

Talbot Finds Scottish 'English' Tough; Southpaws Unknown North of Clyde

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — A week from today golf bugs will be toting their hope by hole, of the previous of the world's greatest player, Ben Hogan, toward the British Open championship at Carnoustie, Scotland. They will with appreciate the labor that has gone into supplying this service.

Reporting a golf tournament on any of Britain's championship links is a production the like of which is unknown in the United States. Here you can sit down and they'll bring the news to you through a telephone hookup which blankets the course. Over there, if you want to know what's going on you jolly well find out for yourself. There's a big difference.

The scrambled system is to hire about a dozen caddies who can write numbers and then provide a corps of bicyclists to dash in with their death-less news from the outlying sectors. The ninth hole is a Scottish layout invariably is some mile from the clubhouse. When they speak of "going out" and "coming back," that is precisely what they mean.

There are a number of drawbacks to this system. For one, it is not the easiest thing in the world to understand what the average Scottish caddie is trying to convey, particularly when he arrives short of breath. For another, there is the added burden of trying to keep books when all the employees are off touring somewhere in advance.

The principal scene we hear was inflicted at the British Open played at Muirfield in 1935, at the time when Little was the hottest thing in the golfing firmament. My own private press room for the event was an evacuated cow shed about 150 yards down the road from the course, and this made for difficulties.

The leader after the first round was a player named Alf Perry, and we duly asked our No. 1 field man, name of Scotty, what he knew about the fellow, if anything. Our impression was that Scotty said Perry was a southpaw, and that was something, indeed. Lefthanded professionals are rare, and lefthanded professionals who lead open tournaments rate right up with the Kohinoor. We were somewhat incredulous, but Scotty insisted—we thought.

Well, Perry still was in front after the second round, and a lot more words went out from the cowshed. Golfing history plainly was in the making. The first inkling that all was not well came the next morning in the form of a cable saying that some of the other reporters seemed to know that Perry played the game lefthanded.

This called for a hurried conference with Scotty. It became somewhat confused. Scotty still stoutly maintained that our man was a southpaw, as best we could gather, but, when confronted with a lefthanded stance, only shook his head in bewilderment. Luckily, we had attracted a small gallery of interested listeners, and some of them were able to clear it up.

"What he's saying, old man, is that Perry is a Scotsman golfer and I happen to know that's right," the man explained. "That's where he was born."

As inconspicuously as possible, Perry was recorded into a righthander on that, the final day, and it was just as well, for he went on to win the championship. The word southpaw, we learned, is not known on that side of the ocean.

Scores Upset In Quebec Tennis Tourney

MONTREAL (CP)—Jack Spencer of Montreal pulled an upset in the quarter-finals of the provincial tennis championships here Wednesday, eliminating Paul Wilder of Vancouver 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

Lorne Main of Toronto and Vaughan Craig of Smiths Falls, Ont., showed the way home in the second.

Tommy Velo and Don Velo paired $264.75 in a quinella, William Pyke of Cornwall scored with Tommy Velo, an 8-to-1 shot, with J. R. Ballock's Don Velo close behind.

Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., defeated Roland Godin, who had eliminated Lawrence Barclay of Vancouver Tuesday, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2. Rochon had a tough time disposing of Jim Bentley, Toronto, defeating him 6-0, 6-4, 7-9, 6-0.

ALMOST UPSET

BIGWIN INN (CP)—Harry Hall of Toronto, ranking Canadian hunter, almost upset Dick Rizzo of Toronto, seeded No. 3, in the Northern Ontario tennis championship Wednesday. Rizzo emerged winner 6-4, 8-11, 6-2.

N.J. Cook of Kitchener defeated C. Wagner of Detroit, 6-2, 6-3.

Harness Racers Share Honors

HULL, Que. (CP)—Cheerful Lad and Glendale Ace Wednesday night shared the honors in a harness racing meet.

The two horses each won $1,000 purses in two heats of the feature race. Percy Robillard drove Cheerful Lad, owned by Culhane Hess of Morrisburg, Ont., to the front in the first heat. Owner-driver Hazen Craig of Smiths Falls, Ont., showed the way home in the second.

Tommy Velo and Don Velo paired $264.75 in a quinella. William Pyke of Cornwall scored with Tommy Velo, an 8-to-1 shot, with J. R. Ballock's Don Velo close behind.

Ghezzi Paces Pro Tourney

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Giant Vic Ghezzi fired a near-perfect, five-under-par 66, tying a 20-year-old course record, Wednesday to lead the first round qualifying in the U.S. Professional Golfers Association tournament.

The six-foot-two, 200-pound pro from Inwood, N.Y., 1941 champion, whipped around the tight, par 36-35—71 Birmingham Country Club in 34-32.

The course record was set by Al Watrous two decades ago.

Two rank outsiders, 48-year-old Jimmy Hines of Glenview, Ill., Ill., and chubby Jim Browning of Weston, Mass., posted 67s.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitching: Mel Parnell, Boston Red Sox, won his 10th game by blanking New York Yankees on four singles 4-0.

Batting: Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee Braves, singled, doubled and hit his 22rd home run to take over the National League home run lead. The Braves defeated Cincinnati 10-2.

Four Ex-Champs Enter Tourney

TORONTO (CP)—Four former champions are included in the field for the Canadian open golf tournament at Toronto Scarborough, starting July 2.

Entry of Lawson Little, dapper Chicago golfer who won the event 17 years ago with a 271 at Toronto St. Georges, was announced Tuesday.

The other champions are Jim Ferrier of San Francisco who won in 1950 and 1951; Dutch Harrison, won in 1948, and defending champion Johnny Palmer of Bedin, N.C.

Browns' Star Joins Regina

CLEVELAND (AP) — The best pass-catcher in pro football, Mac Speedie quit Cleveland Browns Tuesday for Regina Roughriders in the Western Canada Interprovincial Union.

Coach Paul Brown, who contended Speedie was "jumping" a contract here, said he was undecided whether to take legal action to restrain the 33-year-old outside.

Speedie, a University of Utah star, joined the Browns when they were formed in 1946.

Canadian Junior Track, Field Meet Attracts 120 Athletes from Dominion

WINNIPEG (CP) — Some 120 athletes from Quebec to British Columbia will compete in the Canadian junior boys track and field championships at Winnipeg Friday and Saturday.

Gord McLennan of the host Winnipeg Athletic Association Hounds said that to date 48 entries have been received from Manitoba and 72 from outside points.

The visiting entries include: Hamilton Olympic Club, 9; Windsor AKO, 11; Montreal Olympic Club, 3; Montreal St. Lambert, 6; Toronto East York, 3; Toronto Track Club, 19; Toronto Gladstone AC, 3; Saskatchewan branch of the AAU, 6; Vancouver OC, New Westminster AC; Vernon AC; Cumberland AC, and Fort William, one apiece. Others were unattached.

The meet has been held in Toronto for the last five years.

Officials said a total of 45 finals will be run off, including 21 in the junior class (19 and under); 16 juvenile (17 and under); and eight midget (15 and under). Twenty-one events will be completed Friday night and the remaining 24 Saturday afternoon.

Several old rivalries will be continued at the meet. Bob Tjaden, the ace track star from Sperling, Man., was defeated by six inches in the juvenile 100-yard dash last year by Larry Nelson of New Westminster. Both are entered in the junior 100 and 200.

In the junior mile, Ron Wallingford of Ottawa will be out to avenge his defeat by Winnipeg's Ed Moreen in the juvenile mile at Toronto in 1951.

Back in 1933 when Winnipeg was host to the Canadian senior track and field championships, Sam Richardson set a Canadian broad jump record of 14 feet 11 inches. One of the entrants in this year's junior meet is his son, Doug, who also will be competing in the broad jump. Doug is with Lloyd Ace Percival's Toronto track club.

Seixas, Nielsen Qualify For Tennis Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)— Vic Seixas, Philadelphia strategist dubbed early as a Wimbledon finalist, and Kurt Nielsen, unseeded upstart from Copenhagen, battered semi-final opponents Wednesday to complete the cast for the 67th Wimbledon tennis championship match Friday.

The last Australian, Mervyn Rose tumbled before Seixas, 6-4, 10-12, 9-11, 6-4, 6-3.

The merry Dane who insists tennis is only a game tied into Jaroslav Drobny 6-4, 6-3, 6-2.

The four seeded U.S. women players, headed by world queen Maureen Connolly, won quarter-final matches Tuesday.

Miss Connolly, the defending champion as well as the U.S., French and Australian queen, trounced Mrs. Ursula Widner of Germany, 6-3, 6-0.

Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., seeded No. 2, edged Mrs. Suzi Kormoczi of Hungary 7-5, 7-5. Third-seeded Shirley Fry of Akron, O., eliminated Julie Sampson of Pasadena, Calif., 6-4, 6-2, and fourth-ranked Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., ousted British's last hope, Angela Mortimer, 6-4, 6-3.

Bantam Champ Defends Title With Knockout

QUEBEC (CP) — Fernando Gagnon knocked out Stan Almond of Vancouver in the eighth round Wednesday night to score the fourth successful defence of his Canadian bantamweight boxing championship.

The spunky, muscular Quebecer went down the challenger with hard rights to the kidneys before he knocked him out with a hard blow to the side of the head.

Gagnon outweighed Almond 118 pounds to 113½, but the West Coast boxer, at five feet six inches, held a four-inch edge in height.

The bout's only knockdown came late in the first round when Gagnon floored Almond for a nine-count with a hard right cross to the chin.

The 28-year-old champion suffered a small cut over the right eye in the sixth round and was jarred a few times by Almond's hard rights and lefts.

Gagnon attacked throughout the fight which was scheduled to go 12 rounds. He pounded rights and lefts to Almond's body, mixing up the occasional jab and right cross.

Gagnon held a wide edge on points when he floored his 25-year-old opponent whose left side was a deep red.

The winner appeared much sharper than he did last December when he lost two decisions to Papoy Gault of Spartanburg, N. C., in North American bantamweight championship fights and said he would seek a third match with Gault.

After the fight, Gagnon said his body attack on Almond had been planned for maximum effect.

"I hit in the kidneys in every round knowing that sooner or later it would cause heavy pressure in his side," he said.

Almond said he had been sawy from the ring too long. It was eight months since his last fight and he had come down from 128 pounds in two months training for the scrap.

"I went too far down and I was dried up," he said.

Canadian Gals Draw With Britain's Best

FORMBY, England (Reuters)— The touring Canadian women's golf team drew Wednesday with Britain in its second match of the ladies Commonwealth champions ship here.

Each won one of the four events and two singles, with the fifth singles game being halved.

Marjorie Stewart of Fonthill, Ont., Canadian and British women's champion, lost 3 and 1 to Scotland's Jean Donald. She defeated Miss Donald last week in the semi-final of the British Women's open while on her way to the British title.

It was Miss Stewart's second straight singles defeat in the match here. She lost Tuesday to the New Zealand champion, Margaret Hughes, by one hole.

Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria and Mrs. Graham Fyke of Montreal won their singles games, while Barbara Davies of Victoria managed to halve hers.

The fifth game was lost by Mary Gaye of Waterloo, Ont.

"I tried hard but I just couldn't fight," said Marlene after her defeat by Miss Hughes.

The touring Canadians won 4-3 over New Zealand last week.

Miss Gaye defeated Una Wickham, 3 and 2.

In a foursome, Miss Stewart and Mrs. Todd defeated Miss Hughes and Zoe Hudson, 2 and 1.

Yankees Maintain Skid Streak With Ninth Straight Loss; Braves Rally

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

OD CAN KEEP 'EM NOW!

It took more than the "Greatest Show on Earth" to divert a lot of circle-the-wrist bats and "tanya" fraternity from their favorite summer pastime yesterday. World-famous figures of the sawdust ring and all the color and pageantry that goes with the circus failed to stop some of the boys who celebrated the official opening the season. They were out bright and early in various parts of the Bay of Quinte, the Moira and other haunts of the elusive smallmouth and the fighting muskie.

There were no reports of any large hauls at this time of writing but we were told the story of the ultra-honest bloke who hooked a four-pound small-mouth and tossed it back before he remembered the season was open.

Reports of pickerel and other game fish hauls have not been too encouraging thus far, but no estimate can be formed of the bass population this early. However, eager observer anglers are reminded that daily limits for black bass are six per individual, either large or smallmouth or both, but not more than a total of six. The fish must be ten inches in length measured from the tip of the nose to the posterior margin of the tail, or in other words, to the centre of the fork in the tail. And no stretching, fellas.

And if you land more than two muskies per day you're breaking the law, likewise, if the ones you hook are less than thirty inches in length from nasal stem to the tail gudgeon.

And remember, men, the acceptable methods of angling are: by rod and line or a line held in the hand, by casting or trolling with artificial lures or live bait. That alone don't cluster the business end of the line with hooks. Four is the limit, except that three hooks in a gang may be considered as one hook.

Fish and Wildlife Inspector R. G. Sheppard, of the Tweed headquarters of the Department of Lands and Forests reminding anglers that young bass will still be guarded by the fish-fighting "goppas" for approximately ten days after the opening of the season.

If a catch is made in shallow water, the inspector points out, the fish should be brought to the surface slowly and if the young fellas are present they will follow and be observed. In cases like this, the fish should be returned alive and uninjured to prevent tiny fish being destroyed by predators.

This department will willingly swop two good second-hand circus tickets (ringside) for any bass ranging between two and three pounds gross.

UTTE A SHOW!

There's a bit of the old rush and bustle going on at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club these days, for the boys of the bowls and kittles are readying for what is said to be one of the best Civic Holiday quests for the famous Corbin Gold Trophy, emblematic of rinks championship, that takes place on Monday, August 3rd.

Sixty-four rinks, representing 256 of the cream of lawn bowlers of the province will be here on that date vying for not only the four handsome cash prizes but the attractive consolations that go to the respective winners.

The "Grand Prix", the Corbin Gold Trophy, is gleaming and all sglitter after a brand new refurbishing, and awaiting its new winner. The Lord Calvert Trophy, which ranks second, proudly rests on its pedestal, while Rich Uncle and fourth prizes, the handsome Belleville Trophy, donated by the Association of Hotel Proprietors of Belleville and the Keller Trophy, are in their first year of competition.

The boys were "gypped" of their competition last year when Jupiter Pluvius deposited a deluge over the surrounding landscape forcing cancellation. The Corbin Trophy was won in 1951 by a Kingston rink. The visiting bowlers should bring at least 200 people to the city and to the hospitality of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club, which has become a household word in lawn bowling circles of the province.

Tournament General Chairman Cliff Argue said today the entry list has been filled, while a substantial waiting list is on hand, concrete evidence of the general popularity of the Gold Cup Tournament.

ASEBALL FRIDAY-

Manager Bryson Reid, directing his Regent baseball juniors from a hospital bed, said yesterday that his charges will meet the Prince Edward Combines Friday night in the CNR Recreation Field in a scheduled league game. While this tilt is important, it will serve more as a readier for the important battle with the starry Bloomfield Silver Ribbons scheduled for Saturday evening. "Red" Carson, coach of the team, says the rounkers are ready and hope to tuck away a pair of victories by bath-time Saturday night.

Draw 4-0 Blank With Boston As Indians Lose to Tigers; Brooklyn Clings to Slim Lead

By BEN PELEGAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Yankees, who usually don't have to ask anybody any-thing, might consider borrowing Charlie Grimm's Milwaukee text-book on "how to start winning when losing".

The Yankees go into today's game at Boston with a chance to set a "second best" losing record for the club. Their all-time mark is 13 in 1912. The next worst is nine in 1945 and equalled by the 1953 edition. On Wednesday's 4-0 defeat at the hands of the Red Sox.

The Braves went into a tie spin on same day the Yanks did and lost eight in a row before righting themselves Tuesday night. Wednesday they won again with ease 10-2 over Cincinnati.

It looked for awhile Wednesday night as if the Braves would vault back into first place but Brooklyn rallied for three runs in the top of the 10th to nip Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 and keep their slim margin safe.

The third-place St. Louis Cardinals overpowered Chicago 10-5 to stay 2½ games behind. Hal Smith homered in the 11th to give Pittsburgh a 2-1 decision over New York giants.

Preserve Lead

Although they lost, the Yankees preserved temporarily their five-game American League lead because the second-place Cleveland Indians also were defeated. Detroit stopped the Tribe's six-game winning rush towards first place 4-3. Chicago White Sox moved to within 5½ games of the pace-setters as they trampled St. Louis Browns 13-4. Washington defeated Philadelphia 5-3.

The Yankees managed only four singles off southpaw Bill Fischell who won his 10th game. The loss, charged to pitcher Bobby Shantz, was the fourth shutout job against the Yankees this season.

Al Rosen and Clint Hartung each hit a two-run homer in the first inning with a home run scoring Dale Mitchell but Ted Gray stopped the Indians the rest of the way. Bob Lemon wild-pitched one run home to throw the ball away in permitting another and walked the third man who scored as he lost his seventh game.

The White Sox rattled the fences at Comiskey Park with nine extra base hits against the Browns. Minnie Minoso drove in five runs with a pair of triples.

The Senators clubbed back to the .500 mark by winning their second straight over the Athletics. Home runs by Wayne Terwilliger and Ed Fitzgerald helped Chuck Stobbs to his 10th victory.

Elmer Mendoza batted a pair triples and a single in the St. Louis triumph over Chicago. Gerry Staley lowered his ERA to 2.97.

Milwaukee's power hitters found Cincinnati's Cuban Sid Gordon and started the fireworks with a two-run homer in the first. Eddie Mathews clouted his 15th circuit clout with a mate on, in the third and Joe Adcock crashed a three-run empty blast in the eighth. Mathews, who also singled and doubled, moved into the league home run lead.

Record Crowds Watch Games In Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Senior Intercounty Baseball League was bustling with activity Dominion Day. Record-breaking crowds sat in on four afternoon games and three night sessions.

Playing in the afternoon Kitchener Panthers defeated Waterloo Tigers 7-3; Oshawa Merchants dropped London Majors 4-3; Galt Terriers won over Guelph Maple Leafs 7-3; and St. Thomas Elgins upset Brantford Red Sox 7-3.

Under the lights Brantford set back Waterloo 3-0; Galt Terriers shut out St. Thomas 4-0 and London defeated Oshawa 9-8.

Whitehead wrapped up its day game in the first frame with five runs, four of them charged against Doug Fullerton. Dick Spoozak, Holy Larouche took over for Waterloo with three on and none out. He was relieved in the third by Fred Pressley and manager Hank Biasucci finished. Bill Allan, who relieved Dick Welker in the third, got credit for the win.

At Oshawa in a night game, London managed only four hits off Ken Ellis and Ron Bowman but bunched three of them behind a single and double to score four runs in the fifth after two were out. Hippie Meyer and Wayne Mancuso's three run homer in the eighth inning to make sure of the Oshawa win. Mancuso got two runs in the first inning and then went all the way for five runs and the ball game.

Southpaw Ed Krapcho was in trouble in the first game as the Terriers reached him for three hits and a walk for a five run rush over in the eighth. Relief pitcher Earl Hansell won the game.

Tommy White, former London hurler, made a successful start as manager of the Elgins when he led his team to victory. St. Thomas pitcher Al Costa practically won the ball game single-handed by hitting a homer and double besides his excellent pitching job.

In their night game, Brantford got a home run in the top of the 10th when Johnny Lockington, first man up, got a safety on an error and Ed Finney followed with a triple to score the winning run. Veteran Wig Parker pitched 4 1-3 innings of relief ball for the victory.

Galt moved up to seventh place and dropped Guelph into the cellar by beating St. Thomas. Joe Bruzzese, Galt hurler, beat the St. Thomas and allowed only six hits but walked six, striking out four. Jeanne scored the victory for the Terriers and helped his own cause with a home run in the fifth. Cline also homered in this frame.

British Cricket

BRISTOL (Reuters)—Gloucestershire was all out for 137 shortly after lunch on the cricket match against the Australians here Wednesday, and the visitors wound up the day at 71 with a margin of 71 for four after losing three wickets in the last half hour.

John Mortimore, 20 - year - old right-handed off-break bowler, took the first three wickets with the first two deliveries of the last over of the day. For the Australians Ray Lindwall got four wickets for 1.75 runs.

At Lords the Middlesex captain, Bill Edrich, posed a new challenge to England's Test selectors with a brilliant innings of 211 against Yorkshire.

Close of play scores:

Gloucestershire 137, Australian tourists 71 for four.

Middlesex 343 for eight vs Essex. Northamptonshire 338 for four vs. Derbyshire.

Surrey 145, Sussex 67 for three. Yorkshire 286 for seven vs. Somerset (rain restricted play).

Oxford University 276, the Army 47 for four (two-dayer).

Lt. Stevens eleven 272 for six declared, Cambridge University 112 for five (two-dayer).

Hampshire 218 for five vs. Lancashire.

Glamorgan 254 for five vs. Nottinghamshire.

Worcestershire 322 for six vs. Warwickshire.

SCORES TWICE

STRATHROY (CP) — Argyel Curling Club Dunc Campbell's great yelding from Allan Craig, won both heats of the featured free-for-all Wednesday at the Strathroy Dominion Day harness races. Silver Direct, a 1956 Miss Strathroy Dentan provided most of the opposition, each having a second and a third.

ROWE WINS FREE-FOR-ALL

ORANGEVILLE (CP) — Hon. Earl Rowe Wednesday drove Celia's Counsel a muddy mile in 2:17 to win the Dufferin Park $1,000 free-for-all at the fair board's annual harness race meet. The time was the fastest of the rain-shortened programs.

Baker Blasted By Satterfield

CHICAGO (AP)—Light heavyweight Ike Satterfield of Chicago unleashed a brutal right to the chin which blasted out fourth-ranking heavyweight Bob Baker in 2:32 of the first round of an scheduled 10-rounder at the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night.

Outweighed by 23½ pounds, the 180½ pound Satterfield dealt a crushing blow to Baker's bright hopes for a shot at Rocky Marciano's heavyweight title in a surprising display of the ponderous Pittsburgh scrapper.

HONES TO COLLINGWOOD

PENETANGUISHENE (CP) — Owner-driver Clarence Lockhart of Collingwood piloted his horses to four firsts and one second at Dominion Day harness races here. Lockhart's racers triumphed in three of the four heats contested in the two divisions of the 2:30 class. He picked up his fourth victory in the lone heat held in the 2:25 class.

How to Play Winning Baseball

By ARTHUR MANN

THE DUFFELD — PART II

It was my rare privilege to see three major league first basemen of the historic first stages of their development. The first was Gehrig in 1928 at Tinker Field, St. Petersburg, Fla., now covered by Flagler Field. The second was Jackie Robinson in Havana during March, 1947. The third was Gil Hodges a year later in the Dominican Republic and West Palm Beach, Fla.

Both Gehrig and Robinson had trouble mastering the foot movements of the all-important shift. Despite his later greatness as both hitter and fielder, Gehrig was originally in his movements a dub rookie. It was Fred Merkle, of early Giant first-baseing fame, who cleared up Gehrig's difficulty as the spring of 1928 by comparing the foot movements to a simple waltz step. Gehrig practised the step and became proficient enough to play in 2130 consecutive games as a Yankee first baseman. Anyone can do it—just count one-two-three, one-two-three, until you have mastered it.

Jackie Robinson, a shortstop, mastered first base by practising at it, because he was a great all-round athlete in college. Before he had become accustomed to the foot-shift, he had proved that natural agility which often of inexperience. In his very first game at the new position for Montreal against the Dodgers, he made a startling play. He leaped high for a bad throw, twisted cat-like in mid air and threw himself at the runner whom he tagged with his glove on the way down for a brilliant putout.

No phase of first-basing gave Gil Hodges much trouble. Being a great natural athlete, he mastered and did play anywhere. His foot movements left very little to be desired, especially in the movements of his hands, were sometimes faster than the eye. His one difficulty, which is common to all beginning first basemen, was being caught fielding a ground ball too far to the right and having no play. Only from experience can a baseman learn to field a ball in a split second whether to field a ground ball to his right, or let the second baseman handle it. The shortcut cut is to practice at learning to gauge the angle of a ground ball coming down the first base side. It is like car-cleaning when you're learning to drive. You learn to judge distance, angles and split-second timing. There is no slide-rule answer. It must be learned and as soon as possible.

Another "must" basic maneuver for the first baseman is the 3-6-3 double play that goes from first to short and back to first. The numbers are derived from the scorer's system of numbering the positions. The play, one of the oldest defensive game, was originated by the late Fred Tenney during his rookie year as a first baseman for Boston in 1907. Bill Terry a former star and manager of the Giants, explained the play best.

"It must be the result of one interrupted motion," he said. "You field the ball in motion and continue the motion as the throw is made, often throwing the ball across your body with a flip of the wrist, but with the steady movement of the body and feet never interrupted. The fault of every first baseman who has trouble with the play consists in interrupting the movement, mentally or physically, in order to complete the thing he is doing. Pausing destroys the rhythm of the play and the play itself."

Terry, with George Sisler, Joe Judge, Jim Bottomley, Eddie Waitkus, Lu Blue, were a few of the masters at execution. Even Gehrig never made the play well, though it's easier for left-handers. The right-handers must twist and throw, and he often finds the runner in the line of throw. However, a few right-handers were skilled at it, notably Frank Chance, Babe Dahlgren, Wally Pipp, Stuffy McInnis, George Kelly, to name a few.

A third baseman, declared the late John J. McGraw, who was one of the best, "does less thinking than three outfielders in a ball game for the reason that he rarely has time to think. He must act without a split-second's loss of time and do his thinking later."

Planning betw en plays, scheming during meals and dreams, before and after ball games? Yes. But with action on the way, the third baseman must know who the batter is, what he is most likely to do, what type of pitch he will get and what he will probably do, with it. The demands of a third baseman are many —speed afoot, top notch reflexes and the ability to break fast in either side or forward and backward, the ability to anticipate (not guess) or gauge what will happen, ability to protect the foul line or save the shortstop a long throw from "the hole," and a rubber arm for the long and strong throw, or a short, overhand one-throw after a one-handed or bare-handed pick-up of a dribbler.

A good throw across the diamond takes almost one second. With the ground ball and handling occupying one second or slightly more, the entire operation of a perfect play will take less than three seconds. This leaves a bare second to cope with the unexpected and still get a fairly good runner, proving John McGraw right in the matter of no time for thought.

The double play, from third to second to first, is the most difficult. It is one of the most valuable, and should be mastered with an underhand throw to second, if possible. Straight-arming up for an overhand toss takes valuable time.

The third baseman should always back up the long throws from centre or right while the shortstop covers. He should have signs with the catcher for trap plays with a runner on third, not too much for a subout, but to keep the runner a step or two farther from home plate. He should never call for the ball with two men out unless he has a fairly sure trap play. He should run in and take all batted grounds on the left. And always hand the ball to the pitcher between plays. Why? Sometime, that will happen it doesn't come to his position than the others.

Royals Defeat Cubs for Pair; Wings Nip Leafs

By The Canadian Press

Montreal Royals Wednesday swept an International League twin bill, downing Springfield Cubs 14-8 and 4-3.

The Cubs used four pitchers in the opener but were unable to halt the booming bats of the Montreal sluggers. Springfield shoved five runs across in the fourth inning on four successive singles. Montreal bounced back in the fifth with a six-run outburst on an error, four hits and two walks.

In the seven-inning nightcap, pitcher Gil Mills pawed the way for what proved to be the winning run in the fifth, with a triple, scoring on a fielder's choice.

At Toronto, Rochester Red Wings edged Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 in 12 innings in the first tilt of a scheduled doubleheader. The second game was rained out in the top of the second with the Red Wings ahead 1-0.

The first game was a pitcher's duel between relievers Bob Tiefenauer of the Wings and Don Johnson of Toronto. Tiefenauer took over from starter Ned Hahn in the fifth and allowed the Leafs only one hit—a single by Ed Stevens in the seventh—for the remaining 7 1-3 innings.

Ottawa Athletics and Baltimore Orioles split a doubleheader at Ottawa. The Orioles won the first game 8-4 in extra innings and the Athletics took the seven-inning nightcap 3-0.

Stan Lok's 14th home run and the brilliant relief pitching of Tom Morgan enabled Baltimore to win the opener. The Athletics won the second game as John Hetki pitched a six-hitter for his third win against five losses.

At Buffalo, Syracuse Chiefs snapped the Bisons' seven-game winning streak by scoring four runs in the ninth for a 4-0 victory.

Buffalo, Toronto Dominate Rivals At Regatta

By CRAIG SWAYZE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Buffalo West Side oarsmen and Toronto Balmy Beach Paddlers Wednesday maintained their supremacy over Canadian and United States rivals by dominating the 53rd running of the Dominion Day regatta at Centre Island here.

Undaunted by heavy rain and high humidity, the 22 American hunkies piled up 40 points on eight firsts, a pair of seconds and one third to outdistance seven other clubs competing in the 20-race rowing program.

Beaches, replying to the challenges of four other canoeing aggregations, powered the paddlers to sweep the day with 48 points on seven wins, two seconds and five thirds.

Hamilton Leander Boat Club grabbed the runner-up spot in the rowing aggregate with 36 points. Toronto's Don Rowing Club gained four firsts and picked up 25 points.

Toronto Argonauts and St. Catharines tied for fourth spot with the Double Blue gaining two firsts to St. Catharines' single win. Brockville won a light four race for the majority of its nine points while both Peterborough Detroit Rowing Club won thirds for single points.

The Toronto Island Canoe Club finished second to the Balmy Beach greats with 32 points. Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club was third with 26 and Sudbury fourth on three wins, two seconds and a pair of thirds for 25 points.

The junior heavy singles failed to live up to advance expectations as Don Grinyer, 18-year-old son of former Diamond Sculls winner Jack Guest, finished two lengths up on Leander's Jackie Pearce. However, the 18-year-old Pearce kept his bobbing boat happy with a strying finish over Larry Stephan of Etobicoke High School for the high school singles crown.

Guest also came up with a 20-foot victory over Bill Williams of Hamilton in the quarter-mile dash. Earlier Guest, junior champion, walked away with the senior singles paddling event by finishing 18 lengths up on Lloyd Rire of Toronto Sailing and Canoe.

Sudbury's senior double-blade four topped Island and Balmy Beach in that order. Stroked by Rusty Rudub and boosted by Al Duval, the four included Tony Petrovich and Louis Lukanovich, members of the 1951 Danish world championship four.

WHIPPER WATSON — FRED ATKINS

Two ancient foes of the rasslin' ring will clash again in Memorial Arena tomorrow night when the Watson - Robert duo, newly-crowned tag team champs of Canada hrawl with Fred Atkins the rock-ribbed biskn from "down under" and his villainous palsy-walsy Nanjo Singh, the Terror of Hindustan. Better wear the bullet-proof vest because there's going to be fireworks but plenty when the foursome gets together. Stamn Stanlee the strattin' "Mr. America," meets up with Robert Duranton, the handsome Frenchman, while Ilio DiPaolo, dashing Italian, clashes with popular Billy Stack.

Four Crews Survive 'Eights'

HENLEY, England (AP) — Merton College of Oxford, two American eights and a German rowing crew were among survivors in competition for the Thames Challenge Cup which started in a thunder-storm Wednesday at the Henley Royal Regatta.

Merton College won its heat over Downing College of Cambridge.

Princeton University's 150-pound crew had to extend itself mightily to defeat Balliol College of Oxford.

East School of the United States won over Trinity College of Dublin.

The German crew, the Rudergesellschaft Flersheim-Rumlsheim beat King's College of London easily.

WINS BOTH HEATS

NORWICH (CP) — Betty Jane Brook, a sprightly maru owned by George Lerman of Clinton, featured the annual Norwich Dominion Day race when she took both heats of the third event and paced the fastest mile of the day. 2.12 3-5 in the first heat.

Canadians Open Sports Field Dominion Day

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—Canadians in Korea celebrated July 1 with a ceremonial parade, receptions, and the official opening of a sports field. Representatives from all Canadian units in Korea and Japan attended.

The honor guard in the parade was commanded by Capt. Les Basham of Calgary. Taking part were men from all units in the 25th infantry brigade.

Brig. Jean Allard, brigade commander, christened the new sports field Maple Leaf Park in a ceremony which followed a one-minute silence in memory of fallen comrades.

Each unit of the brigade sent at least six truckloads of spectators to watch the athletic contests which followed.

L.Cpl. Bob Palmer of Calgary, from the dental unit of the Royal Canadian Regiment, was acclaimed best athlete of the day.

The Patricias' band made its last public appearance in Korea before leaving for a two-week tour of Kure and Tokyo in Japan.

The entire 59th field squadron of the Royal Canadian Engineers paraded to receive from Brigadier Allard a plaque, commemorating the 15th anniversary of their corps. The plaque contained replicas of badges of every unit in the brigade.

In Tokyo, Canadian Army staff members held an afternoon reception for Canadian and other national dignitaries.

HOUSEWIVES' UNION

SOUTHAMPTON (AP) — Mrs. Walter P. Reuther, wife of the CIO - president, said Wednesday housewives should have their own trade union. Then she regretfully added: "My husband has never got around to organizing it." Mrs. Reuther and her husband arrived here en route to Stockholm for an international labor convention.

Four Killed In Car Crash Near Tilbury

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Four persons were killed Wednesday and four others injured when a truck and car collided head-on three miles from Tilbury, about 15 miles west of Chatham.

Dead are: Wilfred LaJoie, 69, and Shirley Amy, 17, both of Windsor; Gary Steele, 16, of Camden township, Kent county and James McCarthy, 17, of London, Ont.

McCarthy died in hospital here five hours after the accident.

Injured are: Shirley Green, 18, her sister, Velda, 17, Gene Mildert, 29, and Lorne Steele, 21, a brother of Gary, all of Windsor.

Shirley Green suffered serious head injuries and is in "critical" condition, hospital officials said. Her sister suffered facial and other injuries.

Steele, driver of the car, suffered head lacerations and his condition is not considered serious. Mildert, driver of the truck in which LaJoie was a passenger, escaped with minor injuries.

The accident occurred on highway No. 2.

STOLE FROM MAILS

STRATFORD (CP) — Arthur Mallalieu, 55, a former post-office caretaker, was sentenced Monday to six months definite and three months indefinite for theft from the mails. He pleaded guilty. Police officials said they found a letter containing marked money through the normal mail-handling system at nearby St. Mary's, but the letter was not delivered. On questioning Mallalieu, they found the money in his wallet.

RIDE FREE

CALCUTTA (AP)—Irate streetcar riders, sagged by a fare increase, took over the British-owned Calcutta Tramways Limited today and forced free rides to all. Police watched helplessly.

The Khibitzer

There are numerous systems for estimating the value of your bridge hand; what to bid when to bid voluntarily, where to raise or jump, how to know the time to pass.

The opener shows a certain minimum in this or that. Each raise from there on by other shows additional this or that.

There was argument over the tournament deal shown here:

NORTH
♥A 5
♦Q J 10 9

WEST
♠9 5 2
♥K Q J 9 7
♣K 3

EAST
♠8 7 4
♥10 6 4
♦4 2 7 6
♣10 9 6 4

SOUTH
♥9 6 3 2
♣A Q 8 7 3

Tables that went down at three no-trump claimed it was due to hard luck. Actually, this was not so. Rule bidding requires them to reach game. But in a suit contract of four spades.

This is how the bidding should go:

South	North
1 C	1 S
1 NT	2 D
2 NT	3 S
4 S	Pass

The north first reply may be has more than two tricks. But it was not a raise in number. So it did not consume any of his tricks in excess of the two he is assumed to have before he bids.

His two diamonds over one no-trump was a raise in number. This used up a third trick. His three spades over two no-trump was another raise in number. It used up his fourth and last trick.

The south opening showed five tricks inclusive of four highs (no-trump tricks). His forced one no-trump showed nothing more. His voluntary two no-trump admitted having a fifth high (no-trump trick.)

His four spades increased the number and showed an additional trick. Only when north rebid spades did south have support for this suit. Poor bidding accounts for much of the bad luck.

Win By-Election

ABINGDON, England (Reuters) — The Conservative government Wednesday won a by-election in this "safe" constituency, retaining its slender 19-vote majority in the House of Commons.

Abingdon is traditionally a Conservative seat, but the Labor party did it had a good chance this time because of the thousands of workers at the nearby Harwell atomic establishment.

The Conservative candidate, Airey M. A. Neave, polled 22,986 votes. Labor candidate Ted Castle had 17,126 and George R. Allen, Liberal, 3,060.

This gave the Conservatives a plurality of 1,860 over Labor—compared to 4,883 in a straight fight at the last election—and a majority of 2,200 over the combined opposition.

The contest was caused by the elevation to the peerage of Sir Ralph Glyn, Conservative.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your day's schedule, the "musts" and the less imperative. Keep emotions under sensible control. Day mostly what you make it.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — A taxing down of several planets' benefic vibrations; you are advised to be patient, industrious, conscientious. Financial transactions cag advance.

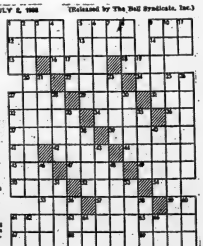
April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Watch, listen before launching out into something new. Allocate your tasks, —the most important first, then secondary affairs will come easier. Familiar names favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Better to finish incompleted work and other matters than to start new ones (unless urgent) now. May not be a whirlwind day, but steady, sincere applications will help.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Best to conserve energy and emotions, but tend carefully to duties, assigned tasks. Don't wander aimlessly, be purposeful. Don't fret.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Clear desk, tackle incompleted tasks; get things in shape for the week-end without worry or strain.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Can be responsive period for sound finances, but day generally requires most shrewd management of all important affairs. Don't strain!



September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Check carefully your [illegible]

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Urafhs advises no undue changes from that running smoothly and profitably. But it will be wise to check for improvement needs. Be quick to seek them.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You are in same boat with most of us now. Discretion, patience required. And don't reach for the Moon; then you will be satisfied.

YOU BORN TODAY: Bright, personable, sincere. A sound individual if you live true to your heritage and follow God's laws in what you do. A delightful companion; pray that you will always be true to your fine qualities and God will bless you. Always ask His blessings, be grateful for them and you cannot lose. Birthdate: Henry [illegible] Irish statesman.

RAILWAY BRIDGE

Few families had hot lunches. The cut caught dozens of women at their preparations for the this "afternoon's royal garden party. Tatal floms had not yet all cost at public transport continued stalled.

Engineers restored power to some suburban areas after an hour. But early afternoon the city centre still was paralyzed.

Track Ripped Up

The large charge on the railroad bridge near Clarendon in County Down ripped up 250 yards of track—despite the fact the Royal Ulster constabulary had been maintaining a special guard all along the railway.

The explosion was heard across the frontier in the Irish Republic, where the authorities immediately placed their frontier guards on the alert and rushed reinforcements to the border.

The railroad planned to run 60 special trains into Belfast today so that as many Irish as possible could see Queen on her various drives through the city. Many of these specials were to run over the demarcation line coming over from Dublin bringing 800 Irish veterans of the British forces to see the Queen.

The first train from Dublin after the explosion reached Belfast only five minutes late and breakdown gangs worked to repair the line as quickly as they could. It seemed inevitable that big delays on the crowded line—one working party on single track—would build up during the day.

Telephone wires beside the line were blown down and five granite blocks were shifted in the bridge, which runs over a road at a height of 25 feet. One block was blown right out.

Semb Home-Made

The bomb, apparently home manufactured and set to explode by a time mechanism, went off on the main line to Belfast, about three-quarters of a mile inside Northern Ireland.

Flass Unchecked

The Queen's plans were unchanged by the explosion.

Today she and the Duke drove through bedlagged Belfast streets to the northern Houses of Parliament to receive loyal addresses from the Senate and the Commons.

Besides the luncheon, there also was a ceremony at Queen's University, a parade of war veterans and an RAF fly-past.

Police said they did not fear an

CONSTITUTIONAL

Mr. Drew said the government had "ridiculed" Opposition suggestions in 1949 that sterling-area markets were in danger. Since then, the Liberal majority in Parliament had voted down repeated Opposition proposals to improve lending.

He said Canada's association with the United States was important but "I'm not prepared to put my Uncle Sam's coattails." Britain was a partner worthy of consideration.

Britain was a market of 20,000,000 people who relied on food from abroad and would rather eat Canadian than Russian salmon.

Referring to housing, Mr. Drew said in a Vancouver speech that lower down payments on homes is necessary and possible through co-operation among the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

Speaks on Housing

He said that as premier of Ontario his government increased loans to home buyers which reduced down payments to 10 per cent.

"I believe that whole-hearted co-operation between the federal and provincial governments, as well as the municipalities, arrangements of this kind can be made."

Mr. Low said Canada should support development of an international clearing house to move surplus agricultural products to countries needing them. Failure to satisfy that need would expand hunger and want in the world and furnish communism with a fertile breeding ground.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner had suggested that farmers reduce production to maintain prices. A Social Credit government would increase production to meet the challenge of feeding the world's hungry.

Mr. MacDonald said the CCL supports the CCF in politics because many of the things they want cannot be gained by bargaining with employers or striking.

Labor wants full employment, good housing within everyone's means, health insurance, increased pensions and higher old age pensions. Those were legislative matters.

"And if we expect to get them, there's only one way and that's by electing to Parliament the kind of government that believes in these things too."

CHEESE, BUTTER

The new butter quota limits imports from all countries to 707,000 pounds. New Zealand is allowed 382,000 pounds, Denmark 212,000, and 163,000 pounds is the group total allowed Canada, Argentina, Australia, Finland, Norway, Sweden and Switzerland. The U. S. agriculture department did not break down the 163,000 pounds into allocations allowed the last seven countries.

U.S. Lardors Belgo

The U.S. has imposed the curbs at a time when U. S. lardors are bulging with huge surpluses of cheese, butter and milk products. Canada expressed the fear the surplus pressure might be dumped into the channels of world trade, seriously affecting the established markets of dairy export countries.

The butter restrictions are effective until June 30, 1954, and are part of general restrictions recommended by the U.S. tariff commission and applied by the Eisenhower administration under provisions of the agricultural Adjustment Act.

The Canadian protest, presented to the U. S. state department by Canadian ambassador Hume Wrong, called the new restrictions "severe" and said they are bound to raise grave problems not only for international trade but for the whole structure of international co-operation.

WILD RIDE

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A 12-year-old boy experimented with the controls of a steamroller while the operator was absent. He driver heard the big machine rolling purposefully, and grabbed the youth before the roller toppled over a bank.

Diesels Triumph Over Glen Roys By 8-1 Score

Behind the three-hit pitching of Al Adams, C.N.R. Diesels creamed Glen Roy 8-1 at the C.N.R. field in a postponed City District fastball League game Tuesday evening.

The Trainmen took the lead in the second inning, pushing across two tallies on a home run by Vern Goyer, a double by Whiting and two singles. They added two more in the fourth on three walks and a single. They scored one in the fifth on a single and a walk and their final three came in the ninth, on a walk, an error and a home run by Bender.

The Glens lone tally came in the sixth when Carr slammed a home run with nobody on base.

Vern Goyer led the winners at the plate, slamming out a home run, a triple and a single. Hunter shared batting honors with three singles. Adams helped his own cause with two singles. Sword touched the ball for two singles while Whiting gave the ball a ride, getting a double for his effort.

For the losers Carr clamped solo the ball for a homer, scoring the only run of the game for the Glens. G. Goyer and Batchelor each touched Adams' slants for singles.

Adams went all the way on the hill for the Trainmen striking out five and issuing three free passes. Bob Green started for the Glens and he threw out three batters before struck out two and walked five. Radner went the rest of the way striking out two and walking none.

The only twin killing of the game came when Batchelor caught a pop up and stepped on first base to catch the runner Dunfordred.

Lineups:

C.N.R.: Rossley cf; Rowboltham ss; Hunter 3b; Goyer V, Goyer lb; Whiting 2b; Sword as, Hunter lf; Bender rf; Adams p.

Glen Roy: Barclay lf; Carr 3b; G. Goyer 1b; Batchelor 2b; P. Green c; Day rf; Jones ss; Kellett cf; Green p cf, rf in fourth; Radner p in fourth;; Soules cf in fourth; Belnap in ninth.

St. Paul's United Church Continues Centennial Services

By MRS. PERCY MACMULLEN (Rawdon Reporter)

RAWDON.— On Sunday, the Centennial service of St. Paul's Woman's Missionary Auxiliary and St. Paul's Woman's Association was held in the morning. The church was decorated with roses and sweet William.

The pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker, traced the history of these two organizations from their early beginnings.

In 1885, the first missionary auxiliary was organized at St. Paul's with 16 members and these ladies carried on in haphazard fashion until 1893, when a new set of officers included the late Mrs. James Currie, as corresponding secretary.

In 1918, St. Paul's celebrated their silver anniversary dating from 1893 and in that period there had been eight presidents, Mrs. William Montgomery being the president for 16 years, and Mrs. Currie served for the 25-year period as corresponding secretary.

Charter Members

On Sept. 9, 1943, the 50th anniversary was held and the two surviving charter members, Mrs. Robert Girdwood and Mrs. James Currie, were presented with corsages. A picture of these two ladies (now deceased), appears in The Centennial Year Book.

A silver tea was held in 1950 to mark the silver jubilee of the United Church of Canada.

The president of St. Paul's Auxiliary, Mrs. Walter T. Elliott, extended a gracious welcome to the visitors.

Rev. Mr. Baker synopsized the work of the sister organization and eulogized the work of the women which probably began as a Ladies' Aid about 1820. Many of these brave women rest from their labors in neglected cemeteries, but they were loyal to their church and set an inspiring example to others.

In 1925 the Ladies' Aid changed to (Woman's Association) with Mrs. Carleton Wright, as president. In 1950 this group conferred a Life membership on 25 members who had served continuously for 25 years or longer and a special church service was held to commemorate this occasion.

Mrs. Albert Wells is president in centennial year and she gave the children's message, while Mrs. E. Baker provided the music and the Junior Royal choir sang, "The Flower Carol", and the Senior choir rendered "God is a Spirit."

Mrs. Lincoln Elliott, Tweed, vice-president Belleville Presbyterial W.M.S., offered prayer and Mrs. M. Davidson, president, Belleville Presbytery W.A., sang "In My Father's House are Many Mansions."

His Honor Judge H. S. Mott was unable to give his message due to illness.

Fraserval Visit

St. Paul's United Church was the means for a large gathering from Frankford, Stockdale, Zion and Batawa, on Sunday evening with their minister, Rev. Roy McEachern. Seventy-five years ago five Methodist ministers resided in Stirling and carried on activities which covered the Frankford charge, and as far south as Peel Town.

The magnificent work carried on by ministers and local class leaders forms a fine record of Christian service and this was commemorated Sunday eve at St. Paul's in connection with their centennial.

Miss Barbara Silckle presided at the console of the organ and a composite choir from the four appointments numbering over 40 persons occupied St. Paul's choir loft.

Mr. E. Wallace led the song service of old hymns and the choir rendered two selections under his direction.

Mrs. Arthur Dunson sang "Silent Voice" with Mrs. G. Leatherland as her accompanist.

Farewell Message

Rev. R. McEachern, who is leaving Frankford to assume duties at the Oneida-York rural charge near Hagerville, gave his message from the four appointments.

The speaker spoke on the theme "Ourselves" and in his opening remarks, he gave several items from the United Church catechism. He pointed out that man does not have to do wrong and that if he wishes he has the power to resist temptation. God has a magnificent estimate of man, and nowhere does the Bible give excuses for wrong-doing. Mr. McEachern gave illustrations of professing Christians in this day and aptly pictured the high standard of Christian living set-up 100 years ago in the days of Methodism. He voiced the established truth that no one can have a great religion unless they have a great conception of God and are ready and willing to carry on God's high purpose in the church life of today.

In his farewell note he challenged the young people to set up a high standard of Christian living and to carry the torch into the future as co-workers in the Master's vineyard.

The ancestors, who 100 years ago laid good religious foundations, are worthy of greater accomplishments for Christ and His Kingdom and it is up to the sons and daughters of today to loyally carry on and build greater and better. . . .

The old hymn "Blest Be The Tie", was most appropriate for this farewell service.

Rev. R. H. Bonisteel, pastor of Hawdon circuit, was in charge of the closing exercises after which a fellowship hour was held in the church dining hall.

Next Sunday, is "Old Home Day" in the morning and Baptist recognition at "Hubble Hill" in the afternoon and at St. Paul's in the evening.

Many Fugitives From Prison Camps Eager to Return

Fear South Korean Reprisals So Few Will Give Selves Up

By ROBERT GIBSON

SEOUL (AP)—Many of the 37,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners who escaped from Allied stockades would gladly return now if assured there would be no reprisals, an official source said today.

Others would return to prison only on direct orders from President Syngman Rhee.

A spokesman who cannot be named said the prisoners who were promised food, clothing and help by the South Korean government are finding it hard to live and work in the wrecked South Korean economy.

Some have been enlisted in the South Korean army, but most drudge sands appear to be headed for army duty, even against their will.

Trucks carried several hundred anti-Communist former war prisoners to the Rhee Government's replacement depot for the third straight day today.

The defence ministry refused to make any statement concerning the former prisoners and the total number that have gone into the army since they were enlisted.

Few Will Return

Few if any of the escaped prisoners are expected to return to UN prison camps.

South Korean officials have said freely that the UN command never will get back the prisoners whose release has stymied an armistice for the Korean war.

Most officials agree that even prisoners who want to return would not do so unless assured by the South Korean government that no reprisals will be taken after their eventual legal release.

As far as it knows, little or no employment has been given to North Korean refugees in South Korea. They seem to be awaiting transfer to an outlying district for work on farms or in mines by the Rhee government.

The only attempts by the UN command to retrieve the North Koreans has been in radio broadcasts appealing to them to surrender to prison camp authorities.

Results Poor

Results have been poor. Fewer than 1,000 North Koreans have been re-taken, and most of these came back within the first 12 hours of their exchange.

The fact that the prisoners have new identification cards, making it possible for them to show they are bonafide citizens of South Korea.

American intelligence agents are believed to have located many of the escaped North Koreans. But official sources say it is unlikely an attempt will be made to recapture them, for fear it would challenge the Korean government's threat to protect the prisoners with force if necessary.

Apparently, the South Korean army has accepted enlistment now as training facilities can accommodate new recruits, since the prisoners now are citizens of South Korea, those who join the enlist will be subject to the draft.

Social Credit Is Now Certain Of B.C. Victory

VANCOUVER (CP) — The finished product of British Columbia's election jigsaw puzzle—a number of pieces are still missing—will be a Social Credit majority government.

Needing 25 seats for a working majority, Bill Bennett's party fought into the unfinished battle holding 21 and leading in eight others. The runner-up CCF held 13 but appeared to be just about out of ammunition.

Social Credit Thursday elected two members on the fifth round. Alex Matthew on Vancouver Centre ballot A and George Tomlinson in the North Vancouver riding. Frank Calder was returned in the seventh ballot count.

These three were the only candidates elected during the day's vote and the standing at midnight, when returning officers called it a night, showed:

Social Credit 21; CCF 13; Labor Progressive 1 and Progressive Conservatives 1. Leading: Social Credit 8; CCF 1. Total 48.

Meanwhile, final results in a majority of the Vancouver seats area's counted to be known until next week because returning officers are bogged down in recounts. B. C. results in second general election in less than a year June 9.

4,000-VOLT SHOCK FATAL

TORONTO (CP)—Alex Krusserlinger, 19-year-old lineman, was killed Thursday when he suffered a 4,000-volt electrical shock. He fell from a utility pole 40 feet high when the accident occurred.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cool dry air sweeps into Ontario Thursday but will gradually be hot, humid weather of the past few days and Saturday. Most of the current series of showers and thunderstorms with the arrival of this cooler air mass sunny skies and lower humidities with afternoon temperatures between 70 and 80 are indicated for most of Ontario today and Saturday. A new development over northern Manitoba will bring more showers and thunderstorms tonight spreading eastward to the Lakehead by Saturday. Air mixing cooler air with the warmer air ahead of it will produce showers or thunderstorms over that area Saturday.

COST-OF-LIVING INDEX CLIMBS HALF A POINT

Increase During May First in Half a Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs rose during May—after a steady half-year decline—with the consumer price index increasing by one-half an index point to 114.9 from 114.4, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The sudden change in the index—based on 1949 prices equalling 100 —was mostly because higher prices of foodstuffs. Price boosts for fresh and cured pork, fresh fruits and vegetables and smaller increases in beef, lard and eggs outweighed declines for butter, canned fruits and vegetables. Rents also climbed.

The cost-of-living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, also increased, rising by 1.2 points to 194.8 from 193.6 in April. This was the first increase in this yardstick after a continuous three-month decline.

Biggest Since 1951

It was the biggest increase in the consumer price index since a jump of four-fifths of a point in December, 1951. The yardstick's peak was 218.2 in December, 1951. High for the current year was 195.5 also in December, 1951.

With food costs rising during May, the food index climbed to 114.1 in October, 1952. The peak was 122.5 reached in 1951. The previous high new index rose by 1.3 points to 111.4 from 110.1. It was the first increase since 1951.

The shelter group, which includes rent and home-ownership costs, rose to a new high of 123.6 from 122.8, following increases in April.

Other sub-groups were unchanged. They were: clothing, at 113.9; household operations at 118.6; and the other commodities and services column at 115.1.

Believed Killed, Soldier Returns After 8 Years

EAST LOFTUS, England (AP)—Herbert Armsby is the first name on the village memorial to its dead to be scored off the list.

But Thursday, more than eight years after he was posted as missing in France, 26-year-old Armsby came home.

Armsby said he lost his memory after being treated in a hospital in Paris, France, in February, 1945. He was taken in by a Belgian family and had been living with them since.

He said he recovered his memory after reading a story in a Belgian newspaper and decided to return to England because he would be classed as a deserter in the army.

However, Armsby said he married a few days ago that the Queen had declared a Coronation holiday and that deserters and

Sir Edmund Hillary Tells How Mount Everest Was Conquered

Sir Edmund Hillary, 34, for the first time tells in his own words how he and Sherpa Tenzing finally conquered. His story, delayed by the Indian government was told to Peter Steinhart. Hesitant explorer pondered who climbed the lower reaches of Everest in the wake of the British Mission.

By SIR EDMUND HILLARY

KATMANDU, Nepal (Reuters)—The story of our final ascent really begins on the morning of May 26 after a rough night on the south col.

Tenzing and I made our way up the walls of the great basin to the southeast ridge. As we toiled forward we came to the tattered remains of the camp set up by the Swiss expedition last year when Raymond Lambert and Tenzing reached 28,215 feet.

We slowly made our way up, looking for a camp site. Your mental processes at this height are not very good even with oxygen and we were getting worried.

Fine Weather

Then Tenzing suggested turning leftwards, recalling a possible site he had seen a little way ahead. We finally reached the place—a slope of 30 degrees. It was good. This camp site was at 27,900 feet as traversed on the way up. The site was at 27,900 feet as traversed on the way up. The site was 27,900 feet above sea level. For two hours we hacked away at snow and ice and frozen rock to make a platform for our tent.

Here we spent the night, half-sitting to brace the tent against the tearing winds.

Sun came with the morning, giving us the weather for the assault. At 6:30 we strapped on our oxygen equipment and pegging and started along the steep narrow ridge winding towards the south summit.

The last 400 feet of the south summit were very steep. Attached by rope, we took turns to rest while the other went ahead cutting steps. Pleased with it

At last, we stood on top of the world. We never got up it. I dropped away at a slope of 40 degrees. On the right great cornices of snow overhung a drop of thousands of feet.

We kept going steadily until we came to a 40-foot smooth-faced rock (about 300 feet off the summit).

It had no footholds and we thought we would never get up it. But on the right side we found a space filled with packed snow. Tenzing drove the shaft of his ice-axe into it and anchored me to it.

By wedging myself into the gap, I managed to force myself up and then Tenzing after it. This section took us to the top of the world.

It was almost a surprise to see the top—a firm snow cone forming the highest point. There was room for several persons to stand. It was 11:30, five hours after we had left the 1924, final camp.

Took Photographs

Tenzing threw his arms around me and we embraced happily.

I took photographs of him holding flags of Nepal, United Nations, Britain, Nepal and India.

I scouted around for signs of George Mallory, but could find nothing to see if they had reached the top in 1924. Perhaps the British prints vanished into the mist near the summit.) There was nothing to be seen on the south.

Tenzing and I sat and stared at the tremendous view. It could see over the jumbled mass of Himalayan snow peaks.

We had condensed lemonade and nibbled mint cake as we sat there gazing out places like the Shekar Dzong and Rongbuk glaciers in Tibet.

By now our oxygen was running short and finally after about 20 minutes we retraced our steps.

Reallocation of Taxing Powers Becomes Issue in Campaign

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

The question of reallocating tax powers between federal and provincial governments returned to the election campaign scene Thursday night.

Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, replied in Glengarry to Prime Minister St. Laurent's statement on the question, made earlier this week in the Maritimes.

Mr. Drew said Mr. St. Laurent "made it clear that he intended to maintain the present centralization over the tax dollar which was established as a war emergency". He noted that Mr. St. Laurent is saying that any reallocation of taxing powers would have to be made by some other government than his.

Meanwhile, Mr. St. Laurent, campaigning in Newfoundland, said the federal government is launching a drive to enlarge the markets for Canadian fish. It was also an important task to put fisheries in a position to compete on world markets.

Need Roads

Mr. St. Laurent said the government has in mind the Atlantic and Pacific provinces. Besides, the federal government has other functions, fisheries had not kept pace with modern progress.

Federal and provincial governments should work together in a vigorous action to put the fisheries on a competitive basis on world markets. That would be a Liberal government's main activity on Newfoundland's behalf in the next few years.

Mr. St. Laurent made several speeches in St. John's and the surrounding countryside, accompanied by Premier Smallwood and John W. Pickersgill, former clerk of the Privy Council who became secretary of state and is running in Newfoundland's Bonavista - Twillingate riding.

World Liquidate Debt

In Bonavista-Twillingate Low, Social Credit leader, said in a speech at a nominating convention that a Social Credit government would liquidate the public debt of Canada.

Bishop Dies

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Rt. Rev. Wilfred William Henry Thomas, 78, first Anglican bishop of Brandon who travelled by canoe, dog sled and on foot to carry out earliest missionary work in north-eastern Manitoba, died in hospital here Thursday.

Bishop Thomas retired from his office at Brandon in 1942, after 25 years as bishop and 53 years in the service of the Anglican Church. His point of consecration, he was the senior diocesan bishop in Canada.

CHINESE TROOPS WIRED TOGETHER TO STOP RETREAT

South Koreans Capture Crest of Lookout Mt.

By MILO FARNETI

SEOUL (AP) — Bayonet-wielding South Korean infantry drove to the crest of Lookout mountain in central Korea today against fanatical Chinese troops, including some who were lashed together with wire.

Officers of the 3rd Republic of Korea Division and Associated Press correspondent John Randolph that infantrymen who swept west of the battered ridge after dawn found a number of Chinese bodies wired together. They could not say how many of the bodies were tied.

The officers said the Chinese apparently had either made a sudden dash to the flanks of about 1,000 Communists or they were wired together to keep them from retreating.

Fighting Continues

Shortly before noon South Koreans dug in on the crest of Lookout mountain in the path of a counter-attack by three Chinese companies who charged up the slope in the wake of a heavy artillery and mortar barrage.

The fighting South Korean attack launched before dawn ousted the Communists from the crest of Lookout mountain, the 8th army said.

The ROKs and Communists have been locked in bloody hand-to-hand fighting for a week in the pocket formed by the Pukhan and Kumsong rivers on the east-central front.

Fighting Continues

Lookout, Finger ridge and Anchor hill are on the west shoulder of the bulge driven in UN lines by the Communists last month.

Eighth Army headquarters reported fighting continued this morning on Finger ridge.

Fighting elsewhere across the rain-soaked front was light.

Heavy overcast held down all but a few patrol actions made along the central states.

The Chinese push across some 15 miles of the east central front during June appeared to have slackened, at least temporarily.

Laniel Pledges More Freedom For Indo-China

PARIS (AP)—Premier Joseph Laniel today handed cards to the representatives of the three associated states of Indo-China, promising them a greater degree of independence within the French Union.

At the same time, the government announced the appointment of a veteran diplomat, Maurice Delaisen, ambassador to Japan, as commissioner-general of Indo-China.

The two moves were a reply to growing demands in the Indo-Chinese states, Cambodia, Laos and Vietnam, which became a part of the French Union in 1949.

The youthful king of Cambodia, Norodom Sihanouk, quit his country in a brief but dramatic self-exile three weeks ago to underline his demands for complete Cambodian independence.

German Radio Says Russian Tanks Sent to Quell Poles

Reports Say Demonstrators Wrecked Movie Theatre

BERLIN (Reuters) — Northwest German radio said today that Russian soldiers have clashed with Polish demonstrators in the areas adjoining the East German border.

The report said demonstrators had wrecked a movie theatre showing a Russian picture. At Kostrin, it added, clashes followed a demonstration aimed at ousting Russian occupation troops.

The United States radio station newspaper in Germany, Neue Zeitung, said it was believed that Soviet tanks, coming from East Berlin, had headed for the border area.

German officials said the Russians had pulled their last tanks from the eastern sector of Berlin last Wednesday. The tanks were sent in on June 17, to quell anti-Communist rioters.

Western Allied authorities confirmed that the last unit was withdrawn "in a northeasterly direction" in the early hours of Thursday, but there was no official confirmation that the tanks had gone to Poland.

Wide Strip Cleared

The Neue Zeitung said Polish border guard fighters reported a 900-yard wide strip has been cleared along the entire East German-Russian frontier, and this area is patrolled day and night by Russian troops with fixed bloodhounds.

These reports bolstered rumors in the Russian sector of East Berlin for days that there is considerable concern in Poland.

One West Berlin newspaper said Polish anti - communist mobs armed with Soviet weapons had spread disorders on the Oder-Neisse frontier area after the East German uprising.

About 100 tanks were reported to have left East Berlin June 25 and since then armored vehicles of every description and Russian soldiers have been withdrawing in organized fashion each night, newspaper correspondents in West German government reported.

Never Abandon Fight Half-Way Rhee Declares

By SAM SUMMERLIN

SEOUL (AP) — Korean truce talks were stalemated today as President Syngman Rhee clung stubbornly to his demand for a united Korea and said he "will never abandon the struggle halfway."

In a plea recorded by CBS, Rhee called on the United States to back him, and promised that his people "will keep fighting and dying" in the battle against communism.

The South Korean people will never swerve from the original objective of our common cause," he said. "We cannot afford to rest or halt until we consummate the one democratic world."

Rhee's plea came after a 65-minute morning meeting with U. N. envoy Walter S. Robertson—their seventh session in four days.

The U. S. envoy source said Robertson rejected Rhee's demand for more than a 10 point political conference doesn't agree within 90 days to set up a united Korea.

After the conference Robertson told newspaper men:

"The conversations are continuing. I expect to see President Rhee again."

No time has been set for the next session.

Even if Rhee and Robertson reach agreement, the UN must get the Communists to sign the truce.

The Reds apparently were ready until Rhee freed 27,000 anti-Red prisoners last month.

Since then, they have balked, demanding the almost-impossible recapture of all the prisoners and positive assurance of UN control over South Korea.

The UN answered the Red demands Monday and called for a quick signing of the present armistice, but there has been no official Red reply, nor any indication when they would. Unofficially, North Korea has expressed displeasure with the UN answer.

In more than a week of U. S.-South Korean talks, Rhee has refused to tempt his demand for a guaranteed unification of North and South Korea. The U. S. has pressed for a political conference as peaceful means, but won't promise to go back to the political conference doesn't agree within 90 days, a high source said.

Meanwhile, observers predicted Robertson will start his homeward flight from Washington within a few days—successful or not. The UN has indicated it will not wait for the political deadline say holdout by Rhee.

The U. S. ambassador, political associates said Prime Minister Nehru may urge the UN to set a truce deadline unless Rhee comes into line by Monday.

Queen Mother Brings Message From Elizabeth

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Queen Mother Elizabeth arrived by a personal message to Britain's central African territories from the Queen.

The Queen's message said that the purpose of the Queen Mother's visit was to show how much she was here. It said, "I have such happy memories of my visit to Southern Rhodesia in 1947 that it gave me real pleasure to become the patron of the Rhodesian Jacaranda Festival, a festival of beauty and peaceful means, but won't promise to go back to the political conference doesn't agree within 90 days, a high source said.

Princess Margaret's Friend Moved, Seen as Answer to Romance Gossip

LONDON (Reuters) — Buckingham Palace officials today were tight-lipped about Group Capt. Townsend, royal equerry whose official status say it is unlikely has recalled earlier talk linking him romantically with Princess Margaret.

We cannot say anything about the ins and wherefores of this case," said Cmdr. Richard Colville, palace press secretary.

The air ministry Thursday announced the posting of the good-looking 38-year-old air ace, long a friend of the princess, had been appointed air attache to the royal visit to Brussels.

Capt. Townsend, who is married and has two children, one of them a godson of the late King George VI. The wife has since married his co-respondent. John de Lazzio, son of a famous portrait painter.

Rumor about the affair cites the fact that Townsend divorced his wife and divorce is taboo in royal circles.

He divorced his wife, formerly Rosemary Pawle, last year after a marriage lasting 11 years. They had two children, one of them a godson of the late King George VI. The wife has since married his co-respondent. John de Lazzio, son of a famous portrait painter.

Named Air Deputy

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme commander, Allies powers in Europe, announced today the appointment of U. S. Gen. Lauris Norstad as air deputy at SHAPE.

Authoritative sources said the change was adopted primarily so that atomic air warfare could be brought into the SHAPE curriculum. Norstad succeeds Air Marshal Sir Hugh Saunders of the RAF.

Shh ! Can't Tell Who Won Election To Folks in West Until Polls Close

OTTAWA (CP)—A new federal government may be voted in by the time the polls close on the Prairies and British Columbia.

However, the people in those provinces won't know the result until their polls close.

A provision in the Federal Election Act prohibits publication or broadcast of election returns in any province before the polls are closed. Canada has four time zones, speeding over Canadian Press wires that election returns in one province might will be held unpublished in newspaper offices for varying times.

Canada has seven time zones and the Election Act provision was enacted to prevent returns from the East influencing the vote in the West, where the polls close later.

The closing time for all polls is 6 p.m., local standard time, or 7 p.m., local daylight time. This means that the first polls to close will be those in Newfoundland where the time is 30 minutes ahead of Atlantic time.

Following Newfoundland in closing will be Maritimes, which are on Atlantic time, Ontario and Quebec on eastern time, Manitoba on central time, Saskatchewan and Alberta on mountain time, British Columbia on Pacific time and the Yukon on Yukon time. Polls in the Yukon will close at 8 p.m. two hours after those in Newfoundland.

In 1949, The Canadian Press reported, the last polls closed in federal government at 8:18 p.m. EDT, one hour and 18 minutes after polls closed in British Columbia.

The provision forbidding publication of returns in any province before its polls close was written into the Election Act following the 1935 election.

Broadcasting, as well as publication, is curtailed by the provision. The CBC will broadcast returns in the East and gradually expand its network westward as the hour in various parts of the country.

Fine Modern Service Station Opened Today by Carl O'Hara

A modern gasoline and service station, incorporating a host of new, beautiful and useful features was made its official opening today.

The station, located on the southeast corner of County Road and Dundas Streets is the most complete and modern station for the Imperial Esso products in this district. The business, operated by Carl O'Hara, is under the same management.

Complete remodelling of the physical layout of the station affords a clean, bright, cheerful atmosphere surrounded by ample parking space that can be lighted at night by bullet spotlights on towers.

Two islands of gasoline pumps in front of the station afford maximum efficiency in the sale of regular, premium and oil, while the district's fire diesel fuel tank and pump for the supply of diesel fuel to highway transports completes a pumping island on the Church Street side of the station.

Pleasantly Decorated

The station itself is white with jaunty blue and red trim, labelled "Imperial" in red letters against white panels. Illuminated fluorescent lighting in the main office is supplemented by bullet-type spotlights. A wide view is afforded the entire area through floor to ceiling windows.

The pit room, its modern styling completed with 16 tilt-top doors, is capable of handling all sizes of vehicles. Each stall has the latest model twin post hydraulic hoist, as well as the finest Alemite servicing equipment, each complete service.

A complete line of batteries tires and accessories is also available.

A likelihood floor mat rooms in the station would do credit to the most modern of hotels. The lounge, with its addition to large mirrors with indirect fluorescent lighting, has curved-topped, Arborite-surfaced vanity table with metallic frame, surmounted by wide mirrors.

The station's rest room is slightly less elaborate but just as neat.

In addition to all the finest features of modern auto service, O'Hara's will continue their round-the-clock 24-hour vehicle pickup and delivery service, and their specialized passenger car and truck tire service.

Experienced Management

Carl O'Hara, the new station is Carl O'Hara, who has been employed by Imperial Oil for the past 15 years, four of them as manager of the old service station location.

Mr. O'Hara was born in 1913 and educated in Trenton, and prior to moving to Belleville 20 years ago, lived in Algonquin Park and Connecton.

Mrs. O'Hara and the father of one son who was recently married. He is a member of the Trenton Lodge No. 283, the Independent Order of Foresters, the Canadian Order of Foresters and Tabernacle United Church.

Tweed Creamery Gutted by Fire, Cause Unknown

TWEED — The Tweed Creamery, owned by S. A. McCarey, former warden of the county, was gutted by fire which broke out Friday morning. The fire was discovered by some men waiting on the platform of the C.N.R. station for a four o'clock train and the alarm was quickly given.

The brigade, under P. Claude Barnett and his son William, soon responded and although the interior of the creamery was badly damaged the brigade was able to bring the blaze under control. The apparatus, owned by the home of Harry Rogers, situated in close proximity to the creamery.

Cause of the fire has not been determined although the fire started near the boiler room but not in it. It is understood the loss is fully protected by insurance.

Farmers brought their cream to the creamery this morning, not knowing about the fire until arrival and means have been taken to have the cream processed into butter in other factories around the district until repairs can be made.

Fourth Casualty In British Cabinet

LONDON (Reuters) — Duncan Sandys, minister of supply and son-in-law of Prime Minister Churchill, suffered a mild heart attack Thursday night for a minor hand operation.

Sandys, 45, is the fourth casualty in the ranks of Churchill's cabinet. Churchill himself is resting under doctors' orders; Anthony Eden, foreign secretary, is convalescing after an operation in Boston, Mass.; Harold MacMillan, minister of housing and local government goes into hospital next Monday for a medical check and possibly an operation.

Sandys hopes to be back at his office by Monday. He was earlier reported to be suffering with foot trouble, the result of a war injury, but it has been decided to postpone this operation indefinitely.

Rush of Cool Air Sweeps Into Ontario
TORONTO (CP)—A rush of cool dry air swept into Ontario Thursday night and brought welcome relief from the hot wet weather of the last few days.
Originally forecast as a series of thunderstorms, the cool air front which developed in northwestern Ontario moved south ahead of schedule and brought clearing instead of darkening skies over the southern half of the province.
Sunny skies and low humidity were forecast throughout most of Southern Ontario today and Saturday, although a new development over northern Manitoba is expected to move into northwestern Ontario tonight, causing increasing cloud-

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices weakened slowly in light forenoon trading today.

Industrials improved slightly in a follow-up of Thursday's mild advance. Western oils failed to continue their upswing and settled lower with golds and base metals.

Volume for the first hour of 402,000 shares was lowest since Dec. 25.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals fader. Britalta, Consolidated Canadian Faraday, Dominion Scottish Investments and Nesbitt Labine showed a small gain.

Activity in industrials was concentrated mostly in the mixed utilities section.

Golds lay dormant in all but a few issues.

Base metals weakened after a firm open. Falconbridge resisted the trend to post a fractional gain.

Western oils slipped back in two out of three issues traded with Federated Petroleum, Home Oil, Gridoil and Anglo-Canadian showing losses. Charter and Jasper advanced.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Receipts of cattle were down slightly from last week at the Toronto cattle market this week. Cattle prices dropped $1 to $2 following the market to its lowest prices since 1948. Calves were $2 to $3 lower in spots while lambs were also held steady. Hogs over at the close was 800 cattle. The market was closed today, 1.

A light cattle run of 4,227 head was added to the carried forward from last week. Large Speckled Trout Caught In Tobe Lake

TORONTO (CP)—Jack Oldfield of nearby Bolton recently caught a speckled trout in Tobe lake, north of Sudbury, which may set a Canadian record for 1953.

The fish, caught with a small red-eye wiggler, weighed 19½ pounds overweight, officials of the Ontario department of lands and forests at Cayuga, and that was after it had been gutted and gilled. Oldfield estimates the original fish's pounds when caught.

The world record for speckled trout was set in 1915 when Dr. D. Cooke of Fort William pulled one weighing 14½ pounds from Nipigon river. Last year's largest in Ontario weighed eight pounds, nine ounces. It was caught by Winfred Laine of Port Arthur in the Nipigon.

Trophy Playoff Will Take Place In Near Future

Keen competition featured the play for the Belvedere Trophy at the first of the month Golf and Country Club on the holiday.

In fact, it was so close that two couples tied for the silverware with a net score of 76. The playoff will take place in the near future.

Dividing the mixed foursome honors were Spence Wonnacott and Barbara Graham and John Rywak and "Phil" Fiddes.

Upwards of thirty players took part in the tournament.

T. A. Carruthers won the Tip Top Tailor trophy with a thirty-six hole score of 143 net. This was one under par for the course.

The C. B. Morgan trophy, awarded annually to the best player with a handicap of 15 and over, will take place on Monday. The draw will be posted on the club bulletin board tomorrow. Players will tee off early in the day.

Mackenzie King Not Statesman Crerar States

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Hon. T. A. Crerar, 77-year-old senator and for 18 years a member of the Cabinet of the late Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, claims his former leader was not the "statesman" he appears to be in Bruce Hutchison's book, "The Incredible Canadian."

The Manitoba senator, who Mackenzie King appointed to the Upper Chamber in 1945, has written a review of parts of the Hutchison book for the International Journal, quarterly publication of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs.

Senator Crerar suggests that Mackenzie King died three years ago, was not a statesman in the sense that Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Robert Borden and Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen were statesmen.

Enjoyed Good Luck

The record-breaking Liberal leader was extraordinarily skilful political manager, but "even here the goddess of luck smiled more than Mr. Crerar writes.

From his long political association with Mackenzie King Senator Crerar writes that Mr. Hutchison's book has created had "a sense of Mission" that developed his inner confidence and drove to the success he achieved.

"For what purpose?" Senator Crerar asks. "Was the basic governing principle the public good? That is indeed doubtful. Rather it seems to me to have been the determination to succeed, bring to a pinnacle the prestige of the family name."

Other Reflections

Senator Crerar describes Mackenzie King as "utterly ruthless, and this ruthlessness he never had always to do with public policy." In this he is in agreement with the Hutchison book.

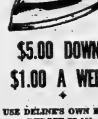
But he describes as "inadequate" the Hutchison handling of the episode in 1926 when the then governor general, Lord Byng, refused to grant Mackenzie King dissolution of Parliament and called on Meighen to form a government when the Liberals were in trouble over revelations of scandals in the customs department.

Mackenzie King should have been granted dissolution, Senator Crerar writes, but nevertheless Byng was constitutional right in not granting it.

Mr. Meighen formed a short-lived government and the subsequent election was fought on the constitutional issue raised by Byng's refusal to accept the advice of the prime minister. The customs scandals were forgotten.

Scandal Forgotten

"If the election of 1926 had been fought on the customs scandal there is little doubt in my mind that his (Mackenzie King's) leadership would have terminated within or by 1930."



"He would in all probability have disappeared from our political picture and 'The Incredible Canadian' would never have been written."

Senator Crerar said the Hutchison book was "not a biography in the real meaning of that term." Mr. Hutchison had no access to any official papers."

JAIL 7 FOR THEFTS

STRATFORD (CP) — Seven youths, ranging in age from 16 to 22 were sentenced Thursday by magistrate A. F. Cook to a total of 38 months in jail. The youths, all from nearby Listowel, were convicted on more than 20 charges of breaking, entering and theft.

African Policeman Commits Suicide After Shooting Ford Executive

NAIROBI, Kenya (CP)—An African policeman—not a Mau Mau terrorist—shot and killed an executive of the Ford Motor Company of Canada here Wednesday. The policeman then committed suicide.

Police at first reported that a terrorist had killed J. B. Richards, 48, four hours after he arrived here from South Africa on a business trip. The shooting occurred on Nairobi's main street.

Richards, who is managing director of the Ford Motor Company of South Africa, was standing in front of a sporting goods store when he was shot down. With him on a brief vacation trip, was a family friend, Miss C. M. Oddy, of Port Elizabeth, South Africa.

Police said they were looking at equipment in the store window when the heard a shot, and saw the African policeman facing them with his rifle still levelled.

He took deliberate aim, then was another shot, and Richards slumped to the sidewalk.

Police believe the killer suffered a mental blackout, mistaking a visitor for a criminal. The capital of Kenya is tense these days, after months of terror from Mau Mau raiders.

Richards had come to Nairobi for a conference with other Ford representatives in East Africa. He came to Mombasa with his wife, who flew to Nairobi this morning to make funeral arrangements. She had intended to go on to England to visit two teen-age daughters who are at school there.

Miss Oddy had come to Nairobi when he was shot down. With him on a brief vacation trip.

W. Germans Agree To Repay France For Post-war Aid

BONN (AP)—The West German Parliament reversed itself today and agreed to repay France for post-war economic aid. The decision partly made up for a double blow at French-German relations Thursday when deputies rejected the Saar agreement and demanded return of the Saar.

With Chancellor Konrad Adenauer whipping his supporters into line, the Bundestag (lower house) voted 138 to 107 to approve the section of the London debts agreement providing for repayment of 311,340,000 in economic aid given by the French to their occupation zone of Germany between 1945 and 1948.

While Adenauer was out of town electioneering, the Bundestag Thursday had voted 148 to 135 against accepting the Saar after deputies accused them of "exploiting" and "plundering" their zone. The lawmakers approved the rest of the London agreement, however. But if West Germany promised to pay back a total of $3,276,000,000 in debts piled up since the First World War to 18 other countries. Canada's share is about $1,725,000 with about half already involved.

LUCKY TICKETS

CUPAR, Sask. (CP)—John Kerpaik of Cupar sold a raffle ticket for a 1953 Chevrolet car to John Smith. In return he bought a ticket from Smith on a Regina raffle for an electric clock. The prizes were each drawn on the same day—and they held the winning tickets.

Vic Seixas Wins Men's Singles Tennis Title

WIMBLEDON (CP)—Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, top-seeded American, won the all-England men's singles title at Wimbledon today, defeating Kurt Nielsen of Denmark in straight sets 9-7, 6-4, 6-4.

This was the sixth Wimbledon victory for an American player in the last seven years.

The 29-year-old Seixas, captain of the 1952 U. S. Davis Cup team, had never before won a major tennis title. He came close in 1951, but lost in the American finals at Forest Hills, N. Y., to Frank Sedgman of Australia.

Sedgman won the championship last year, defeating Jaroslav Drobny of Egypt, but the Australian star turned professional last winter after helping his country regain the American Davis Cup squad.

Nielsen, smiling good-natured youngster who never figured to gain the finals in this big Wimbledon show, never gave Seixas much trouble in the first set although he made the Philadelphian play his best.

A standing room crowd of 16,000 packed Wimbledon to watch the final.

NARROW ESCAPE

DRYDEN, Ont. (CP) — Eddie Schultz escaped possible serious injury when his bicycle fell into the conveyor at a paper company's plant here. He was smashed by the machine that strips bark. The youngster managed to crawl off the conveyor before he had risen any great height.

Queen Tours N. Ireland Under Heavy Guard

BELFAST (AP) — The Queen toured the heart of Northern Ireland today under heavy guard.

Security experts checked bridges between Belfast and Londonderry along the 90-mile route the Royal train passed. Security measures were strengthened after anti-royalists damaged a bridge with a time bomb Thursday near the Irish republic border. This incident was "regarded as a protest against the partition of Ireland rather than a direct attack on the young Queen. The bridge was miles from the Royal party's route.

Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh got a friendly reception in the six counties which still owe allegiance to the British crown. The Queen was smiling and calm taking the cheers of the crowds on the third—and last—day of her Coronation tour here.

A giant crowd greeted the Royal party. Troops and police were posted every few hundred yards. The Queen gave no indication of taking notice of—or being disturbed by—the unusual precautions to prevent possible demonstrations by extreme nationalists living in Northern Ireland.

Latta Defeats Shannonville 4-2; Melrose Wins

(Castribuled)

In a scheduled game on their home grounds the Latta team edged Shannonville by the close margin of 4-3. The game was played on Tuesday night; so as to not interfere with the holiday.

Doc Empson started Freddie Scott, who pitched good ball. Shannonville scored one in the second on a walk to Lewis with hits by Stewart and Smith. They added another in the third with Lorne Marcha scoring on Lewis' hit.

Latta scored three in the first on hits by Glass, McCreary and Scott and a walk to Sullivan.

They added another in the fourth with a three-base hit by Scott and a single by Flindall.

Shannonville tied it up in their half of the sixth, but darkness intervened before the latter team could finish their half.

For Latta, Scott with a three-base hit and two singles, McCreary with two valuable and timely singles by Glass, Stewart, Sullivan and Flindal ended the Latta scoring.

For Shannonville, Marcha, Lewis, Howard and Stewart led their hitting.

Lineup: Latta — Glass, T. Ray, Scott, Sullivan, Flindal, McCreary, F. Scott, D. Flindal, Empson, Gowe, Meeks, Reid.

Shannonville — Marcha, Bennet, K. Conley, Sero, T. Hill, G. Lewis, M. Howard, Smith, Stewart, R. Stewart, I. Smith, Les Reid.

On Dominion Day at the Melrose diamond, the Melrose team turned back the Canniton nine by a 9-2 score.

ORDAIN FORMOSAN

Midget Baseball

Continuing their winning streak, the Robb (midget) Rockets increased their win to seven straight last night at the fair grounds. The well-balanced Trudeaus midgets 13-1 in six innings.

St. Dennis buried for the winners, allowing three hits and striking out 12 batters.

Batcheker was the lucky pitcher, giving up the mound to Coe in the fifth frame. They allowed the Rockets only hits and scored six.

Kingston and Hughes each got two hits for the Rockets. Other hits were added by Moore, White, Shaw and Little.

MILK PRICE WAR

RUSHVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Milk was driven from today in this western Illinois community of some 3,000 residents. The price of a quart of milk Thursday was 6½ cents. There were indications it might be lower today. The normal price is 19 to 20 cents a quart. But the price cuts started a month ago between two milk producing companies with each distributor battering reductions made by a competitor.

IMPORTANT DUTY

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—Jury duty probably will never be adequately recompensed financially, Mr. Justice L. D. Currie said in Supreme Court here, after a panel had been selected. "Jury duty is a sacrifice for some men but if you didn't do it then one of the great privileges of our freedom would die," he said.

TOO MUCH CONCERN OVER REDS

There was a time, a decade and a half ago, when an editorial writer on a daily newspaper had a wide variety of international problems arrayed for his daily comment. Today the situation has vastly changed, although not the superficial observer may believe otherwise. So many problems, he will say. The race problem in South Africa, the Mau Mau terrorists in Kenya, the quarrel over the Suez canal, the Iranian oil question, Peron's regime in Argentina, Tito's position in the Balkans, the instability of the governments of France, the quarrel between Pakistan and India over the Kashmir, the Communist threats in Indo-China, the Communist threat in Korea, the Communists in China, the Communists in Germany, the Communists in Poland, the Communists in Bulgaria, the Communists . . .

That is exactly the trouble. No matter what international problem one starts to discuss, sooner or later one runs into the Communists. They are either unceremoniously thrust onto the stage as scapegoats, or the Russian bogey must do the duty. The quarrel between Pakistan and India over the Kashmir, the Communist threats in Indo-China, the Communist threat in Korea, the Communists in China, the Communists in Germany, the Communists in Poland, the Communists in Bulgaria, the Communists . . .

The quarrel between Pakistan and India over the Kashmir, the Communist threats in Indo-China, the Communist threat in Korea, the Communists in China, the Communists in Germany, the Communists in Poland, the Communists in Bulgaria, the Communists . . .

This obsession with the Communist menace, while natural, is hardly helpful in a discussion of any of these problems. For the truth is that if every Communist in the world dropped dead of apoplexy, or repented and went to Christ-mind the Communists. They are either unceremoniously thrust onto the stage as scapegoats, or the Russian bogey must do the duty. Newfoundland Fire Causes $100,000 Loss

SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—A stubborn fire on an oil bunkering pier at East Saint John, on Courtenay Bay, was brought under control Thursday night.

Fire chief H. S. Knight estimated the damage reach $100,000. Loss of fuel and equipment was estimated by Imperial Oil Limited at $10,000. A 5,000-foot stretch of the timber pier, owned by the national harbors board, was destroyed.

Rhee May Split With U.S. After 3-Year War Alliance

By FORREST EDWARDS

SEOUL (AP)—When President Syngman Rhee was told Sir Winston Churchill, a man of his own age, had denounced him in the British Parliament, the South Korean shorted:

"That old man doesn't know-the opium he is over."

That's Syngman Rhee, outspoken, 78-year-old fighter and knok bronchitional father—of the Republic of Korea.

One hundred and 77 years ago Saturday a handful of sweashing American colonies proclaimed their unified independence, went to war, and won it.

Today that nation, the world's most powerful force for democracy and freedom, is on the verge of splitting with the slight, wrinkled, old man who fought all his adult life for the unity and independence of his own small country.

What kind of a man is this Syngman Rhee, who has led his fledgling Republic of Korea to the brink of parting with the United States after three years of fighting together against a common aggressor?

Most Stubborn Man

He is one of the world's most stubborn men. No one disputes that.

He has been imprisoned, tortured, exiled, but he has never wavered in his fight for an independent, unified Korea—first against the Korean monarchy, then against the Japanese conquerors, and now against the Communists.

In his 78 years he has been called many things besides patriot—a revolutionist, a radical, a reactionary, a dictator who has crushed wherever possible those who opposed him even when their motives were as patriotically inspired as his own.

His brand of democracy is not the brand the West knows. He believes in freedom of speech and freedom of the press only when it is not directed against him or his regime.

Held In Custody

Held "in protective custody," today in Seoul's Westgate jail is him a severe dressing down.

Though Prong Ok, Opposition party leader who dared two weeks ago to brand as "unwise" Rhee's release of 27,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war in defiance of United Nations attempts to secure an armistice.

Despite his age, Rhee is not senile. His mind still is quick, active, keen. He has a good grasp of world problems. American diplomats who have pleaded, cajoled and fought with him on truce problems can testify that he is not subject to blandishment, not swayed by persuasion.

His greatest disappointment has been what he considers his abandonment by the United Nations at a time when he considers military victory still possible in renewal of all-out war against the Communists.

He has no faith in a post-armistice political conference, little faith in the success of a "peaceful unification" of Korea.

Has Own Views

He has fought against an armistice on the present battle line since he talks began nearly two years ago. He believes that there is only one justifiable cease-fire line—the Yalu river boundary between North Korea and Manchuria.

At press conferences with foreign correspondents he is good humored, eloquent, and frequently repetitious. If he has a point he wishes to emphasize, he is adept at finding ways to inject it throughout the entire conference.

Although he rules Korea with an iron hand, Rhee is known as genuinely popular with the masses and respected and admired by his own associates.

Their feelings for Rhee apparently extend without question to his Austrian-born wife, 20 years his junior. She is treated with respect by Koreans in Rhee's inner circle.

How much she influences Rhee in affairs of state has long been the subject of conjecture. Only this week, after a competent source said Rhee had reneged on his earlier acceptance of President Eisenhower's offer of aid in return for Rhee's acceptance of an armistice, she called the source and gave him a severe dressing down.

Teddy Sets Record of Some Kind As He Leads Sailor's Life on Ship

MONTREAL (CP)—Teddy is only four years old but he is probably setting international records in his class for travel mileage. In addition he has excellent sea-legs.

The little brown-haired dog—his breed is open to question—was introduced to a sailor's life when he was too young to protest. He was taken aboard the Canada Steamship Lines freighter City of Toronto while just a pup. He has never shown any inclination to abandon ship.

Once left behind at Kingston harbor, Teddy howled on the end of the pier for hours until port authorities put him into a freight shed and telephoned his master, Captain J. Dickey. Teddy spent a miserable few days on dry land until he was picked up on the ship's return voyage.

Years of plying the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence river have served only to increase Teddy's natural gift for the discovery of food. Members of the crew boast proudly that he knows every waterfront eating place from Hamilton to Montreal.

Teddy has learned a few unlady tricks that are necessary for survival aboard a ship. He scrambles up and down ladders with an agility that comes from years of practice and is able to keep his balance even in the heaviest seas. He has never fallen overboard.

Even for a dog, however, there are hard knocks but go with a grizzled seadog's existence. When he first came aboard, the captain said, Teddy did—and in rough weaters still does—get sick as a dog.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Allen Zeller, 26, was fined $15 and costs of $10.50 after he was convicted Thursday of stealing a newspaper from a self-service street corner box.

McCarthy Seeks Spy Suspect List Canada Gave U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Joseph McCarthy today demanded Secretary of State Dulles produce a report on whether Truman obtained a list of 139 suspected spies from the late prime minister King of Canada in 1945. If this was so, McCarthy said, he wanted to know "why these United States citizens were not prosecuted."

Today McCarthy made public a reply from Brownell which read:

"I know of no evidence about whether Canadian officials in 1945 turned over the names of roughly 150 American citizens who were alleged to have been part of an international Communist espionage ring, but I will endeavor to find out whether there is any information in the files of the department of justice or knowledge on the part of anyone connected with the department of justice bearing on this matter.

"Such inquiry will include a check as to whether president Truman ever turned such a list over to the justice department."

McCarthy charged the list was reported to have been compiled from statements made by Igor Gouzenko, a code clerk in the Soviet embassy in Canada who broke with communism and helped the Canadian government a big batch of documentary evidence about atomic spying. Gouzenko was a star witness in Canada's atomic spy trials.

List Was Delivered

The fact that such list was delivered to the U. S. by Canada early in 1946—not 1945 as McCarthy said—was generally known in Washington for three years ago.

Canadian government officials were inclined to shrug off McCarthy's statement that he abandoned such a list to Truman. Such a list, they said, would more likely have gone through intelligence branches of the two governments.

External Affairs Minister Pearson made public the facts of the list in May, 1950.

A notebook found on a Canadian suspect arrested Feb. 15, 1946, contained the names of 150 Canadians, 160 Americans and 100 Britons, plus 118 miscellaneous entries.

Listed 163 Names

The names of the 163 Americans were immediately given to the U. S. government. The names of the five Britons were given to Britain. Among this latter list was Dr. Klaus Fuchs, later convicted of atomic spying for Russia and sentenced to 14 years in prison.

Pearson said the information collected by the royal commission on espionage, including "other notebooks," was supplied the U. S. and British governments.

Surgical Experts Study New Type Artificial Limb

By DEREK FRAGG

KUSTEIN, Austria (Reuters)—British and United States surgical experts are studying a type of artificial limb manufactured here which is claimed to be the closest yet to the real thing.

The inventor is small, wiry Fritz Striede, who began making artificial limbs at Ulma, in the German province of Saxony, and moved his plant to Austria in 1939. In 1932 he began to develop the limb he now is making.

Striede has sought to imitate closely the mechanism and shape of the human leg. The thigh and calf pieces are held together only by tough flexible bands.

A unique feature of the Striede limb is that it is held in place only by the muscular action of the patient's stump, which fits inside the hollow thigh or calf piece. Dependent on the part at which the leg has been amputated. Each hollow attachment must be made individually to ensure a perfect fit. There are no belts, shoulder straps or harnesses.

Muscles Become Strong

In other types of artificial limb, the stump muscles, having no positive function in walking, atrophy and become flabby. But in the Striede limbs the muscles, through having to work, become healthy and strong.

Usually only about two to three weeks' training is needed before the patient is able to use the stump muscles to hold on to the artificial leg. Three weeks to a month is needed to hold on to the limb with the stump muscles alone. Yet when the wearer relaxes the muscles, the limb can be taken off without any support.

To show the manoeuvrability of the Striede limb, one patient lived without any support, bending both legs, one artificial, the other her own, completely double.

"You never have the impression of having an artificial leg" she said. "You think it is your own muscles that are working."

The cost of a complete Striede leg for a thigh amputation is about 1,000 marks. Fitting Striede limbs can ride a bicycle, drive automobiles, run and carry out normal occupations.

Navy Seaplane Lost Off Alaska

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—A twin-engined navy patrol seaplane with 12 men aboard went down today in the Bering Sea near Adak in the Aleutian Islands. Hours later search planes lighted only an oil slick and floating debris.

A naval spokesman said the plane's pilot radioed at 8:50 a. m. (1:50 p. m. EST) that one engine had failed and that he was attempting an open-sea landing in heavy fog and a 30-foot ceiling. The pilot gave his position as about 30 miles northeast of Adak and 1,000 miles southwest of here.

The navy said the plane, a Martin Mariner, was on routine patrol.

PARTS FOR ROSENBERGS

YELLOW SPRINGS, O. (AP)—A sociology professor and former missionary has concluded a 12-day fast in protest of the execution of atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Ralph T. Templin, 55, professor at Central State College at Wilberforce, O., ended the fast Thursday night by drinking fruit juice. He said he had not had anything to drink or eat since June 29, the day after the Rosenbergs were executed.

Private Firms Likely to Build New Power Plants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Majority leader Charles Halleck (Rep. Ind.) announced Thursday tentative plans for the House of Representatives to consider next week a bill to authorize private enterprise to build new power plants at Niagara Falls.

The bill is sponsored by representatives William Miller (Rep. N. Y.) and Georgs Dondero (Rep. Mich.).

Five big New York state private utilities have declared their willingness to build the estimated $400,000,000 project which would virtually triple the present power output at the famed Falls.

The House public works committee, approving the Dondero-Miller bill, rejected other measures proposing that the federal government or New York state be authorized to undertake the development.

If congress approves the private enterprise bill, the five utilities still will be required to obtain the necessary construction licence before the chief of the federal power commission.

Church Paper Claims Queen Works Too Hard

LONDON (AP)—The Church of England newspaper today complains that the Queen is being subjected to "sheer exploitation" by her own subjects.

The weekly publication refers to the official parades, tours and other public appearances which have been going on ever since the Coronation June 2. It says in an editorial:

"Without respite she has endured the strain of one public appearance after another. This would take toll of a strong man. Youthful and resilient though the Queen may be, she is not inexhaustive and is not entirely immune from fatigue."

The Queen is 27.

The newspaper says the Queen's post-Coronation program, which has now taken her to Northern Ireland, "looks like sheer exploitation."

Anybody engaged in public affairs knows well how, with the best desires imaginable, the public can be the cruelest of taskmasters."

Weddings

BADGLEY—ROSS

St. Andrew's United Church, Gilead, was the setting of a pretty summer double-ring wedding on Saturday, June 20, at one p.m., when the Rev. W. R. Merrick, Belleville, united in marriage Carol Arlene Ross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, of Corbyville, and Donald Dafoe Badgley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Badgley, of Corbyville. The church and the appointed with lovely white peonies adorned the altar.

The wedding music was provided by Mr. Garnet Sills, of Corbyville, who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ken Badgley, who sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in the traditional length bridal gown of white slipper satin with French lace jacket having net inserts over a strapless bodice. The princess line jacket was accented by a scalloped neckline and V neckline and long sleeves tapering to V points at the wrists. A white headdress held her embroidered tulle illusion veil and she carried a white prayer book crested with pink Sweetheart roses, ferns and stephanotis.

Miss Shirley Badgley, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor, gowned in pale blue nylon net over taffeta and carrying a nosegay of rosebuds and blue cornflowers.

Misses Jean Dudley and Della Meyers were bridesmaids, gowned in yellow and mauve net over taffeta respectively. They carried matching nosegays and wore matching headdresses.

Miss Linda Ross, niece of the bride, acted as flower girl, wearing pale blue net over taffeta and carrying a small nosegay of rosebuds and cornflowers.

Mr. Irvin Badgley, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. Harold Ross, of Lakefield, brother of the bride, and Mr. Reginald Badgley, brother of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The bride's mother, attired in navy sheer crepe taffeta with navy and white accessories with pink rose corsage, received the guests at the home of the bride. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was attired in pink and blue floral sheer crepe with accessories and wearing a corsage of pink roses.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and New York State, the bride chose a white gabardine suit with navy and white accessories with corsage of red carnations. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Badgley will reside at their new home in Tharlow.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at a towel shower held at the home of Miss Mary Bertrand, Corbyville.

Women's Activities

BEULAH W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of Beulah United W.M.S. was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clarence Reid.

The meeting was opened by the president. After the singing of a hymn, Mrs. A. Reid led in prayer. The supply secretary, Mrs. E. Hollins, reported 25 lbs. of used clothing and two parcels mailed from the Mission Band sent to Lend office in Toronto, also four quilts.

It was decided to have a bazaar and home-cooking sale in Madoc, July 4. Plans were made to hold a service in the church, July 19.

Roll call was answered by 13 members and four visitors.

Mrs. Don Reid was in charge of the following program theme "The Bible and Peace." "The Bible" was read by Mrs. D. Reid Scripture, Psalm 119, by Wayne Reid. "The Bible Advances in South America", by Mrs. R. Twiddy; "My Own Bible", by Mrs. Percy Cooney.

Rev. Thomas Tyson gave an interesting and instructive talk on the Revised Standard version of the Bible, telling why it was written and comparing passages of Scripture from the King James version.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Pr. Edward-Belleville Club Plans Picnic

The June meeting of the Pr. Edward-Belleville Club was held at the Y.M.C.A. with Mrs. F. Bedell and her group as hostesses.

With the president, Mrs. Wannamaker presiding, the business, reading, tribute was paid to, and a memorial held for two beloved members who have passed away since the last meeting—Mrs. Charles Gram, a charter member, and Miss Bessie Spencer, whose sudden death came as a great shock to all. Both will be greatly missed from the circle.

Mrs. Sharp, co-convener for Mrs. Bedell, presided for the program.

Miss Clara Anderson was pianist for several hymns and her two piano solos were much appreciated.

Mrs. J. E. Lee favored with two interesting readings, and Mrs. L. Graham gave "He Joined the Legislature."

During the business period, it was decided to charter a bus and hold the picnic at Wellington Park on Wednesday p.m., July 8th — leaving Belleville at 2 p.m.

Mrs. William Baird was appointed to make all arrangements and each group to be responsible for furnishing two stunts for the program. Mrs. C. Earle invited the group for the September meeting; she will also convene a musical program.

Refreshments were then served by Mrs. Bedell's group and thanks extended to them.

Club Activities

SUNBEAM MISSION BAND

WHITE'S DISTRICT—The Sunbeam Mission Band of White's District held its June meeting recently at Quinte View School with a good attendance.

The president, Grace Goldie, presided. The leader, Mrs. Leonard Young, told a story "A Christian Tells Others of Christ" which told of a little African girl who, as Easter, has attended Mission School for one year in Angola, then she went back and taught others in her village to read and sing and become followers of Jesus.

The worship service was taken from John 20, "World Friends." A prayer was given by Nancy Hockaday followed by responsive reading by the leaders and all the members. Scripture verses were given by Audrey Bowers, Denny Neal, Ronald Ferguson, Nancy Hockaday and Gary Gingras. A prayer "Hands Together" was led by Sandra Farr.

The Flag Day of God" was read by Barbara Goldie

Dianne Dale read "Friends". Wayne Copeland gave a reading "Five Bright Ways" Penniless reading his gift box and pennies to illustrate the story. Gail Gingras read "The Baby Mouse and the Cheese", which showed that it did not pay to be greedy.

A temperance play "A Bad Mistake" was given by Garry Reid as Mr. Brain; Bobby Goodie, as Mr. Stomach; Monty Drouillard, as Mr. Heart; Ronald Ferguson, as Mr. Glass Milk; Clayton Drouillard as Mr. Al Cohol, and Kenny Reid as Mr. Drinks Water.

Mr. Brain said "Friend Muk we are all grateful to you for what you have done for us. You and your cousin, Mr. Water are two of our best friends."

A contest was won by Dianne Dale and Barbara Goldie. "Nyanga's Two Villages" was read by the leader.

Carries Famous Conservative Name Into Fight

OTTAWA (CP)—Sybil Bennett, a Georgetown, Ont., lawyer who heads the national women's organization of the Progressive Conservative party, carries a famous Conservative name into the present political campaign.

The 49-year-old Miss Bennett, a distant relative of the late Viscount Bennett, prime minister from 1930 to 1935, is making her second attempt to return the family name to the Commons.

In her first campaign in the 1949 general election in her home constituency of Halton she lost to the Liberal candidate by fewer than 1,500 votes. For this year's election she began early last fall with a nomination last summer, and since then has made a door-to-door canvas throughout the riding.

Splendid Speaker

Among the largest group of women candidates—seven at last count—ever to enter a general election for the party.

Miss Bennett, who favors smartly tailored suits and ultra-feminine hats, is one of the party's most effective public speakers and this summer is going outside her riding to campaign in other Ontario constituencies.

Born at St. George, Ont., she is the daughter of a Methodist minister who was an ardent Tory, and she has never swerved from the family allegiance.

She was graduated from the University of Toronto in 1926 and after four years at Osgoode Hall law school was called to the Ontario bar. After a term as solicitor with the agricultural development board of Ontario, moved to Georgetown where she became a partner of Leroy Dale in a growing law practice.

Named King's Counsel

In 1935 she was named a King's Counsel—one of the first women lawyers in Ontario to receive the honor—and inherited the gown which had been worn in court by Prime Minister Bennett.

She finds time from her political and legal activities to act as a director of the Peel County Children's Aid Society, and is also a member of her local Women's Institute and the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Club Activities

FULLER M.C.

The Fuller Mission Circle met in the Presbyterian Church Friday evening. Miss Mary Thompson opened the meeting.

Scripture lesson, which was taken from chapter 9 of Hebrews, was read by Mr. Earl Wannamaker.

There were 23 members and 10 visitors present. A donation of $3 was received from Mrs. B. Herity.

Several pictures are to be shown at the next meeting, July 9, by Mr. Stonehouse.

After the children's hymn was sung, readings were given by Mrs. R. Redelmeier, Mrs. Lester and Mrs. Violet Calvert, "A Little Prayer."

Mrs. Earl Wannamaker and Mr. J. McMurray rendered a duet, "Softly and Tenderly". Miss H. Adams then gave a reading, "The Guest." Mrs. Charles Irvine had a Bible quiz, after which Mr. J. McMurray gave a talk on "The Blood of the Lamb."

Mr. McMurray then closed with prayer.

Prize Beauties

Women's Activities

WESLEY W.A.

The June meeting of the Wesley W.A., was held at the home of Mrs. D. Gunn, Trent Road, with eleven members present.

In the absence of the president, the meeting was in charge of Mrs. E. Windover, who also conducted the devotional portion of the program and gave a reading. The June meeting was the date set for the semi-annual copper contest.

The members brought in a total of $13.52. Mrs. Saylor brought in the largest amount and was the recipient of a lovely cup and saucer donated by Mrs. F. Denyes. The next contest is to close at the November meeting.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mrs. Calnan, on July 30.

VICTORIA W.A.

Victoria W.A., recently turned out in almost full force for the regular monthly meeting at the Brickman summer home on the lake shore at Wellington. A pleasant social time was enjoyed on the lawn overlooking the water.

Mrs. Clifford Calnan conducted a sing-song followed by a short business meeting.

Miss Audra Brickman, flower secretary, asked all present to sign a "get-well" card for Rev. J. P. Henderson, Westmount, former pastor of the Redmerville charge. Mr. Henderson has suffered a severe heart attack and is taking a year off from the active ministry to recuperate.

Following the meeting refreshments were served with generous helpings of ice cream and strawberries as supplement, the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Brickman.

Mrs. Calnan expressed the appreciation of the Association to the Brickman family for the pleasant afternoon, so much enjoyed and this was heartily endorsed by all. There was a number of children present who also enjoyed the afternoon by the water.

ELDORADO—UNION M.B.

Eldorado and Union Mission Band the meeting was held at the home of Gail Whyte, with 20 members and four visitors present. Secretary's report was read by Joanne Chidley and the treasurer's report by Raburn Robinson.

Marlene Blackburn offered to take the position of secretary for the remainder of the year, since Joanne Chidley is moving to Alax. It was agreed by all not to have Mission Band during July and August.

Piano solo was rendered by Garnet Chambers. "A Happy Family" was read by Carol Blackburn and "Mildred's Blue Day" by Garnet Chambers; "A Spring" by Wayne Robinson; "Victory's Peace" by Raburn Robinson; "The Sparrow in the Pulpit" by Gordon Hurley; "Ceasar Goes to the Hospital", by Marlene Blackburn.

The worship service was led by Mrs. G. Blackburn and the roll to worship by Patsy Blakely. The Bible verse was read by Gail Whyte. A story by Joanne Chidley on "Peace", and "The Pin and the Needle" by Mrs. G. Blackburn. Mrs. Clifford Chambers read the study book.

Presentation Made

A farewell address was read by Beverley Hurley and Patsy Blakely presented Joanne Chidley with an album containing photos of each member.

Games were played, directed by Marlene Blackburn.

SUMMER SCHOOL

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prof. John Miles Hamilton, formerly of Winnipeg, is directing the five-week Atlantic summer school of advanced business administration that opened at King's College in Halifax. The course deals with problems of business executives.

Women's Institute

CARMEL W.I.

The June meeting for Carmel W.I. met at the home of Mrs. Carl Thompson with 13 members and three visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Levi Latone, presided.

The standing committees were each called on to report:

Mrs. Seldon Homan reporting for agriculture, gave an interesting reading on "June is Dairy Month", and also a reading by Edna Jacques telling about farm life in Ireland.

Mrs. Earl Dafoe, reporting for Home Economics and Health, gave a paper called "Spruce Up Your Life, Too."

Current events were given by Mrs. Rodberg.

Letters and communications were read and discussed.

The program turned the meeting over to Mrs. J. Homans, leader for Historical Research, who gave many readings on the great event of the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II, telling of her history from the time she was a young child.

Mrs. S. Homan gave a reading entitled "Elizabeth the Regina," Mrs. G. Moorman read the speech made by the Queen, entitled "The Queen Pledged to the Throne." Mrs. W. J. Barlow recorded a donation of $5 from Mrs. Murney McInroy, letters of appreciation from Bob Bateman and W. Mudd in Korea. It was decided to send $10 to the Help the Children Fund in Korea. $5 was donated to Help the Blind, and $10 donated to each school section for the purchase of prize ribbons for the children. It was decided to hold a picnic at Glen Allan on July 29, instead of the regular meeting.

Mrs. J. McKeown and C. Spry will be the committee to buy prizes for the picnic.

Mrs. Gordon Webb gave the report of the convention at Ivanhoe.

Mrs. F. Cosbey, convener for education, was in charge of the program. Mrs. K. Johnson gave a splendid paper on "Our Flag". Mrs. J. McKeown gave a talk on giving toasts and when to give them. Mrs. P. Bateman gave a reading on Health, and Mrs. Cosby a talk on Education, which was most interesting.

Mrs. Harold Stiles put on a quiz, "Know Your Canada", and Mrs. Fred McKeown a contest. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Wife Preservers

To keep fresh berries in good condition, pick them over before refrigerating and remove soft and overripe ones. Do not wash them, however. Turn them onto a pie plate so they will have plenty of room to spread out in a layer of moisture proof cellophane to hold the delicate flavor inside the package.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LETTERS AND ANSWERS

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For the past six months I have been in love with a married man four years older than myself. I am 23 and he is 27. He is constantly asking me to go out with him, but so far I have refused, because I don't think it is right to go out with some one else's husband.

Although he has never told me I know he is in love with me just by the way he acts, but I don't think he knows that I am in love with him, because I try to act as though he were just another friend.

It is pretty hard to be in love with a man you cannot have, especially one who is so nice, and I would like to try and forget him but it seems impossible.

L.M.

Dear L.M.:

My opinion is that you are indulging in romantic daydreams when you say you are in love with a man you love with you "by the way he acts." As I see it, the way he acts is just exactly the way any other philanthering husband acts when he wants to enjoy a temporary flirtation. If he were as "nice" as you think, he would be too unprospecting and too loyal to his wife to look for any outside dates. And if it wasn't you he is trying to make them with, it would be some other girl. Maybe, at that, you're not the only one.

You may think it's very sophisticated and mature to imagine yourself in love with a married man, but what you're actually doing is to show him how immature and naive you are to fall for the smooth line of a flirtatious husband. Don't give him the satisfaction. Let him see that you really do know something about the game, refusing to have anything to do with him. You're simply enjoying the thrill of being the temporary object of his attention. I advise you to drop him before he drops you.

They're Of Different Faith—Her Mother Objects

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 23, and have been going with a young man of 25 for four years. We love each other, and want to marry, but my mother is against it because he is not of the same faith as our family.

How can we persuade her that we know what we are doing and that we are sure everything will be all right?

Dear E.R.L.:

While the fact that a husband and wife are of different faiths does not by any means prevent a happy marriage, you must realize that there are different questions involved in such a marriage. Your mother, no doubt has these difficulties in mind, and thinks you have no idea of the conflicts you might be up against if you married someone whose ways of thinking were quite different from your own.

Have you and this young man gone into these matters seriously enough to understand fully what is involved, and agreed on certain basic things on which agreement would be imperative if you were to make your marriage work? If not, I suggest that you go together to the church to which each of you belongs and talk it all over with your priest or minister. Then talk over together what you have learned. Two people who love each other heartily can reconcile differing beliefs of any kind, but it si wiser to do this before, instead of after, marriage. In this way you may be able to convince your mother that you are prepared to handle the situation with maturity, tolerance and understanding.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

Question:

Have you any recipes for syrups which can be used with nothing but water added to make cold drinks for summer? Not milk or chocolate please. My husband works hard and in the dog days he insists on a cold drink for supper. I do not care for—— or the prepared syrups you buy from door-to-door salesmen by. Did you ever bake rhubarb in a deep dish with the addition of nothing but sugar? It is superior to stewed rhubarb. thank you for your trouble and your delightful column.—Mrs. Harry A.

Answer:

The following recipe appeared here last week but it is worth repeating. Thank you for the baked rhubarb idea.

Lemon Syrup (for summer beverages)

Use this for lemonade, mixed fruit drinks or iced tea. Wash 6 lemons, roll them to soften them, grate off the yellow part of the skin. Cut them in halves and squeeze out the juice. To the rind add 2 cups sugar and 2 cups water, and boil for 10 minutes. Cool. Add strained lemon juice, and add 1 teaspoon citric acid (to be obtained in powder form at drug stores).

Spiced Grapeade

Two cups grapejuice, juice of 2 lemons, 2 cups sugar, 1-2 cup water, 1 teaspoon mixed ground spices, cinnamon, ginger and allspice. Bring sugar, water and spices to boil. Remove from heat and other ingredients Serve this syrup diluted with ice water or ginger ale.

Question:

We always have to read Mary Moore's column, it is so interesting. Would you please give a recipe made of entirely Rye flour?—for one who is allergic to wheat? We can make nice muffins or pie but the bread did not turn out good at all.—Marion R.

Answer:

• I'll give you the 100 per cent rye bread formula—but it is very hard to get that light in all times. Would you send me your muffin and pie recipes?

100 Per Cent Rye Bread

One lb 10 oz. rye flour, 6 oz. rye sour (to mix you take this from a rye bread manufacturer for baking), 1 oz. salt, 2 oz. yeast from your first batch for your next batch and so on) 3 oz. oatmeal, 2 oz. salt, 1 pint water, 4 oz. yeast. Mix oatmeal and warm water. Then add rye sour, cool add yeast and stir. Then add rye flour, yeast and salt and then mix very well. This should be mixed by hand. Leave, rye for 20 minutes then form into loaves of bread about 1 1-4 lbs. each. Bake at 400 degrees Fahr. for 1 hour.

This recipe was kindly given to me by a rye baker who makes it for patients who are allergic to wheat.

I thought you might like to have these recipes.

Raisin Cake

(Contributed by V. N.)

Take 1 cup raisins set aside. Cream 1-2 cup butter, add to them 1 teaspoon soda and a cup of hot water. Stir, and let get cool. When cool take 1 cup sugar, 3 eggs, pinch salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 cups flour, 1-2 cup butter or margarine and beat well with raisins, moderate oven for 1-2 hour at 350.

Mayflower Chocolate Cake

(Contributed by V. N.)

Sift and set aside, 1-3 cup white sugar, 2-3 cup sweet chocolate or cocoa. Boil together until consistency of gravy. Allow to cool. One-half cup butter, 1 cup white sugar, 2 yolks, 2 cups flour, 1 heaping teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sour milk. Add cold custard, vanilla, and soda dissolved in sour milk. Bake in three layers at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 or 25 minutes.

Mocha Icing for Cake

One cup icing sugar, 4 tablespoons sweet chocolate. Put together in bowl and add hot coffee to spread and still creamy. Spread between layers and on top of cake.

Note From Emem:

V.N. does not say whether flour is sifted or not—think it should be. In the icing add only 1 tablespoon strong coffee until you see if it beats to a spreading consistency.

Thank you V.N. for giving us these recipes.

Fashion Flashes

Quite a success this year for the large hat, especially when it is pretty and flattering. Burnt straw in the color of a Hydeckrim hat in ballbustle straw, trimmed with rings, flat bows of narrow velvet ribbon in a bittersweet shade.

Attractive and smart on the warmest days in town, or en route, is a classic suit of gray cotton alpaca, the boxy-line jacket polished up with white buttons. Underneath is a sleeveless blouse of matching fabric with sleeveless slip a scoop neckline. Skirt has kick-pleats at sides.

Not easy to pick a cotton print, for there are so many beauties this Summer, such as multi-colored butterflies on a white straw-surfaced cotton. This fabric has been made up into a tucked sheath with a contour belt of self fabric. The dress is sleeveless, has a deep neckline and the skirt is lined with net. With it's a white boucle cardigan sweater with appliques of cut-out butterflies.

Finely fashioned denim is registering this season for city daytime wear. Polka-dotted denim, in white or red on gray, blue, or brown, makes a handsome sheath dress, with piping on deep, wide V neckline, on scoop pockets and on belt, matching the polka dots.

There's flattery in the white hat, which is why white hats are outselling everything else right through the year! White flowers are massed to form a bulky pillbox worn level, and with a widow's peak hairline. Tiny rhinestones and pearls are scattered over the flowers.

Perfect companion for town wear, and ideal for the traveler, is the coat in lustrous silk shantung taffeta which has been water-spot-resistant processed. It is cut on easy lines, and has huge, turned-back cuffs. Under fifty, and it comes in beige, charcoal gray, navy or black.

Open House For Wedding Anniversary

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My parents are to have their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary soon, and we would like to have a celebration of some kind. Our home is too small to accommodate all the relatives and friends we would like to invite. We had thought of having a dinner for our immediate family and those who were members of the wedding party twenty-five years ago. But our problem is how to entertain the other relatives and friends. I was told that it was not appropriate to give an Open House for this occasion. I thought this has been done, but so many people have told me that it is not proper that now I am confused. Are they right? — Dorothy

No . . . these people are absolutely wrong. As a matter of fact, an Open House (or At Home) is the most usual way to celebrate a wedding anniversary. Particularly such an important wedding anniversary as the twenty-fifth, when the idea usually is to invite as many relatives and friends as possible to come to bow their warm-hearted congratulations and best wishes to the "bride and groom."

If the date falls in the middle of the week, and this is not convenient to the majority of the guests, very often the party is held on the Saturday or Sunday afternoon after the date . . . usually from 4-to-7, or perhaps from 3-6 (or?)... With this generous leeway of hours, even a small house will comfortably accommodate the many guests who will want to come on this significant day. In the receiving-line you might have the members of the family and the members of the wedding party of twenty-five years ago.

Girl Should Introduce Boy To Her Parents At Once

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a girl has her first date with a boy should she introduce him to her parents? And if they continue to date for three or four months, is it good manners to introduce him to other relatives of hers,, such as aunts and uncles? (Your answer to these questions is to settle an argument we are having, as some say that this form is old-fashioned. — C.

The well-bred girl, whose manners are just naturally good manners, would naturally introduce to her parents the boy who is a guest in their home. And the mannerly boy would, naturally expect this courtesy. I mean by naturally that fine word "naturally," for it should be second nature to a girl to immediately introduce to her mother and, if possible, to her father, a guest, boy or girl, man or woman, who calls on her in her home. Not to do this is inexcusable . . . but I must add that very often the girl's parents are the very ones who are responsible for this rudeness to themselves. The chances are that, if they had trained her properly, she would make these introductions spontaneously, regard them as a matter of proper procedure. I always feel sorry for a girl who hasn't been brought up to realize that it is the way of charm and grace to share with her friends the background of her home, the devotion and respect she has for her parents.

Later in the friendship, as casual opportunity presents itself, the girl would introduce the boy to relatives and friends of the family, just as she would introduce a girl friend to those in her circle.

Beauty

A Pleasing Voice Contributes To Charm

Women will go to any lengths to make themselves attractive to the eye. And that's all right, precisely as it should be. It makes for a pleasant life to be on good terms with the lady in the looking glass. But how about an appeal to the human ear? Every woman should do a bit of thinking about vocal charm. Not many voices are distinctive. The unpleasant ones aren't always that way because of nature's plans, but because of bad vocal habits. They are pitched too high or have too much volume. In foreign countries, American women have the reputation of being loud speakers. "They're chic, they're pretty, they have nice figures, but listen to them!" That's what they say about us.

Men are susceptible to a voice that is sweet and low. They fall for nice voices as they fall for gay spirits and chic appearance. A charming voice has a romantic appeal.

The woman who speaks in tones pitched correctly and with interesting inflections has a charm asset of considerable value. She is sure up, and rightly, as a well-bred, cultured woman.

Like the singing voice, the speaking voice can be cultivated. Many public speakers have gone through a course of instruction. There are no "dresome exercises; it is a matter of voice grooming, one might say. The purpose is to cultivate clear, pleasing speech. One should speak clearly and distinctly, with no mumbling or sub-bub-ing. You know women, and men too, who seem to have difficulty getting the vocal engine started.

A high, shrill voice can ruin the charm of the most attractive women, while aunt, modulated one can create an illusion of beauty.

To help control your voice, take a deep breath and exhale, saying "ah" in a long sigh. Then, in your normal speaking voice, begin the same way, starting the "ah" very quietly, increasing the volume, then decreasing it until it trails off in a whisper. This is called a "means of voice" in singing. For clear enunciation, say the vowels slowly. Avoid clipping syllables. Read aloud to your family and invite criticism.

Jacqueline Auriol Expected To Challenge Speed Record

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada has been dragged into aviation's battle of the jet-propelled Jacquelines. The flying women's rivalry has been pushed through the sound barrier by a Canadian plane.

In California, Jacqueline Cochran, 47-year-old wife of an American millionaire, flew a Canadian-built F-86E Sabre jet fighter faster than sound.

But probably more important to her was the fact it went faster than the other Jacqueline. Jacqueline Auriol, 33, daughter-in-law of the president of France, had had the temerity to steal Miss Cochran's women's speed record.

Chances are Mme. Auriol now will get herself another jet and do some supersonic hair-pulling of her own.

West in Canadair

The inside story of how Miss Cochran got hold of a Canadian Sabre has not been told. She tried to get a Sabre in the U.S. but couldn't so she came to Canada. She tried the RCAF and was turned down. Then she went to the Canadair plant in Montreal which builds Sabres and finally became a consultant to the company. Then the deals ran easy. Technically she took the Sabre south to make some tests that couldn't be made here.

Jacqueline Cochran has been used to getting what she wants since she took her first solo 15 years ago while working at a beauty parlor. She went on to build her own cosmetics company, become director of an airline, marry Floyd Odlum, multi-millionaire financier, start a big ranch with him and dominate women's flying—until Mme. Auriol came along.

The Harmon Trophy, awarded by the International League of Aviators to the world's outstanding woman flier, stood on the Cochran sideboard from 1937 to 1950. In that year the Soviet Russian-Continental Trophy race against a field of men and became the only woman to receive the Billy Mitchell Trophy as the outstandingboard again. But for how long?

Mme. Auriol is a pilot of the year. That was the year the other Jacqueline, a shy girl of 30 unheard of in the aviation world, married Jean Auriol. There was a child the next year and another through the sound barrier by a few months later.

While Jacqueline Auriol lived the quiet life of a wife and mother, Jacqueline Cochran was organizing a group of American women pilots to fly with the British Air Transport Service in England, became director of U.S. Women's Air Force service pilots (the Wasps), and in 1945 was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

In 1947 she established two world flying records which still stand, and in 1948 she set two more.

Mme. Auriol's Start

That year Jacqueline Auriol, 30, with her children in school most of each day, took flying lessons. In 1949 she gave an exhibition of stunt flying at Paris.

A few days later she crashed into the Seine on a routine flight. Her face was badly smashed but she flew again even before surgeons had finished a series of 52 operations on her.

May 12, 1951, Mme. Auriol broke the world's speed record for women, averaging 309.345 MHP in a Vampire jet fighter over a 100-kilometre circuit. The Harmon Trophy went to France. Last December she raised her record to 334.375 MPH and was awarded the Legion of Honor.

Jacqueline Cochran already had the Legion of Honor and the honorary wings of the French, Turkish, Chinese and Spanish air forces, but she no longer had the record.

So last month in her Sabre, above the Mojave desert, she became the first woman to fly through the sound barrier. In making the 100-kilometre circuit at 652.337 MPH she not only regained the women's record from Jacqueline Auriol, but exceeded the men's record as well.

It looks as though the Harmon Trophy will be on the Cochran sideboard again.

Texas Hit by Worst Drought, Bankers Reach End of Ropes

By RAYMOND HOLBROOK

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Texas has been hit by the worst drought in its history.

It's a drought that is going into its fourth year, a drought that has created a new "dust bowl," plowed topsoil deep across highways and railroads, clogged creeks, ponds, lakes and streams dry, and stunted the tallest corn before they could finish growing.

It's a drought that has made rangeland grasses as dry as cracker and forced ranchers to dispose of their cattle at ruinous prices. Country bankers say they have reached the "end of their rope" in extending credit and storekeepers have windows full of goods their customers can no longer buy.

Some areas have had rains this week. But in much of the drought region the soil is so denuded of plant cover that rain would run on seemingly wastes.

Sweeping more than 900 miles down the center of Texas from the northern border of the panhandle to Brownsville and beyond 450 miles across at its widest points, the drought now grips 128 counties in the western part of the state and encompasses more than half the land area.

This Texas drought has burned a different pattern in the state than did the great drought of the mid-30s. Then it was the panhandle high plains that was the "dust bowl."

For Less Pressure

Though suffering from lack of rainfall, the northernmost part of the state has escaped much of the soil erosion than it did two decades ago because of better farming and soil conservation practices. The central and south high plains area, where irrigation by pumping from underground has been developed, is one of the few green spots in the state today.

The wrath of the drought has been directed most severely in Deaf Plains, Brownfield, Tahoka, Seminole, Lamesa, Gail and Big Spring raising ruinous dust storms near the point where the southeast corner of New Mexico bites into Texas.

In that sector, the powdery topsoil has burned crop lands into sand dunes, duststorms have covered highways so deeply with sand that bulldozers have been needed to keep the roads open, trains have been stopped while sand was shoveled off the tracks, and wind is howling here and there past the symbols of the drought's might, the empty farmhouse.

How do the people manage to stay with the land after three years of drought? With many it's a matter of guts and credit.

Athed for details of his crop failures, one drought-worn farmer in this devastated area replied: "If you wrote me and my story up in the paper, I couldn't get any more credit at the grocery store."

Non-irrigated wheat on the north high plains has been virtually a failure this year.

No Crop in Three Years

Around Lamesa cotton is the main crop but they haven't made a cotton crop in the area in years. Farmers hope to plant grain crops but they must have rain before July 15 to do that.

Intense early summer heat has added to the misery of the drought and helped dry up remaining surface water.

Riding the ranges with the drought has been another calamity —falling cattle prices.

Farmers and ranchers who bought cows before the price drop are caught, they can't afford to sell at current prices because the proceeds would not cover the indebtedness against them. They haven't been able to raise feed, and they can't afford to buy feed.

Hundreds of thousands of head of cattle have been shipped out of Texas to other states for pasture.

Many ranchers have cut their herds to just foundation stock. One government official has estimated that in 40 counties in Texas cattle sale figures has virtually disappeared.

Says Construction Firm Not Against Can. Engineers

OTTAWA (CP) — The Drake-Merritt Company of New York was described today as a company which has always co-operated with the Canadian labor department in hiring personnel for its Canadian operations.

Mr. Mackenzie, deputy labor minister, was commenting on a statement by J. W. Murphy (PC-Lambton West) that he had seen advertisements placed by the company in United States newspapers asking for civil engineers who "must be American citizens" to work in Labrador.

Mr. Murphy said he protested to Labor Minister Gregg Tuesday over this alleged hiring policy.

Bias Not Indicated.

Mr. Mackenzie said in an interview today that even if the American company had placed advertisements such as those described by Mr. Murphy, it did not indicate a bias in hiring personnel.

Drake-Merritt had advertised recently in Canada for Canadian engineers to work in Labrador and had been unable to attract sufficient qualified numbers, Mr. Maclean said.

The Drake-Merritt did advertise for "American citizens" to work in Labrador, Mr. Maclean said, the intention likely was to secure men whose backgrounds could be checked. Checking was necessary because the projects were secret.

Drake-Merritt is a contracting firm doing work in Labrador for the U. S. Army engineers. The work is said for by the U. S. government.

"The Liberals say taxes cannot be reduced. The Progressive Conservatives say they can and will be."

Mr. Tustin cited cases of what he termed extravagance on the part of the St. Laurent government. For an office building for Central Mortgage, $634 per acre had been paid for land, a two million dollar 'palace' had been built with air conditioning costing $40,000. Not content with that, a spring-filled dance floor had been added at a cost of many thousands.

Publicity Costs

"Today the Liberal government is spending $857 an hour for publicity—chiefly for the party and $16,388 is being spent daily for telephone and telegraph services.

"I believe that the people should demand a dollar's value for every dollar spent," said Mr. Tustin.

"Last year, the Department of National Defence paid five millions for architects and engineers, while it had on its own staff 341 persons employed as qualified architects and engineers."

Mr. Tustin touched on the Petawawa scandal and stressed that the investigation had been carried out by a qualified man.

"In 22 months the government gave orders for kitchen equipment totalling five millions.

"An officers' mess was renovated at a cost of $340,000."

Mr. Tustin attacked the government's agricultural policies which he said, had lost markets for Canadian farm products. He pointed out that the Drew-led party promises aid to municipalities through a sales tax exemption on their purchases.

Canada May be Approaching Own Elizabethan Age--Massey

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Governor-General Vincent Massey of Canada said Wednesday night Canada may be on the threshold of her own Elizabethan age.

Speaking on the 35th anniversary of Canadian Confederation, he surveyed the country's growth materially and spiritually and decided that for Canadians the old, self-conscious, doubting days are over.

"It is not easy to give any clear or accurate impression of all that is going on," he said in a dinner address. "I think, however, it may not be complacent or fanciful to suggest that Canada—in her youthful vigor, enthusiasm and confidence, hailing her youthful and beloved sovereign—may even now be approaching her own Elizabethan age."

Mr. Massey, here on a private visit, was addressing the Canada Club, sometimes called the oldest dining club in London. It was formally organized in 1810 and traces its origin to the fur traders of the Northwest Company. British cabinet ministers, distinguished members of London's diplomatic corps and many prominent Canadians were among the 500 guests. Influence of Crown

Mr. Massey opened and closed a reflective address by stressing the unifying influence of the Crown on Canadian and Commonwealth affairs.

"It is Commonwealth formed of nations both old and young, the Crown gives us all a common sense of oneness with the past. In a Commonwealth whose diversity is one of its glories, it brings about a true unity of spirit."

Speaking of the "new epoch" in Canada, Mr. Massey said in earlier days Canadians were a slow and quiet people, their future apparently hinging on things beyond their control. The nation tended to wait on its neighbors.

"That is very far from the case now. We know now that we have a future of our own; we know that we must help to control it: we know that, manifest or not, we have a destiny for which we must make sacrifices."

New Price Index Report Is Due This Week-End

OTTAWA (CP)—With a continuous half-year of price stability behind it, the consumer price index comes up for another measurement Friday.

This will be the May trend of living costs. Indications are it likely will show no radical departures from previous months when the price of foodstuffs was generally down and rent up.

The price yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, now stands at 114.6, down a full point during April when lower food prices outbalanced the impact of rising rents.

In th space of six months it dropped 1.7 points, though steady tiny monthly cuts. The biggest was two-months of a point during February.

Down 38 Points

Altogether, the index now is down 38 points from the all-time high of 118.2 in December, 1951. The yardstick is reduced to the level of the May-June period of 1951.

Prices were down during April for butter, potatoes, tomatoes, onions, beef and veal, outweighing increases for coffee, eggs, grapefruit, lettuce and fresh and cured pork.

Rents were higher along with home-ownership costs, theatre tickets, barbers' fees and some clothing items, but gasoline dropped along with the price of coal in Ontario and Quebec.

The old cost-of-living index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, also dropped. The yardstick declined by two-tenths of a point to 183.6 from 183.8, third consecutive monthly decline. This compared with the peak of 191.5 in December, 1951.

Wholesale Prices Up

While consumer prices appeared to be generally reflecting stability, wholesale prices showed some strength during May.

The index for 30 wholesale industrial materials, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, rose to 224.3 on May 22 from 231.3 on April 24. It was the first strength in this index after 20 months of decline.

COSTLY REPAIRS

CANTERBURY, England (CP)—The historic Churches Preservation Trust, inaugurated by the Archbishop of Canterbury at the end of last year, has set a target of £4,000,000 in the next 10 years for repairs to churches. So far only 10,000 of Britain's historic parish churches, were flooded during a mid-afternoon storm Tuesday.

Constables Murray Wuestrop and Murray Rossell and fire chief Kenneth Priest of Riverside clung to the breakwater until Romeo Rubini, a town employee who was fishing nearby, rescued them in his boat.

Violent thunderstorms lashed Michigan from Lake Superior to Lake Erie Tuesday, causing widespread property damage.

Tipping the day-time windstorms a cloud formation that resembled a tornado swept through the central part of the state at night. The storm brushed the tree tops in Bay City, blowing power lines and blocking out part of the city.

John W. Runz, 55, of Memphis, Mich., was electrocuted in attempting to remove a power line which fell on the Memphis Auto Parts Co.

The Flint area, scene of a tornado that killed 115 persons June 8, was hit by winds of gale force. Edward Phillips was injured seriously when a tree fell on him.

Sudden, Heavy Storms Strike Niagara Area

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudden and heavy storms struck the Niagara Peninsula Wednesday night, blowing down trees, snarling power service and damaging some homes.

A brief thunderstorm swept Buffalo and there was heavy rain in Toronto.

At Niagara Falls, Ont., what was described as a small tornado whipped the rear roof of a frame house into the roadway, smashed a small frame garage and uprooted a large tree in front of the house.

Windows were blown out of several houses, but no one was reported injured. Torrential rain resulted in some streets being under two feet of water.

Boat houses and trees in the Buffalo area were knocked down by 60-mile-an-hour winds during the 30-minute storm. Residents reported hailstones as big as golf balls. Power lines collapsed in suburban districts, cellars were flooded and some homes badly damaged.

In Toronto, about one-third of the average rainfall for July fell on the first day, with more than two inches fell to bring the total for the day to 1.39 inches.

Heavy Damage

Sarnia counted thousands of dollars damage in the wake of a hurricane-like storm that swept up the St. Clair river Tuesday. One person was missing and believed drowned.

Officials said the storm did more damage in Sarnia than the May 21 tornado. Steel Scaffoldings used to repair tornado-damaged buildings collapsed under high winds.

Heaviest damage on the Canadian side of the river was at Bright's Grove, 10 miles north of Sarnia. Uprooted trees reduced eight cottages to rubble.

United States coast guard cutters dragged the St. Clair river for the body of Irving Holzhouser, 41, of Detroit. He, his 15-year-old son and two other persons had been fishing when giant waves capsized their small rowboat.

The other three were rescued, suffering shock and exposure.

PICTON
George J. Tustin Again PC Choice In Prince Edward-Lennox Riding

PICTON — George J. Tustin, who has held Prince Edward-Lennox in the Federal house for the past 18 years, was the unanimous choice of more than 500 delegates who packed Napanee town hall at the Progressive Conservative nomination meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Eleven others were nominated but all withdrew. They were: Carl Hall, R. B. Calnan, Ron Church, Phil Dodds, of Picton; Ken Carson and Mrs. K. Carson of Cressy; C. D. Sills and Doug Allenshurst, of Napanee; Calvin Hughes, of Waupoos; James Clemenson, of Wellington; Mrs. Ross Bush, of Consecon.

In acclaiming the veteran member, the meeting endorsed the sentiment expressed "at the gathering that prospects are bright for a change in the government at Ottawa and that in the event this occurs, Mr. Tustin's long and efficient service would entitle him to one of the cabinet posts." Another suggestion was that his appointment to the Senate would be fitting.

Mr. Tustin, greeted with cheers, was given the solid support of the convention which saw every section of the riding well represented in spite of the busy season on the farms and in the factories.

Three Main Points

After pledging himself to "do all I can for the entire riding, and to devote full time to the job," Mr. Tustin outlined the three points he will stress in his campaign—1 over taxation by the Liberal government; 2 extravagance and waste; 3 loss of markets for agricultural products.

He outlined the promises made by P.C. Leader George A. Drew, and declared "these promises can and will be carried out."

A resolution expressing full confidence in the leadership of Mr. Drew and in the party platform, moved by L. B. Calnan, was carried unanimously.

Norris Whitney M.P.P. expressed thanks for support given him in the provincial election. He said that a whispering campaign against the P.C. leader is being conducted, and declared that any claim of a change in leaders was "just wishful thinking on the part of his opponents."

"Mr. Drew proved himself in the Province of Ontario. He was elected as a premier on a platform of 21 promises, and all were filled," Mr. Whitney said. "He has made new promises which, as in the past, he can, and will, fulfill."

"Premier Frost has praised Drew as a great Canadian and one doing a great job. Criticism of him comes from jealousy. We have reason to be proud of a leader like Mr. Drew," Mr. Whitney severed.

Cheese Blunders

Discussing cheese, Mr. Whitney said that though the federal government granted the price that had cost only $157,000 in seven years. But in other parts of Canada, there had been generous support of prices for wheat, fruit and other commodities. Ontario farmers were being neglected. Up to March 31st-last the Ontario government had given $293,000 in support of prices for wheat alone.

"When Mitch Hepburn said Ontario is the milch cow of Canada he was right," said Mr. Whitney, who concluded by stating, "it's time for a change of government.

Taxes Too High

"The Liberal government is over-taxing the people of Canada at the rate of six million dollars a day," Mr. Tustin charged.

"Canada's ten per cent sales tax is the highest in the world. This government will take more, woman and child will pay $210.35 in direct and indirect taxes.

"Many who are not paying income taxes are not escaping. They are hit by the hidden taxes, ten per cent on nearly every product.

"This year every wage earner will pay the Federal government one-third of every dollar he earns," said Mr. Tustin.

Referring to wages in the income tax, Mr. Tustin pointed out that there would be little saving. A married man with two children earning $2,600 a year, will save $1.00 this year. If he earns $5,000 as do 75 per cent of those in Canada, he will save eight cents a week. But, a man can earn $6,500 from income on investment and not have to pay any tax, said Mr. Tustin, as he sought to show that it was a rich man's budget.

Don't Look Now, But The Yanks Won A Ball Game; 'Bums' Increase Lead

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

SUGAR TALKS!

Sugar Ray Robinson, the retired middleweight champion, has a wholesome respect for Rocky Turpin, of whom he says paradoxically: "He does everything wrong but he does it well."

"Sugar" thinks the forthcoming Robe Olson — Turpin right could be a "good one or a bad one." If both are too careful it won't be much of a fight, he thinks.

The former champion, now a nightclub song-and-dance boy, told these things to Dink (Montreal Gazette) Carroll backstage the other evening in a dressing room interview.

Sugar told Carroll that Olson is not a hard hitter but he can "slap you until you're irritated and mad." Turpin, he says, can hit hard enough to "slap a guy" but he may not put the opening he wants against Olson.

Robinson loves France and the French people. He owns a nightclub in Paree and eventually hopes to retire and spend the rest of his life there, coming back to America "for his vacations."

He thinks Rocky Marciano is a good club fighter and a hard puncher. "But," he added, "there isn't anyone around. The last man he knocked out was 53 years of age."

That statement may have flabbergasted friend Dink. "Walcott!" he exclaimed, "Is he that old?"

"He's a great guy but he's 53," said Sugar. "He fought us first and then we fought us and then we fought us two years ago he fought us and licked us. If he was fighting in 1921, you know he's got to be 52."

"Walcott and Satchel Paige," smiled the former champion, "they're the greatest pair to come along since chewing gum. The flavor lasts."

SHOULD BE GOOD!

M'ssr Evon Kobair, if you want to pronounce the name correctly, is a great big cuddly m'dare with a flair for pachydermics on the side along with a main order of night club operation. Yvon, who pairs with Whipper Billy Watson in a tag-team battle with an touch a pair of "pretty" prest-ents, greasers as you would wish to hate, Messrs Fred Atkins and Nanjo Singh tonight, is a resident of Montreal and has been a prominent figure in sports circles in the Quebec metropolis for a long time.

Atkins who 'ails from Haustrylia, it well known and wellhated by the faithful here. A rock-ribbed "trailer", Atkins, apart from his villainy, and he'd cheerfully sock you over the noggin' with a selected hunk of ring-post if he had the opportunity, is one of the most rugged pachyderms that ever signed a membership card in Marse Toomey's Loonies. And his dusky sidekick from Hindustan, the Hellraiser of the Himalayas and the Scourge of the Sikhs (they say he jo sikhs of one and half-dozen of the other) is another roisterous ruffy-tuffy rassy who knows all the rules and abides by none.

The Whip and Yvon took the Canadian tag team title from that pair of panhandle pachydermics, Messrs. Dick Raines and Lou Plummer the other night ina brawl in Toronto. Tonight sees them in the first defence of their newly-won laurels and methinks they won't let go without a terrific struggle.

And look who's here to steer the boys along the straight, and narrow path of conceital pan-pradise. None other than "Bunny" La Dunlop, one of the best showmen to third-man a wrestling bout hither, yon or anywhere. The "Bun", who still nosh nead the services of an ambulance leader to prevent him around the ring, is well liked by Belleville fans. He's always good for plenty of colorful action, even when things are dull otherwise.

DOTS 'N FLASHES

Dick Burrowes says his Shannonville Speedway has suspended operations for a couple of weeks. The stox jox that is. But the night-spot dancing and dining will go on, man says . . . Tonight at the CNR Recreation Park, the Regent juniors entertain the "slugging" Prince Edward Coombines in a regular schedule fixture. Tomorrow night the kids face the "fightin's" and we do mean "fighting" gang from Bloomfield, the Silver Ribbons. Twill be an opportunity for local baseball bugs to see a number of their old "senior" favorites in action. . . . What's this about a well known Prince Edward athletic star, who is well known in hockey circles here, slugging a baseball umpire, and then slugging him again? Somebody had better keep their noses clean because as Ontario sports organization suppression goes a long way. However when ignorance is bliss . . . "Mac" McLeod, the Casey Stengel of the Ontario Provincial Police softball "sluggers" (smiles, when you say that, goodness) has got himself a theme song. Don't be surprised if you hear the torrid tonsils of the limits of the provincial law warbling up around Six Acres tonight when the boys take the fifty-hers or is it the fly-gals. Anshoo "Mac" sat down at his piano the other evening and composed the following: "One-two three—Who are We. We are the boys of the O.P.P. We're not ruff—we're not tuff, but we're determined, that's enuff. Rah, Rah, Rah, Handcuffs." "Cuffer" Noakes' juvenile baseballers meet the Picton youngsters in a minor baseball league game at Northern Electric sports field tonight, the game starting at 6.30.

Break Nine-Game Loss Streak With Overtime Win Over Sox; 'Bums' Bash Phils; Braves Lose

By Ben Pelegar
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that the Yankees finally have quit losing maybe Cleveland Indians will go back to playing better ball.

Instead of concentrating on their own business, the Indians this week have been going through their paces with one eye on the scoreboard to see how much ground they were gaining on the fading New Yorkers. As a result they have lost Two in a row to the tail-end Detroit Tigers. They have a chance to make immediate amends since they go home tonight to face the equally docile Bengals in three more games.

The Yanks broke their nine-game victory drought by edging the Red Sox, 5-3, in 10 innings at Boston Thursday. Cleveland bowed 4-2 to the Detroit and slipped six full games behind the Yankees and second.

Chicago White Sox, who had Thursday and today off, also are six games back of the top. Their percentage points behind the Indians. Make Sense?

In the National League Brooklyn Dodgers made sure they will be in first place at least Monday of the 4th of July, traditional turning point of the pennant races. The Dodgers defeated Philadelphia, 8-5, and second place Milwaukee slipped a game and a half behind by losing to Cincinnati 5-1. Other National League clubs weren't scheduled.

Johnny Mize hammered the hit that broke the Yankee slump. Pinch-hitting in the 10th with two out and Yogi Berra on third, Mize drove a 3-2 pitch from Sid Hudson into left centre field for a double.

Gil McDougald then drew an intentional pass and Billy Martin brought in the insurance run with a single that scored Bill Renna, running for Mize.

Al Rosen hit his third home run in three games to get Cleveland off in front, but the Tigers went ahead with a pair in the third on a walk, a wild pitch by loser Mike Garcia and singles by Johnny Pesky and Walt Dropo.

Don Lund produced the winning runs with a home run scoring Matt Batts ahead of him in the seventh.

Steve Gromek, who toiled for Cleveland until two weeks ago, scattered seven hits in registering his third victory.

Washington's scheduled game at Philadelphia was rained out.

"Stoker" Wins

So far this year Brooklyn's biggest difficulty has been its pitching but you couldn't find much wrong with Carl Erskine's relief performance against the Phillies. The ace lefthander, who has had last month, had been given a 10-day rest and he was at the top of his form.

Cincinnati has hit 94 home runs, more than any other major league team, and the Redlegs used them to good advantage in handing Milwaukee its eighth straight home loss.

Ted Kluszewski put the Reds ahead in the first inning with his 23rd home run, and Gus Bell hit his 21st in the ninth.

Joe Louis, Now 'Song, Dance' Man, Goes on Road With 'Vodvil' Troupe

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK (AP) — Nineteen years ago Saturday, on a hot July night in Chicago, a young Negro named Joe Louis fought his first professional fight against another Negro named Jack Kracken. The record shows that Louis won by a knockout in the first round, and nobody ever heard of Kracken again.

Three years And 35 fights later the young Alabama Negro was to meet Primo Carnera in the same city and win the heavyweight championship of the world. From that day until Sept. 27, 1950, when, old and fat, he was given a savage beating by Ezzard Charles here, Louis was not to know defeat as he piled up the greatest record of victories in the history of the heavyweight division.

It would be nice to record that in the course of defending his title 27 times and appearing in scores of exhibitions, Joe amassed a comfortable fortune and was prepared now, at the ripe age of 39, to spend the remainder of his days indulging in his favorite pastime, golf. Unfortunately, it wouldn't be true.

As another Independence Day rolls around Joe is getting ready to hit the road again in search of the dollar, five millions he made for himself and others during nearly two golden decades are gone completely. He owes millions here and there, and Joe is a man who requires lots of money around him as it is known in the boxing profession.

This time Joe is preparing for a two-month tour of the country as the star of a troupe of entertainers who will acquaint the movie-going public with the fact that "the Joe Louis Story" is on the way. The former champion, who now scales about 230 at a 6-foot, 2-inch height, still will be the heaviest song and dance man in the history of the theatre.

The tour is scheduled to open in Boston July 4 and from there the show will play one-night stands through the Midwest and southwest until it is time for Joe to attend the picture's world premiere at Detroit, where his leading career began. By then, if the heat holds up, Joe should have slimmed down considerably.

Persons who are not entirely disinterested say that the movie version of the dark destroyer's life is one of the biggest jokes of its kind they have seen, they predict it will make a great deal of money for Joe, and that is to be hoped, for he was an athlete who never cheated anyone.

TO OPPOSE CANADA

NEW YORK (AP) — Mexico's three-man Davis Cup tennis team arrived Thursday to get in 10 days of practice on Forest Hills' grass courts. Mario Llamas, Rafael Ortega and Francisco Contreras will meet Canada in Montreal July 17-18-19 in a first-round match in North American zone Davis Cup eliminations.

Buffalo Wins Eight in Nine; Royals Lose

By The Canadian Press

Former major league right-hander Milt Jordan is the hottest pitcher in the International League today and don't let any Buffalo fan hear you say differently.

Jordan, who came to the Bisons earlier this season from Detroit Tigers of the American League, is the loop's top hurler. He pitched his 10th victory Thursday night in a relief role, downing Syracuse Chiefs 4-3.

This put the Bisons within 1½ games of the pace-setting Montreal Royals who fell 3-1 to Rochester Red Wings. Buffalo's win was the club's eighth in the last nine games.

Jordan has won his last seven games and has only one defeat.

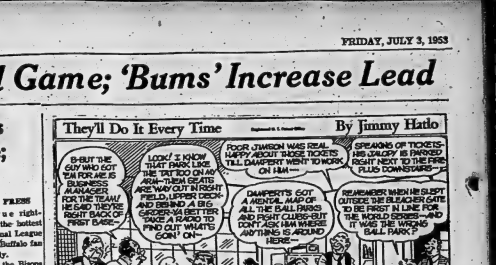
However, Buffalo's victory string is in jeopardy tonight. The Bisons hammered three Syracuse hurlers for 14 safeties, but the contest rained out in the eighth inning. The Chiefs were allowed only six hits but two errors played against the Herd.

Outfielder Ed Mierkowicz' two-run homer in the seventh gave the Red Wings the game at Rochester. Pitcher Bob Chakales got the win, his third, but needed help from relief specialist Dee Beucler in the ninth. Southpaw Bob Ludwick was charged with the loss.

'Direct Rhythm' Wins $25,000 Pacing Derby

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP)—Direct Rhythm, owned by W. G. Reynolds of Louisville, Ky., won the $25,000 National Pacing Derby Thursday night at Roosevelt Raceway as the 7-to-5 favorite, Hi-Lo's Forbes was third, three-quarters of a length behind Thomas B. Scott.

The 3-year-old Hi-LO's Forbes was another three-quarters of a length behind. Grant Hodges' Frisco Adios, Clandeboye, Ont., was fifth.



The time was 2:33 4-5, and didn't threaten the world track record of 2:31 3-5 made last year in this event by Good Time, leading second-winning harness horse of the world. Direct Rhythm was driven by Joe Miller of Meadow Lands, Pa.

Prince Adios was followed by Wilmington Star, R. L. Craig, Urbana, Ohio; Guinea Gold, Pearle Hungerford, Shelbyville, Ind.; Solicitor, Hanover (Pa.) Shoe Farms; Irish Hal; and Prince Jay.

Remember When

By The Canadian Press

Max Schmeling of Germany retained his world heavyweight boxing title 20 years ago tonight by outpointing out young Bill Stribling in the 15th round at Cleveland. Schmeling had gained recognition as champion by beating Jack Sharkey in 1930, two years after champion Gene Tunney retired, and Schmeling lost the crown to Sharkey in 1932.

'Li'l Mo' Wins Way to British Tennis Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Defending champion Maureen Connolly and Doris Hart, the 1951 winner, won easily and swiftly Thursday in the semi-finals of the All-England tennis championships here.

Little Mo of San Diego, Calif., smashed past Shirley Fry of Akron, O., in 32 minutes, 6-1, 6-1. It took Miss Hart of Coral Gables, Fla., 33 minutes to dispose of Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode of Alameda, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

Saturday's final will bring together, the world's two top-ranking feminine players for the fourth time in less than a year in a national championship.

Maureen defeated her rival in the U.S. and French finals. Doris beat Little Mo in the three-set final of the Italian championships.

In a punishing doubles match, Australia's second-ranking pair of Mervyn Rose and Ray Hartwig beat the top American combination of Vic Seixas, Philadelphia, and Gardine Mulloy, Coral Gables, Fla., 14-16, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad made it an all Australian final in the men's doubles when they beat Jacques Brichant and Philippe Washer of Belgium, 4-6, 6-0, 6-4, 9-6, 6-1.

Golf Gals Split in 'Brit.'

FORMBY, England (Reuters)—The touring Canadian women's golf team Thursday defeated a British junior women's team, 4-1, with two matches halved, but took second place to the senior British team in a four-day Commonwealth tournament which ended the same day.

Final results: Britain, 16½ points for a possible 24; Canada, 13½; British Juniors, 7; New Zealand, 6.

Marlene Stewart, 19 - year - old Canadian and British champion of Victoria to win oak of Thursday's foursomes, however, one up over Miss J. Robertson and Miss A. Phillips.

Mary Gay of Waterloo, Ont., halved her match with Miss J. Reddgate.

She teamed with Mrs.. J. H. Todd

Announce Entries For Rich Stakes

TILLSONBURG (CP)—Jack M. Climie, secretary-treasurer of the Tillsonburg Turf Club, released Thursday the entries for the 1953 Superlest three-year-old Pacing Stake to be raced at Tillsonburg July 15.

The estimated $4,000 purse for the stake is the largest in Canada this year.

Among the entries and owners are Lady-Lee Hal, Todgham and McIntyre, Chatham; Linda B. Lee, Don McDonald, Chatham; Theora Ian Ensign, Nell Pringle, Sarnia; Harry Prince, Dave Inkey, Strasford; and Dwight Dillon, John K. Shepherd, Oshawa.

'Sasky' Selects Golf Aspirants

REGINA (CP)—Saskatchewan's 1953 Willingdon golf team will have accent on youth when the national contest opens here next month.

Three of the four berths were decided after completion of the 72-hole medal play at the Regina Golf Club course Thursday. The fourth member will be winner of the provincial amateur championship to be decided Sunday.

Qualifying for the team were Will Hosenkix, 15, of Yorkton; Ian Ross, 19-year-old son of the local club professional, and the "old man" of the group, Del Willard; and Dwight Dillon, John K. son, a member of the Regina Wascana Club, who is in his late 20s.

Madoc Wins Over Tweed 13-6

TWEED — In a game marred by poor defensive play, Madoc Meteors beat Tweed 13-6 Friday night.

Tweed took a two-spotting lead in the first inning on two singles and Robert's triple. They held the lead through the second, but Madoc went one up in the third on Brown's three-run homer. Tweed tied the game in the bottom of the third with a singleton.

Madoc won the game with a five run explosion in the fourth. Brown slammed a three-run triple in this spree.

Madoc added one more in the fifth to lead 9-3 and then outscored Tweed 2-1 in the sixth. Tweed picked up one tally in the 7th, to make it 11-6. Madoc tacked two insurance runs in the 8th. The homesteaders only tallied once in the ninth as they left the bases loaded.

Tessard worked on the hill for Madoc. In the nine innings he gave up only two walks, while striking out six.

Langevin started on the mound for Tweed. He lasted six innings and was the victim of poor support. He fanned four and gave up two walks. Pinkie pitched the last three innings for Tweed. He fanned five and passed none.

Veteran Looms As Golf Threat

QUEBEC (CP)—Veteran Henry Martell of Edmonton Highlands loomed today as a possible threat for the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship on the strength of a practice-round four-under-par 68.

The tall, smooth-hitting golfer is no stranger to Royal Quebec's broad fairways. He reached the semi-finals of the Canadian amateur championship there in 1947.

Martell's score was the best of Thursday's leisurely rounds by most of the 39-odd entrants whose warm-up was interrupted by a driving late-day rain.

The rain was expected to make the greens lightning fast for a Friday pro-golf competition in which professionals will team with amateurs from Quebec district fairways and broadcaster teams will tee off.

The whole medal play championship, which Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon will defend, starts Saturday with an 18-hole round. Two rounds will be played Sunday.

Martell, a post-graduate arrived to swell the 33-man field announced Thursday night.

The post-entries included Fletcher, Gord Byrdzon of Toronto Hunt Club, Regina, champion Jim Swarbrick of Montreal Marlborough, Bob Cunningham of Toronto, George Harrison of Sudbury and Ray Marshall of Arnprior, Ont.

Marshall, the defending champion of Vancouver, four times winner, arrived Thursday and shot a one-under-par 34 on the first nine. Leonard took a one-over 36 on the first nine and quickly recovered.

The golfing Hunt brothers—Jules of Montreal and Bobby of Rockdale of the home club and Rothland of Quebec Lorette—held the Royal Quebec course record of 65, seven under the par of 72. All are entered in addition to brother Tony of Levis, Que., and cousin Gerard of Mount Orford, Que.

Sport in Brief

PALMER TOPS FIELD

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Johnny Palmer was the only tornado to strike the Birmingham Country Club Thursday, and the mentioned North Carolinian swept to the qualifying medal of the United States PGA golf tournament with a record-equalling 134.

Palmer, a veteran of 15 major golfs and racing against an anticipated thunderstorm, the chubby pro from Badin, N.C., clinched the $250 medalist prize with a five-under 68.

He thus tied two records—the course and the PGA qualifying marks.

The competitive record for the compact 6,645-yard, par 71 Birmingham layout was made by old Al Watrous, of nearby Oakland Hills, 30 years ago, and equalled only Wednesday by Vic Ghezzi, the giant Long Island pro, who took the first round qualifying lead.

Palmer's 68-134 matched the two-round qualifying record set by Jim Ferrier at Portland, Ore., in 1946 and paralleled by Skip Alexander at St. Louis in 1949.

Palmer won the Canadian Open championship at Winnipeg in 1952 and will defend his title next week at the Toronto Golf Club course.

Ghezzi, 1941 champion, settled for a 73 and a total of 139.

Chandler Harper, the 1950 champion from Portsmouth, Va., finished with a 68 for 137.

This was good for second place three strokes back. Pete Cooper of White Plains, N.Y., followed with 138, on a pair of 69s.

The cash point for making the 64-man championship flight, which begins today with two 18-hole medien death rounds of match play, was 148.

FIRST 4 PRACTICE 68

TORONTO (CP)—Pete Fleming of St. Andrew's, Ill., one of eight United States pros on hand early for the Canadian open golf championship at Toronto Scarboro next week, posted a six-under-par 65 in a practice round over the course Thursday. Among others to beat the par during the last three days was Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, who fired a 67.

Oshawa Triumphs Over Lowly Galt

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oshawa Merchants fighting mad their bold on fifth place in the Senior Intercounty Baseball League Thursday night by trouncing the lowly Galt Terriers 11-2. Al Gerenger limited the last-place Galt batsmen to five singles.

Tommy Claypool, Galt catcher, scored on a single by Mike Pontarelli in the third inning. The visitors got their other run in the sixth when Glenn Shoe doubled to score Vern Kaiser after two out.

Merchants counted a run in the first when Bill Turk opened with a single, Jones walked but was forced by Ted O'Connor who stole second and scored on Butch Lawling's double.

Four runs on two walks and two hits, plus Glenn Dunstan's costly error with two outs, gave the Merchants the lead again in the fourth. Gerenger doubled to open Gerringer in the fourth and in the fifth Oshawa made the most of seven hits, runs on three hits and three walks.

Bill Turk with three hits, including a triple, and Fran Dyson with four for four were the big hitters for Oshawa, each with three RBIs.

Sport From Britain

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man (CP)—This speck of land in the Irish Sea, best known internationally perhaps for its tailless cats, is the cradle and home of the world's toughest motorcycle races.

The event run each June since 1907 is known popularly as the "Tourist Trophy", otherwise the Tourist Trophy races, whose gruelling course is laid out over the twisting, narrow Isle of Man roads.

The self-governing Isle of Man has been host for 46 of this major British sports spectacle ever since the feuding British motor vehicle industry drew a blank in its bid to test high-powered products.

British law at the turn of the century forbade motor vehicle competition on public roads. Wealthy manufacturers could afford to ship cars and machines to compete in continental races for experience and prestige. But the smaller firms pioneering in the trade were caught in between.

Race Stretches

The solution appeared when the Manx government agreed to seal off stretches of the island's hilly, dusty thoroughfares. The races were inaugurated in 1907 with 17 entries, which chugged around the six-mile course at an average speed of 38 miles an hour.

Not all Manxmen were as cooperative at first as the Manx government. A whip-waving farmer held up the first race by declining to remove his horse and cart from the raceway.

Since then, however, expansion has been steady, and so has the death toll.

Sixteen lives have been claimed since the Second World War alone, including four at the 1953 events where the average speed in the main senior event reached more than 93 miles an hour and exceeded 100 in spots.

The peril of the 37¾-mile course lies in the 200 corners it contains and the steadily-boosted power of the British, Italian and other machines used there.

Six men died in 1951 in the week's racing and two-week warm-up period. Yet the entry list continues to grow, reaching more than 460 this year.

The races draw thousands of spectators, to the satisfaction of the 54,000 island residents whose main industry is the tourist trade. More than 600,000 visitors arrived at the 227-square-mile island in all last year. Manxmen, who provide begins today with two 18-hole med- the bulk of the best motorcycle racers themselves, willingly endure the noise and confusion of the TT for the money it brings.

RAIN HALTS TENNIS

MONTREAL (CP)—All matches scheduled for Thursday night in the Quebec provincial senior tennis championships were postponed after a brief but heavy rainstorm soaked courts at Notre Dame de Grace park. In the semi-finals of the men's singles, the men's and women's doubles and the mixed doubles were called off.

Layne, Walls Fight Tonight

EDMONTON (CP)—Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, and Rex Layne, one of the top 10 contenders for the world title, meet tonight in a 10-round fight expecting to ring up a gate of between $60,000 and $90,000.

Promoter Jack Berry said he expects between 18,000 and 24,000 fans. They would pay a general entry fee of $5 and a top of $15, a record for an Edmonton fight.

Walls, a native of Windsor, Ont., who also fought in the eastern United States and England, was expected to go into the ring at 191 pounds, nine pounds lighter than his opponent.

Layne will carry the weight advantage but will have to move in close to get at Walls. The Canadian battler has a reach of 77 inches, two inches longer than Layne.

Layne, who holds victories over Ernard Charles and Jersey Joe Walcott, once who has never held the world title, will pick up a $10,000 guarantee and 40 per cent of the gate, whichever is greater, for his efforts. Walls will receive 30 per cent.

Walls, who stands six feet, 3½ inches, has a impressive fight record in the West. In 10 fights here and in Vancouver he won six with knockouts in two rounds or less. Joe Kahut of Portland, Ore., was the only man to go 10 rounds with the champion. He has been promised a re-match.

The 25-year-old Negro opened his career in New York in 1943. He lost three fights that year, one in 1949 and one in 1950.

In England he scored victories over the Scottish and Australian champions.

He returned to Canada and moved to Edmonton in May, 1952. He defeated Wesley Bolton 3 June, 1952, to take the Canadian crown and defeated Escoe again in July in a re-match.

When to Fish or Hunt SOLUNAR TABLES by John Allen Knight

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from the 1953 edition of Solunar Tables. Play your days as they will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Day Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration. Dates include July 12 through 26. All times are on Daylight Saving Time.

STEEPLECHASE RECORD

HELSINKI, Finland (AP)—Oval-eyed Kaarlo Maaninka, Finnish dentist, ran the world's fastest 2,000-metre steeplechase race Thursday.

Rinteenpaa was timed in 8:44.4 over the Olympic Stadium course where Horace Ashenfelter of the United States ran the previous fastest 'chase in the 1952 olympics. The Finn's time was an exact second faster than Ashenfelter's mark. Rintenenpaa ran fourth in the Olympics.

There is no official world record for the steeplechase since courses vary in their makeup.

Glens Whip Wooler 3-0

In a closely fought pitchers duel at the C.N.R. field last night Glen Roy downed Wooler 3-0. In a postponed City District Softball League game.

Radner gave up five hits for the Glens while Dyer's slants were touched for nine scattered hits. Radner struck out three and walked as many. Dyer passed four to first and ko'd two.

Barclay led the winners at the plate with three hits. Goyer and Bob Green had two singles apiece. Carr gave the ball a ride for a home run and Redner helped his own cause with a single.

For the losers Austin, McColl, Richards, Levitt and Dyer each had singles.

Lineups:

Wooler: Harder, Austin, McColl, Schock, Richards, Levitt, May, Dyer, Austin.

Glen Roy: Barclay, Carr, Goyer, Batchelor, P. Green, B. Green, Jones, Whalen, Radner.

AT THE DRIVE-IN

"The Great Sioux Uprising" and "The Great Sioux Uprising" O'Hara"

Although in ailing health, Spencer Tracy returns to active practice as a criminal lawyer to defend Jim Arness, a close friend, accused of murdering his best friend's wife. Tracy is convinced of Jim's innocence, although the latter stubbornly refuses to tell all he knows because a woman is involved. However, the evidence is so strong against Arness that Tracy faces an indictment by the brilliant attempt. Tracy appeals the verdict, enters an iron-clad alibi, and then objects certain death to trap the real killer by getting a confession on record through a tiny transmitter hidden in a flower on his lapel. He succeeds, but is shot and killed; Arness is freed, and, as a tribute to Tracy's memory, the bribery indictment is washed out.

"Harem Girl"

Joan Davis as Suzie, secretary to the young and lovely Princess Shareen (Peggie Castle) saves her mistress from an assassin. Then to protect the princess, she poses as her so the Princess can attend a secret meeting of her royal subjects. The usurper of the throne, Sheik Jamal, orders Shareen to marry the Ray of a neighboring country, Abdul (Arthur Blake). Joan, as the princess, is taken to meet him and accidentally learns where the guns are kept which the loyal subjects need to revolt. Joan induces a sit-down strike in the harem and other measures, stalling for time before the usurper and his cohorts are overcome, with Joan fighting to the finish in many unorthodox ways.

One nice thing about an opening bid of two in a suit, you know your partner will help keep the bidding alive until you reach a game. Unless he is dead; at least from the neck up.

From this you also know that he will let you know if there is a chance for a slam. How? By using a stand in his first response that will advise you whether or not he holds a sure trick.

With a sure trick his hand you will not always have a slam in your pair, of course. But there is a good chance that there may be. And if there is not you learn it with future bids.

How does partner show this sure trick? By not saying two no-trump in his first response to your opening bid of two in a suit. Because an immediate response of two no-trump signals he has no sure trick.

Put this in reverse and you will know how he signals that he has a sure trick. By an immediate takeout to a new suit, or an immediate assist, or an immediate response of three no-trump.

There was the deal shown here:

♦ 8 6 4
♣ Q J 9 7 2

WEST
♠ Q J 9 8
♥ J 8 6 2
♦ 10 3 2
♣ 8 6 5

EAST
♠ 10 8 7 5 4 3
♥ 10 7
♦ J 9 5
♣ K 3

SOUTH
♠ A K
♥ A K Q 9 3
♣ 10 4

They did the bidding like this:

South	North
2 H	3 C
3 S	4 C
4 NT	5 D
6 NT	Pass

Why did south avoid rebidding his heart suit? If north had an ace and a king they might have a grand slam. So, he bid four no-trump instead of four hearts which he feared north might pass.

In answer to four no-trump, five diamonds shows an ace and no kings. So, south stopped at six. Which could make. But it so happens that it was defeated. Want to know how? Very interesting.

YOUNG FARMERS

NEW LISKEARD, Ont. (CP)—Four members of junior farm clubs in Scotland have been touring Ontario separately for about two weeks to be able to report on a larger area when they return to their home land shortly. The visitors are Miss N. Fleming, R. W. Dalgleish, D. H. Middleton and R. G. Roger.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday occurs and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, JULY 4, 1953:

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — This is truly a great day and we should thank God for those founding fathers' initiative, courage, farsightedness in paving the way for free principles.

April 22 to May 20 (Taurus) — Regardless of our many opportunities we should seriously (though happily) ponder our responsibilities as part of a great, free nation.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Benefic aspects now to aid worthy deeds, pleasant activities. Let us not celebrate our nation's birthday by over-indulging ? what we shouldn't.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Personal conduct should be exemplary this glowing 4th of July. Let's celebrate and—be mindful of duty to God, country and family. Pray for our armed forces.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Encouraging Sun and Moon rays today augur happiness, good deeds; yes, and deep appreciation for our blessings. Necessary work should be done cheerfully.

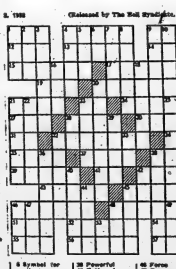
August 23 to September 22 (Virgo)—Mercury's aspect now does not advise taxing the brain too strenuously nor overdoing in plans, etc. Day otherwise is friendly, helpful.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Mild influences in your sector. Really up to you and your responsibilities how you spend this [illegible]

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—No undue stimulus in the atmosphere, indicating a desirable tempo for home and family affairs. There are fine rays prevailing.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter and other planets augur well for selling small items, servicing the public, rejoicing wisely. Necessary work, domestically sponsored.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Saturn and Mars, in soft vibrations today, stress kind, tolerant attitude to others and particularly to our families, friends, those in need of sympathy and cheer.



January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Similar tendencies to Scorpio and Capricorn. Day responsive to wholesome endeavors, patriotic affairs, pleasant doings. Thank God for many great blessings.

YOU BORN TODAY: Engaging, likeable personality usually quiet of action, interesting, entertaining in conversation. Ideally loyal to lifetime and family. Control any tendency to jealousy, to obedience bickerings. Pray when inclined and in thanksgiving for blessings. Bright prospects ahead! Birthdate: Nathaniel Hawthorne, noted writer; Calvin Coolidge, 30th U.S. President; Geo. M. Cohan, author, actor.

BARRACKS STARTED

REGINA (CP)—Work has started on a new $385,335 naval barracks here. It will be the headquarters of MCS Queen, Regina's naval division.

NEW YORKERS

EDMONTON (CP)—Newcomers from British are eligible to vote in the federal election after one year of residence in Canada, it was explained here by officials returning officer for Edmonton East.

Decision Reserved In Libel Suit Against McLean's

VANCOUVER (CP) — Decision has been reserved by Mr. Justice Norman Whittaker in a case involving the right of a reporter to conceal his sources of information.

The case is a libel suit brought by Gordon S. Wismer, former attorney-general of British Columbia, against Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd., of Toronto and Blair Fraser, Ottawa correspondent for Maclean's Magazine.

Mr. Justice Whittaker reserved decision Tuesday on an application for an order to compel Mr. Fraser to give the names of persons who gave him information on which he based an article entitled: "B.C. Coalition Commits Suicide."

The move by Mr. Wismer's counsel, Frank Ellis and Peter Farris, was an attempt to compel Mr. Fraser to answer questions put to him in a pre-trial examination in Toronto last April.

Meanwhile, Mr. Fraser and his publishers have an appeal coming up in Toronto next week. Justice A. M. Manson's order of June 8 last year gave full particulars of their defence.

D. N. Hossie, counsel for the defendants, outlined the line of defence of the press includes its right to refuse to disclose the source of information.

Vegetarian Is Returned To County Jail

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (CP)—A onetime resident of Collingwood, Ont., and a vegetarian, appeared in court Thursday.

He wasn't to offer my defence in both mental and physical briefs," said Harold Marshall.

Then he proceeded to strip down to blue swimming trunks.

He produced a copy of Bible, on which he had sworn only moments before to "tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth," and presented it to the startled district judge, Harold F. Burke.

"This is my defence," he said, arms akimbo.

Marshall, a full-bearded and with hair hanging to his shoulders, said he was a vegetarian and a one-time butcher.

Takes Back

Burke, taken aback by the unusual defence, cleared the court of all but Marshall and a few. Then the U.S. marshals supervised the physical search of Marshall. He resumed his checked shirt and blue trousers.

Burke directed that Marshall, charged with illegal entry from Canada, be returned to the province county jail. The judge also reserved decision.

Marshall, who stands six feet tall and weighs 170 pounds, pleaded guilty.

He told a reporter that he had been in jail since May 15 and that since he became a vegetarian a year ago and gave up the restraints of the modern life for the open road.

Borders Don't Exist

"Borders don't exist in my mind," he said. "I feel it's the natural thing to do to migrate south in the winter and north in the summer."

And that's where the trouble began for the vegetarian explained that Marshall ignored the border when he left Canada and was walked across the international railway bridge between Port Erie, Ont., and Buffalo without benefit of customs.

Marshall said his last "permanent" residence was in Collingwood. He said he left a wife and two children there "a long ago after giving up everything else to pay for a home for them.

Mount Everest Conquerors Reach Britain

LONDON (Reuters)—The conquerors of Mount Everest came home to a rousing welcome today. Sir Edmund Hillary stepped off an airliner with his Sherpa guide Tenzing to a staging cheer from crowds gathered at the airport.

Tenzing and his wife and two young daughters accompanied Hillary and other members of the expedition to Britain to share in the triumphant reception.

Commonwealth Britain, India, New Zealand, and Nepal greeted the smiling party.

BONARLAW

BONARLAW — Mr. and Mrs. Doug Wright and family visited Mr. J. Lain on Sunday.

Mrs. Mac Anderson was taken by ambulance to the Civic Hospital, Peterborough.

Young Couple Honored

Relatives and friends met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson and son Eldon, on Friday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Anderson (nee Beth McAlpine) who were recently married.

A short program of music and readings was enjoyed. Mr. Wilfred Spencer was the master of ceremonies. Mr. Aaron Anderson read the address to which Raymond replied on behalf of his bride and himself. They received many lovely gifts and a purse of money. They will reside at Fonthill, Ont., and all extend best wishes to the happy pair.

On Saturday evening the Sunday School from the Gospel Hall held its annual picnic at Crowe River picnic grounds. Mr. William Lloyd is spending a few days in the vicinity and attended the picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Thompson and boys, Mrs. Lloyd Anderson, Mrs. Willis Irwin, Mrs. Vic Irwin and Mrs. Andrew Thomson visited Mrs. Will Morrow in Peterborough.

Miss Sylvia Gray, of Peterborough, and Shirley Stewart of Belleville spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Gray and Mr. and Mrs. C. Stewart.

Mrs. Norman Rosebush and Mr. A. Spencer, Havelock, attended the shower of Mr. and Mrs. A. Anderson.

Teased By Bull

Little Maureen Stewart, 18 months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Stewart, narrowly missing being hurt or killed on Saturday, when she squeezed through a fence into a lane where a bull had broken loose. It is believed the bull tossed her through a gap, and the bull was roaring and knocking the fence down when Mrs. Stewart heard the commotion and ran to get the baby. Her husband drove the bull away.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Steele and family of Sudbury spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Reg Burkitt.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Fry and Mrs. John Simpson visited Mr. and Mrs. Grant Kerr and family of Latta.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barnum and family spent the week-end at Algonquin Park.

BIG SARDINES.

DEER ISLAND, N.S. (CP)—The season's first sardines here were small in number but big in size. Previous catches had been only tiny herring, too small for canning.

Sunday School Lesson:

Life a Two-Way Street

By ROY L. SMITH

It is a mark of our maturity when we have discovered that life is a two-way street. Rights are balanced by responsibilities if we expect the nation to be strong we must be strong for the nation, if we expect honesty in public office we must make honest income tax returns, if we expect to get anything out of our religion we will have to put everything into it.

Preaching and Listening

Paul was a preacher and the pastor of a considerable number of churches. In this week's Sunday school lesson he tells the congregation at Rome that he expects to draw just as much inspiration from the people as they hope to draw from him. He was like the clergyman who was being interviewed by a committee that was looking for a new preacher. "We want one that will draw the people," the layman said, to which the minister replied, "And all of my life I have been looking for a congregation that will hold the people I attract."

Fully as much responsibility rests with the one who hears the sermon as that one who preaches it. An indifferent congregation gets an indifferent sermon out of the best preacher, and an alert people will make a good preacher out of a poor one.

Debts of Fortunate

The Apostle Paul lived under a sense of great obligation to all men, and well he might. He knew a secret, and he was intent on telling it to the world. He had found a way to spiritual peace, and he could not be true to himself—he could not keep that peace—if he did not share the good news with all who would listen.

It is a fact, of course, that his Christian experience made of him a world figure. Except for that conversion along the Damascus Road he would probably have lived and died, and been forgotten, as a fanatical young Jew intent on preserving the tradition. His life as a Christian missionary made him one of the pivotal men of history. That which appeared to be a big price in terms of sacrifice proved to be a big dividends. We do not need to wonder at his willingness to endure hardship, suffering and persecution paid encomiums to words too much sympathy. Christianity made him an immortal.

But he never rises to a greater moral height than when he declares his indebtedness to the Greek and the Barbarian, which meant all the known world of that day. His good fortune, encountered on the Damascus Way, placed him under an obligation from which he never escaped.

Obligations, Opportunities

By similar logic the people of the wealthy world are under an obligation that can never be abdicated. The vast economic resources of the North American continent, the great life of the people of the western hemisphere, the new freedom and democracy enjoyed by the people of Canada and the United States, lay upon them a responsibility for the welfare of the rest of the world which is unrivalled.

A people who burn more gasoline, use more electrical appliances, have school days open wider and longer, have freer access to the sources of information, enjoy more of the physical comforts of life, than any other people on the globe can hardly fail to take over some share of the world's suffering in the hour of crisis.

The Uniform Sunday School Lessons for July 5: "The Righteousness and Justice of God," Romans 1—3.

The standard of living among working people in Europe, Asia, and Africa is one which the average workingman in North America would consider subsistence. It is impossible for this earth to go on indefinitely half underfed and half overstuffed.

We cannot afford the luxury of living aloof from the rest of the suffering world. Eventually the misery of hungry and despoiled men seeps in on even the most privileged. We are all debtors "both to the Greeks and to the Barbarians."

Weed of the Week

Dodder Vicious Enemy of Clover

A parasite in every sense and not a true weed, Dodder is number one enemy as far as clover crops are concerned. Living on the host plant Dodder becomes a ruthless destroyer by strangling the growth to which it attaches itself.

It is for this reason that Dodder is sometimes known as Strangle Weed, or more inelegantly, Devil's Gut. It is a dangerous weed as it can affect legume crops wherever it gets a foothold.

An Dodder seed is difficult to separate from clover seed, every attention should be given to see that it does not spread, if we wish to produce and market clover seeds. Every precaution must be taken to prevent its introduction to farms that are at present free from this menace.

Dodder is easily recognized, as it has no leaves. The numerous fine yellow stems, twine themselves around clovers, buckwheat, flax and most weed plants. By sending short teeth or suckers into the host plant, Dodder absorbs its food, depriving this plant of nourishment and in time killing the host. As soon as Dodder seed germinates and forms contact with a plant, it releases its hold on the ground and spreads from plant to plant. Thick clusters of white flowers in turn produce seed pods, with many hard, grey or yellowish-brown seeds.

Robertson Hints Way May be Found Around Deadlock

Declines to Elaborate On Meeting With Rhee

SEOUL (AP)—Truce emissary Walter Robertson hinted today that he and President Syngman Rhee may have found a way around the deadlock which has stalemated efforts to win South Korea's approval of an armistice.

Robertson conferred for an hour and 25 minutes with Rhee and told newspaper men as he emerged that "I had a discussion which I feel will be helpful in reaching a satisfactory solution."

He declined to elaborate, but said he planned to see the South Korean president again. This was his eighth conference with Rhee.

South Korea's Foreign Minister Pyun Yung Tai told reporters Rhee has not modified his demand for a 90-day time limit on a post-armistice political conference. If unification at that time is not achieved in 90 days, Rhee insists, the UN must agree to resume the war.

Robertson has rejected Rhee's demand, a high UN source said, and the conference has been threatened to wreck the talks.

Robertson, Eisenhower's envoy, talked for a few minutes with newspaper men outside Rhee's hilltop mansion before the session began. He declined to say whether an agreement was near.

However, his statement stirred immediate speculation that his expected early departure from Washington would be delayed while he explored a possible new solution to the crisis.

Foreign Minister Pyun attended today's session. And while he restated that Rhee has not softened his demands, he added:

"The very fact that we are still continuing the discussions proves that the talks are not hopeless."

Pyun is Rhee's closest adviser and is a bitter opponent of a truce on terms negotiated at Panmunjom. He has called repeatedly for a march to the Yalu river to unify Korea.

Meanwhile, the UN command has been strengthening U.S. guard details at prison-camps in South Korea because of the possibility that Rhee might try forcibly to release 27,000 anti-Red Korean PW's, it was learned.

The release of 27,000 anti-Reds last month delayed, at least temporarily, the signing of an armistice negotiated at Panmunjom. The truce talks are in indefinite recess.

Halibuton-Borch Man Is in Jail, He Is Too Rich

NORFOLK, Va. — (CP) — Police today sought to learn more about an aged prisoner who said he was born in Canada and who had $20,920 in cash in his pockets when arrested for disorderly conduct.

John James Eastman, 82, was taken into custody Thursday night after police received calls from citizens reported that the white-haired man was wandering around aimlessly and talking to himself.

Police said that when they finally collared Eastman, after a short, sharp struggle, they found the bundle of cash in a home-made money belt around his waist.

They quoted him as saying he was born in Haliburton County, Ont., in 1872, but could get no clear answer on where he obtained the money.

Buffalo Bus Drivers Leave Posts to Strike

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—AFL bus drivers Friday night began walking at the Niagara Frontier Transit Corp. in a wage dispute. Drivers left their jobs as they completed their shifts.

But the strike, which left an area of nearly 1,000,000 population without public transit, will not have its full effect until Monday, when business returns to normal after the holiday week-end.

The union voted to reject a company offer of a 20-cent hourly pay increase, to be effective in two payments during the net 12 months.

Philip Needham, secretary-treasurer of division 1342, Amalgamated Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, said settlement was unlikely before Monday.

The strike will leave Buffalo, Niagara Falls and several suburbs without any public bus transportation.

Begin to Picket Oil Firms' Docks

CHICAGO (AP)—Members of the CIO National Maritime Union Friday began picketing docks of major oil companies at Chicago, Texas City and Whiting and East Chicago, Ind.

The walkout was ordered by 3,500 great lakes tankers and freighters since expiration of their wage contracts with the companies. About 600 sailors are affected.

Jesse Haley, Cleveland, director for the NMU, said picketing began at the Nicholson and Ford docks at Detroit, those of Texas Sinclair Refining Co., Cities Service Oil Co., Texas Co., Phillips Petroleum Corp., and Shell Oil Co. at East Chicago, and that of Standard Oil Co. (Ind.) at Whiting.

Daley said the NMU is "trying to bring the pay of Great Lakes seamen bite line with that of coastal crews on the seaboard."

Daley estimated that the average pay for a tanker crew member on the Great Lakes is $300 monthly, including overtime. He said members of coastal tanker crews average about $450 monthly.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Sunny skies and light winds are expected from most of the province today. However the weather map shows a disturbance extending from southern Manitoba to Nebraska moving towards Ontario. As it does so low pressure continues its eastward motion, increasing cloudiness and scattered thunderstorms will move into northwestern Ontario today, southwestern Ontario late tonight, and over the remainder of the province Monday. Temperatures will continue to rise today and Sunday with a noticeable increase in humidity expected for southwestern Ontario Sunday.

Howling Typhoon Sweeps Across China Coast

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — A howling Pacific typhoon swept over the China coast today after striking across the northern edge of Formosa.

The weather bureau here said the storm, with centre winds of 140 miles an hour, hit the Chinese mainland just north of Foochow, capital of Fukien province.

The typhoon struck heavy toll of crops and property and claimed an unknown number of victims there as it cut a swath across the northern part of this Chinese Nationalist island.

Beer, Bread or Athlete's Foot, Fungi Responsible for Them All

By BOB JOYCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Seventeen Canadian scientists are using high school today to learn to distinguish good fungi from bad.

The 17, graduates in medicine, bacteriology and veterinary science from universities and research laboratories across Canada, are members of a class in medical mycology.

For three weeks the scientists will study at McGill University under Dr. Fritz Black, Swiss-born mycologist, the good and bad points of the minute plants.

Less than 1-5,000th of an inch long, some fungi cause diseases in growths in man and animals, while others are used to manufacture nitying glass.

food and drugs. Hence the paradox, one fungi specimen, yeast, helps produce beer, while the other is responsible for athlete's foot.

"It's very important to be able to distinguish the different types," said Dr. Black in his lecture.

"Some of the common forms are well-known, of course, but there are thousands we don't know. Fortunately there are only a small number that are dangerous to human beings. But these are often the literally types of fungi all various stages of growth."

Dr. Black showed the students organisms under the microscope, using slides and glass containers that can fit under the mag-

TEAR GAS USED TO BREAK RIOT IN CALCUTTA

Crowds Demonstrate Against Car Fares

CALCUTTA (Reuters) — Police arrested more than 500 people here today after using tear gas to break up crowds rioting against increased street car fares.

Police said they had fired 80 tear gas shells in different parts of the city.

In one incident six persons were injured, some seriously, when the police fired on a crowd of club clubs. The demonstrators were obstructing private and public vehicles travelling on the road.

Near Dum Dum bridge, about 10 miles from the city, demonstrators tried to set fire to two railroad cars. Police opened fire to drive them off. No one was injured.

Three members of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly were among the many arrested. They were charged with disorderly conduct and released on bail.

The British-owned company did not run street car services today.

U.S. May Send Surplus Food To East Germany

NEW YORK (CP)—The New York Herald Tribune said today from Bonn says today that United States government agencies in Washington and Bonn are considering a plan to ship huge quantities of surplus foodstuffs to East Germany.

The government-owned surplus includes butter, wheat, meat, dried milk and other products.

Through such shipments, the plan authors would try to capitalize on the situation created in East Germany by the workers' uprising June 17, the Times says.

At the same time—they would hope—the shipments would forestall Adenauer's chance of winning the forthcoming West German elections by associating him directly or indirectly with the failure to meet the critical food shortage in East Germany.

The authors hope that the plan would not only embarrass the Adenauer Republic but also would contribute further to undermining their control.

The foodstuffs would be distributed through religious organizations in East Germany, but it was not yet clear whether these organizations had been approached and their consent obtained.

Whether the plan sponsors were convinced that Soviet authorities would permit the U.S. to ship food for purposes of psychological warfare against them, or would stand accused of wilfully starving the East Germans for political reasons.

DROWNS IN LAKE

Nagy New Hungarian Premier As Veteran Rakosi Ousted

BUDAPEST (AP)—In a surprise ouster of Premier Matyas Rakosi, the Hungarian Parliament Saturday elected a new government without the veteran communist who has headed the Communist regime since last August.

The new administration, proposed by the presidium and approved by the lawmakers, is headed by Imre Nagy, a 51-year-old Communist who was one of the five vice-premiers in Rakosi's cabinet.

Rakosi's government resigned Thursday in the wake of Hungary's last parliamentary elections but the move was considered largely a formality.

Nagy, 57, was a Hungarian broadcaster in Moscow during the

Abbott Says PCs Buying Votes Drew Endorse Grain Pools

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Finance Minister Abbott has described the Progressive Conservative promise of $500,000,000 tax cuts after the Aug. 10 election as "buying your votes with your children's earnings."

He said in a national radio address Friday night that the reduction could only be made by restricting defence spending or going into debt. The more likely alternative would be "running up the national debt" and "quite obviously your children will be paying that extra debt."

Meanwhile, Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said at a press conference in Edmonton that a government of his party would "not only continue the (Canadian) wheat board but restore the previous system of guidance by producers."

Surprised at Suggestions

He said he is surprised at the Liberal party's suggestion that it brought the board into being and that the board's existence would be endangered by a Progressive Conservative government. The board was brought into existence by the Conservative government of the late R. B. Bennett. Subsequent Liberal governments dropped the advisory board, made up with a majority of producers, which guided the wheat board.

Mr. Drew's recent remarks that Communists have infiltrated key industries and that the government knows it received some attention from Justice Minister Garson in Winnipeg.

Mr. Garson released a prepared statement which said that no Communists, known to the government, are employed in a government agency or vital industry with access to defence or secret information.

If Mr. Drew knows of any, it was his duty to give the information to the police. Up to June 30, no such information was received by police or the justice department from Mr. Drew.

On Buck Beard

Meanwhile, Tim Buck, leader of the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party, told a party meeting in Windsor. He said that if Canada stopped "kowtowing to the policies of United States big business that Canada should be a raw materials source and not an independent industrial country then ... then a new future would open before us."

He charged that the U.S. is holding up completion of the St. Lawrence seaway. Its completion would make Windsor a seaport which could trade directly with Russia, China, Poland, Bulgaria, Rumania and other countries. "A growing section of people is willing and ready to take our manufactured products."

External Affairs Minister Pearson touched on international affairs in a meeting at Milliken, Markham, Ont., in his home riding of Algoma. He urged more action to get peace inquiries avoiding anything that could be called appeasement of Communist imperialism and steps that might be rash and provocative.

"The policy is attempting to strengthen and preserve peace is the policy of strength, physical and moral. To keep the peace, extremes must be avoided. We can only keep the peace if we are strong. We can keep strength in a free world if we are united."

Win First Round Claim

Hon. Sidney Smith and Gerald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of the last Parliament for Toronto-Forest Hill, in election campaign speeches that "round one of the political election has gone to the PCs."

The Liberals confined themselves to criticizing the Progressive Conservative platform "and have offered no alternative or a program for the next five years."

Gordon Graydon, foreign affairs expert for the Conservatives in the last Parliament, has left at a combined meeting at Lindsay, Ont., that the liberal government is "over-balanced, top-heavy and has become a political family monopoly."

He said the Progressive Conservatives should win the Aug. 10 election.

In the Maritimes, Prime Minister St. Laurent ended his eastern campaign Friday in the West from Ottawa next Tuesday.

TAFT PREDICTS EISENHOWER PLAN WILL BE REJECTED

Would Send Surpluses To Friendly Nations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Robert Taft (Rep. Ohio) said today he expects Congress to reject President Eisenhower's request for blanket authority to send government-held farm surpluses to friendly foreign nations.

"I don't think there will be any such general authority given," the Senate Republican leader said in an interview. "The agricultural people are against it. They have their own ideas on handling these surpluses. There are many proposals."

And Taft hinted the White House request may have been an effort to head off a farm surplus problem from the $5,318,000,000 foreign aid bill passed by the Senate last month.

Eisenhower asked broad authority to use government-held farm products for Korea and other emergency relief to foreign nations during the next two years.

Asked to Fix Terms

He asked the right to fix terms—but not the cash—the Treasury paying the costs, including delivery, and said that should be separate from the long range military and economic assistance program for the mutual security administration.

Republican chairmen of the Senate and House agriculture committees promised to hold early hearings on the White House request, but tentative plans to adjourn Congress July 31 and powerful opposition to the proposal indicate slight chance for its approval.

Republicans attached the Eisenhower request as a "blank check" and "give away" of more than $3,000,000,000 worth of farm commodities now held by the government under its price-support program.

Senator William Knowland (Rep. Calif.), who has been acting as Republican leader in the senate during from a hip ailment, defended the president's request but opposed adding it to the foreign aid bill.

Knowland said Eisenhower expected congress to write "proper limitations" and would use the requested authority only for emergencies.

Attack Rider

Over opposition of the Republican leadership, Senate Democrats attached to the foreign aid bill a farm surplus rider which allows use of mutual security dollars for purchase of U.S. farm surplus, including meat and butter. Under the rider nations would pay for these surpluses in their own currencies. These foreign currencies then would be used by the U.S. to purchase military equipment and services abroad.

The rider is termed "not a give-away; it is aid by trade."

Under the rider sales would be handled by private trade channels, rather than through the government.

Railway Line Cut By Polish Rebels Against Red Rule

Russians Tanks Hurry East To Quell Spreading Revolt

BERLIN (AP)—Rebellious Poles are reported to have clashed with Russian troops and cut a Soviet supply line to East Germany in an apparent spread of the bloody revolt that swept East Germany June 17. Russian tanks are said to be en route from East Berlin to the Polish border.

The reports of disorders in Poland, including satellite reports published in West Berlin Friday night but could not be confirmed officially. Even since then Germany erupted in strikes and riots 17 days ago, rumors have trickled through the Iron Curtain of similar uprising in both Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf said demonstrations have broken out in Poland and that several persons have been killed in clashes with Soviet troops.

Say Rail Line Cut

The northwest German radio, Radio Bremen, said the East zone, said 12 Soviet trains carrying war reparations from East Germany to Russia had been halted at the Polish border and that Polish partisans had cut the rail line to Brest-Litovsk.

The Bremen broadcast said these reported riots flared in the Polish section of Frankfurt-on-the-Oder, Eastern Germany, and several other Polish border towns last week-end. There was no word from Poland whether the riots were continuing.

The Polish Communist satellites were en route from East Berlin to the Polish border was published in the Berlin Communist-dominated German-language newspaper Neue Leitung. It said the tanks were the same ones which put down the June 17 uprising in East Berlin.

Trying to Find How Woman Met Her Death

YOUNGSTOWN, N. Y. (AP—Police reported today they are investigating the circumstances of how a woman, whose partially-clad body was found Friday in the Niagara river, had met her death.

Inspector Harry M. de Hollander of the New York state police bureau of criminal investigation said the woman was described as "the main thing now is to identify her."

The body, clad in a brassiere, girdle and one stocking, was found near the mouth of the river. Niagara county coroner James W. Neary said an autopsy showed the woman was dead when she entered the water about 24 hours earlier. He said she had received multiple spine, rib and pelvis fractures.

The woman was described as about 45 years old, five feet two and 145 pounds.

The Holabird said she was wearing a wedding band with the engraving: "N.L.W.-F.W.H. 10-18-36."

FIRE NEAR DYNAMITE

TORONTO (CP)—Fire broke out Friday night in the Walker Brothers quarries machine shop but at a time threatened to spread to a dynamite warehouse. Fire Chief Frank Stamford township fought the blaze.

No Curbside Elm, Is Overwhelmed When Sprayed

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Out for an early-morning cooling stroll the man observed a strange-looking vehicle prowling along the curb of his residential street.

He drew into the shadows to watch the mysterious goings-on and find out whether anything sinister was afoot.

Just then the city forestry crew turned on full power of its spray wagon which is making the rounds of the city to treat curbside elm trees.

The observer, squarely in the target area, is likely to be safe from Dutch elm disease for some time.

Lose No Planes In Shooting Down 23 MiG Jets

SEOUL (AP) — The U. S. Air force reported today that not one U. S. Sabre jet was shot down this week in aerial combat which cost the Reds at least 23 MiG jets destroyed, one probably destroyed and two damaged in the air over Korea.

Six Allied aircraft were downed by Red groundfire and the B-26 bomber was lost to other causes, probably engine failure.

Beginning at midnight, Allied sheils ripped into Communist positions and continued at intervals all through the day.

South Korean troops who lost Lookout mountain on the east central front Friday made no new attempts to retake the hill. The 3rd RoK division has been fighting for a week to drive Chinese Reds off the mountain.

Rain and heavy clouds grounded most warplanes, but eight B-29 bombers dropped loads on Red airfields at Sinanju and Pyongyang on the central front and near Kunuri.

At Saiper ridge on the central front, the Chinese suffered about 1,000 casualties in a five-hour probing attack against Allied positions. The Communists launched the assault with machine guns and grenades, the 8th army said.

Allied artillerymen hit briefly on the east side of Finger ridge, the U.S. Eighth army said. Allied patrol west of Finger ridge fell back after briefly engaging an enemy company.

The Finger ridge actions followed the loss of Lookout mountain by South Koreans to the southeast. The RoKs gave up the mile-and-a-half mountain to 450 attacking Chinese just 13 hours after storming its crest.

SARNIA (CP) — Leonard J. Cooper, 39, Polymer Corporation rigger, was electrocuted Thursday when the boom of a crane he was supervising touched a 2,200-volt power line in Point Edward, a veteran of the Second World War, coroner Dr. Alex Gordon said today at the 31st Field Regiment, RCA (reserve). He died in hospital.

American Crews Now Out Of Challenge Cup

HENLEY - ON - THAMES (AP) Britain's Royal Air Force rowing eight today defeated Princeton University by a third of a length in the semi-finals of the Thames Challenge Cup.

The RAF crew thus knocked the last American entry out of the big event of the Henley royal regatta, America's other hope in the event, Kent school of Connecticut, was eliminated Friday.

The Princeton-RCAF race was a thrilling struggle over dead calm water.

Thousands lined the river bank to cheer the gallantly rowing British crew and to welcome the Thames challenge Cup back to Britain. It was won last year by the University of Pennsylvania.

FALLS POPULAR GOAL

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Canadian customs and immigration department men opened extra lanes Friday at the Ambassador bridge and the Detroit-Windsor tunnel to handle heavy week-end travel expected during the United States Independence Day holiday. Inquiries at Ontario tourist information centres were also reported double the normal number. Officials noted that about 90 per cent of the visitors said they intend to visit Niagara Falls, Ont.

Queen Mother And Princess Revisit Fair

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Margaret attended the agricultural show of the Rhodes centenary exhibition.

The Queen Mother opened the 50-day exhibition Friday. It is designed to show the development of Southern Rhodesia for the 100 years since the birth of empire-builder Cecil Rhodes.

The Royal visitors today toured several government stands, including those of Britain, Belgium, France and East Africa.

Specially-invited guests at the exhibition today were surviving pioneers and the widows of men who settled in Rhodesia to open Southern Rhodesia for British development.

Tonight the Royal guests will attend a ball and concert by the British Halle orchestra, flown from England with the Sadler's Wells ballet and Covent Garden Opera Company for a season at the 1,000-seat theatre built at the exhibition.

7 Dogs Maul Couple in Nursing Home 17 Policemen Fire 25 Shots in Rescue

NEW YORK (AP)—Seven dogs, pounced on an elderly couple at a nursing home Friday night and mauled them before 17 armed policemen intervened.

The officers, who aped to the home in eight radio cars and an emergency truck, fired 25 shots in the melee. They killed one of the dogs and captured four others. The dogs were all Boxers. Patrolman Charles Sheridan, 43, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Sheridan, 41, were hospital, where Mrs. Sheridan's condition today was described as critical and her husband's as poor.

Police said they were not sure what precipitated the attack. They added that it was possible that the dogs might have been provoked by a chance wave of Sheridan's cane.

The couple was out for a stroll when the attack occurred. The Boxers streaked out of a fenced enclosure and jumped on them. Both Sheridan and his wife were knocked to the ground by the big dogs, including three full-grown and one puppy, police said.

Handyman Frank Titt, 27, heard the Sheridan' screams and rushed to their aid, picking up Sheridan's cane. He received leg bites from the animals.

Meanwhile, a call had been put out to police and the patrolmen arrived when the attack still was on. One patrolman fired a warning shot which killed one of the dogs. He carefully aimed at Dinny, a year-and-a-half-old, 97-pound male Boxer attacking Mrs. Sheridan.

Dinny, hit in the neck, turned from the woman and fled. The other dogs followed him. Police shot repeatedly. Dinny, however, was hit twice more but kept on running. A fourth and fifth bullet finally brought him down. Officers rounded up the other dogs.

FALSE ALARM TURNED OUT

Sun glinting on a window in a cottage near Rednersville caused a cottager living on the Trent Road above to turn in a fire alarm to provincial police yesterday afternoon.

The "fire" was not located by Provincial Police Constable H. MacKenzie, who searched the neighborhood. The cottager saw what he believed was flames through a telescope, he reported.

WOMAN GIVES TWO POLICEMEN QUITE A TUSSLE

"The lady wuz no lady!"

At least that is what city and provincial police said this week when they ushered a protesting woman into a cell.

The woman was inebriated, they said, and was forced to accept the dignity of overnight accommodation.

She was picked up on the Trent road by provincial police and had a small boy with her. The child was turned over to Children's Aid Society officials.

The woman gave two husky policemen quite a struggle before they succeeded in placing her in the cell.

HORSE IS KILLED WHEN HIT BY CAR

A horse owned by Percy Moore, farmer, residing near Shannonville, was killed on Highway No. 2 shortly after 11 o'clock last night when it was struck by an automobile.

The accident occurred a mile east of Millbrook. The car was owned and driven by Peter Hoek, 82 Strahan St., Hamilton, Ont. Provincial Police Constable Robert Brown conducted the investigation.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club is staging another club race on Sunday afternoon. The boats will start from the George Graham's dock at three o'clock, proceed to "Niggers' Hairway," thence to a buoy off the Redoersville shoreline and back to Graham's.

The observers will be guests of Mr. Graham at a post-race reception.

KINGSTON MAN HELD FOR VAGRANCY

Joseph Turcotte, who gave his address as Kingston, was arrested by city police last night after complaints were laid about the man going from house to house begging food. He was charged with vagrancy.

When arrested Turcotte was found to be in possession of a dollar bill. He was apprehended on the York Trading Company's building on Station Street.

CATERPILLARS CAUSE SEVERE DAMAGE TO BERRY CROP

Tent caterpillars have caused severe damage to the blueberry crop in the northern part of the district, a vendor on the city market said today.

The pests have raided the blueberry patches on the higher ridges, he said, and in a lot of cases have stripped the bushes down to skeletons.

Otherwise the crop is believed to be a normal one.

25-Year Service Pins Awarded Customs Officers

Four members of the Customs and Excise Officers' Association, Bay of Quinte branch, were presented with 25-year service pins at a special meeting in the recreation room of the Corby Distillery last night.

Five other officers were unable to be present to receive their awards.

G. M. Carter, collector of customs for the city of Belleville, was first man to receive his pin. The presentation was made by Percy Robertson, collector for Picton. Mr. Miller, in turn, presented a pin to Mr. Robertson. The collector from Belleville took the chair following the presentation and awarded pins to the other two men present. They were: E. A. P. Wilkie, chief customs officer for Corbyville, and Major H. F. Alford, computing clerk in the Belleville office.

Earlier a 25-year pin had been given Mr. E. (Mel) Clarke (retired) chief clerk of the office, who is a patient in the hospital. All the officers who received their pins last night had 25 years or more service with the department. In the case of Mr. Clarke it was 33 years.

Gladstone Murray To Address Rotary

The first meeting of the 1953-54 season of the Rotary Club will be held Monday under the chairmanship of the club's new president, Harold Mott. Mr. Gladston Murray will be the guest speaker.

Mr. Murray, a Rhodes scholar, has had a varied and interesting career. He was a noted flyer in the great World War, by the time he reached the M.C., D.F.C., the Croix de Guerre and the Italian Silver Medal for Valor. After the war, Mr. Murray wrote the Beaverbrook Daily Express, did publicity work for the League of Nations and then helped give birth to and establish the British Broadcasting Corporation.

In 1936, Mr. Murray became general manager of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and later was appointed director of broadcasting for Canada. Mr. Murray is now policy counsel for the Imperial Tobacco Company Department in Canada.

Mr. Murray's subject on Monday will be "Two Elizabethan Eras."

William Watson Elected to Gideons' Dominion Cabinet

Word has been received from the annual convention of the Gideons international in Calgary, Alberta, held recently, that W. Watson, Belleville, was elected to the executive committee of the Dominion Cabinet.

Mr. Watson will assist in forming the policy and style of organization, as well as being the spiritual leader over some 88 camps and 42 auxiliaries across Canada.

Mr. Watson has been secretary of the local camp of Gideons since its inception five years ago, and much of the credit goes to him for the progress and spiritual attainment the camp has made in that line.

Local Officers Elected

The following officers were elected for the coming year in the Belleville Camp of Gideons: Messrs. Angus Hannah, president; Robert Turner, vice-president, William Watson, secretary, Vernon Neil, treasurer, Dr. Dow, chaplain, Kenneth Groves, memorial Bible secretary.

During the past year the Belleville Camp has placed over 2,500 Bibles and Testaments in the schools and hotels in and around Belleville.

MRS. MARY MITCHELL (Stirling)

STIRLING.—Believed to be at least 100 years old, Mary Mitchell, a resident of Stirling, since she was 17 years of age, died at her home early Friday morning. She occupied a house adjacent to Wesley Johnson with Mrs. Johnson looking in every once in a while to see how she was getting along and helping her with the housework.

On Friday morning Mrs. Johnson made her usual visit and was surprised to find Mrs. Mitchell dead in her bed.

She was born in London, England, of German parentage, but her parents are unknown. She came to Stirling district when she was 17 years of age and had resided in the community all her life. She was well known and highly respected. A member of St. John's Anglican Church, she took an active interest in parish work when health permitted.

There are no known surviving. Her husband, William Mitchell predeceased her some years ago.

CORY NELSON PALMER

On Sunday, June 28, 1953, one of Hillier's oldest and best known residents, Cory Nelson Palmer, died at his home, one mile west of Hillier village.

Although he had been in failing health for some time, he had been ill in bed for only a week.

He is survived by his widow, the former Sarah Elizabeth Flindall, and five children; Benjamin, of Hillier; Mrs. Austin Minto; Clifford of Toronto; Mrs. Wellington (Luella) Jordan, of Hillier; and Mrs. Gordon (Olive) Vance, of Milltown. Two other daughters, Frank (Dorothy) Hubbs and Nora Jane Belle Palmer, died a number of years ago. Twenty-two grandchildren and twenty-four great grandchildren also survive.

The late Cory Nelson Palmer was a life long resident and had lived all his life in Hillier. Until twelve years ago he was actively engaged in farming.

The funeral was held at the family residence, Saturday, June 30 at 2 p.m. The burial service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Bromley, United Church minister at Consecon, assisted by Rev. Mr. Hunter, minister of the Christ Church at Hillier.

There were many beautiful floral tributes. Bearers were: Harold Adams, Ross Burris, Lloyd Wood, Percy Herrington, Fred Way and Jack Campbell.

Interment was at Glenwood cemetery, Picton.

CHARLES HENRY SAUNDERS

The funeral of Charles Henry Saunders took place from the Bellevile Funeral Home on Friday afternoon, Canon J. D. Creegan of Christ Church conducted the service in the chapel and also at Belleville cemetery, where interment was made.

On Thursday evening members of the Canadian Legion, Branch No. 99 attended in a body and conducted their own impressive ceremony of their comrade.

The bearers were: A. Armitage, T. Sculthorpe, J. Pitman, F. Daniels, R. Newton and R. Simpson.

MRS. EMMA ELIZABETH BALCANQUAL

The funeral of Mrs. Emma Elizabeth Balcanqual was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home on Friday afternoon to St. Andrew's United Church at Gilead, where the service was conducted by the Rev. W. R. Merrick assisted by Rev. L. S. Towne of Cannifton. The last rites were said by Mr. Merrick in Gilead cemetery.

The bearers were Kenneth Hagerman, Ross Hagerman, Donald McLaughlin, Gerald Swan, Carman and John Huffman.

MISS ANNIE AGNES CARR

The funeral of Miss Annie Agnes Carr was held from the Belleville Funeral Company Funeral Home this Saturday afternoon. Service in the chapel was conducted by Captain Fred Bridgewell of the Salvation Army and he also said the last rites in Belleville cemetery.

2,500 Workers In Factories Here On Holidays Soon

The "next four weeks will be vacation time" for a great number of the working force in the Belleville community, a check of the larger industrial plants made this week revealed that more than 2,500 persons will be on holidays during the last two weeks in July and the first week of August.

Most plants will be shut down completely, except for skeleton maintenance staffs, during this period. Some, however, have the holiday period staggered throughout the year. A few have staggered schedule over four weeks during this month and August.

During the last week of July and on staggered shifts one week previous and after, about 300 will be on holidays at Corby's Distillery. At the Bata plant 240 will holiday during a complete shutdown from July 20 to August 3. Another hundred workers at the Belleville Lock Nut factory will be off the week of July and the first week of August.

The largest holiday group in the city will be off from July 13 to July 25 when 800 workers at the Northern Electric go on vacation. Another 400 workers at Deacon Bros. will be off from July 17 to August 3. The Bingham-Adamson plant, with 210 employees, will be closed for two weeks from July 27.

A skeleton staff will be on the job in the Stewart-Warner plant when most of the 250 persons on the payroll get holidays from July 17 and August 4. During the same period another 105 will have vacations at the McFarland-Woodenware plant.

At the Canada Cement plant nearly 200 will have holidays on a staggered schedule through July and August.

Jungle Patrol in Malaya

Rene Cutforth gives a first-hand account in London Calling of the fighting against communist guerillas in the Malayan jungle, where 50,000 soldiers of eight different races are playing a deadly game of hide-and-seek, except for some parts of South America, the toughest and most difficult forest country in the world.

The Malayan jungle, where 50,000 soldiers of eight different races are now playing a deadly game of hide-and-seek, is, except for some parts of South America, the toughest and most difficult forest country in the world. It is a wet, evergreen mass of fierce vegetation about the size of England, often 100 feet high, and sweltering all the year round in a temperature of about ninety degrees at midday.

The only people who really know it are the Sakai and other primitive aboriginal tribes who live in its thickest depths on roots and grubs and wild honey and the birds of the jungle pig which they hunt with blowpipes and tiny bows and arrows. But these people take no part in the fighting, though they have occasionally resisted raids on their settlements by starving Communist guerillas.

The soldiers—the British, the Gurkhas, the Africans from Kenya, the men from Fiji, as well as the indigenous Malays, Chinese and Indians — have had painfully to work out their own methods of living and fighting in the jungle, for they were not bred in the forest.

Of all the fighting men only the few jungle trackers from Borneo called Ibans are really at home there, and they have been distributed among the other units as specialists. These men can tell from the look of a few blades of grass on a jungle trail exactly how many and what kind of men have passed that way and how long ago.

Methods of the Aboriginal

The method of warfare painfully evolved by all these strangers in the end resembles, as you might expect, the methods of the aboriginal Sakai who, in the days of the Japanese occupation, were known sometimes to follow army stragglers in the forest for days on end, hoping to be present only by the occasional flight of arrows out of dark thickets which kept the strangers moving in whatever direction the Sakai wanted them to move, a kind of nightmare hide-and-seek. And though it is unlikely that any unit in Malaya is one-tenth as good as these jungle tactics as the Sakai are, nevertheless they have learned a great deal in a short time.

In the jungle it is not long before a man finds himself, for instance, finds himself able to live—and with some reliability all the untrained animal part of his Stone Age hunting ancestors; all his senses alive and concentrated in deadly silence and stealthiness on the primitive business of surviving and not being seen, knowing and not being known, killing and not being killed. This is a war where parade-ground training is at a discount. Let a man relax on his own eyes, ears, and nose and, at the end of a day, more and more on queer instincts and hunches which he has learned to trust because he has noticed he finds they are right. In England the fear of a whole animal and the dog is the friend of man, but in the jungle the copendium of all the virtues is—the cat.

The communist guerillas (there are about 5,000 of them, men and women) live in the edges of the jungle, usually not more than six miles in from the villages and settled areas. For they are by no means up to Sakai standards in wresting a living from the forest, have to live largely by blackmail. Only one in every twenty-five or thirty is a Malay; the rest are Chinese and most of them have been in the jungle for years. They live in rough camps in the thick parts of the forest and they have become very clever at concealing these camps from Air Force reconnaissance. Except for clay paths like rabbit runs, made by game, the jungle is trackless, and warfare is a matter of incessant routine patrolling in the hope of flushing a bandit, or special patrols organized in haste to comb some area where shooting has been heard.

The Commonwealth armies live scattered around the jungle's edge, usually in units of not more than company strength, for unless there is hard information pin-pointing a very considerable headquarters of guerillas, a platoon is a big patrol. Each unit has its own defensive locality, walls covered with air photographs showing what appear to be identical squares of the same thick, woolly rug—the jungle, but each covered with a network of white lines marking the streams, the only forest openings where appearance remains constant for long weeks together, the Company Headquarters at any time usually has one routine report out on it, and a platoon standing by as reserve for any special emergency, and the word "resting," as it is called, which means any form of activity not actually jungle-bound.

Standing By

When news of a possible kill comes through to 'Ops.' on the telephone, there is a brief clamour of orders and telephone bells, and the 'stand-by' platoon which has been resting, fully armed and booted with its packs ready to slip on, parades in front of 'Ops.' for a quick inspection by its commander under the broiling sun, hops into trucks, and is away in five minutes.

I watched a number of patrols of various races go out on these operations, some in the Malayan jungle, and accompanied some of them. The routine patrols are sometimes live in the forest for weeks at a time. The methods evolved by various units differ a little in detail and their reaction to the basic experience is just as well what you would expect. All the obvious guesses are wrong. The Africans, for instance, find the jungle in Malaya almost insupportable. The Fijians are the ones who feel in sort of home-from-home. The Malays, from their wet, mild, northern shore, have as good a record—in fact a slightly better record—in jungle warfare than anybody else. They are just as much at sea as the Africans and more so than the Malays.

An average patrol consists of about twenty men. Every one carries a pack weighing 45 lbs. as he can stand with it, and he also has rations in it, a complete change of clothing, a 'poncho' which is a sort of waterproof cape or groundsheet which can be used as a shelter at night, a tin of mosquito-repellent paste, and anti-malarial tablets. The War Office did elaborate a jungle mosquito, net like a bee-keeper's veil, but though it exists in quite a few ounces, and seems efficient, hardly anyone has ever taken it since the extra few ounces in the heat-and-sweat of the trail come to seem intolerable.

The patrol carries a green gun, light, small rifles patented expressly with flash eliminators at the muzzles, and a light automatic gun, like a Sten, but more handy, called the 'Owen' gun. Curiously enough, the old "dischargecup' which went out of fashion at the beginning of the 1939 war has come into its own in the jungle. It is a device for attaching a grenade from a rifle up to about 300 yards, and has been found very useful for flushing jungle or immature jungle called belukar, which is usually about five feet high and harbors guerilla look-out posts.

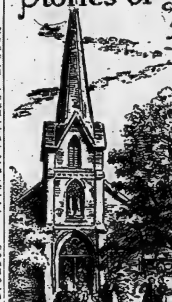
This is the standard sverage equipment, but it is an individualistic war and all the rules are relaxed. I met a unit armed almost entirely with shotguns. "They're very lucky in the jungle," its commander said, 'if you have as much as thirty yards of visibility, so what's the good of taking a rifle? If a man is dodging and ducking into the leaves ahead of you, you've much more chance of hitting him with a shotgun which has a spread. We use the biggest shot—five to a cartridge. And we've got another barrel ready for the next chap.

Movement in the jungle country is exhausting, and jungle fighters well know the degrees and qualities of discomfort and fatigue which go with different varieties of country. Rubber is the best. In a rubber plantation which looks like a vast, rain forest of rather ugly silver birches, the ground is clean and it is comparatively cool under the leaves where moving air can penetrate. It is dangerous, though, for there is not much cover, but most rubber estates are too near civilization to be badly infested by bandits.

Snake-Infested 'Lalang'

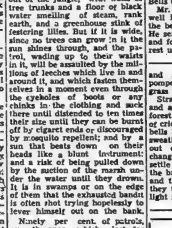
Surrounding the jungle's edge the vast plains of tough, sharp grass called lalang, bright green but still like dead vegetation and growing in clumps nearly two feet out of the ground, are impossible for various reasons. It is very hot in the lalang if the sun is shining, there is no cover for moving men, and it is full of snakes. And if a fire is raining, the patrol will be wet to the skin in twenty seconds. Lalang also has the unpleasant property of catching fire, bright green as it is. Sometimes the sun sets whole acres of it ablaze.

On the jungle's edge there is usually a strip of belukar and secondary jungle, which may be a mile thick, and through this jungle fringe is the worst country of all for discomfort, but not for danger. Visibility is good, the jungle floor is about shoulder high, usually, very free and open, though it looks like a kind of giant brackish swamp. The soldier wades and ploughing through it is a miserable business, for the sun's heat is reflected from the water into the faces of the men who are trying to keep their rifles dry and in it, and very soon begin to look as if they had been boiled. Snakes live in the belukar, and jungle pig which stampede suddenly giving away the patrol position.



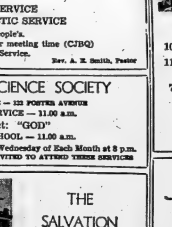
It is in this country that, occasionally, the look-out post of the bandit guerillas gives itself away and the grenade discharge is brought to bear on some small group of bandits burrowing into the scrub to escape.

It is in the jungle which the belukar surrounds like a fringe that you usually see and, indeed, it happens to be made of bamboos, which grow so thickly together that sometimes the only way through is by cutting juicy stems with a parang, a thick Malay knife like a butcher's cleaver but two ft. long. There is a white flash and the man at the front severs each stem at one shot, but this type of progress is frustrating. In the latest jungle instructions from the roles of change can be heard for miles and it is best to avoid bamboo altogether. In the belukar the patrol is a cathedral gloom and silence. A low undergrowth at the base of the trees may conceal anything from a bandit to a twenty-foot python or even a tiger, but visibility is poor. You can, if you are experienced, vanish dead in less than a second. And so can the bandits.

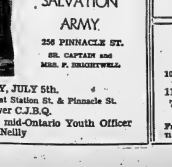


Perils of the Immature

From time to time in the jungle, wide streams of water:—usually like the milk chocolate and swiftly—break the advance, and occasionally the patrol will come out at the edge of a wide expanse of still, black water. This is a swamp. If it is narrow, it will look like a great room hollowed out of the jungle, with walls of tree trunks and a floor of black water smelling of steam, rank earth, and a greenhouse stink of festering lilies. But if it is wide, since no trees can grow in it the sun shines down, and the patrol, wading up to their waists in it, will be assailed by the millions of leeches which live in and around it, and which fasten themselves in a moment even through the eyelets of boots or any chinks in the clothing and suck there until distended to ten times their size until they can be burnt off by cigarett ends or discouraged by mosquito repellent; and by a sun that beats down on their heads like a blunt instrument; and a risk of being pulled down by the suction of the marsh under the water until they drown. It is in swamps or on the edge of them that the exhausted bandit life often shot trying hopelessly to lever himself out on the bank.



Nasty per cent. of scrofula even the ones which last for weeks, are marked on the report as N.Y.D.—nothing to report. At night, when no one—guerilla or soldier—has the temerity to risk drowning or a broken neck along the jungle tracts, the silence which all day has been kept inviolaculate, except for a jungle bird with three melancholy notes or the scolding of a tribe of monkeys, is broken at last by an orchestra, an orchestra which tunes up exactly at dusk, whose treble is a million million mosquitoes in unison with a tenor of green birds



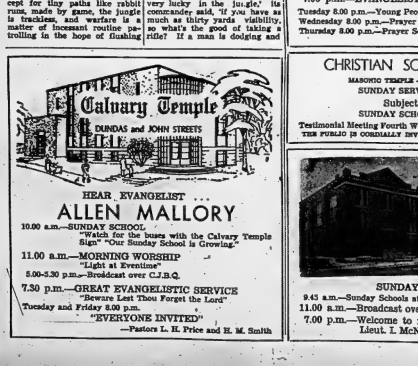
Stories of Famous Hymns

By HORACE B. POWELL

Come To the Saviour

Come to the Saviour, make no delay;
Here is His word He's shown us the way:
Here in his midst He's standing today,
Tenderly saying, "Come!"

"Suffer the children!" Oh, hear His voice,
Let every heart leap forth and rejoice,
And let us freely make Him our choice;
Do not delay, but come.



Think once again, He's with us today;
Heed now His blest commands, and obey;
Hear now His accents tenderly say,
"Will you, My children, come?"

This hymn of Christian invitation, a favorite in many revivals, was written by George F. Root, whose name always brings recollections of the glorious time which he wrote for William O. Cushing's gospel song, "Ring the Bells Of Heaven."

Mr. Root's music was composed well in advance of the birth of the bells of heaven hymn-writer. He sent the tune to Mr. Cushing and for days the latter could not rest until he had found words to go with it.

Mr. Root wrote both words and music for his own hymn, "Come To The Saviour." A Presbyterian minister, serving a church in a western state, once told how he had taken the song in revival meetings. In the church where the meetings were held there were a man and wife who, though loyal workers in the congregation, had never professed Christ. Then, one day, women of the church held a prayer meeting at which Mr. Root's soul-winning hymn was sung. The woman who had evaded conversion was present and as the song went along the others in the room saw that she was much moved by its message.

"Will you please sing it over again?" she asked when the song ended, and when the song had been repeated she announced her decision to accept Christ as her Saviour. Several days later when, at a revival service, an invitation to unite with the church, the woman and her husband both came forward to surrender their lives to God.

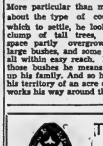
BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

BIRS

Comparatively few really gorgeous birds ever come as far south as Canada, but nobody can dispute the remarkable beauty of our rose-breasted grosbeak with his handsome black and white suit, and soft pink lining his wings as well as making his bib. Coming to a perfect point, far down on his breast, this bib in contrast to the soft pink suffusion on the redpoll, looks as though it were neatly cut out of rose velvet.



Before the middle of May, this stunning male arrives from his winter holidays, which might have been in south Mexico, or even Venezuela or Ecuador. More particular than most birds about the type of country in which to settle, he looks for a clump of tall trees, an open space partly overgrown with large bushes, and some water — all within easy reach. In one of those bushes he means to bring up his family, and he chooses the territory of an acre or so, and works his way around the border, singing lustily to let other grosbeaks know that this is "rented." His song has often been likened to a robin's, but his voice is richer and there is a continuous flow of notes, up and down the scale. He both sings and moves deliberately.

Mrs. Rose-breasted arrives and is satisfied with the situation the building is begun in a crotch at least six feet high. The finished nest is not very substantial looking for a plump, 8-inch bird. Twigs, stems, grass, and rootlets are loosely woven together. When 3, 4 or 5 brown spotted eggs are laid, they take turns incubating. As the beautiful male sits on the nest he sings softly to himself.

Mrs. Rose-breasted has no rose bib. She is a soft brown, buff, and white. Although resembling a large sparrow, she is quite distinct, with her large, pale bill, well marked head with a very distinct white stripe above the eye, and two prominent, white wing bars.

There is not much difficulty in feeding the family, as this species will seek fruit, or insects; but the great fondness for potato bugs, though helpful to farmers, seems to be unusual taste.

The children leave the nest when early in July. The little ones look almost exactly like their mother; the little boys can be identified by the indication of a pink bib, and when they fly the Rose-breasted are shown in the lining of their baby wings.

THIS TYPE OF INSTRUCTION NEEDED

Dr. J. B. Kirkpatrick, of McGill University, recently told a Montreal audience that Canadian schools are wandering too far out of their territory. They are, he said, attempting to teach a lot of things not directly associated with formal education. As a result, they are in danger of falling down in their regular work. As examples of doubtful activities he mentioned driving education, sex education and physical education.

Now we are not disposed to quarrel with the general theme of Dr. Kirkpatrick's argument but we must take violent exception to the selection of examples of unnecessary school activities.

It is true, of course, that instruction in the three fields mentioned by Dr. Kirkpatrick can be given in the home, at no out-of-pocket expense to the taxpayer. We suggest, however, that this was actually a very costly method.

Poor drivers cause accidents, which result in property damage. We taxpayers pay for that—through higher car insurance rates. Poor drivers also kill people. We taxpayers often pay to maintain the dependents of the slain person.

Home teaching, of course, are as well qualified to instruct their children in proper driving techniques as any teacher. But are all parents as capable as the best teacher a school board has available for the task? We think it unlikely.

Sex education was also given at home. Here, too, there were some parents who did as good a job as could any teacher. But some parents made no attempt whatever to instruct their children — and the efforts of some other parents were probably worse than useless. This lack of instruction or erroneous information proved costly —not only to the children but to the taxpayers.

As for physical education, the fact that the prosperity and safety of a nation depend on the health of its citizens is so obvious that there seems little use in laboring the point. Just what standard of physical fitness resulted from home training in physical education may be revealed by the physical examinations conducted by the armed forces during the war years. That schools can improve on this record we are not certain—but they cannot do much worse. . . .

That instruction in such subjects is not within the field we have been accustomed to allot to schools we are ready to grant. But it would not be fair to condemn so-called "frills" we vigorously deny. Some trimmings can be cut off the curriculum — but not these.

A COURAGEOUS STAND

The members of the Vancouver Labor Council showed considerable courage recently when they decided to get all the facts before criticizing the decision of the B.C. Electric to purchase transmission towers from an Italian firm.

The Vancouver Sun, in supporting this decision, states that the facts will reveal that the Italian firm will build the towers for $750,000, while the lowest bid from any B.C. firm was $1,750,000.

After declaring that the purchase from Italy will enable that country to purchase Canadian goods and will thus promote international trade, the Sun almost inadvertently reveals one reason why objections might be raised to such a purchase. Some of the towers, it explains, "will be shipped to Britain by sailing vessels abroad," it says, are not protesting "against Britain buying salmon and lumber from the Soviet Union, where slave wages permit selling at much lower costs than high B.C. wages allow." Now Italian labor, of course, is not slave labor, but that it is lower paid than B.C. labor and that this lower wage scale is the reason why the Italian firm can so decisively under-bid B.C. firms seems beyond dispute.

Once again it appears as if we have here a problem for which there is no quick and easy solution. Indeed, it would seem that each individual case would have to be judged on its merits.

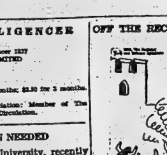
But similar circumstances often exist in the consideration of bids from firms which are not entirely in control of the country. It often heard that "home industry" should be patronized, regardless of any differences in prices. Probably only municipal bodies pay much attention to such arguments. And even they, we suggest, would be wise to ignore them. True, some differences in wage standards do exist within Canada—but all these workers are Canadians and if their wages would be too low, it would appear that one of the best methods to assist them to attain similar advantages to those enjoyed by their fellow-workers in other parts of the nation would be to provide their employers with business and make it possible for them to increase wage rates. Conversely, it is no real kindness to a firm with a high-cost level to keep it operating at this level, rather than forcing it to do something realistic about reducing its costs so that it can compete with other companies, not only in the domestic market but also in the world market. Experience has shown that in many instances high-cost problems can be solved without resort to a reduction in wages.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1953, Edgar A. Guest)

Time was I'd risk a hand or eye
To celebrate our country's birth,
Big giant crackers I would buy
Back then, at least a dollar's worth.
And I'd be out at early dawn
For fun, as well as freedom's sake,
Setting them off upon the lawn,
Keeping the neighbors wide awake.



But parents, wiser than were we
Who matured in our own beds of pain,
Began to think the day should be
A time for celebration sane.
The sixteenth Fourth should come and go

Without the loss of limb or sight,
And I am older now, and know
Without a doubt that they were right.

It's better far with reverence deep
Our banner of the free to raise,
And with renewed devotion keep
This glorious day of all the days.
And this th morning prayer I
That always through the ages
That God will keep, for freedom's sake,
Our country steadfast, brave and strong.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE DAYS

25 YEARS AGO

July 4, 1933

Mr. Thomas Cushing was home from Montreal to spend the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cushing, Alexander Street.

Major W. J. Cook and family are spending the summer at their cottage at Little Belgium, Trent Road.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes, Toronto, spent the week-end with Mr. Hayes father, Mr. Patrick Hayes, Catherine Street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Webster of Galt, formerly of Belleville, spent the week-end here with Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Legate, East Bridge Street.

Mr. Robert Holton of New York City, an old Belleville resident, is spending a few days in town with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Dudley have left here to reside in Brockville. Many friends regret their departure from Bell City.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Reeves of Detroit spent the week-end here with Miss Reeves, Charles Street.

Mr. Vincent Hudgins is here from Toronto to spend a vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hudgins, Dunbar Street.

50 YEARS AGO

July 5, 1923.

Fleurry Robinson of Queen Victoria School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Robinson, Canniton Hall, has won the Governor General medal in the entrance examinations to the high school. Lorine Sprague of Queen Alexandra School, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Sprague, Dufferin Ave., won the prize awarded by the Daughters of the Empire. The scholarships by the County Council, was won by Jean Leslie of School Section No. 11, Thurlow Township. This is the first year that the County Council has donated a medal and it will be an annual prize.

The members of the staff of the Daily Intelligencer were guests at a strawberry party at the home of Mr. Phil Harrison, on Lewis Street, last evening. Mr. Harrison is a member of the Intelligencer staff and he entertained his associates royally.

40 YEARS AGO

July 4, 1913.

Two motorists, strangers in the city, when driving on Coleman Street this morning made look the footbridge for the lower bridge and turned quickly upon the sidewalk leading to the footbridge. The car struck the bridge, but no serious damage resulted.

Mr. Kenneth MacMillan is home from Montreal to spend his vacation.

Mr. Willis Maclachian of this city was elected third vice president at a meeting of the Canadian Electrical Association in Toronto last week.

Mr. Harry Carre, an old Belleville boy, is home on a visit from Detroit. He made the trip of 95 miles on his bicycle over rough and hilly roads in thirteen hours. He intends to make the return trip in the same way. He is visiting his parents, Mr. Henry Carre, C. E. and Mrs. Carre, Albet Street.

50 YEARS AGO

July 4, 1942.

The Rev. E. N. Baker, M.A., D.D., late pastor of the Methodist Church in Stratford, has left to assume his duties as pastor of Bloor Street Methodist Tabernacle in Toronto.

Dr. Robert G. Moore, an old Belleville boy, has been appointed house surgeon at the Norwegian Lutheran Deaconess Home and Hospital in Brooklyn, N.Y. He is the youngest doctor ever appointed to the position.

Prof. Jasper Doolittle of the staff at Albert College, has left for Winnipeg where he will spend part of his vacation.

A number of young men left yesterday as guests of Mr. B. L. Hyman on his yacht the Retta for a cruise down the bay. They will be absent for several days.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE WORLD AND ALL

It is lucky that so many of us, as human beings, have so much in common. We rise in the scale of knowledge as we meet more and more people, read more and more books—and meditate more and more. Montaigne once wrote: "I wish to make the world my book of study." Then he went to what he called his cradle, and wrote all about himself, for then he knew that he was writing about all humankind.

When we read the stories about great men and women, we are apt to think that they must be of a different mould from us, but they are not. The most them—any one of them—without knowing of their greatness, we could look upon most of them as quite akin to us. Kant was a famous philosopher, but if he could be welcomed back to life for a talk he might casually tell us that he "smoked, played billiards and had a fancy for candied fruit," just like any one of us. People are interesting, and that makes some so dominant is that their study grows more of the world and all, and they spread their gain in attractiveness. I read where it was written of Confucius "That he had no foregone conclusions, no arbitrary predilections, no obstinacy and no egotism." No wonder such a name remains alive in the world. The same could be said of many another human personality.

We need hold no one in awe, no matter how great the fame or reputation. Just bear in mind that he is human and has only seen more and learned more. Goethe tells of Napoleon that a mere look at his eye "disposed of superfluous persons with ease." They were pierced through by his glance, and saw themselves already shot or beheaded!" That is somewhat the case with our "monarchs of the mind," but nothing like as powerfully masked. Their speculations are of the world and all—including the humblest of us.

Bathing Suits Made of Paper

(Fort William Times-Journal)

Paper bathing suits from the forests of Northwestern Ontario. That is one of the latest possibilities in the day of new scientific research.

In New York models displayed paper bathing suits, paper hats and coats, paper ice buckets and other products.

A man would be foolish though, if he were to wear paper a bathing beach crowded with young ladies wearing these paper bathing suits and hope for rain. Wet or dry, this kind of swimming suggery is strong.

The American Cyanamid Company has added materials to their pulp, thus binding the fibres tighter and producing a tough, serviceable material.

Victory Not Enough

(Lord Robert Cecil in the House of Lords)

By itself, rearmament is not enough. We want peace, and not only victory. That is why for centuries past men have sought for some international organization by which peaceful settlement of international disputes would take the place of war. Indeed, it may be said that after every considerable war in recent times some proposal of that kind has been made. That was the origin of the League of Nations and, when that failed, it was followed by the United Nations Organization.

The central problem, however, remained unsolved. How can prevention of war be combined with recognition of sovereignty? The scheme of the Charter was to prohibit aggression by requiring all the United Nations to combine against an aggressor. For this purpose, a Council was created consisting of five permanent members and nineteen non-permanent members, with the responsibility of using the elaborate permanent machinery created by the Charter, though in fact it has not been set up under the Charter, for preventing war by forcibly stopping aggression.

To prevent misuse of this formidable power, and for other reasons, it was provided that all decisions of the Council except procedural ones should require the agreement of all the five permanent members. This provision was inserted, I believe, on strong representations made by more than one of the five. Its effect, of course, has been to give to each of them the right of veto in connection with the Council, except matters of procedure. Now, I am not blaming people to have deprived the Council of any practical power under the Charter, but I am explaining the reason.

To my mind, this is a misapprehension. The truth is that no sovereign, independent nation can be compelled to do anything which it disapproves, except by using force. That is the plain meaning of the Charter. It is the only way to compel all the United Nations to take action against an aggressor.

It would have been better to have condemned aggression . . . as indeed is done in Chapter I of the Charter, but that is not enough, but not compelled, those who accepted the Charter, to take steps necessary in particular cases to make that condemnation effective. The same criticism applies to the League of Nations . . . The members of the League were not compelled to stop aggression, and, I must admit, the system eventually—effectively? Why? Because the fact that composed the League were not prepared to go to war against it . . .

Does that mean that the international organization is useless? Not at all. It enables the nations which join it to take action against an aggressor without incurring the reproach that by so doing they are themselves guilty of the crime of aggression, as, of course, happened in Korea; and the general condemnation of the aggressor remains as a warning to all the world to keep the peace . . .

But there is another point. In essence, any plan of the international organization for peace must rest on a foundation of common agreement, the strength of which depends on the acceptance of certain basic propositions which are the very life of life we know as Christian civilization. That, to me, is the most fundamental essential to any successful international action for peace.

There must be some fundamental agreement on what it can be based. For that reason we must recognize that we are living in an age once to-day of a great crisis, not only in our own history but in the history of the world. For the last two thousand years we have seen the gradual growth in Europe, Asia, America, Africa, and Oceania of a type of life which we describe as Christian civilization. Its growth has been imperfect and irregular, but it has never stopped. It seems to me a pity that we talk so much of Communism, which I understand to mean the abolition of private property. That embodies an economic theory which I believe to be dangerous and impracticable, but it is quite a different thing from dialectical materialism.

If you ignore or abolish the spiritual nature of man, you destroy the foundation on which rests all true justice and freedom, except such as can flow from the love of money or what money can buy. It is that very principle which is the saying that the love of money is the root of all kinds of evil.

This then is what I believe to be the central doctrine of Bolshevism; and it has been put forward—do not let us forget it—by the most apparatus of a new religion. Its creed is, I understand, said to be contained in the writings of Marx and Engels as developed by Lenin and Stalin and by Malenkov and now by the present Government of Russia.

Its familiar name is the "Party Line," and any "deviation" from it is treated as a heresy. Nevertheless, by any Russian Government officials other than Communists, in any of what are called the satellite States, has been a capital offence, and, though abjured by the most abject self-confession it is, I believe, practised still. It is, nevertheless, true that from the Russian Government and the party line are put forward by the infallible authority of the Russian Government officials. There can be here many of the world attributes of a religion, though a godless religion.

To defend ourselves, we and other nations have rearmament. We adopted, quite rightly, as I have said in principle, rearmament. That is the only way to prevent the necessities of immediate attack. But the reason for that purpose should be is more a military one than a political one. Rearmament fulfil its object it should evidently be no reason for going to war. It is, however that may be, the policy of rearmament is subject to this oldestablished limitation: that force is no remedy.

Force may be a protection, but it will not be a cure. What more, it will not be a remedy. It is only a palliative. It is only a means of gaining time. It is only a means of preventing evil, and I can only say that I wish that we had all proclaimed clearly enough the policy on which we hold . . Do not let us forget that the world structure that was built on what I have called the Christian principles of the love of truth, justice and freedom, not only of race or race or nation but for all mankind.

Christian civilization is the only thing that can withstand Communism. It seems true that Russian policy has been recently intensified, and, with President Eisenhower, we all rejoice at and welcome the change. But we must not be materialism, as far as we know, Communism is dead. Any such radical change is made in that principle we may hope that greater co-operation between East and West may be possible, but I do not see how we can have any permanent security for peace.

Home-Made Flying Saucer

(New York Herald Tribune)

Considerable fuel will be added to the ancient controversy over whether art imitates life or vice versa by the news that Canada's first flying saucer has been seen flying over her so long that it has become necessary to vest them in a flying saucer, of course, is a seriously intended device; it is a practical undertaking new principles of flight which may or may not succeed in revolutionizing established the concepts.

The immediate reaction of the common man, however, is likely to be one of satisfaction that a genuine saucer is on the way at last. The Martians, perhaps, it was the Venusians, seemed so far ahead of us that the more advanced ones men were beginning to feel a little embarrassed. Even now, however, there are always flying saucers imported from faraway points—the British Isles, for example, produce automobiles, French wines and German sausages—and Canadian saucer and argue that it doesn't hold a candle to the machine from Mars that whizzed ov the house last night. But you can't please everybody.

Canada's saucer, which bears the name Avrocar, is an honest effort. If it succeeds, saucers overhead may remain commonplace, but people won't even look at them unless they carry cups. They may

Testing Steam In Outboards

(Sudbury Star)

A boon to fishermen, summer cottagers and people who just love to cruise, will be the elimination of the noisy put-put from outboard motors.

It seems that the defence department is the latest to be interested in testing a steam-driven outboard motor that gets rid of the explosive combustion of gasoline motors.

Nothing can be more annoying than the noise of outboard motors on an inland lake where people seeking rest and relaxation live in the summertime.

Ordinary cruising can be tolerated, but it seems that every time a boat passes a neighbor who wants to race and roar simply over the water, or dispose of the underwater exhaust to let everyone know he is out on the lake.

The steam-driven outboard motor may be the answer to a lot of people's prayers.

Personal Health Talks

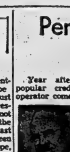
THE DEMAND FOR SECURITY



Year after year, thanks to popular credulity, some smart operator comes up with a wonderful new reducing method which is so scientific that no dieting, exercise or other disagreeable effort or operation is necessary. Just eat a pound a day easily! As soon as the first one hundred thousand customers have planked down $2 each, as an earnest of intention to follow the simple rules, the squawks begin, this and that bureau starts inquiring into the business, the operator pays off the creditors and fades with, say $50,000 cash in his jeans. No matter, another year another crop of fatheads will contribute another $200,000 to try the reducing treatment that science has at last perfected.

In the mail delivery today there are queries like these:

"I am a heavy smoker can a man smoke without injuring his health? My son smokes 2 packs a day and coughs continually. Has pain in his chest. Where can he get treatment for cancer of the lung. . . .he can't take it at work? (Mrs. . . .)

He always says he can quit any time he wants to, but he goes right on drinking until. . . . For our sake and his own won't you please tell me something I can put in his coffee . . . ? (Mrs. . . . .)

For the cigarette smoker I have little patience. He and several millions other individuals are the same wishy-washy character, need, well, let's say they need discipline.

Dr. Brady

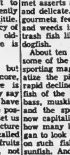
Well, it's not as if they were ignorant of the facts. Everybody knows that the nicotine can a man smoke without injuring his health? My son smokes 2 packs a day and coughs continually. Has pain in his chest. Where can he get treatment for cancer of the lung. . . .he can't take it at work? (Mrs. . . .)

He always says he can quit any time he wants to, but he goes right on drinking until. . . . For our sake and his own won't you please tell me something I can put in his coffee . . . ? (Mrs. . . . .)

For the cigarette smoker I have little patience. He and several millions other individuals are the same wishy-washy character, need, well, let's say they need discipline.

Why should anybody be so viciously shaking a lure from their jaws.

To call them pike would not do. in the sport magazines and on the radio American began referring to them as Great Northern Pike. This is misleading in that it was a little comic. True, in the real northern Canadian lakes there are pike of this size but they are rare and numbers of tackle-busters have been caught in streams fairly convenient. But down in the main tourist belt, where the average pike failing to the visitors' lure ran around two to four pounds, and never the twain shall meet, Canadians as highly ludicrous to hear the pompous Yankee talk of pike usually as Great Northern Pike.



This is the century of the common man and of the common sense. In only ten years, the beatification of the pike is now complete. This year, the sportsmen no longer refer to them as Great Northern Pike. They have cut pike all together; and with flashing eyes, they shout, "Great Northern!" "Bees up in Canada," they say, "fishing for Great Notherns!"

The PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The commonest fish in Canada, found from coast to coast, though rare in Manitoba, is the pike. It goes by a great variety of names, jack, jackfish, snake, pike. Canadians generally have held and still hold a low opinion of them. Great numbers of Canadians won't eat it, though the odd gourmet who starts a pike's fish very delicate. Those who are not gourmets for the pike can taste and needs in it, and class it with trash fish like the ling and the dogfish.

About ten or fifteen years ago, some of the American sport and sporting magazines began to dramatize the pike. In view of the rapid decline in the municipal game fish of the continent, the trouts, the muskies, the tourist trade and the sporting goods industry, now capitalized at goodness knows how billions of dollars, began to look with ardent respect upon such fish as remained, the pickerel and, of course, pike. We began to see dramatic stories of pike, pike curved in the air, exposing savage fangs and

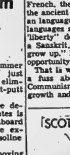
THE RIGHT TO GROW



If you will look in Webster's Unabridged Dictionary under the word "liberty" you will find the following: "Liberty" derives ultimately from a Sanskrit word which means "to grow up." Liberty, therefore is the opportunity to grow up.

And is why we are making such a fuss about communism today. Communism is the devil's way of stopping growth and make the human race, morally, and intellectually, and eventually physically, mere pigmies. The English-speaking people of Canada and the U.S. as they think upon their privileges of political and personal liberty, are thankful. We read in the Bible that "The Lord is that Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

Sound religion is above everything else a process of emancipation. Religion makes people free. Anyone living in fear, bound by the chains of religion, he is in really bound himself by the chains of ignorance or of superstition, or of selfishness. Religion delivers us strikes off all fetters. To be free from something is to grow. God and Liberty!

CIVIL DEFENCE
Do's and Don't's
By JACK BRETT

This is the last in the series of scheduled civil defence articles which have appeared in the Ontario Intelligencer over the past few weeks. It is the hope of the C. D. officials, the publisher of this paper and the writer, that the information presented in this space may prove to be of some value in case of a disaster. It is also hoped the information may never be needed.

What to do in the case of an air raid and what not to do is a broad topic for one column; however, there are a number of do's and don't's which it might be well to retain in the mind. We shall deal with the "do's" first:

In the case of an alarm: Walk calmly, but swiftly, to the nearest shelter if you are outside a building at the time the alarm is sounded. Don't run. Running only add to confusion and confusion breeds panic.

If there is no time to reach a shelter, lie down with your face hidden in your arms in the shelter of a building and as close to the building's wall as possible.

Remain calm at all times. This last piece of advice is extremely important to C. D. officials for that this is most necessary, otherwise you might hinder defence workers' operations.

The "Don'ts"

Now for the "don'ts": Where possible, don't panic. Never run after a raid for a variety of reasons, the main one being confusion. Remember, panic is contagious and if an individual on the verge of panicking notices persons running all over the place, it may be just the straw that broke the camel's back, sort of thing.

Do not disobey orders given by persons of the civil defence unit. Remember, they are more likely to know what to do than you. Despite the fact you may not like their orders, they know what they are talking about.

Another important thing to keep in mind is that you must not spread rumors. Rumors are most part they will not be accurate anyway and those which do have basis in fact will be found to have grown so much in proportion that they soon lose their twisted beyond recognition and accuracy.

A number of silly tales have been circulated concerning atomic bombs. It is sometimes said, for instance, that atomic weapons will destroy the earth. This story is ridiculous. Although atomic weapons hold more death and destruction than man has known in the past no one person, or previously, their power is limited. Also, the danger from radioactivity is not as dead less than some persons imagine.

Less than one cent of the Japanese A-bomb deaths or injuries were caused by radioactivity. As expected of the airburst, some of these deaths was due to lingering radioactivity, but to the explosive type.

No "Area of Doom"

The bombs at Hiroshima and Nagasaki did not create "areas of doom," in which no one dared to enter and where no plants grew. In fact, thousands of bombs would have to be set off in the air before serious ground contamination would spread over large areas. An atomic attack does not cause permanent impotence. There may be some temporary effects, but the Japanese who lived through the 1945 attacks now lead perfectly normal lives.

It has been said that dark glasses are a shield against the danger of flash illumination. They are not. Dark glass absorb the rays from the atomic explosion. You would probably be safer without any glasses, as the glare may smash and blind you.

Some people believe that doubling bombs power will double its destructive force. This is wrong. A bomb of any sort, "waste" a great deal of its force at the place of explosion. It is calculated that a modern airburst bomb would cause no damage to houses and other buildings as far away as two to three miles from the point of explosion. Doubling its power would only expand the radius of total destruction a-mile. Even if the bombs power were increased 100 times, its force would reach out only about four-and-one-half times as much.

The Message

For all our plugging of civil defence, there will be those who "think conscription is unbelieving." May we direct the attention to all those interested in the subject to one of the most powerful movies of our decade dealing with this subject. The film is entitled "Invasion U.S.A." and is a documentary of this city are going to have an opportunity to see this moving drama in the near future.

Beginning Monday, July 6, and running through the month and the same week, the picture will be shown at the Capitol Theatre. Manager T. A. Macaro in association with the civil defence authorities has the city's first grand display on the opening night.

The manager has also announced that all civil defence workers will be admitted to the movie free of charge. It is a worthwhile picture to see in times such as these.

As was stated at the beginning of this column, this is the last scheduled article. However, next week, the series will be concluded with an unscheduled account of what this civil defence unit has in the way of communications.

Eddie Shamerhorn Of Belleville Wins in Fourth

TRENTON (Special) — In the main bout of the Centennial boxing show here last night Eddie Shamerhorn of Belleville T.K.O'd Roy Deshane of Trenton at 1.30 minutes of the fourth round. Referee "Rub" Smith stopped the fight after Deshane had been down on the canvas for the second time.

The match a crowd pleaser from the opening bell had Shamerhorn pressing throughout. Deshane got in some hard wallops but Shamerhorn's better conditioned carried him over the rough spots in the early rounds.

A right hand round Deshane jolted Shamerhorn with a solid left to the head. Shamerhorn absorbed the punch and then went into serious action. He pounded the Trenton boxer into a daze as the bell ended the round.

In the last round Shamerhorn had Deshane reeling from the opening bell. Blood appeared on the Trenton boxer's face after he hit the deck twice the referee declared Shamerhorn the winner.

Regent Juniors Tie Combines

The Regent Juniors tied 4-4 with the Prince Edward Combines in their playoff Belleville and District Baseball League game at Regent Park last night.

The Regents took the lead in the first inning on a hit, a walk and an error scoring across a pair.

The Combines came back in the fourth to score a run, on a hit, two errors and a long fly ball. The Regents rallied again in the fifth on a hit by Stephens, a walk and a hit by Hall. The Combines tied it in the fourth and stepped into the lead in the top of the sixth. The Regents tied the score in the bottom of the seventh and then the game was called on account of darkness.

Hall led the Regents at the plate with two singles. Hughes and Jones each had doubles while Carr and Ackerman banged the ball for singles.

Hall led the Combines at the plate with two singles. Bolton and Ostrander were credited with two singles apiece.

Drummond started for the Regents and Hall worked the two-thirds innings he struck out three and walked two. Carr pitched the last man out.

Ackerman sweated the route for the Combines, struck out six and passing as many.

In the 10-10 match, Cornelius slid into third base. He was called out and a heated argument started between himself and the umpire. As usual, the umpire prevailed and Cornelius was tossed out of the game.

The line-up:

Combines — Cornelius ss; Ackerman c; Bolton 3b; Zimmerman cf; Ostrander rf; Allen 1b; Bell c; Chalmers 1b; Lockyer 2b; Gilchrist p; Steel lf.

Regents—Jones ss; Carr 3b, p in 10th; Stephens 2b; Hall c; Casey cf, 3b in 7th; Wallbridge rf; Bird rf in 6th; Kavanagh lf; Drummond p, lf in 7th; Carson batted for Bird in 7th.

STRAPPED CHILD, JAILED

GUELPH (CP)—Harold Sunter, 48, of Guelph, Ont., was sentenced Friday to 15 days in jail for strapping his eight-year-old daughter. He was charged with assault. The father told the court he used the belt on the child to counter "four or five times," but could not remember the exact time, date and chest three days after the strapping.

SUIT POSTPONED

ROME (Reuters)—A Rome tribunal postponed to Oct. 6 hearing of a suit brought by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company against the Italian Super Company for legal possession of about 10,000 tons of Iranian oil. The similar suit brought by Anglo-Iranian since the Communists in Iran nationalized in 1951 also will be heard in October. The suit against Super concerns the second cargo of oil brought to Italy by the tanker Alba.

Town of Cobalt To Celebrate 50th Anniversary

COBALT (CP)—Paint and brush sales in this "best old town" have been as good that Mayor Kenneth Buffam today commended the citizens on their decorative endeavors.

It's all part of the shining and scrubbing which have gone into preparations for Cobalt's 50th anniversary, starting Sunday and continuing through next week.

Cobalt was born in the summer of 1903 when a blacksmith, Fred Larose, picked up a piece of ore near the right of way of the Ontario Northland Railway, then the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway.

Legend has it that Larose threw his hammer at a fox, missed the animal, but knocked loose a shiny piece of metal which proved to be high-grade silver ore.

Started Blasting Rush

That started a staking rush on Cobalt which in 1908 saw 16 silver mines either in operation, or in the near preparation. Among them was the famous Temiskaming and Hudson Bay Mine, whose stock rose from 10 cents a share to more than $300 a share.

When the miners crowd back here next week they'll see a reconstruction of part of the famed "Silver Skirmish" — a massive deposit of native silver which protruded from the surface in the old days. They'll recount stories of miners who danced jigs on the silver sidewalk in their heavy boots.

Many Contests Planned

Besides story-telling, the 50th anniversary program will include mud mucking and hand steeling —mining methods employed in the log sawing contest and more conventional contests such as contests and field days.

Cobalt today is a town of more than 2,500 persons. About a dozen mining properties are in operation in the area and a mine-mill is being completed near the town.

Cobalt ore, which produced the town got its name, is heavily mined today.

There, about 100 miles north of North Bay, is sprawled over several hills.

Juvenile Baseball

Tommy O'Halloran pitched a one-hitter to lead Wellington to a 7-4 victory over the Canadian Legion juvenile baseballers.

Wellington and Legionaires split one all in the first, and then Wellington stepped into the lead in the second inning and never looked back for the rest of the game.

O'Halloran whiffed 10 and walked four. Huddleston struck out four and issued as many free tickets in first two innings for Legion.

Jack Purtelle clamped onto Huddleston's slants for two homers and a single while Carson for Wellington hit two for four.

Tracy got the Legion's lone hit. Score by innings:

GIVEN TWO YEARS

BERLIN (CP) — Russian-born Olga Hanisch, confessed Soviet secret service agent, was sentenced to two years at hard labor today. She was accused of trying to lure a Russian scientist and a woman from West to East Berlin. Both resisted her attempts.

STUDENTS RESCUED

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Two University of Colorado students were rescued from a precarious perch 200 feet up on the 1,000-foot Third Flatiron cliff by the Rocky mountain rescue group. The students had been stranded on the cliff since early Friday night.

Canada's Largest Uranium Mine Begins to Hum

URANIUM CITY, Sask. (CP)—Canada's newest and largest uranium mine, 'probably the world's richest' modern, has begun to hum with activity.

About 700 men and women live within one mile of the main mine and mill buildings of the federally-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd. They are sleek grey buildings, hastily built atop a high ridge beside Beaverlodge lake in Saskatchewan's remote northwest corner.

Miners, construction workers, administrative and technical personnel included in this number now are hard at work attempting to push up production of the mine and iron out the "bugs" from the nearby mill.

Rich Expenditures

So far, Eldorado has spent $11,-000,000 on its Beaverlodge development. Before peak production is reached, it will probably spend many millions more in expanding facilities.

The main mine building is a concrete-block structure covering the 1,150-foot-deep Fay shaft. It contains Eldorado's administrative and business offices, warehouse, changing and clothes-drying rooms for the miners, five elevator compartments and chemical and electronic laboratories. The millhouse room walls are tiled.

To the east, beside tiny Ace lake, is Eldorado's Ace shaft. A roadway links it with the Fay workings above ground a long conveyor tunnel—a "level"—does the work beneath the surface.

On the underground rock surface are compressors, air lines, buckets, loading pockets, tracks and trains. Tons of ore rumble from the chutes into the buckets which are sped to the surface at a speed of 1,500 feet a minute.

Once on the surface, the ore is dumped into a large crusher, which crushes it into fist-sized pieces, plates in three or four minutes. The ore then goes to the mill.

To Expand Production

The mill now handles about 500 tons of ore a day. It will have the capacity of the anticipated 2,000-tons-a-day production level is to be reached. Ultimately, it is expected the mill will handle uranium ore from other privately-owned mines in the area.

Throughout the mining and milling procedures, there is no danger to workers from radioactivity. The finished concentrate are not yet fine enough in form.

The ore is transported by barges across Lake Athabaska to the end of steel at Waterways, Alta., then shipped by rail to Ontario's Chalk River plant for further refining.

Production figures at the mine remain secret.

A high wire fence has been erected about the property and a security guard will be placed.

In Barrel of Trouble

BOSTON (AP) — Eight-year-old Bobby Fay was in a barrel of trouble Thursday but he got out of it himself, thanks to several jars of grease.

Bobby, with youthful curiosity, peeped into the rotary barrel the first to see how hot it was inside. He found it was plenty hot and also that he was too big to come out.

His mother called police and the police called the fire department. But before firemen arrived an enterprising storekeeper effected the rescue with several jars of petroleum jelly. A well-greased Bobby slid out easily from a well-greased barrel.

Belleville Soldier Hospitalized in Germany

SOUTH SHIELDS, England (CP)—A seagoing Norwegian couple were married in a lifeboat outside English territorial waters because they had not lived in Britain long enough to be married ashore. The bridegroom is a tanker hand and his bride joined the ship as a stewardess.

PORTH, England (CP) — Farmers have been carting away loads of sand from the beach at this Cornwall town because it is rich in lime. They agreed to discontinue the practice when complaints were heard. They can resume when the sea brings in more sand.

BRISTOL, England (CP) — A clever darts player at the Clifton Zoo public house here is Alfie Royall, who uses a peculiar underhand throw. He learned the technique in the dockyard where he shoots rivets into a catcher's basket.

Garden Notes
Get Out the Pruning Equipment
By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Do you have a good pair of pruning shears with a single blade, and a pruning saw? The saw should have coarse, hard steel frame with adjustable control so that the blade can be turned to different angles. Suitable pruning tools kept in good working order are regarded as investment which will give good returns. With such tools you can make clean cuts which will heal quickly before disease germs can infect the wood.

This season heavy rains have produced lush sappy growth which breaks easily in high winds. Cut off broken or damaged wood. Torn bark is an open invitation to disease.

Hedges have made heavy growth and should be cut back. The spring and summer flowering shrubs such as Forsythia, Spyrea, Deutzia, and Mock orange have completed their blooming season and are also due for pruning. Climbing roses should be pruned at this time, too. Cut old weak wood from the centre of the shrubs and allow air and light to penetrate. Head back any shoots which destroy the balance or symmetry of the shrub.

Crew-Cuts Not Desirable

Crew-cuts are not becoming to shrubs. This effect is the result of shearing off six or eight inches from the tip of each branch. Shrubs and hedges should be wider at the base than at the top. The heavy top growth soon starves out the lower branches and results in a top-heavy appearance. Take a good look at the strongest centre stocks. Preserve them, and cut out all weak and old wood. Cut out the weak centre crosses main stocks and keeps the centre open. Where you have shortened a stock cut it back to six or eight buds from the base, and these will grow outward and not outside bud. This will throw the new growth out rather than in to make a dense centre.

For the climbing roses cut out all weak and old wood. Make the cut right back at the base. Shorten the side shoots which have borne blooms on the large flowered types. These produce blooms on old wood. Retain other types produce blooms on last year's wood. Trim off the tips when blooms have faded and this will throw out all old and new weak wood. Retain three vigorous new canes.

Thin Out Fruit Bushes

When the gooseberries and currants have been picked thin them out from the centre the same as flowering shrubs. Take out old wood which has borne fruit for three or four years and keep three to five vigorous new shoots. Each bush should have three, two and one-year-old wood. These fruits are heavy feeders and should be given a good dressing with manure, or a fertilizer rich in nitrogen. Keep the weeds scraped off but do not cultivate deeply the roots are shallow. A mulch of one or two inches of loose earth or grass clipping will keep the roots cool and discourage weeds.

BROWN—STEBBINGS

A wedding of wide interest was solemnized on Saturday, June 27, at 2:30 p.m., in the Salvation Army Citadel, Bellevifle, when Lieutenant Mary Margaret Stebbings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stebbings, of Bellevifle, became the bride of Lieutenant William Leslie Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown, of Toronto. Major George Bellamy, of Cannington, officiated at the double-ring ceremony, amid a setting of lovely summer flowers, and ferns, assisted by Brother Captain Fred Brightwell, of Bellefville.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Mitchell, of Bellefville, who accompanied the soloist, Mrs. George Hilarby, Jr., of Bellefville, who sang "The Perfect Love", previous to the ceremony, and during the signing of the register, "Through the Years."

Sergeant-Major William Hart read the Scripture, and Colonel William Effer, District Commissioner, of Bellefville, gave the invocation.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively attired in the regulation Army uniform, with red rose corsage and carrying a white Bible crested with red rosebuds and yellow-red and blue ribbon streamers. Mrs. Arthur Podge, of Bellefville, attended the bride as matron of honor; Miss Anne Grant, of Bellefville, bridesmaid, and Miss Mary Leasels, also of Bellefville, as junior bridesmaid, and Little Ruthie Deen, of Toronto, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl. The senior attendants were gowned alike in regulation Salvation Army uniforms wearing corsages of yellow roses and carrying New Testaments crested with yellow rosebuds and yellow, red and blue ribbon streamers, while the little flower girl, swept in her pink organdy frock and matching headdress, carried a miniature basket of mixed summer flowers.

The two ring bearers, Masters Gordon and Donald Podge, of Bellefville, smart in their diminutive uniforms, carried red satin cushions bearing the rings, while Captain Irene Jones, of Peterborough, and Lieutenant Roger Pitcher, of Toronto, carried the flags.

Lieutenant Gordon Brown, of Muskoka, brother of the bridegroom, attended as groomsman. The ushers were Messrs. Stanley Brown, Douglas Mason and George Ellarby, of Bellefville, and Allan Austin, of Watertown, N.Y.

The reception was held in the Young People's Hall, at the Citadel, where the bride's mother, wearing the Salvation Army Uniform, and the bridegroom's mother, in blue crepe with black accessories, with corsages of red carnations, received the many guests.

After the honeymoon to Muskoka, the bride chose a grey dress with navy accessories and red rose corsage. Lieutenant and Mrs. Brown will be stationed with the Salvation Army in Tweed, upon their return.

Guests were present from Uxbridge, Cannington, Picton, Peterborough, Tweed, Toronto, Watertown, N.Y.; Haliburton, Gananoque, Napanee, Kingston, Bancroft, Hamilton and Bloomfield.

SHARPE—SCOTT

Orange blossoms, peonies and delphiniums formed the setting for the marriage of two graduates of the University of Toronto, in Shannonville United Church, Miss Audrey Winifred Scott, only daughter of the Rev. W. Scott and Mrs. Scott, Shannonville, Ont., became the bride of Mr. William George Sharpe, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sharpe, Regina, Sask. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, the Rev. J. F. Lane, of Madoc, Ont., was gracefully graceful in floor length white slipper satin with bouffant overskirt of nylon net. The fitted lace-covered bodice featured lily-pointed lace sleeves and winged collar. Her fingertip veil was held by a fitted cap of the same lace over satin and trimmed with orange blossoms and lily-of-the-valley. She carried pink Rapture roses and Bridal Bouquet.

The matron of honor, Mrs. J. K. Richardson, of Belleville, and the bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Nugent of Lindsay, Ont., chose floor length gowns of pink taffeta in pastel shades of dusky rose and turquoise blue. They carried classic bouquets of American Beauty and Golden Scepter roses. Peter Mac Donald Scott, the bride's cousin, was winsome in his white velvet net-over taffeta, with which she carried a basket of yellow Brevet heart roses and mauve sweetpeas.

The groom was attended by Mr. Harvey D. Sharpe, of Ottawa, and acting as ushers were Mr. Robert Sharpe, of Ottawa, and Mr. Ian Outerbridge, Toronto.

The wedding music was provided by Miss Ruth Wilson, organist of the bride, as pianist while Mrs. Arnold Scott rendered "The Lord's Prayer", and "Beloved, it is Morn".

Following the reception at the parsonage and wedding supper at Golden Lake Lodge, Sharpe and groom left amid showers of confetti, on a motor trip to Ottawa and Montreal, the bride travelling in a linen suit of coral with white pipings and navy accessories. Her corsage was white gardenias and stephanotis. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe will leave by motor for their home in Regina.

TORONTO (CP) — Every year about this time comes the question: Is shorts in the office during the summer?"

A Toronto tailor, Ed Provan, says the matter has been discussed each torrid season for the last 25 years.

In his opinion "most legs just aren't good enough to wear shorts to the office."

Mr. Provan feels that perhaps Australians and New Zealanders, who frequently wear ,Bermuda-length khaki shorts, are more the "outdoorsy" types and have tanned legs. A tan, Mr. Provan explained, helps the situation a great deal.

City slickers with pale legs look awful in shorts," he said.

Much Cooler

Mr. Provan denounced the habit of wearing thick grey flannels in hot weather and said he thinks there's nothing cooler than tropical trousers and short socks.

In New York, shorts are growing in popularity for office wear. Bermuda-length shorts are evidently favored by the New Yorkers and navy blue predominates.

Quite a few of the younger Canadian men we talked to thought it would be nice to wear shorts to the office, but all wanted somebody else to start the trend.

Most women we talked to favored the idea and half of them preferred to "how nice" rather than navy officers look in shorts.

To Visit Canada

When Lady Patricia Ramsay, now 67, was 28 years old she was Princess Patricia, the daughter of the Duke of Connaught, governor-general and Queen Victoria's youngest son. As Princess Patricia she lived in Rideau Hall, in Ottawa from 1911 to 1916. This fall she will visit Canada and her Calgary-based regiment — the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry — for the first time in years. — (CP Photo.)

Lady Patricia Ramsay Will Visit Canada and Her Regt.

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A princess who had the aura of shy beauty princesses have in storybooks gave her name to a regiment that went to war in 1914 and launched one of the brightest chapters in the Canadian military story.

The princess was Patricia of Connaught, tall, blue-eyed granddaughter of Queen Victoria; a young woman who liked to ski and skate, paint and dance, who turned many a young Canadian blade's head but had eyes only for a British sailor.

Later she gave up the rank of princess to marry the sailor, Hon. Alexander H. M. Ramsay, who was the third son of the Earl of Dalhousie and now is an admiral and a knight.

As Princess Patricia, she lived in Government House here from 1911 to 1916, the daughter of the governor-general, the Duke of Connaught.

Famous Regiment

Her regiment, the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, nearly fought itself into oblivion in the first months of the First World War, but went on to long life that now has reached its great summer but not in the office.

"I think there are many occasions in the evening, such as a bridge game, when a change would look very nice in smart shorts," she said.

A librarian favored Bermuda shorts for office wear, but only if the men wearing them keep up "army standards of neatness—including polished shoes."

In deferencto our men friends in the shorts investigation when one housewife answered:

"I think it would be a scream."

est growth with a record three battalions—roughly 2,500 men—bearing the regimental name.

This fall Lady Patricia Ramsay, now 67, will visit Canada and her regiment for the first time in years. She will see again the color flight she made to Government House in 1914. Three times enemy fire nearly finished it, twice it was buried but it survived to inspire the 5,700 men who were Patricias between 1914 and 1918, and their heirs.

She was surprised, the princess once exclaimed, to hear how near the front her color had gone. She had reason to be. The PPCLI was the only unit in the British armies to take one into battle.

It was in August, 1914, that then Capt. (now Brig.) Hamilton Gault of Montreal put up $100,000 to raise a unit to place at Britain's disposal. Lt.-Col. Francis Farquhar, DSO, the governor-general's military secretary, at once was fascinated with the idea and became commanding officer — and was killed within a year.

They asked the 28-year-old princess if they could use her name and she consented the same day. Within 10 days the unit was flooded with men, mostly former British soldiers who had migrated to Canada.

The fighting decimated the unit in its first year and its future hung in the balance. Gault went to Ottawa to make a personal appeal. Seeing the regiment's final graceful life with lots of team skating and skiing parties, dances and the like mothers' sons alike and she was a great help to her father. She painted a lot, and well, and was always willing to tie the links on a private tram-car. Her face appeared on a $5 note.

The princess, by general recollection, had a quiet, dignified charm. She was devoted to her friends, as one recently put it, and it made males bashful in her presence. She was seen fairly often in groups with Alexander Ramsay before he came to her father.

Busy in War Work

Then war came. Ramsay went away and won the DSO at Gallipoli and was shelled him. Social life was far less buoyant. She did all sorts of war work.

In 1916, the Connaughts returned to England. In 1919, she married Ramsay in a wedding such as London hadn't seen for years.

At the wedding there was an honor guard from her regiment at Canadian. As the wedding party left the abbey, the huge crowds pressed forward and it was the old soldiers.

Patricia later wrote the regiment her regrets because, she said, this prevented the King, her cousin, from inspecting the men "as he had intended to do."

"It is," she said, "as she wrote with a touch of pride and humor, "the only occasion in its history on which the regiment has lost its ground."

Alexander, the Ramsays' only child, is an officer in the Grenadier Guards.

TANKS DESTROYED

WEST ENFIELD, Me. (AP)—Fourteen-thousand gallons of fuel burned in a spectacular, windswept fire that destroyed three storage tanks, a garage and pumphouse at an oil distribution plant. Loss was estimated at $16,000. It included a large trailer tank truck. No casualties were reported.

Keen Age Club Makes Presentation

The Keen Age Club of Tabernacle United Church brought to a close its meetings for the summer, with a dinner at Maple Inn, at Bloomfield.

After the dinner, the members all gathered at the new home of Mrs. Chris Lockyer, Picton Road, for the evening.

A short meeting was conducted with 36 members present. Mrs. H. Bowley was in charge of the devotional, giving a reading, "Christian Recognition". This was followed by two poems, one of Bliss Carman's, "Took a Day to Look for God", and "Man Needs Something Besides Work", by Browning.

The business part of the meeting was short, showing a good report for the season.

Mrs. Shirley Kelleher, the president, thanked all the members for giving so freely of their time and efforts to make this season of the Keen Age success.

It was decided that the next meeting be held the evening of September 15th.

Mrs. Albert Mulvey has extended an invitation to all to meet at her home for a hat meeting and a wiener roast.

Presentation

The president, Mrs. Shirley Kelleher, presented Mrs. Chris Lockyer with a gift from the members of the club. Mrs. Lockyer has been a very active member of the club, and has done much to further its purpose. She served as president for two years. All regret losing her as an active member.

Mrs. Lockyer favored with piano selections and then served refreshments.

A vote of thanks was extended for opening her home for the meeting.

Celebrate 30th Anniversary Of Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George Moorcroft, Madoc, was the scene of a happy gathering on Saturday evening last, when around 75 relatives and friends gathered to honor them on the occasion of their thirtieth wedding anniversary. Baskets of pink and white pansies, roses, orange blossoms, and seasonal blooms added color to the occasion.

George H. Moorcroft, son of late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Moorcroft, and Mary Alice Devolin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Frederick Devolin, were married in 1923 by the Rev. F. E. Malotte. The attendants were Miss Stella Moorcroft, now Mrs. Robert Doughty, of Belleville and Mr. Ogle Devolin, Madoc, brother of the bride. Both were present for the anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Moorcroft have resided in Madoc, Toronto, Ottawa; Boyd, principal of Thomasburg Public School; Marlene, stenographer in the Forestry Department of Agriculture, Stirling; and Monte, who has been attending the Kemptville Agricultural School.

The bride and her bridesmaid were given corsages of pink roses; to the groom and his groomsman each receiving a white carnation boutonniere.

Master Ronnie Mr. Lewis, as master of ceremonies, extended congratulations and warm tributes to the honored couple for their years in the church and the community.

Presentations

A program of community singing, solos, instrumental numbers and readings followed, after which, Mr. Fred Devolin, of Toronto, on behalf of the guests, gave a fine address and Mr. Roy Moorcroft and Mr. Ogle Devolin, Madoc, made the presentation of a wall mirror, scatter rug, walnut linen chest, and a library table cloth. They also received congratulations from individual friends, neighbors and friends. The children presented their mother with a beautiful chest of silver, and their father with a Bulova wrist watch.

Mr. and Mrs. Moorcroft expressed their appreciation for this lovely gift and thanked everyone to visit them again.

Mr. and Mrs. James Rouskorn, of Devolin, parents of Mrs. Tommy Moorcroft, were present. They were celebrating their twenty-fourth wedding anniversary on Saturday, July 4th and Mrs. Moorcroft presented them with a beautiful decorative anniversary cake.

The dining table, covered with a white linen cloth, was centered with a decorated wedding cake, flanked on either side by silver candle holders and tall ivory candles. Pink and white streamers from the ceiling to each corner of the table completed the design.

Bountiful refreshments, including a white and pink three tier anniversary cake cut by the bride and groom, were served, bringing an enjoyable evening to a close.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

We are quick to criticize the faults of other nations, especially where human rights and human relations are concerned. Yet in this glorious Canada of ours unbelievable conditions are revealed from time to time in newspaper items . . . Recently a Canadian Press despatch from Halifax told of the death of a 61-year-old woman. Mrs. L. Caldwell who taught Negro children in her home, "because they were not admitted to public school."

Mrs. Caldwell's school was known as her "kitchen school" and it began in 1940 when she first volunteered to teach a little Negro boy how to read and write. Mrs. Caldwell's dining room was later made into another classroom for older pupils.

Why Negro children were apparently not admitted to the public school there is not explained by The Canadian Press in the account of her death.

If such a condition exists in and around Halifax, it is a sorry state of affairs in one of Canada's more significant provinces.

Many are convinced that Canada needs no help from the U.N. Human Rights Committee, but is concerned only with the human relations existing in other countries throughout the world. How misinformed we are, how mistaken we are.

College Hill S.S. Holds Picnic

College Hill United Church Sunday School held its annual picnic at Bird's Beach, Oak Lake, with a record attendance.

Swimming was enjoyed by old and young alike, for about two hours, after which the races were the main attraction. At first and second place in each event, a ribbon was awarded individually and each out all dirt and dust gently.

If your child's head is crusted with sand and dandruff, rub his scalp with your fingertips dipped in plain, mineral oil. Then raise the dandruff with a fine toothed comb.

After a shampoo, the scalp will become clean and soft again. Mineral oil is less sticky and less odorous than olive oil which was used for this purpose years ago.

Ice Box Beauty

It would surprise mama to know exactly how many times she peeks into the refrigerator in an average day. We had placed two yellow roses in a milk bottle in the frig after returning from a formal ball. It has been such a pleasure to open the frig these days because the roses are so beautiful.

Flowers keep a long time in cold air. After realizing how often we poke into the frig here, it was decided the flowers would be seen more often in the room than in a vase in the living room.

A charming way for you to delight your hosts is to send them a telegram while you are on your way home, or at once after you have arrived home. A thoughtful gesture to register appreciation, lively and spontaneous appreciation. "We had a gloriously happy time, and we just voted you and your family the world's perfect hosts. Love to all and thanks to all."

(P.S. This doesn't release you from the "meat of writing a bread-and-butter letter within two or three days after you arrived home.) Has a lovely fresh flavor and not a bit sharp. I hope it is not too late for this season. — Mrs. E. A. B.

Answer:

I have printed this recipe at the first opportunity after it arrived. Thank you for it Mrs. E. A. B. I was still able to find sweet clover. It will be so different from cooking in a private home that I expect I may have a few bad days at the start . . . any advice will be appreciated.—Mrs. Edith S.

Answer:

You do have a lot of courage and I wish you the best of luck. I know how happy you must be to be able to work at a job you know and have your small daughter with you too.

I will give you several menus. They could be used for suppers or dinners, or items from them could be selected for either type of meal.

Camp Menus

No. 1.—Baked Hamburger and Noodles, Cole Slaw, Tapioca Cream with Fresh or Canned Fruit, Milk, Tea.

No. 2.—Macaroni and Cheese, Tomato Jelly Salad, Peach Layer Cake, Milk, Tea.

No. 3.—Vegetable Soup, Salmon Salad, Baking Powder Biscuits, Cornbread, Pumpkin Pie, Milk, Tea.

No. 4.—Scalloped Salmon, Potato Salad, Chocolate Cake, Milk, Tea.

No. 5.—Barbecued Corned Beef, Escalloped Corn, Fruit Molded in Jelly Dessert, Ginger Snaps, Milk, Tea.

I have the quantity recipes for all of the items I have mentioned. I will give you what I have room for today. If you want all of the recipes for things I've mentioned write to me again.

Baked Hamburger and Noodles

(For 50 to 60)

Order 6 or 7 lbs. good quality hamburg meat. Dredge this with flour in large frying pan and brown it in 1-2 lb. good quality fat with 2 cups chilled onions, stirring constantly. Do not let this brown very much. Cook 3 lbs. noodles in large quantity boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Add them to the meat. Also add 7 cans condensed tomato soup, 2 cans niblet corn, 6 cups canned mushrooms are optional, 1 can grated cheese, 3 teaspoons salt, 1-4 to 1-2 teaspoon pepper. Heat through on top of stove, or bake in large pan, covered with crumbs until heated through and browned.

Escalloped Salmon

(Serves 50)

Mix 18 1-lb. cans salmon with 8 1-2 quarts broken bread. To 3 quarts milk add 4 bay leaves and scald. Remove bay leaves, Melt 1 lb. of mest and some quantity recipes for luncheon and supper—make it . . . I will be okay in a few days after I get a routine outlined and get to know my new place. It will be so different from cooking in a private home that I expect I may have a few bad days at the start . . . any advice will be appreciated.—Mrs. Edith S.

I have the quantity recipes for all of the items I have mentioned. I will give you what I have room for today. If you want all of the recipes for things I've mentioned write to me again.

(For 50 to 60)

Order 6 or 7 lbs. good quality hamburg meat. Dredge this with flour in large frying pan and brown it in 1-2 lb. good quality fat with 2 cups chilled onions, stirring constantly. Do not let this brown very much. Cook 3 lbs. noodles in large quantity boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Add them to the meat. Also add 7 cans condensed tomato soup, 2 cans niblet corn, 6 cups canned mushrooms are optional, 1 can grated cheese, 3 teaspoons salt, 1-4 to 1-2 teaspoon pepper. Heat through on top of stove, or bake in large pan, covered with crumbs until heated through and browned.

(Serves 50)

Mix 18 1-lb. cans salmon with 8 1-2 quarts broken bread. To 3 quarts milk add 4 bay leaves and scald. Remove bay leaves, Melt 1 lb. of butter and add 1 cup flour, then stir in the hot milk, until thick. Add 1-2 teaspoon paprika, and 2 tablespoons salt and cook over low heat or use double boiler 15 minutes. Combine the 2 mixtures and pour into greased pans. Sprinkle 1 or 2 cups buttered crumbs over top and bake at 350-deg. Fahr for 30 mins. Tuna fish may be used instead of salmon if desired.

Please feel free to write for recipes for any other items I have suggested.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Mother Who Is Worried About Her Daughter's Marriage Plans

One of the subjects recently discussed in this column was how far sons and daughters should go in catering to parents who disapprove their marriage plans.

At that time, the specific problem which brought up the subject was that of a young woman whose fiance's mother objected apparently, to the whole idea of her son getting married and was making her disapproval extremely plain. My advice to the young couple was that they do everything they could to win the mother over, but that if this proved impossible, then they should go ahead and marry, anyhow.

The problem today is another one in which a mother objects to a marriage, but the letter this time comes from the mother herself and not from one of the young people involved. This time, moreover, I am on the mother's side of the argument.

Her story concerns her 18-year-old daughter, who has just graduated from high school. About six months ago, through a telephone call which proved to be a wrong number, the daughter found herself in conversation with a young man who followed up the casual introduction and became friends with the girl.

Now the friendship has progressed to the point where the two see each other every afternoon and every evening, and, in between, from the house, except twice when Recently the young man asked the girl to marry him, and in so doing brought the mother's worry to a head.

Her reasons for worry are of several different kinds.

The first she mentions is that "not one time since he has been coming to see my daughter has he ever taken her any place away from the house, except twice when they took short walks lasting less than half an hour on each occasion. He has never brought her a gift of any kind, not even a box of candy, and although he promised her an orchid for her graduation, no orchid ever came. All he ever does when he comes here is to go into the living room with my daughter and kiss and hug her, which makes her believe that he loves her. He won't even go with her to visit any of her married brothers or sisters.

Wait A Year

"I have tried to explain to her how I feel about all this but she just can't seem to see anything wrong, because she is the kind who never sees any wrong in anyone; I have asked her to wait at least a year before deciding about marrying him, with the thought that perhaps after she has worked awhile among other girls and young men, she will find out whether or not it really is love between herself and this man, as she thinks now. I have told her that if she will wait this length of time, and then, at the end of this time feels she wants to marry him, I will give her a nice wedding and do all I possibly can. But I do feel I would be doing wrong to give my permission for her to marry until both she and I are sure he is able to give the kind of start a young couple should have. If he has no savings, but only the money he has been making, it would be impossible for them to get along and to be happy, and the first thing they knew they might break up."

The final thing that makes this mother hesitate is, perhaps, more serious in its way than any of her other reasons, for she says:

Two or three of this boy's friends that my daughter has met through him have served jail terms, and although I don't think he himself has done anything wrong so far, I do feel my daughter and he should know each other better before marriage, for she had never heard of him until she met him and he has no status on the phone."

It seems to me that the objections this mother has to her daughter's marriage to this man after such a casual meeting and only six months of personal acquaintance, are completely valid ones. It may seem that to prefer sitting around at a girl's house rather than taking her anywhere, even to go with her to see her brothers and sisters, is a trivial thing. It may seem equally trivial that he has never brought her any kind of gift. But such details do seem to indicate that the young man does deviate from the usual personality pattern of the average man in love, for the latter is invariably to take his girl out and entertain her.

A young man who is courting a girl finds that happiness is doing things for her that will give her pleasure, and so he brings her frequent gifts of flowers, candy, books and other little personal things she will enjoy. He is eager, also, to meet all the members of her immediate family and to have them know him. He wants to be at his best with her relatives so they will be glad to welcome him into the family circle.

This young man, however seems to be oblivious to all these things, and to have no thoughts beyond himself, a circumstance which would certainly be no comfort reason to be enthusiastic about him as a prospective son-in-law.

And certainly it would give any mother deep concern to find a young man introducing her daughter to as many as two or three friends of his who had committed errors serious enough to be put in jail. How could it do otherwise but lay him open in her mind to the suspicion that he may be traveling in very poor company indeed?

Not only do I not blame this mother for the stand she does, but I think she is wholly right in asking her daughter to wait at least a year before making any decision to marry such a young man as this. In fact, I think the mother shows a very reasonable and open mind toward the whole thing when she promises to go along with her daughter if, after the waiting period, she still thinks she wishes to marry him. I hope the daughter will show as much consideration toward her mother as her mother is showing toward her.

New York Yankees On Comeback Trail With 2nd Straight Win; Braves Win

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Want a nice, fat, juicy bass? Who doesn't?

This department is indebted to Wildlife Inspector R. G. Sheppard, of the Tweed Branch of the Department of Lands and Forests, for a tip as to where the big fellas are holding out.

Go over to "Little Spain," way over there, Warpoos way, grab yourself a boat and paddle out in Lake Ontario to the shoals off that spot, or thereabouts.

Kid Bass is sporting himself and herself in numbers in the clear cold water of the lake and just rarin' to nip at anything that comes their way.

But, and there is a but, Inspector Sheppard issues a note warning. The females of the species, due to the low temperature of the water has been keeping her eggs to herself, with the result that the annual spawning period is anywhere up to ten days late. A conservation officer of his department, the inspector said, caught six lovely three pounders the other day and four of them were unspawned females. They were shot back pronto.

The same condition exists on the American side of the lake. In fact Yankee government officials are exerting pressure on Washington to have the official opening of the bass season extended from June 19th. to July 1, the same as Canada. Lateness of spawning is given as the reason.

Some reports from local fishermen state the bass have not been biting as well as usual in the nearby reaches of the Bay of Quinte. Pickerel and pike are not rising to the bait in as many numbers as other years. Chain is, the water is too cold. Should be good for sport trout, though.

The lower end of Quinte has been fairly good for the bass seekers, Inspector Sheppard pointed out. But other spots, not so hot.

So we're going to borrow some fishing gear and hike us over to the windy shores of Prince Edward, off Wapoos, and get ourself some of those three-and-four-pounders, said to be cavorting in the coolish waters of that part of the lake.

"Never saw such splendid bass," was a conservation officer's report to his boss. And the man should know for he is Bruce Saunderson, Consecon, Ont., and he said to be one of the finest fishermen and authorities on fishing in this neck of the woods.

BASEBALL TONIGHT!

Bryson Reid's junior Regents take on a tough nut to crack tonight at the CNR Recreation Park when they tangle with Bloomfield Silver Ribbons in a District Baseball League clash. The youngsters are highly confident they can take the measure of the powerful Ribbon crew, which is bolstered with several Belleville senior players like Vern Geyer, Wardhaugh, Bobby Barnes, "Monster" Mowatt and others.

But with all this array of diamond talent facing them, the Regents figure they have a good night and a few of the breaks they will emerge the winners. Coach "Red" Carson has been pushing his proteges through stiff workouts all week and feels they are give his "big brother" quite a tussle before the last man is out in the ninth. Game at 6.30.

SOFTBALL!

And if you prefer softball there is a tilt at the Alemite field that sees the Bobcats clash with the CNR Diesels in a postponed game. The Bobcats have plenty of power and should give the stronger railroad crew quite a battle. This game also gets under way at 6.30.

LET 'EM BE DULL!

Seldom it is that Van Patrick, the Detroit broadcaster, finds himself at a loss for words. But this one stopped him the other night at a banquet session.

Van was asked the usual question: "What's wrong with the Tigers?"

He gave a detailed answer and then wound up with this thought: "You'll have to admit that the team has played some real interesting games . . . even though it has lost most of them."

"Okay, okay," admitted his questioner. "Then maybe it ought to play some dull games . . . and win them."

Belgian Meets Briton For Diamond Sculls

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (CP)—A powerful Belgian sculler cracked a 15-year-old course record Friday as he swept into the finals of the Diamond Sculls at the Royal Henley regatta.

Robert George of Liege, Belgium, defeated another Belgian, H. Steenacker, by 1½ lengths in eight minutes flat. It was two seconds better than the record set by Joe Burk of the United States in 1938.

The Belgian meets Britain's Tony Fo in the final today.

Fox, wearing the colors of the London Rowing Club, breezed to a four-length victory over R. Bates van Merdag of Holland. His time was eight minutes 18 seconds.

SANTEE BEATEN BY FINN

TURKU, Finland (AP)—Wes Santee, Kansas' miracle miler, was beaten in a 1,500-metre race Friday by Dennis Johansson of Finland. Johansson's time was 3:48.4, not too fast by international standards. Santee was clocked in 3:50.5.

Whitey Ford Flings Shutout In 4-0 Victory Over Phils; Brooklyn's Lead Cut to Game

By REN FRIEGER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The old baseball legend says the major league teams out in front don't take's games will win the pennants, but what's in store for the last-place clubs?

The record books don't hold much hope at all for the cellar-dwelling Detroit Tigers. Things are only slightly brighter for the lowly Pittsburgh Pirates.

Five times in the seven full seasons since the end of the Second World War the American League team in last place on July 4 was still there when it was all over in the fall. The two exceptions were St. Louis Browns of 1949 and 1950 who scrambled out of seventh.

In the National League the record shows three out of seven stayed in the basement; the Pirates of 1947 tied for last after being last all by themselves on the fourth, and three teams escaped.

Wallop Redlegs

The most sensational rise, of course, was that of the 1914 Braves, last to first between July 4 and the season's end.

The Braves of today, who now call Milwaukee home, may be in position to do a Chicago Cub "first on the fourth, first at the end" legend. It walked Cincinnati 13-1 Friday and climbed within a single game of the idle run Brooklyn Dodgers. The Cubs next meet the Pirates twice today while Milwaukee entertains the Redlegs for two more.

The third-place St. Louis Cards were overpowered by Chicago Cubs 10-3 and fourth-place Philadelphia thumped New York Giants, 5-1.

New York Yankees won their second straight, 4-0, over Philadelphia A's and Cleveland stayed six games behind by defeating Detroit Tigers 9-1. Washington defeated Boston 9-4 with each side gulfing four errors.

Everybody but Eddie Mathews got a hit as the Braves mapped an eight-game home losing streak. Jim Wilson stopped the distance-hitting Redlegs on four hits, but one was Ted Kluszewski's 24th home run of the season, giving him the league lead.

Bases on balls killed the Cards' chances at Chicago. Four walks interspersed with an error and four singles produced seven runs for the Cubs in the eighth. Randy Jackson hit two home runs with the bases empty and a single with the bags full.

Whitey Ford had one of his better days for the Yankees. The young southpaw hurled a seven-hitter 3-0 record despite some mediocre performances, gave up just two singles in the A's nine innings, seven balls past the infielders. He struck out three and walked four who had beaten them two in a row. Two double plays helped him run hitting record to six. One man was aboard when Rosen connected. Early Wynn scattered six hits in posting his eighth victory against five losses.

Al Rosen hit his fourth home run in four games for Cleveland Friday's contest with the Tigers who had beaten them two in a row. Two double plays helped Rosen run hitting record to six. One man was aboard when Rosen connected. Early Wynn scattered six hits in posting his eighth victory against five losses.

Golf's Brightest Names Eliminated In 'Darkest Friday' in Game's History

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Defending champion Jim Turnesa, heavily favored Ben Hogan and a host of golf's brightest names were buried Friday in the avalanche of upsets marking the darkest "black Friday" in United States PGA tournament history.

Other victims at the Birmingham Country Club—the low medalist, Johnny Palmer; four other former champions in addition to Snead and the red-hot tournament-favorite, Dr. Cary Middlecoff. Shutout in the matches were old Gene Sarazen, big Vic Ghezzi, Jim Ferrier and Chandler Harper, all ex-titlists. They were joined by Chick Harbert, twice a runner-up; Ed (Porky) Oliver and George Fazio.

Dave Douglas, string-bean son of a Scot professional, eliminated former Open champion Lew Worsham and Snead. The 25-year-old Douglas from Newark, Del., first put out Worsham, 1947 U.S. Open king, on the 20th hole of the morning round.

Then he staged a spectacular rally to collar Snead on the 18th hole and whip the strong favorite by adding a birdie putt on the 19th hole.

Turnesa, after playing brilliant sub-par golf to win a 6 and 4 victory over Max Evans in the first round, scattered six hits in posting his eighth victory against five losses.

Middlecoff, the Memphis dentist who has won all the games he's played winners, took a shellacking in the second round from Jimmy Clark from Oakland, Calif., 5 and 4. Clark beat giant Vic Ghezzi, 6 and 5, in the first round qualifying leader, 2 and 1.

Caugie Harmon of Mamaroneck, N.Y., was medal qualifying with the 6,465-yard course for his brave 67 victories over Ted Kroll, 4 and 2, and Jack Grout, by the same margin.

Jack Grout a rangy Texan, who ousted the medalist, 1952 Canadian open champion Johnny Palmer of Badin, N.C., in a morning round, 2 and 1.

Race With Time And Weather To Ready Stadium

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — Eighty-odd workers are racing against time and the weather in an effort to have Winnipeg's new $500,000 stadium ready for the official opening Aug. 14.

"Give us a break in the weather and we'll have her ready," said Dick Purdey, boss of the construction gang, who looks almost big enough to line up with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, major tenants of the new park.

Despite heavy spring rains which have set back the work, the new stadium, long a dream of Winnipeg sportsmen, is fast taking shape.

Covering four blocks in the city's west end, the Winnipeg Stadium-to-be will be called unlike their rival a better name—is designed to accommodate almost 15,000 football fans. Everything is being built, however, with the idea of future expansion. The permanent concrete stands on either side of the field, which runs north and south, will seat 5,200 persons each. Movable bleachers at the east end will take care of an additional 1,000. None of the stands is covered.

Dressing and radio box will be constructed over the west-side permanent stands, which also houses the players' and officials' dressing rooms, washrooms and concessions. The east-side stand will also have washrooms and concessions. Floodlighting installations will be provided on 85-foot towers.

Eighteen In Golf Trials

Eighteen teen-aged golfers turned out at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club Friday for the qualifying round for the Canada junior golf championship. There were six entries in each of the singles.

Dick Jeffrey of Cobourg led the way in the "A" section as he turned in an 84 for the 18 holes. Carl Charlton of Trenton was runner-up, one stroke behind with an 85.

Neil O'Neill of Kingston took top position in the "B" section for 14 15 and 15 year olds with a 96 while Doug Croft of Cobourg carded a 101.

In the "C" section for 13-year-olds, Peter McCaig of Cobourg finished in front with a 97 while Bill Heinman of Picton had a 109.

The six will represent this district in the provincial finals to be played at Toronto Oakdale on Thursday, July 16. The winner of that tourney will compete for the Canadian junior crown in Montreal, August 23.

Win Semi-Finals

BIGWIN INN (CP)—Jack Little and Pete Stewart, both of Toronto, showed a championship form Friday as they won semi-final matches of the Northern Ontario tennis championships.

Miss J. McLeod of Toronto and Mrs. J. Gorske of Oberlin, O., won semi-final rounds of the women's singles.

Little dropped Ray Summers of Toronto 6-4, 6-4 while Stewart came through 6-2, 7-5 over Dick Ring of Toronto. Miss McLeod promoted Mrs. Harris of Toronto 6-1, 6-1. Mrs. Gorske beat Miss St. George of Toronto 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

Canadian Bisley Team Confident

By ARCHIE MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BISLEY, England (CP) — The Canadian Bisley rifle team, by far the most consistent overseas contestant in the annual two-week Commonwealth shooting event, takes on marksmen from Britain, Australia, New Zealand and the British West Indies starting Monday.

Members expressed confidence Friday that they will do all right in the many classes of army rifle events they have entered. Some of the individual shooting competitions, like the main event, the Queen's Prize, will be contested by 1,000 or more entrants.

Won two years ago by Lieut. Gil Boa of Toronto, the Queen's Prize will be sought this year by the 18 shooting members of the Canadian team, including the ace deadeye, Lt-Col. Desmond T. Burke, Toronto doctor who won it in 1934 and nearly repeated in 1939.

With almost two weeks of daily practice on the wide Bisley ranges, the Canadian team is in good condition and spirits, from Commandant Maj. A. B. Coulter of Ottawa to armorer Sgt. C. W. Vanasse of London, Ont.

Like the militant, Maj. C. A. Vickery of Toronto, neither is a shooting member of the team.

Gerrard manager Jim Bending the Mackinnon Challenge Trophy, major team event she won last year. The other big team event is the Rajah of Kolapore Imperial Challenge Cup.

Buffalo Bisons Bolster Team

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Buffalo Bisons of the International League announced Friday they have acquired pitcher Earl Harrist and outfielder Dusty Ryan to bolster their pennant campaign.

General manager Joe Ziegler said Harrist, a veteran right-hander, who has played with St. Louis Browns and Chicago White Sox, will be on option from Detroit Tigers.

Ryan's contract was purchased from Little Rock of the Southern Association.

However, in Cleveland Harrist declined the assignment. Disposition of the case was turned over to the Tigers' front office.

Seventy-Two Win Jr. Golf Berths

TORONTO (CP)—Seventy-two upwards of 200 contenders won berths Friday in the Ontario junior golf championships to be staged July 18 over the Toronto Oakdale course.

Thirty-seven qualified in A division, 16 to 18 years, 23 in the B division for those aged 14 and 15 years, and 12 in the class C division for those 13 and under.

The qualifying rounds were at Windsor, Tuesday, London, Hamilton and Sarnia.

Bill MacBeth of London established himself as a favorite in the main tournament by shooting out a 79, including a stzaling two over par on the first nine of the London Hunt Club course. He played in the 16-to-18 division.

At Windsor's Beach Grove course Mike Safran paced the class A qualifiers with an 82.

Stan Babiuk of Port Arthur, playing in the A group at Sarnia, was top golfer there with a 72.

First prize in the 16-to-18 grouping at Toronto went to Bill Bell, 17, of Aurora, who shot an 80 at Summit course.

Best at Hamilton's Glendale course waf Jack Lowry, 17, of Stoney Creek with a one-under-par 33 on the front nine and carded a 72.

Baseball Moguls Set Deadline

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Baseball Association said Friday that July 15 is the deadline for filing players' certificates and declaration of classification for OBA competition.

President Archie Sterling asked clubs and leagues to forward such material to the, OBA secretary-registrar, Tommy Rowdes, 1 Geneva St., St. Catharines.

The president also announced an OBA executive meeting will be held in Hamilton July 26 to pass on player certificates and rule on the player classification of teams and leagues. Playoff draws and zones will also be arranged.

Watson and Robert Score Two-Fall Win Over Atkins And Singh in Tag Team Match

Whipper Billy Watson and Yvon Robert continued their winning ways in tag-team wrestling at the Memorial Arena Friday evening when they won the best two falls in three from the villains Nango Singh and Fred Atkins before a crowd of slightly over 1,200. The winners scored a fourth from a draw at the Maple Leaf Gardens on Thursday night and last night, they applied slightly more pressure due to the disadvantage they were placed in by referee Dunlop, who apparently was sitting with the villains at the game.

At the conclusion of the match a small shed demonstration took place in the ring, with "Bunny" Ielsh slant the hand of Whipper and accuse the crowd jeering him of ring and gerrymander had to take a hand in the proceedings and clear a path for the wrestlers to reach their dressing rooms. But Referee Dunlop, Nango Singh Atkins and Mr. Watson gave the two boxers a terrific going over and Nango Singh was the first to cry for mercy although all evening he prayed for mercy when he was not getting it.

Bunny Ielsh was the first to get tough. It was a rugged match between Ielsh and the two winners put on some punishing applications during the three falls.

Scores Five Knockdowns

Yvon Robert scored a beautiful first round fall over Nango Singh in a rolling half nelson. It was not known within half-hour Robert the "works." Bunny prevented Whipper from going to the aid of his partner. Referee he did not have a hold of the string, when he was lugged by Robert. Finally Robert put Atkins into the ropes and from there it was an easy task to apply the half nelson crosser. Watson applied several holds but it was Robert who used the molars to extricate himself, which Bunny did not see but the crowd saw in action. Finally Whipper started for aid but each time he dashed around across the ring and each time Bunny gave the referee a shove, which to the bad men and all the time the crowd was getting on him. Robert finally dropped Atkins with elbow smashes and then took on Singh and made short work of him when he got him rolling. The time of the fall was 18 minutes.

The "disturbance" in the absence of the bell with Whipper being the chief target. Atkins put on the power and soon Nango came on the scene to secure his famous "Cobra" hold and live as a referee but the shouting for Robert. He could hardly speak. Instead of going to his corner, Yvon rose to Whipper and Robert held a long consultation on how to cope with these two villians and when they appeared for the third fall, they were ready for the "villy." Atkins finally was pinned against the ropes and as he tried to pull off with the Whipper underneath, Bunny got in the road and all three went down to the mat with Dunlop being the cushion, but Whipper had the best hold and Dunlop arrived long enough to save them the match. Then the fun started.

Semi-Final

In thes semi-final Steve Stasiuk and Robert Duranko put on a rough-and-tumble that had the crowd in an uproar during most of the action. Both had a bag of tricks but neither was counted out and Bunny called it a draw. This match was filled with a mixup in which Duranko was accused of hitting on his face but he has the ability to fool the opposition. Referee Dunlop was in his theis parts, will do. He is aggressive, hard hitting and knows all the rulers. A rematch of these two boys would not be amiss.

The wrestling bout, Billy Black was forced to quit when flip Dr. Don Metzler, ring side physician Black and Stan Abbott with singles. Referee Dunlop, Nango Singh and Jon Chamberlain each scored twice and Arnold Smith, Butch Guthro, Doug Hepburn, Jim Smith and Tony Kapula once each.

St. Kitts Lose 1st in Eleven; Bow to Petes

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The league-leading St. Catharines Athletics of the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association ran out of luck Friday night.

The Athletics, who had won their last 10 games, bowed to Peterborough Timbermen 17-7. The Petes, playing on home grounds, headed the Athletics 3-2 in the first inning, edged them by the same margin in the second and had a 9-1 edge in the third. The victory moved Peterborough into second place, four games behind St. Catharines.

In the only other league match, Fergus Thistles, playing at home, trounced Hamilton Tigers 13-0.

Scorers for Peterborough were Roger Smith with four, Carly Mason with three, while Ike Hildebrand, Gerry Gray, Stan Powless and Doctor Vilarelli scored two each and Red Robinson and Lou Jackson one each. Hamilton scorers were Ted Howe and Al Dunlop, Jim Wilson, Bill Lake, Mahon, Don Frick and Derry Davies with one apiece.

Lorne Gracey, who left Brick in the game which broke into a fight in the final period when Ken Campbell with four goals and Bob Dobbie and Bill Albans with three apiece, Jack Landwell and Jim Rothwell on a couple each and Marlowe Woods, Don Metzler.

Earl Walls, Canadian Heavy Knocks Out Rex Layne in 1st

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian over the heavyweight champion Earl Walls set himself up as a contender for the world boxing title Friday night. Walls knocked out pudgy Rex Layne of Salt Lake City at 1:03 of the first round in their schedule 10-round coldoor bout.

The tall, rangy Negro smashed one tremendous right hand from a flurry of infighting square to the jaw. Layne fell like a wet log and and didn't twitch as referee Bill Behr of Chicago tolled the count. Walls weighed 210 and the crowd's nearly 10,000 surged over collapsing press tables as Walls's hand was raised in victory.

For Walls it was the start of the big time. His promise to bring Edmonton a world title could place the city in line with Toronto and Montreal as a boxing centre.

Walls, 25, stepped into the ring from his hometown of Windsor, Ont., and has been fighting out of Edmonton since last year. Weighing 152, he gave away 14 pounds to Layne, a 5-5 favorite.

South became the declarer at a contract of six no-trumps. This is not the time to go into a song and dance about why six clubs would not have been less of a risk. It was played at six no-trumps.

The opening lead from west was made queen. One look at dummy told declarer what he must do. As soon as appropriate he must take a club finesse and try to set up his clubs.

He has not yet found out that diamonds will break. He cannot wait to find out if the opponent hearts can be picked up. For all he knows he may need shifts on the dummy clubs.

So, this player soon got around to leading his club ten. When west played small, dummy played small for the finesse. Even if this trick loses at once to the east king there is nothing else to it.

But east already had it figured out that declarer might need established clubs to make the contract. Therefore, to go with the east king was definitely giving up the ghost to a sure slam.

So, east never hesitated. He had decided he might as well take a gamble. So, fast like, he played his club three on the first club trick. This led south to believe that the king was in west. South led his last small club. When west played small again, dummy lonesed the nine with a confident grin. East hopped on it with the king and thus shut out the dummy clubs.

Unable to get into dummy again the declarer took a defeat when west got a heart trick. Your next deal should tell you that he would not be fooled that way. But this player was only human.

British Cricket

LONDON (CP)—George Emmett, 40-year-old Gloucester opening bat and former England player, Friday collected the fourth century of the season off Australian bowling.

His 141 was only four short of the highest score against the Australian cricketers so far—Len Hutton's 145 in the second Test.

But his century did not save Gloucester from a sweeping Australian victory, by nine wickets. The Aussie first-innings total of 402 was too much to chase. Neil Harvey took over the strange role of bowler and got three Gloucester wickets for nine runs.

In county cricket, Middlesex scored its sixth win of the season, beating Essex by 141 runs at Lords.

Golfers Ready For British Open

CARNOUSTIE (AP) — Competitors in the British open golf title today digested one important fact about Carnoustie, the approach shot hit a bit too hard could spell disaster.

The two favored Americans, Ben Hogan and Lloyd Mangrum, discovered this quickly in practice rounds this last week over Carnoustie's gloomy dunes. So did defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa.

There are no mounds behind many of the greens on this links. The players say they expect many cups will be placed near the sloping back edges when the first qualifying round begins Monday.

Hogan, holder of the U.S. open and Masters titles, paid particular attention to this feature of the golf course as he prepared for the title. This is Hogan's first crack at the British open and he wants to make it a successful one.

Judged by North American standards, Carnoustie has this par:

Out 444 445 434-36
In 444 354 345-36—72.

Yardage out is 3,613, and in 3,587, a total of 7,200.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, JULY 5, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — If you have been sensible about how you indulge yesterday and how you reacted to circumstances these past few days you should be able to go through today without fussing.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Having paid head to precautions during week, you should be enjoying this day fully, whether at duties or on leisure time. Remember spiritual needs.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—A little less speed if you have been going at brisk pace for long. More calm will produce a day you will remember happily. Order, prayer, geniality urged.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—The many things you have done in good spirit for others will repay now, or soon. Be the wise observer.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You may not be able to do all the things you had planned, nor have the kind of results from efforts you had hoped for, but you will be pleased with this day.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Better review proceedings and how you are getting along with present daily routine and habits. Do they all represent the real you?

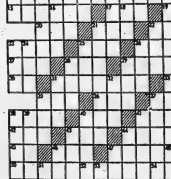
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Too much activity, tension, maybe friction? You can quickly alter this by using your strength of purpose and ardent attitude for the attack. Start with prayer.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Blessings for the many things you have done, and will continue to do! Take all humbly. Remember your church.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—If your day is free, don't waste it at frivolities. Rather get at some obligations to relieve coming week's schedule. Be cheerful.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—There are numerous ways we can save time, talent and money, and these are open to us all, not just a privileged few. Use some of this day for planning.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Good advice to Capricorn now. Be serious in thought of the true meaning of the 4th of July to Americans! Thank God for our many privileges, blessings.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Encouraging, helpful influences for all who rightly work for them. If your day is free for recreation, enjoy it wisely but with enthusiasm. Pray for our country.

YOU BORN TODAY: Active, determined, engaging personality but inclined to be pugnacious at times. The Moon is your natal planet; you are likely to feel gay at one time; then low in spirits. Realize that these are only "moods" and you can shake them off. Birthdate: Adm'l David Glasgow Farragut, Civil War hero, U.S.A.; Cecil Rhodes, Brit. colonist, statesman.

FORM LABOR COUNCIL

GUELPH (CP)—Representatives of 31 AFL and CIO locals, bargaining agents for about 4,000 industrial workers in this district, have formed the Guelph and District Allied Labor Council, it was announced Thursday.

Weed of the Week

Strangle Weed

A parasite in every sense and not a true weed, Dodder is number one enemy as far as clover crops are concerned. Living on the host plant Dodder becomes a ruthless destroyer by strangling the growth to which it attaches itself.

It is for this reason that Dodder is sometimes known as Strangle Weed. It grows more leisurely, Devil's Gut. It is a dangerous weed as it can affect legume crops wherever it gets a foothold.

As Dodder seed is difficult to separate from clover seed, every attention should be given to see that it does not spread. If we wish to produce and market clover seeds. Every precaution must be taken to prevent its introduction to farms that are at present free from this menace.

Easily Recognized

Dodder is easily recognized, as it has no leaves. The numerous fine yellow strands, twine themselves around clovers, buckwheat, flax and weed plants. By sending short teeth or suckers into the host plant, Dodder absorbs the food, starving the plant of nourishment and in time killing the host. As soon as Dodder seed germinates and forms contact with a plant, it releases itself at the root or ground and spreads from plant to plant. Thick clusters of small flowers in turn produce seed pods, with many hard, grey or yellowish-brown seeds.

Prevention is the best means of control. The only seed that has been officially graded by the Canadian Seed Laboratory, Under the Seeds Act, Dodder is classed as a prohibited noxious weed seed and seed containing Dodder cannot legally be offered for sale in Canada.

Must Cut All Crops

At the first sign of Dodder, all crops should be destroyed by burning to be sure that Dodder does not spread. Dodder must never be allowed to produce seed. Infested land should be summer-fallowed, followed by a good hoe crop. Seed may lie dormant in the soil for years but when sufficient moisture is present seeds are more likely to germinate. Although cereals will not support Dodder, it will grow on broad leaved weeds and clovers, therefore be certain that fields are as weed free as possible and seed down only with grasses.

HELPFUL STORK

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — Charles Schultz, 33, and almost deaf, was sitting on his front porch in a storm Wednesday night when lightnine struck a nearby tree with a thunderous crash. He says he doesn't need his hearing aid any more.

BOY DROWNS AT BEACH

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Robert King, 9, was drowned Thursday at a public beach on the Otonabee river here where his mother had taken him and his two younger brothers to register for swimming classes which start today.

C A R M E L

CARMEL—Mr. and Mrs. James Fox and Cathy have gone to visit friends at Scout's Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Moorman spent Saturday at Angus attending the wedding of their son Roscoe.

Mr. H. Chambers, Stouffville, visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hicks.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Downey and family, of Kilmar, Quebec, are visiting with Mrs. J. Reynolds.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Reynolds and boys spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wesley, Brighton, where Mrs. Reynolds' mother is seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Boldrick spent Sunday with Mrs. J. Syrjoski.

The pupils of Carmel school and their teacher entertained the parents on Closing Day by a display of closing day concert and presentation of certificates of promotion.

Sorry to report Mr. J. Patterson had the misfortune to hurt his foot while working at the canning factory, Foxboro. Friends wish for him a speedy recovery.

THOMASBURG

THOMASBURG — On Sunday, the Unified Church Sunday School had an attendance of 45. In the morning, Evening and communion service was not well attended, Rev. R. L. Norman preached an impressive sermon on the meaning of communion. The hymns also were appropriate. It was regrettable that so few availed themselves of the privilege of joining in this sacrament of praise and remembrance.

Rev. R. L. Norman and family commenced their holidays on Tuesday. All join in wishing them a pleasant vacation.

W.A.

The Women's Auxiliary of the United Church held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Harold Morton, Sr., with a good attendance. Mrs. Boldrick, president, conducted the devotional period. Mrs. J. E. Bateman, in charge of the program, gave an interesting discourse, her subject, 'The Bible.' Mrs. Yateman and Mrs. Boldrick gave a report on the 21st annual convention of the Hastings and Prince Edward Women's Association, recently held at Tweed.

During the business session, advisability of making a couple of quilts was discussed. One of the canvassing aprons was turned in, selling the funds appreciably.

Mrs. H. Kennedy and her group served refreshments.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Morton.

Thomasburg school on Friday held closing exercises for another year.

The pea viner in the Thomasburg district started operations on Saturday morning.

Mrs. C. E. Richardson and children of Stirling, visited friends of Thomasburg on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Martin were present at a birthday celebration on Sunday. The occasion was the birthday of their great grandaughter, Lorraine Holland. During the afternoon all attended the Loyal Orange Lodge service at White Lake.

On Monday the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swezger, fell from his high chair suffering a fractured collar bone. Best wishes of the community go to them for his welfare.

Shortly after noon on Monday friends and neighbors of Earle Adams were startled to learn of his being in an accident. Returning from Belleville in the Morton Garage truck, loaded with a dice implement, the truck apparently went out of control and overturned in the ditch. Earle was taken to hospital with a badly fractured leg and other injuries. On viewing the truck, spectators wondered at the miraculous escape. The dice was also badly damaged. All join in wishing Earle an early recovery.

There will be no service in the United Church during July. This will give regular attendants an opportunity to worship in Christ Church, the church just across the road.

Will Resume Duties After Rest

British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and his wife Clarissa, 32, niece of Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill, leave New England Baptist Hospital, Boston, for Newport, R.I., where Eden will convalesce from gall bladder operation. The operation is reported successful and, after convalescence, Eden will resume his duties.—Central Press Canadian.

Soviets Display Iron Hand, Velvet Glove in E. Europe

Strong Attempts Being Made To Quell Riots, Strikes

BERLIN (AP)—East Europe's Soviet masters displayed both the iron hand and the velvet glove today in their attempts to quell riots, strikes and outright rebellions by their disheartened peoples.

The soft approach was on in Romania where Red leaders, fearful of anti-Communist revolt, ordered additional rations of bread, flour products, potatoes, vegetables, sugar and oil distributed to the public.

The mailed fist still showed in East Germany. Justice Minister Max Fechner announced that almost 20 persons have been arrested for re-closure of the staggering total first public admission of the extent of the repressive measures taken in the wake of the June 17 revolt. came as the Reds grimly admitted that the spirit of revolt is still alive.

In an open letter to East zone farmers, Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl conceded that many are still dissatisfied with future prospects.

Grotewohl's regime and its Russian masters were reported releasing many of those arrested as rebels.

Reports from the East zone told of new industrial strikes and fresh unrest among farmers.

Despite the lack of reports talking of disorder behind the Iron Curtain—in Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Poland, as well as in East Germany and Romania—Western diplomats expressed belief that the communists still have the 10,000,000 restless East European satellite states under control.

Pueblo Said Wrong

These diplomats said that although the disturbances are immensely significant of the p ervasive signs that the Kremlin's vast policies in East Europe have been wrong and that the Kremlin is changing them.

The new Soviet leaders apparently believe that if they treat the man in the street with more kindness, they will get more production, one diplomat said, adding:

"We don't believe it merely a new tactic without any basic change of heart. The goal of world revolution is still there—to be won by sugar instead of vinegar."

Reports that spreading riots in Poland had forced declaration of martial law there drew an unusually fast denial Sunday night from the Red Warsaw government. The Polish news agency PAP issued a communique that no emergency measures had been taken in Poland.

Martial Law Declared

The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf said martial law had been declared in the Silesian industrial area of Poland and in Warsaw and Krakow. This report, never confirmed by Western diplomats, also declared that Poles had blown up 17 Soviet tanks.

East German newspapers gave prominent display to dispatches from Moscow reporting the governmental changes in which pugGy Matyas Rakosi was replaced as premier.

Western sources generally viewed the shift as Rakosi's way to kill incipient rebellion. The removal of Rakosi from the premiership is

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A small disturbance developed southward off Lake Michigan on Sunday night and is moving across southern and central Ontario today and tomorrow with showers and scattered thunderstorms. At this time of year pressure continues on its northeastward course the unsettled weather will move into western Quebec later today allowing drier and slightly cooler air to push into the province tonight. The arrival of this new air mass will bring clearing to most of Ontario tonight and Tuesday, however, some clouds and a few scattered showers will persist in the Timmins - Kapuskasing and James Bay region.

In line with the new Communist policy of eliminating ruthless oneman "hero" dictators.

Remains in Background

Rakosi remains in the background as Communist party boss while the new government headed by veteran Communist Imre Nagy has offered appeasement to the various Hungarian—and other—political factor, restoration of some private enterprise, and more food and consumer goods. The same softer policy has been promised in East Germany.

Moscow's Communist party newspaper Pravda charged—but the American press has mostly calling for a repetition of the bloody June 17 revolt, but Red authorities in East Berlin eased somewhat the partial blockade along the divided city's frontier.

Police announced Sunday that more controlings would be sent to Berliners passing from one zone to another, bringing the total to seven But only Germans with special passes are allowed through. The Soviet Control Council in Berlin ree of June 17 is still in effect.

Father Charged After Death Of Aquatic Star

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A formal charge of manslaughter has been filed against Russell Tongay, 36, in the death last May 5 of his daughter, Audrey, 5.

The formal charge, filed Friday had been expected since June 19 when a hearing was held before peace justice Edwin L. Mason, who recommended the charge be filed.

Kathy was seized with convulsions and died shortly after being taken to a hospital. An autopsy showed a ruptured intestine and body bruises. Tongay claimed his daughter died of the injuries when she made an imperfect dive from a 33-foot tower.

Audrey and her brother, Bubba, 8, formed the Aquatots team and staged many exhibitions in the U.S. They went to Europe for a promotion trip and English channel but British and French authorities intervened.

Medical Ritual Before Surgery Hangover of Habit Says Doctor

BY ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Lots of that medical ritual you've put through in having an operation is needless, a hangover of habit, says Dr. Samuel Harbison of Pittsburgh in an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

He says much of the shaving isn't needed. Neither are many enemas, shots of morphine, or banning drinking after or food until you like. He suggests a new analysis to discern what rules are outmoded.

Many patients are nervous and apprehensive before an operation.

Then come enemas, shaving, preparation of fluids, and administration of drugs by hypodermic injections. Most all these precautions may be routine for all patients. How can we make the preparatory time less of an ordeal?

Dr. Harbison says the need for enemas is questionable and may be terrifying to a child. They're even ordered in some hospitals. he adds, before a child's tonsils are taken out.

He abolished routine enemas five years ago and reports no complications resulting. They are necessary before some types of surgery, however.

As for shaving, that is often done "by rote, without thought or discernible hooks." The area to be operated on must be shaved but he sees no reason to shave the lower parts of the body for a chest operation.

At one hospital, routine shaving of the upper torso includes not only the armpits, but "the upper arm, forearm, hand, and fingers up the abdomen, chest and neck. The reason . . . was that the anaesthetist could better find and more deftly pierce the veins. I am quite sure this routine was not dictated by surgeons."

In some hospitals, everyone is given enemas, even those having even though it nauseates 10 to 15 per cent of patients. Morphine, he says, is thought to be especially good in reducing apprehension but feeds hardly-to-find fear of pain, good or better.

Drinking any fluids after midnight needs study, especially for children, Dr. Harbison writes. Sometimes, just sips to the stomach fort. Except in certain conditions, fluids can be taken safely until three to four hours before surgery.

After surgery, routine orders often forbid giving a patient even sips of water for some time. But Dr. Harbison finds water usually is safe, even after surgery on the esophagus. The sooner a patient starts to drink fluids, the sooner he won't need fluids by vein, and the sooner he can take pills by mouth.

RAINS HALT AIR WARFARE OVER KOREA

For First Time in Year All Planes Grounded

SEOUL (AP) — Allied planes stayed on the ground today while battlefront action was limited to brief patrol skirmishes as rainstorms lashed all Korea.

Up to 3½ inches of rain has soaked this war-torn peninsula since early Sunday from storms that swept in from the China Sea. The U. S. 5th air force said the downpour would continue another 24 hours.

For the first time in more than a year, all Allied planes in Korea were grounded. Reconnaissance flights—were grounded.

Along the costly 155-mile front, infantrymen struggled in ankle-deep mud and heavy water-logged bunkers from caving in. A number of bunkers already were reported collapsed.

Supply traffic crept slowly toward the battle-zone over dirt roads turned into a quagmire.

Allied troops who sloshed through the rain-soaked fields of no man's land reported 40 patrol contacts from Sunday to early Monday. All were directed at U. N. positions west of Finger ridge, anchor of Communist, on the hotly-contested Sniper ridge in central Korea. The patrols reported all turned back, the 8th army said.

Two Men Drown

GRAND BEND (CP)—Two men were drowned Sunday night when a 16-foot outboard motor boat overturned off this Lake Huron summer resort. Two others were rescued after clinging to the craft for half an hour.

Dead are Cameron McGregor, about 45, of Parkhill and Daniel Burns, Jr., 21, of Sarnia. Their two companions, Jack Greenley, 21, of Warriston and Alvin F. Munn of London, were rescued by two Lon don men in a rowboat.

Police said the motor broke the boat capsized without warning.

Provincial police constables were started to recover the bodies.

NEW INSECTS FOUND

NEW YORK (AP)—The finding of several hundred insects and spiders new to science was announced today by the American Museum of Natural History. The museum said the chief discoveries—insects and spiders were among 50,000 collected by a six-month expedition in the Netherlands New Guinea. The expedition also found 2,700 reptiles, amphibians and mammals also were brought back.

Prime Minister and Drew Trade Speaking Territories

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, trade territories this week. St. Laurent's headquarters will from Ottawa while Mr. Drew journeys from West to stump Northern Ontario, parts of Quebec and the Maritimes.

Winding up his western tour at Saskatoon during the week-end, Mr. Drew challenged Mr. St. Laurent to say whether the Liberal government, if re-elected Aug. 10, will repeal the farm price support legislation.

He said at a press conference that Mr. St. Laurent described price support as "socialism" in an Ontario campaign speech. A Progressive Conservative government would establish a producer-represented agricultural board to determine fair farm prices on the basis of a "scientific formula" and "statistics."

Referring to trade, Mr. Drew said the dollar-sterling problem is an artificial barrier which could be broken by "taking down the sentinel of trade, not the master." A PC government would make a real concerted effort to improve trade with Commonwealth countries which were the "obvious outlets" of Canadian farm products.

In Ottawa, Mr. St. Laurent will meet with his cabinet, probably to discuss policy for wheat for the new crop year opening Aug. 1. Agriculture minister Gardiner also is expected to bring up Liberal policy on the South Saskatchewan River project, on which the Liberals have not made a firm commitment and which Mr. Drew said Saturday is a Progressive Conservative government will build.

Mr. St. Laurent moves into Winnipeg July 8, going on to Vancouver and Victoria for subsequent night meetings. He returns via Calgary, Edmonton, Yorkton, Saskatoon and Regina before mid-July.

After going to Fort William today and Sudbury Tuesday, Mr. Drew will campaign in his home riding of Carleton.

Belleville, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, resumes his campaign at Prince Albert, Sask. He called a temporary halt June 26 when his wife died in Ottawa.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, is campaigning in the Peace River district which he presented in the last Parliament.

Food Shortages Common Talk In Reports from Red Satellites

LONDON (Reuters)—Food shortages in countries normally rich in wheat and cattle provided a common theme of reports of changes and unrest in Communist Eastern Europe which poured in during the week-end.

Many of the reports were not confirmed from the satellite countries themselves, but the salient facts of a drastic shakeup in Hungary were known from Hungarian sources.

Here are the week-end developments:

Hungary—The veteran Communist prime minister, Mathyas Rakosi, was replaced in a government reorganization which puts a hand in hand with a promise to give priority to food production instead of heavy industry. The new regime was announced in a speech by Rakosi's successor as prime minister, Imre Nagy.

Poland—Stockholm sources in touch with Polish exiled government demonstrators had clashed with police in 20 towns and villages and that the government had tightened security measures. The reports said that although the situation was explosive they believed Polish anti-Communists had large-scale disturbances were exaggerated.

Allied source in Berlin said there was little to back the press reports. They said it claimed that Russian tanks were rolling eastwards from Berlin to crush Polish rioters.

Will Increase Supplies

Romania—The official news agency announced a government decision to increase the supply of bread, vegetables and other foodstuffs oil. After July 11 a white flour ration will be introduced and the government will release cereals from stock to provide more bread.

Czechoslovakia—The official paper Rude Pravo admitted that bread was rationed because currency reform which was supposed to be accompanied by improved supply. The report said workmen often had to go to work without bread.

Reports from reliable sources said that in Romania, once part of Europe's "bread basket," peasants are going to Bucharest, the capital, to get bread.

First in East Germany and now in Hungary the Communist government have been driven to the sentence of patients. Morphine, he says, is thought to be especially good in reducing apprehension but feeds hardwithout bread or better.

'Copter Proving Most Useful In Northland

EDMONTON (CP)—The helicopter, with its ability to hover, settle less in mid-air or land in a tiny space, is proving a boon to flying fleets in northern bush plane fleets.

Manager Thomas F. Fox of Associated Airways Ltd., which has three copters based here, says development of their use in the northland has barely started. There now are 15 commercial helicopters in Alberta on geological and topographical survey assignments.

Mr. Fox says the helicopter will not replace conventional aircraft but will be used where it can do unnecessary many trips by canoe or on foot.

With helicopters, geologists can reach areas previously inaccessible, Mr. Fox revealed one engineer who said he accomplished more in a three-man crew in six weeks last year than three crews had done in three years by ordinary methods.

Versatile Machines

The helicopter has many uses. Engineers surveyed a 200 - mile power line route in northwest Alberta in 1½ days. A helicopter was used to find deposits of sand and gravel in the Cold Lake area for the RCAF's new airport in the big Alberta-Saskatchewan border.

Before it is commercially extensively however, it will have to be cheaper and carry a heavier load, said Mr. Fox. Most helicopters now carry only about one-third as much load per gallon of fuel as the same price can handle.

Heavy Traffic Over Bridges

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Customs officials reported heavy traffic Sunday night there was little or no delay in the handling of cars at the Ambassador bridge or the Windsor-Detroit tunnel as thousands of American Sisters returned home after spending the July 4 holiday week-end in Canada.

Officials estimated traffic was about as heavy as Saturday when close to 10,000 persons an hour were passing over the international boundary.

U.S. residents, many of whom spent summer homes on this side of the Detroit river, started the mass homeward flight. The traffic into Canada reached its peak Saturday.

BETTER PAY

LONDON (CP)—Nurses who quit to become air hostesses are causing shortages in hospitals. A British European Airways official said air hostess earns almost twice as much as a hospital nurse.

RUMOR RHEE GIVEN CHANCE TO SAVE FACE

U.S. Spokesman Denies South Korean Report

SEOUL (AP)—The U. S. has offered South Korean President Syngman Rhee a face-saving two-point compromise to win his approval of a truce truce, but Rhee so far has rejected it, an authoritative South Korean source said today.

A spokesman for the U. S. embassy denied such an offer had been made.

The South Korean source, who insisted on anonymity, said Rhee is standing pat on his demand for the Korean fighting if a post-armistice political conference fails in 90 days to bring agreement on unifying Korea.

The source, a person in authority, told Associated Press correspondent Bill Shinn that Rhee's demand is the stumbling block of the 1-day talks between Rhee and assistant secretary of state Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's special truce envoy.

The compromise is reported to provide for the U. S. to:

1. Agree to join South Korea in walking out of the conference if after 90 days it has not made progress toward peaceful unification of Korea.

2. After such a walkout, "discuss" on a diplomatic level resumption of the war.

No route to the presidential mansion, Robertson ran into the first South Korean anti-truce demonstration apparently beamed specifically at him. A line of marchers shouted "Drive north . . . keep our sovereignty . . . unification until victory."

Others carried placards reading "Eternal friendship with America."

The U. S. is reported to have firmly opposed Rhee's demand for a guarantee to renew fighting if unification fails.

Army Heads Meet

Meanwhile, another secret conference is being held in Seoul by Gen. Maxwell Taylor, U. S. commander of Allied ground forces in Korea, and U. S. advisers to the South Korean army.

Despite a U. S. 8th army announcement that the session was a routine monthly affair, there was speculation they discussed military problems that would arise if a truce is signed. Robert Rhee's guarantee that the 16 RoK divisions will observe the cease-fire.

At Panmun, South Korea's Defence Minister Sohn Wun Il said strict orders have been issued to the 27,000 anti-Red war prisoners released by Rhee to enlist in the RoK Army.

Previously, the South Korean government said any Korean could enter the army and fight for the republic.

U.S. Scientist Has Developed Method of Tracking Tornadoes

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP)—A U. S. scientist says tornadoes now can be identified and tracked across the skies—the big step in the eventual elimination of mass destruction from the whirling, destructive winds.

A mechanical system of tracking the twisters, developed by Dr. H. L. Jones of Oklahoma College, Stillwater, was revealed in his laboratory and used to warn those in the path of the onrushing tornado.

For six years, Jones has tried various experiment to prove his theory that tornado storms radiate the same type of electrical charges that makes them different from other storms.

Until now, Dr. Jones has avoided building-up hopes that tornadoes could be forecast and pinpointed. But in a progress report made public today, the 43-year-old rodeo scientist said he is ready to help set up a nationwide system when officials authorize it.

However, he adds, it will be up to the states, federal government or private business to finance tracking stations which could spot the tornadoes as they develop and plot their courses so towns in their paths could be alerted.

He estimates a station and its equipment would cost about $300,000. Six men would be required to man each station.

The cost he says, would be minor compared to the lives and property damage such a system could save.

In the first six months of 1953, tornadoes have taken more than 250 lives in the U. S.

Jones has not had time to determine how many stations would be needed to make the warning system effective. However, study groups range from 50 to 100. The effective range of a station is decided by one of its instruments, a device which has a normal radius of 130 miles.

The instrument was built by Dr. Jones and his staff of the Oklahoma Institute, of Technology relies on radar, direction finding apparatus, oscilloscope and other electronic devices.

This is different from the system now being used effectively at Tinker air force base at Oklahoma City for forecasting tornadoes.

His method is based on his proven theory that tornado clouds give out high voltage discharges called sferics and that the discharge, number and duration, are identifiable.

8th Army Chief Hopeful Break Will Not Occur

Talks 'Friendly, Cordial' Comments Special Envoy

SEOUL (Reuters) — Non-Korean United Nations troops could be removed from the front line if the South Koreans decide to ignore an armistice reached between the UN and the Communists, a spokesman for Gen. Maxwell Taylor, 8th army commander, said today.

The spokesman, Col. George White, the army's chief information officer, added that Taylor does not think there will be a break between the UN command and the South Koreans.

"The general stressed emphatically he does not think there will be a break and it will not be necessary to withdraw allied troops under such circumstances," White said.

He added that Taylor is confident he could move UN troops out of the line if he had to be done."

White's comment, in reply to reporters' questions, followed a day of conference between Taylor and U. S. advisers to the South Korean army.

Despite a U. S. 8th army announcement that the session was a routine monthly affair, there was speculation they discussed the problems that would arise if a truce is signed. Robert Rhee's guarantee that the 16 RoK divisions will observe the cease-fire.

At Panmun, South Korea's Defence Minister Sohn Wun Il said strict orders have been issued to the 27,000 anti-Red war prisoners released by Rhee to enlist in the RoK Army.

Lakefield Editor Dies Saturday

LAKEFIELD (CP)—James William Edgar, 80, for 50 years editor of the weekly Lakefield News, died Saturday at his home here.

Chairman of the Lakefield public school board for 25 years, Mr. Ridpath was a 50-year Mason and a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters. He sold his interest in the weekly News in 1942.

He is survived by his widow, the Jean Thompson; two sons, Clayton and John, and a daughter, Mrs. Harold Fotitt, all of Toronto.

Oil Firm Head Denies Charge Water Polluted

DETROIT (CP) — Superintendent Dr. Kenneth A. West of Canadian Oil Co., Ltd., Sunday denied charges that Sarnia, Ont., oil and chemical plants were guilty of "unbelievable violations of the international anti-pollution codes."

"Our plant is abiding by every regulation to curb pollution," Dr. West said. "We have the most modern equipment designed to prevent such contamination."

The superintendent was contacted for comment after Laurence Pickworth, general superintendent of the Detroit water board, Saturday reiterated earlier charges that increased pollution of the St. Clair river was threatening Detroit's water supply.

He cited Canadian Oil as the worst offender.

Board Satisfied

Dr. West said officials of the international joint commission visited the plant last month and were "completely satisfied with our methods and machinery to curb foul discharges into the St. Clair river."

Mr. Lehardt said a recent check showed the plant was discharging 25 parts of foul-tasting phenol into the Talford and St. Clair rivers for every one billion parts of water.

"Restrictions limit phenol at the discharge point to 20 parts for for every billion parts of water," he said.

Sarnia is located about 60 miles northeast of here on the St. Clair river. The river empties into Lake St. Clair from which the city gets its water supply.

Whiskey Cargo Worth $60,000 Hijacked

NEW YORK (AP)—A five-ton trailer truck carrying booze with a $60,000 cargo of whiskey was recovered early today—empty, but the driver said he was forced off the Brooklyn bridge, stripped clean of the cases of whiskey.

The truck and its contents were hijacked from a Newark, N. J., freight line terminal by a gunman with a soft, purring voice, and two confederates.

The leader, speaking in a low, almost inaudible voice, pointed a black .38-calibre revolver at Michael Sorrentino, 50, the night dispatcher, and said quietly:

"Keep calm or I'll let you have it. I'm not afraid to use it. I can make a sound, it'll be too bad for you."

MEDICAL OFFICER SAYS WELL WATER UNFIT FOR USE

The medical officer of health, Dr. A. M. Brenie, has issued another warning today concerning the Pinnacle Street well.

About a month ago, the board of health closed it down following three grade "D" reports on the water. Some time over the weekend, the warning signs were removed. Dr. Brenie said the signs were not removed on authority of his department and new signs will be put up today.

Reports persist that some persons are drinking from the well despite the warning signs. The doctor warns such people are inviting trouble as the water is definitely polluted and unfit for human consumption.

CIVIL DEFENCE UNIT TO PARADE TO THEATRE

Tonight is the big evening for the civil defence unit at the Capitol Theatre. For the next three evenings residents of this city will be able to view "Invasion U.S.A.", and tonight those members who are to be guests of the theatre manager, T. A. Mascaro, will parade along Front Street to the Capitol.

The guests will be in full defence uniform.

BIG CELEBRATION PLANNED AT TWEED

What is said to be one of the largest Orange celebrations staged in the district in years, will take place at Tweed, on Saturday, July 11.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. F. C. Benzer, Carrying Place. Other speakers include Reeve F. C. Graham, Rev. W. K. Pyce, Rosco Robson, M.L.A., W. F. Thomson, Harry M. Coulter, Haro-d Varty, Archie Sinclair and Gordon McDiarmid, county master.

hTe customary parade will be held with all L.O.L. Lodges in full regalia. A dance at night will climax the Orange festivities.

MARMORA, TWEED BATTLE TO 8-8 TIE

Marmora and Tweed battled to an 8-8 tie in Marmora.

Both sides went down order in the first inning. Tweed opened the scoring in the top of the second with a singleton. Marmora knotted the score in the bottom of the second. Marmora went into the lead in the fifth frame only to be caught up in the sixth. Tweed went into the seventh and scored three runs. Marmora scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh and then the game was called on account of darkness.

In the other league game Friday, Madoc defeated Ivanhoe 13-8 in Tweed.

MANY ATTEND PLAYGROUND MOVIES

About a hundred people and twenty times as many mosquitoes enjoyed the first open air movie at the East Hill playgrounds Sunday evenings.

The films and the movies shown were Indian Canoeman, Tuc Mountain Movers, Canada Presents Eye Witness, Toronto: Boom Town, and A Man's Life, (Navy).

The showing of the movies is a joint affair between the Belleville Recreation Commission and the Belleville and District Film Council. The movies are shown three nights a week, Wednesday and Sunday evenings at the East Hill playgrounds and Thursday evening at the Queen Mary School playgrounds.

The films will be held for the next seven weeks.

'Jamie' Clark Welcomed By Large Crowd, Kiltie Band On Return from Dundee Visit

"Wee Jamie" Clark came home to Belleville Saturday night.

And a large representation of the city's population went Scotsmad to greet the popular little piper.

Jamie, who had spent a few litime in his native city of Dundee, Scotland for the past six weeks, thanks to the generosity of Belleville friends and organizations.

A procession of the city practically "mobbed" the grand old man as he stepped from a Canadian National Railway crack flyer at 8.30.

With a lively pibroch played by the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment RCA (ALI) pipe band led by Pipe Major Jack McKay ringing in his ears, "Jamie" figuratively leaped into the arms of his friends.

Wearing proudly, and at a rakish slant, his new beret from a Canadian Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada, he could scarcely speak as hands reached at him from all sides.

Tears glinted in his eyes as he tried to express his pleasure and gratitude. Cries of "Welcome Home, Jamie" rang out from the crowd. Veterans of various organizations, fellow townsmen, in fact, people from nige to ninety gave the gallant little citizen a royal welcome.

They formed a parade. And while smiling, whistle blowing, a conductor, trainmen and brakesmen, as well as passengers of the Toronto train, made ropes round out the familiar "Bonny Dundee" the "Cornish" moved along a corridor through the crowd.

Gives Reeve Ride

It halted momentarily while pretty little Mary Lou Hobb, young daughter of Sergeant Major and Mrs. Art. Hobb, pinned a bouquet of red roses on Jamie's lapel and added a resounding kiss.

Cheers echoed as the returning Scotsman presented to RSM. A. Lacey, 9th Anti Tank Regiment, and Bert Wells, ANAF treasurer, marched down the platform. "Jamie" halted the parade long enough to take over the pipes and play his favorite Scottish air.

Jamie who disembarked at Montreal from the R.M.S. Ascania on Saturday was met by Belleville friends, Jimmy Doig, Art. Galbraith and Marshall Day.

Perhaps some of the proudest men on hand were the pipers who instrumental in arranging for Jamie's holiday. These included besides Doig and Galbraith, Ed. Sunderland, Mac Lacey, Sid Dawkins, and others. The ANAF branch here was represented by Treasurer Wells, Ray Dendin, Cecil Cherry, Jack Clarke etc.

In an exclusive interview on Sunday, "Jamie" related the events and exciting incidents that featured his all-too-brief stay in the city of his birth.

Only one thing disturbed the holiday, he said, and that was a slight infection of the eyes caused by the sea air. It was not serious but it bothered the "wee laddie" at times. It is not at all now.

Two incidents featured the holiday that will be indelibly etched on Jamie's memory. They were the meeting with the son he thought long dead and the number of members of the Clarke clan who were evident in Dundee.

Reveals Wife Is Lonely

"I thocht 'twould be a wee holiday for a lonely auld man returning to his former home but nobody would know Jim."

"Instead," he went on, visibly moved, "I discovered there were 143 people directly and indirectly related to me. It was one of the grandest things that ever happened to me."

There were tears in Jamie's eyes as he related the story of his meeting with the son he thought long dead. "I'll never forget the minute we stood and shook hands."

Jamie said in a voice that trembled. "There was wee Jamie, now 64 years of age. His mother died when she was twenty-one and my auld mother took over the bairnie. I had never heard from them in fifty years and it was my belief they had passed on. What a surprise and somethin' of a shock it was to see the boy."

The word spread over Dundee like wildfire. From all parts of the city and countryside clansmen rallied to meet a repatriated kinsman. Nephews and nieces, grandchildren and great grandchildren, Clarks of all ages and descriptions gave Jamie a welcome fitting a Scottish patriarch.

Life of the Party

They held a big party for him at the Dundee Club in Jamie's honor and the greater majority of the 145 guests bore no name but Clark and all related to Jamie. The kilted orchestra were Clarks, and so were the waiters. There was "dancin' and flingin'" and wee Jamie himself, despite his 84 years, performed a Highland fling and renditions on the pipes, as the clansmen roared their approval.

In the gleaming white and habiliments of the colorful Royal Smart Tartan, Jamie drank the Coronation toast to Queen Elizabeth II. He was the life of the party" until a forsighted kinswoman, a niece, Mrs. Robertson, who took Jamie under her wing, whisked him away his entire stay, said reluctantly as Jamie was carefully escorted to his hotel.

Jamie carried a letter from Mayor McLean Haig to the Lord Provost or mayor of the city of Dundee. He was presented to the Dundee's chief magistrate and given the freedom of the city. He was the guest of honor with the Provost, who evinced a keen interest in the life ownership membership of the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans in Canada, which Jamie proudly wore on all occasions.

He was the guest of the Royal British Legion during his stay and Jamie paid fine tribute to the splendid ex-servicemen and service accorded him by the management and staff.

Set the Table

Mrs. Robertson, a daughter of Jamie's brother John, took him "behind the scenes" to see Dundee men and clansmen opened their doors and hearts to the wee piper, on every occasion. "They wouldn't be thought I was a hungry old cuss, at that" was how Jamie put it.

Jamie sought out family connections of fellow countrymen living in Belleville. He was successful on two occasions. He returned with letters from relatives of Bill Sheppard and Charlie Kyd, well-known in this city.

Other well-known Belleville were the drills of the Mackenzie Highlanders in their tracks where the pipe band, in full regimentals, played stirring marches, and the gay "doin's" in Dundee Park where the lads and lassies danced flings, played Scottish airs and competed in bagpipe contests.

Deep Appreciation

But the holiday ended all too soon. "I enjoyed every minute of it," sighed Jamie, but after all, it was good to get back to Belleville with so many fine people here who are my friends. I can never thank them and all who by their generosity and good will made it possible for me to go home. I want you to say in this paper for me "Thank ye. Long may your town prosper. Never my forget what they did for me."

There were touching scenes of farewell at the Dundee railway station as Jamie finally bade good-bye to the folk who had made his holiday such an overpoweringly enjoyable success. Practically all of the Clark Clan was on hand to bid the elderly kinsman good-bye. As the train pulled away, the "Highland Laddie" for Wee Jamie" could be heard the pipes of the kiltedband playing "Will Ye No Come Back Again." And with the cheers of his "family" ringing in his ears, "Wee Jamie" made a reluctant farewell to "Bonny Dundee."

Charges May Be Laid Following Car Accident

The first major influx of holiday visitors from south of the border saw the highways and byways crowded with bumper to bumper traffic, yet the week-end record of traffic accidents was one of the lightest Belleville has seen in vacation time.

The city police had only one accident reported where injuries were suffered. But it was a comprehensive one. Toronto motorist, Fred Harrington, 53, at 11 p.m. Saturday lost control of his car at the main four corners, careened over the curb and came to an abrupt halt in collision with the Bank of Montreal.

Two Harrington's youngsters, Larry 4 and Rea 7, were hurt and taken by Rush's Ambulance to the Belleville hospital for emergency treatment. Neither was badly hurt.

Mr. Harrington's explanation of the accident to the police was that he swerved right to let a car proceeding at right angles to his direction when he believed he had a green light. The other motorist did not stop, he said. Police Sergeant Hall is investigating the accident.

Police said Monday morning that charges of careless driving would be laid against Mr. Harrington. Damage sustained, largely by the Harrington car, was estimated by police to be about $400.

Rev. L.S. Throop Inducted Into New Pastorate

The Rev. L. S. Throop, B.A., B.D., formerly of Brantwood, was inducted into the pastorate of Cannilton charge on Friday evening, succeeding the Rev. W. R. Merrick, who is now retiring. The induction was in charge of the Rev. G. A. Puttenhan, of Trenton, chairman of the Belleville Presbytery.

The address to the minister was given by Rev. R. W. Middleton, Bayside, and the address to the congregation by the retiring pastor, Rev. R. Merrick. Later the service the members of the congregation were introduced personally to the new pastor and his wife, by Mr. D. Brenton, Mr. Herb. Howes, Mr. Earl Defoe and Mrs. Bertrand.

After the introduction the large gathering moved to the Sunday school rooms, there Mr. David Martin, of Stirling, presided, for the program. He welcomed the new pastor and his wife, assuring him of every co-operation in their work in the church. At the close refreshments were served.

In Memoriam

PRESTON, — In loving memory of a dear husband, William C. Preston, who died on this day, July 8, 1950.

Time may heal the broken hearted,
Years may dull the sharpest woe
But it cannot fill the longing
For the one we used to know.

Who shall say the grief is lessened
Or the heart less sad and lone
Memory wears the wound still open
Though the years have flown and gone.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by his wife Elizabeth. 26

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Aside from a rising group of New Brunswick base metals, prices were fairly steady mixed in forenoon stock market trading today.

New Lender in Refinery base metals, was an early standout as it jumped 44 cents to $1.30 in brisk dealings. Carried along in the rally were Brunswick, Anacon, Noranda and Brunhurst. Uraniums failed to participate in the advance but turned generally weaker.

Industrials were sparked by such rising sectors as oilfilter, steels, refining oils and manufacturing companies.

Golds moved at their fastest pace in days as the grouping slipped back narrowly in all sections. Seniors were touched for losses running to 15 cents for Lake Shore, Preston East Dome backed the downward current in juniors to post a 19-cent gain.

Although key base metals like Falconbridge and Asbestos and Campbell Chibougamau advanced enough to force an index rise for the grouping, a majority of issues were down. Eastern Metals and Canalor headed the losers.

Western oils faded gently under pressure of losses in Bailey-Selburn, Royalite and Home Oils. Citiofl was a specialty with its 38-cent gain.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were generally 75 cents to $1 higher on all cattle at the Ontario Stockyards today. Receipts Cattle 82,330; calves 330; hogs 270; sheep and lambs 250; holdover from the weekend 850 cattle.

Choice light and weighty steers 19-20 one lot at 20.35; good 18-19; medium downward to 17; good heifers 18.50-19; plain steers and heifers downward to 16; good cows 14.50; a few 15; good heavy bulls were mostly 13-14; choice fed yearlings 19.50-75.

The market was strong on calves with good type 26; some as high as 22; medium to good 13-17.

Hog prices were not established. Good lambs were steady at 28; a few plain sheep 5-8.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter grist prices were unchanged here today.

Prices were steady to firm at the egg market. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large 66; A medium 60; A small 50; grade B 42; grade C 42. Wholesale to retail: A large 72; A medium 71; A small 57; grade B 52; grade C 47.

Butter sales: first grade tenderable 58; non-tenderable 56½-58%; first grade, non-tenderable 60-score Ontario 58.

Wanted Dessert Gets Desserts

Some fish, the finny kind, will never taste a worm. Like some humans, they get themselves a tummyful of food and then grab at another choice morsel, to their undoing.

Take that twelve-pound lake trout that Bill Clare of Stirling hooked in Northern Lake Sunday morning.

Bill and Mrs. Clare caught the big fella trolling in 200 feet of water with a copper line, and it gave them a fifteen-minute battle before saying "uncle".

When they opened the trout they found a freshly-gulped ten-inch green bass.

The laker measured thirty inches in length and 11½ inches in girth.

Raspberry Crop Only Normal One, Pea Crop Over

WELLINGTON, (Special) — The raspberry crop should be a normal one this year in this district, but a good rain within the next few days would boost the yield considerably, growers of this district state.

Early spring rains filled the berries out well, and in the majority of patches the fruit is hanging in heavy clusters on the canes.

The pea harvest should be completed this week in this area. District viners have been operating from six o'clock in the morning until late at night for the past week or so, and in most cases the yield has been good.

Some farmers cut "ready" crops late Saturday and hauled them to viners where they were "spread" on the ground to prevent spoilage over the week-end. These were threshed early this morning.

Building Permits to June 30 Reach Record of $1,423,389

A record for the number of new dwelling units built in Belleville in a single year might be set in 1953, this was indicated in the half-yearly statistics for building permits released Monday by Building Inspector Parker, city building inspector.

To June 30, construction of all kinds undertaken had a total value of $1,423,389 as compared with $200,000 for the same period a year ago. While the discrepancy in volume is made up largely by the $570,000 contract for re-building the Dominion Entomological Laboratories on Dundas Street, there is a significant increase in the number of new dwelling units.

To date this year there have been permits for 68 dwelling units at a value of well over half a million dollars. In the same period last year the residential construction value was less than $275,000. And during the full year of 1952 only 77 new dwelling units were created. In the previous year of 1951 only 57 new dwelling units were built.

The figures for this year indicate that twice as many new homes will be built as in 1951.

Mr. Barker reports that this year a good deal more initiative is being shown by private home builders. In many instances, he says, there is no general contractor involved. The prospective home owner proceeds with the job himself and engages his own sub-contractors.

Rev. W.R. Merrick Concludes Forty Years Service in Church Ministry

CANNIFTON. — An important days in the annals of Cannifton circuit and the experience of the pastor, Rev. W. R. Merrick, took place on June 28. The occasion marked the retirement of Mr. Merrick from the active ministry after a period of forty years service on six different charges all within the Belleville Presbytery and none more than thirty-five miles from Belleville.

At the morning service in Bethany church the ceremony of dedicating the new church hall took place at 10. The addition to the church is largely the result of the work and plans of the ladies of the congregation, and therefore it was fitting that they should be especially recognized in having a prominent part in this service of dedication.

Following the doxology Mrs. Grant Cole, president of the W.A., announced the Hymn "We Love the Place O God, Where-in Thine Honor Dwells." Mrs. David Martin, secretary-treasurer, read the 122nd Psalm and this was followed with an appreciation of the ladies' work and sacrifice on behalf of the church. Prayer was offered by the pastor.

Mrs. V. Hamilton, past president, opened the door to the hall symbolizing "the open door of service to the church". The pastor offered the prayer of dedication. After the minister's final message of exhortation and appreciation had been given, the sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed by a large congregation. In the afternoon the farewell service and sacrament of the Lord's Supper was duly observed at Gilead St. Andrew's Church.

The evening service and farewell at Cannifton was also largely attended. An impressive part of the service was the reception service when twelve new members were added to the roll of the church on profession of faith, after each one had affirmed their views and signed the roll.

The pastor in his closing message at each appointment thanked the congregations for the wonderful co-operation in the church work, also the women's organizations, and Y.P. groups, the C.G.I.T. and Tyro groups, the organists and choirs for their contribution of music and messages in song. In the service at the churches on the charge, also to Mr Chumley of Plainfield, for his special contributions of music in song.

He gave as his final message, the plea of St. Paul in one of his farewells to the early Christians, "Remember the words of the Lord Jesus". The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was commenced at the closing of the service.

Postal Employees Present Program To Government

HAMILTON (CP)—A group of Ontario postal employees, members of the Federation Association of Letter Carriers and the Canada Postal Employees, proposed Sunday a six-point formula for solution of salary and working conditions in post offices throughout Canada.

The six points were contained in a resolution put before the meeting by Hamilton postal employees. Representatives attended from Brockville, Peterborough, Windsor, Toronto, Welland, Galt, London, Guelph, Grimsby, Simcoe and Belleville.

The resolution said that if they did not receive a "satisfactory reply" from the government within 60 days all branches of the FALC and CPE are to meet to consider further action.

The six points:

1. Union recognition;
2. Collective bargaining rights;
3. The Rand formula under which all employees pay union dues whether members of the union or not;
4. A five-day, 40-hour work week with time and one half for overtime and double time for holidays and Sunday;
5. A $500 salary increase across the board;
6. That a postal employee attain maximum salary within three years.

16 Men Arrested

VANDORF, Ont. (CP)—Provincial police arrested 16 men during the week-end on charges ranging from drunken driving to obstructing and assaulting a police officer and announced a crackdown on trouble-makers in the Muskoka-man's Lake area, 20 miles north-east of Toronto.

Sgt. A. J. Harrison said that if necessary roadblocks will be set up on all roads in the area to prevent the annual influx of hoodlum gangs. Cabins would be checked regularly in a move to wipe out immortal practices by lawless gangs in the area.

Sgt. Harrison said he found five girls, the eldest 17, sharing a cabin Saturday night with two men.

Splendid Field Of Fall Wheat Near Wellington

WELLINGTON (Special)—Farmers and even city dwellers are coming from far and wide to view a stand of fall wheat that is claimed by veteran agriculturists of the district to be the finest grown heretabouts in a long time.

The stand, some fourteen acres, is the farm of George Baitler and Son, residing a mile west of this village.

The heads are filled to bursting and are turning a beautiful brownish gold. The straw is approximately five and one half feet high with scarcely a half-inch difference over the entire acreage.

As one observer noted, "You could lay a huge blanket over the entire field, and there would scarcely be a bulge or indentation apparent."

Baitler, well-known farmer of this district for the past forty-five years, said on Sunday, that the field was the finest crop he had ever grown or seen grown. He anticipates a record acreage yield from the stand, providing wind and weather do not interfere before harvesting.

Power Potential Of Project Said To be High

TORONTO (CP)—Experts behind the Seaway are interested in estimating the power potential of the St. Lawrence seaway project.

Hector Saunders, chairman of the Ontario hydro commission, says the increased power capacity to Canada from the seaway would be equal to 29,000,000 men working eight hours a day for 300 days a year. Technically speaking, Canada would have an additional 6,300,000,000 kilowatt hours at a cost of nearly $19,000,000 each year. The United States would receive the same.

Two large dams across the international portion of the river will produce this tremendous amount of electricity. One will incorporate a power-house 3,500 feet long, containing 16 generating units. The units would produce 2,200,000 horsepower.

Flags Undertaking

The dams would raise the level of water 80 feet. The project calls for the moving of at least eight Ontario communities to higher ground. In addition some 20 miles of railway would be re-located and 45 miles of highway rebuilt.

Already about 120 engineers and men are on the banks of the historic river engaged in preliminary planning. Scores of others are busy at the University of Toronto studying miniature models of the seaway, determining currents and testing devices. Ontario hydro engineers and scientists are working together on intricate problems which are swiftly solved by the university's electric "brain."

More than 70,000 tons of reinforcing steel will be needed as well as some 108,000 tons of structural steel, 4,400 tons of copper, more than 7,620,000 barrels of cement and 115,000 board feet of lumber. This is exclusive of replacement and machinery and equipment in powerhouses.

HE SEEKS A LOST UTOPIA

It is extremely unlikely that any monument will be erected to honor Harold Marshall. But he deserves one.

Marshall, a one-time resident of Collingwood, Ontario, was arraigned in federal district court at Rochester, N.Y., charged with illegal entry into the United States.

"Borders don't exist in my mind," he said. "A border is an imaginary thing in a person's mind. It's just like an iron curtain."

Statements like that, of course, seem so absurd to the mid-twentieth century mind that Marshall's court appearance and the statement won headlines in many a paper.

"The man's mad," readers chuckled, and found confirmation for their viewpoint in the fact that Marshall wears a beard; that he offered his defence "in both mental and physical briefs" by stripping down to blue swimming trunks and handing the judge a Bible; that he declined to get a lawyer and declared "I think of the law as something that protects a man, whether he has a lawyer or not."

But whatever one may think of his actions and his other statements, his views on national borders were once shared by many men, particularly in civilized lands.

There was a day when Czarist Russia's insistence on passports was regarded as the evidence of barbarity.

Today, of course, most nations impose strict restrictions as to the type of person who may be permitted to cross their borders.

Only amongst savage tribes will be found men who will agree with Marshall that "a border is an imaginary thing in a person's mind."

All our present legislation tends to enhance the importance of strict control of immigration. When the ruler is selected by a vote of the people, it becomes important to decide just who may vote. Everywhere we look we see the state to care for a man when he is unemployed, or old, or ill, then the state naturally wants to know something about the people to whom it is responsible.

The blast at Hiroshima in 1945 added another reason for nations to tighten their controls over the free movements of individuals. Science has served to enhance the possible importance of the individual more than crossing a border may take with him the ability to decide the fate of millions.

Until the world finds that Utopia complete in all details for which it has so long sought, there is little hope of mankind recovering that lost freedom of movement of which Marshall complains.

Until the power of the atom was released, a logical case could be made for the assertion that, if a modern state had a right to decide whom it would admit within its borders, it had no moral right to decide whom it would retain inside its boundaries, contrary to the individual's wishes. Even today, there are relatively few men who possess secrets so dangerous that their departure from the country can constitute a threat to the nation's existence. We might all do well to seek the restoration of this amount of freedom to the individual which will allow him to leave any country he desires, providing he can find another land willing to admit him.

But that day when borders are once again "just an imaginary thing" is a long time in the future. And that is why a monument should be erected to Marshall—to remind us of a dream, of a hope that this paradise lost may once more be regained.

POLITICAL LONG COUNTS

Numbers do not count, sagely observes the Sudbury Star, advising its readers not to pay much attention to political rallies to attend which a great effort is made by the number of people who turn out to listen to the speakers of opposing political parties.

The success of a political meeting can mean a lot of things other than support for a particular party or candidate, the northern editor observes.

He is not . . . He was right, too, when earlier in his editorial, he noted that Liberal party newspapers and Conservative party newspapers seldom arrive at the same estimate of the size of a crowd at any given meeting. Some of these discrepancies are due to the difficulty of accurately estimating the size of any considerable crowd. But that is only part of the reason.

We have had, personal experience of the methods of a man who is now one of the chief crowd-guessers for a great metropolitan daily.

It was two crowds and two high school rugby teams were locked in a bitter battle for the championship of their particular district. Bitter was the word for it. The game was back-breaking. Huge ridges showed where the waves of yesterday's sea of mud had been tossed, a north wind whipped a few stray snowflakes through the sparse grass on the frozen mud slopes. Linesmen stood huddled against the blast. Players, referees, umpires, linesmen—these were the only human beings in sight—except for one lonely, conscientious reporter. The reporter lasted only through the first quarter. For the remainder of the game he joined the other "spectators" shivering over heaters in half a dozen cars parked near the side-lines. Attention was divided between the forms wandering through the now-falling snow on the adjacent field, radio reports of the progress of Big Four games and such remedies for frozen feet and blue noses as the occupants of the cars had available.

The story was dutifully written over the week-end. Then, when the presses had ceased to roll, the Toronto papers arrived. And there we learned that "Before 500 wildly cheering fans—etc., etc."

It made quite a story, quite a thrilling story!

JUST FOLKS

IDLENESS

You sometimes grumble at your task,
Which seems too much of you to ask.
You think you'd rather spend the day
A round of golf with friends to play.
But time and pleasure soon would irk
If ever you were out of work.

No man but ever long enjoyed
The days when he was unemployed.
His needs are many, and they tax
Him fretting when he tries to sleep.
You say you have too much to do;
The out-of-work man envies you.

The man that's out of work is not
At all contented with his lot.
Too proud to borrow, beg or rob,
He walks the streets to find a job.
And what he hopes for is to do
The kind of work that wearies you.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOCKED CUPBOARDS

A character in one of Thomas Hardy's books overlooks upon a neighbor's death in these words: "Locked cupboards, and empty keys will be took from her, and her cupboards opened, and the little things I didn't wish seen and touched by see; and her wishes and ways will be as nothing."

I wonder if that doesn't describe many of us. In each of our hearts, or locked somewhere in a secret spot, may be mementoes that we loved and cherished. They cannot remain forever undiscovered. In how almost a hundred years since Lincoln became President of the United States, Endless books have been written about his public and private life, from obscurity to fame and world acclaim, yet new things keep coming to light to explain the extraordinary beauty of his character—things locked away or never exhibited.

So much of a person's life is unlocked for the first time after having ceased to live in the body. Such characters as Lincoln do not die with death! The "shining keys" lead to forgotten cupboards. The earthly ministry of Jesus covered scarcely more than three years, yet His influence through the ages, His teachings keep reaching millions, blessing and enabling their lives.

You cannot keep locked forever the good that men do in this world. Someone will soon have "shining keys" and the world then will know what precious treasures it possesses! Would that there were no locked doors in a person's life of real beauty, or is the purpose of life? Love let loose to heal the hurts of human slavery! Love that will with all hate buried, and with peace and good will the universal ideal.

Upon my first visit to Nova Scotia and Cape Brenton Island, many years ago, I stopped at many delightful inns for the night. At one of them I asked to see a bed room, after registering, but the proprietor, cold me they had no keys! The doors of the inn were locked. No one would disturb me!

Bee Betrayed By Plastic's Aid

(Christian Science Monitor)

Reading in the "What will they do next?" department, we have come across an item which says a man in Michigan has developed a plastic honeycomb. He has put it into the hive so they will not have to build a comb. He can spend all their time gathering honey.

This makes us somewhat concerned for the bee in the old nonsense rhyme:

How doth the busy little bee
Delight to bark and bite!

He gathers beswax all the day,
And eats it up at night.

What bee will want to eat a plastic comb? On second thought, maybe any bee will want to when he reflects that no matter how much he of a reputation he built up for being industrious, some efficiency expert will figure out how you can do more.

A Wait-Until Day

(New York Times)

Any earnest inquiry into the reasons for the unrest that characterizes Monday leads inevitably to the conclusion that among the chief causes of that unrest is the fact that it happens to be a wait-until day. Surely all the long faces that greet the arrival of Monday do not result from the fact that Monday, for most of us, means work after a week of rest or vacation. Not working, under certain restraining circumstances—an overabundance of rain, for example—can get to be pretty monotonous, and therefore on occasion Monday is potentially a much brighter day than it generally is advertised to be.

Further—if one searches desperately for other features that may in some way redeem Monday—it must be said that returning to work helps to insure the regular appearance of the pay envelope, which in turn helps to make possible a supply of comestibles upon kitchen shelves. This thought should serve to brighten a number of faces on a Monday. It must be said also that the arrival of Monday means that another brand-new unhooked, unstarched and unwilted marvelous week-end (quite unlike the one just past) is on the hook forward to, and it is good to be able to look ahead, on a Monday to something pleasant.

These things do not, however, seem to promote general merriment of a Monday. This is still a bad day and it is safe to conclude that the wait-until aspects of Monday are largely to blame. Right now, Saturday also is a wait-until day; but the great difference between Saturday and Monday—a difference that yawns as wide as a cumberland chasm—is that when anyone says, "Lets wait until Saturday," he is speaking of something pleasant. But when he says, "Wait until Monday," it is understood that he is referring to something unpleasant that will be no less disagreeable for being put off.

One waits until Saturday to go fishing in a stream that (all during the week, at least) is known to be packed with fish as closely as sardines in a tin; one waits until Saturday for the privilege and pleasure of escorting a beautiful girl to dinner and the theatre; one waits until Saturday, perhaps the day after pay-day, to attend overabundance to the purchase of an especially well-tailored suit. Saturday is wait-until day for the golfer, for it is the low syllables for the long and quiet walk in the park that he becoming tan that is to be had (with caution) on the beach . . .

But Monday is a wait-until day of quite another stripe. From Tuesday through Sunday it will be said, frequently, "Wait until Monday"; on Tuesday or Wednesday an unpleasant chore can be disposed of as easily and swiftly by making the following Monday a wait-until day. All sorts of things can be tossed to next Monday which one hopes somehow will never arrive), just as one tosses coffee beans, unpaid bills and old typewriter ribbon spools are tossed into a drawer and forgotten out of sight. Just as that drawer will not remain closed forever, and as its capacity is limited, so the wait-until Monday suddenly is packed to the point of bursting, jammed with those disagreeable things one has said one would do until Monday . . .

One waits until Monday to return to the haberdasher the new shirt that inexplicably does not fit; one waits until Monday to make arrangements to see a certain teacher about a child whose deportment is said to be not good; one waits until Monday to journey to the box office tomorrow morning to exchange three tickets in row F for seats in row D, something like 12 from the same location a week from Friday; one waits until Monday to call on the family physician for a hitherto pleasantly disguised examination; one waits until West Coat is time for lunch on this day; one waits until Monday to call on the plumber to repair the week's serious leak in the roof. And so on and on. Things one has waited until Monday to do, pretending that Monday would not arrive, but that the safety of Tuesday magically would be reached without the necessity of stepping squarely on Monday's toes. But Monday does arrive, and it is a wait-until day—which is an excellent reason why it is held in such beggarly esteem.

Castaways' Luck Varies

(National Geographical Bulletin)

"Thirteen castaways on Crozet Islands. Help! For the love of God."

An albatross, caught in Australia, brought the message. It had been punched crudely on a piece of metal that was found around the bird's neck. The castaways were never found.

But many have met victims of shipwreck have been found, and some seem to fit the description of Robinson Crusoe experiences.

Recently, picnickers to tiny Caribbean Island, off the west coast of Portuguese East Africa, reported that in Robinson Crusoe style two sons and a "Man Friday" were marooned but declined rescue. They had built huts, got utensils and all the comforts of home. They would be persuaded to return to civilization.

In less favored climates castaways have suffered great hardships. Such a case was that of a man shown on maps as Ilea Croeets—whence no one knows. He was sheltered at least five separate groups of shipwrecked people. They got there because the south of Madagascar in the stormy latitudes of the roaring forties, and are without material for fuel or shelter.

Fifteen men from the cutter Princess of Wales were wrecked on the island in 1911. They spent nearly two years there before rescue. Shortly afterwards, another ship was lost there after three months on the rocks. In 1875 64 survivors of the wrecked ship Nottingham were marooned there for six months. Before that, for fuel and food birds' eggs barely kept them alive.

The Auckland Islands off New Zealand were equally wreck-prone before the days of radio and safer ships. Three vessels were wrecked there in the Auckland area in the 1860's and castaways were found there as recently as 1907. In that latter case, a man saving five to one of the groups. So many ships have been lost in the Aucklands that permanent supply depots and rescue patrols eventually were established.

Many castaways have suffered from the monotonous diet of the Caribbean. One of the earliest was a Spaniard called Master John who was left behind by Drake in 1586 on a deserted sand spit. Many were the Spaniards who suffered that fate. One of the last such victims who lived to tell the tale was Charles Lincoln of the schooner Excretion. He was left with ten others on the Auckland Islands. Pirate deserters rescued them.

A tale of shipwreck with a happy ending is known to history as that of the Juan Fernandez. Their ship, carrying a cargo of slaves, was wrecked on the coast of the Indian Ocean and a hundred members of the crew were stranded by the receding tide.

While an enterprising ship's officer moved and sailed 50 miles in a small boat for help, the crew lived on coconuts and fish. Pirates protected them internally and externally by what remained of the cargo.

Left Hand of Tariffs

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

ANESTHESIA AN D CHILDBIRTH

In the course of my practice as an honest doctor, before I learned how to live without it, cure was fond of snooping—sometimes well, anyway I indulged in snooping as a way of passing to get on with it—and I discovered in the medicine cupboard or emergency kit many items which should never be kept in the medicine cupboard if in the house at all.

Incidentally I discovered something else which may be of interest to multiparous, primiparous and multiparous women who come to doctors. I suspect some doctors give this column a hasty run, whenever they find it, exceedingly hidden away, and adopt in practice suggestions the new doctor so diffidently sets forth here. Not that I mind. After all, I lifted most of my stuff from real doctors, so I merely transmit suggestions. Some years ago Dr. A of Saskatoon is good Dr. B of Birmingham. Therefore, if a physician can use anything so available in or through this Personal Health Service I am honored.

This later discovery of mine was an observation made in the by days of practice in Penn Yan. A kindly colleague took me in when practising 8 or 10 years asked me to administer an anesthetic for an instrument in the course at the patient's home.

I found the patient tossing about, moaning and crying in great anguish and the relatives contributing a good deal to the patient's terror. The doctor was scrubbing up and the nurse laying out his instruments for the forceps. He said I might start the anesthetic. The patient had space limitations . . .

made little progress for many hours.

Here I may say without a blush that in less than two years of intermittently in a large charity hospital I had probably attended more confinements than my kind colleague had in his entire career—he had entered practice upon graduating from medical school.

I soon had the patient quieted, that is, in the obstetric stage, so that she was still conscious enough to follow instructions yet less sensitive to pain. Presently she settled down and labored normally. By the time the doctor was ready to apply forceps there was no need for such aid. The baby was born naturally.

It seemed that the doctor, like many others at that time and even today, just didn't know how to employ anesthesia in childbirth. The accepted theory of anesthesia means the patient receives just enough anesthetic to put the edge of labor pains but not enough to produce unconsciousness. In this manner awake state the patient is amenable to the doctor's instructions and to her own will. Anesthetic at the same time assuages pain and lessens shock and as the preparatory injections of morphine and scopolamine make the patient more tractable and oblivious of operation.

Where it is safe, instinctive fear of the unknown. One who has learned about modern surgical methods by experience or by instruction, generally faces the knife calm, in operating calmly, whereas an ignorant person in the same situation is "scared to death."

I wish I could exhibit at random dozen letters from young mothers who experienced natural childbirth alongside a dozen from young mothers who had been denied the privilege by their child, in operating cabinets, whereas an ignorant person in the same situation is "scared to death."

I wish I could exhibit at random dozen letters from young mothers who experienced natural childbirth alongside a dozen from young mothers who had been denied the privilege by their child, in operating cabinets, whereas an ignorant person in the same situation is "scared to death."

THE PACKSACK

—By GREGORY CLARK

An Englishman who was in New York during the coronation tells me that if he had twenty-four pounds sterling he could purchase in the shops of New York during the coronation festivities enough bunting to drape all the lampposts and farthings, all with the image of Queen Elizabeth upon them, he could have sold them for eight pounds.

It is a fact that during the past three years, considerable numbers of Americans have come over the border and asked for English coins by the Queen's portrait. They have been satisfied with the new Canadian coins, usually the silver dollar. But the interesting thing is that they hoped to find English coins. They were ready to pay for silver in Canada, in the ground and out of it. Fast boat work in 1936 on a deserted sand spit. Many were the Spaniards who suffered that fate. One of the last such victims who lived to tell the tale was Charles Lincoln of the schooner Excretion. He was left with ten others on the Auckland Islands. Pirate deserters rescued them.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL DOUGLASS

NATURE'S MARVELOUS MECHANISM

An eminent psychologist speaking before a group of scholars described recently the marvels of the human brain.

The environment in which we live is not as we see it. The delicate mechanism of the brain turns the created order into the beautiful and inspiring world. The image on the retina is upside down, but the brain turns it rightside up. Millions of impulses are going into the brain—indescribable activity is taking place all the time in order that we may see and hear, and above all that we may exercise the reasoning faculties which lift us away from the beast. The brain is a marvelous mechanism which makes man the most educated machinery appear like a cheap and simple gadget.

How good we should-be with that brain. Yet we burden it with worry, destroy its basic impulses with hatred, resentment, or anger. We take our brains to school and college to have them trained, and then we indulge in the incredible absurdity of sometimes using the higher centers of this brain with alcohol because we like the relaxation, the false sense of importance, security, and well-being which liquor gives temporarily.

If the body is the temple of the Holy Spirit—and the Bible assures us that it is—then the brain is the holy of holies in the temple.

Be good to your brain.

Find New Use For Chop Suey

(Montreal Gazette)

When a vat, which was boiling down scraps for hog food, exploded in an Illinois chop suey plant recently, a few workers were scalded. While waiting for medical assistance, the accidents used the chop suey liquid at hand on their burns. The liquid was mung bean sprout juice, a basic ingredient of chop suey. The results were so startlingly good that the University of Illinois is now testing the juice for general use in combatting second and third degree burns.

RCAF Aircraft Put on Show For Centennial Celebrants

Trenton Centennial Celebrations on "International Day" were witnessed by the whole town as RCAF aircraft criss-crossed the area with formation flying, aerobatics and other demonstrations of flying skill.

Waterfront onlookers during the Saturday afternoon performance received a preview of things to come as Mitchells, Expeditors, Harvards and Texans left the flying field in formations of three to zoom over Bay of Quinte area to their rendezvous near Belleville.

The official opening of the show came, when a Dakota drawing a drogue spelling out "Centennial" passed in front of the crowd. Eight-seven Harvards led by leader S/L R. F. Murray appeared in neat formation of three abreast and six deep. Next came three Expeditors with their wings tucked closely together, followed by three Mitchells in similar formation and a lone Dakota. The remainder of the fly-past included a Lancaster, a C 119, and a Mustang with a low flypast of four Silver Stars in formation.

Spinnidl Show

The crowd watched spellbound as two Harvards in a demonstration of twin aerobatics dived and climbed. Their display of skill and close calculating drew thousands of "wows" from the crowd.

Two Silver Stars approached from the east. One moved slowly across in front of the audience while the other came by approximately three hundred miles per hour faster than its mate.

Out of the north a formation of six yellow Harvards and ten Silver Texans appeared spelling out the letters "TN" in honor of Trenton.

A Mustang aerobatic demonstration followed by a Silver Star aerial display once more thrilled the audience. The Silver Star gave a lively display and contrasted sharply with the slow moving Harvard aerobatic performance.

More variety was added to the Air Force show when a Norseman landed and took off from the Bay of Quinte.

Climax of the show was a Parashoot by two members of the RCAF Para Rescue Squad into the bay at the end of the show. A thousand witnessed for the first time a live drop into water and were thrilled as the two experienced jumpers released themselves from their chutes a few feet above the water and dropped feet first into the choppy bay. Curious onlookers wondered what the black object was that rose para jumper lost on his way down—it was his sock. The jumpers after they leave the aircraft must remove their boots and place them in the pockets of their uniforms. An Air Sea Rescue launch picked up the chutes and finally the men swimming nearby in their Mae Wests—unfortunately the sock had gone to Davy Jones' locker.

As the drogue towing Dakota appeared crowded dragging his "Centennial" sign, the Royal Canadian Army Motorcycle squad opened their sho win Bayshore Park.

Trenton during the Centennial was under the direction of F/O C/O. Hunt, by kind permission of A.V.M. G. Kerr, C.B.E., A.F.C., C.D., Air Officer Commanding.

In the morning the graves of all ex-Service men in the four local cemeteries were decorated by members of the Canadian Legion, under the direction of Comrades Ernie Cunnell and George LaBrash.

The impressive parade and service was organized by William H. Collerjohn, president Branch 110, Canadian Legion, Trenton. John Silver, M.B.E., acted as parade marshal and Russell Forbes commanded the color party.

Reception for Queen

At 5.30 p.m. yesterday afternoon some 30 people gathered in a picturesque setting on the lawn in front of the hotel at Twelve O'clock Point where the Centennial committee gave a garden party for Mrs. Margaret Pandechuck, "Popularity Queen" of the Centennial. The guests were received by Mrs. J. E. Renton, Mayor and Mrs. R. R. Whitney, and Mrs. O. G. Alyea and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parker.

Among the guests were the Honorable and Mrs. Wm. Goodfellow and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sandercock.

Tea was poured by Mrs. E. D. Finley, Mrs. A. Coulter, Mrs. I. Shulman and Mrs. E. Harlick.

Rudder Trouble Sent Yacht Ashore in Bay

"Teal II", handsome sloop-rigged yacht that ran aground on Friday this side of the bay bridge has effected repairs and is moored at a waterfront dock.

Timothy Rogers, Oakville, associated with the McLean Hunter Publishing Company and a cousin of Rogers Riedel of this city, who sailed the craft, said over the week-end that the yacht developed rudder trouble during heavy weather.

The crew set out a jury-rig but this apparently did not work satisfactorily and the craft went out of control and drifted ashore. She was towed to the Wills Marina by Joe Caldwell.

Rogers is a former member of the Ocean Racing Yacht Club of Great Britain.

Three American yachts, which anchored here over the week-end reported heavy weather on Lake Ontario especially the craft sailed by Captain A. Dawson of that city. The other two yachts were sailed by Mr. and Mrs. R. Rupp, Grand Island and Mr. and Mrs. Harit, Buffalo. The trio of boats are enroute to Alexandria Bay, where they will spend a two weeks' cruising holiday.

The American guests were delighted with the hospitality accorded them by members of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, and stated they would pause here on their return from the vacation.

Cobalt Opens Its Celebration

COBALT (CP)—Old-timers of the early days of the silver rush here were among the thousands to visit this Northern Ontario town Sunday for the start of its week-long 50th anniversary celebrations.

Mayor Ken Buffam, wearing his chaps of office made from slabs of pure silver fort as they came out of the ground, welcomed many of the visitors and said: "It's going to be the biggest reunion ever."

Some of the old-timers, who came from many parts of Canada and the United States, were Modest LaRose, 81, brother of Fred LaRose, who made the initial silver find; Charley McGuire, who prospected here in 1905, and William J. Donaldson, 80, now of Kirkland Lake, who built the first business block in Cobalt.

Mrs. M. Panderchuck Wins Popularity Queen Contest

TRENTON, (Special)—Crowning of the popularity queen of the Centennial attracted 2,000 people who squeezed into the dock area at the waterfront late Saturday night.

Mrs. Margaret Panderchuck was acclaimed winner of the contest which ran for five weeks. She received $100 in cash, a beautiful gown and other prizes.

A replica of the Coronation crown fashioned by Paul Mercier of Belleville was used in the ceremony.

Mayor R. E. Whitney, Maharaja of the Princess' Court, Court Treasurer Ernie Harlick and Scribe of the Court, Jim Alexander were dressed in turbans and pantaloons. The contest wound up a great success and a tribute to those who organized and assisted in the success.

The popularity queen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Maxwell of Chesley, Ontario.

The biggest prize, a 21-inch television went to Ian Gardiner, whose wife placed second in the contest and won $75.

Other prize winners were: beauty queen Rita Benoit, third; Betty Meuller, fourth; Alice Weese, fifth; Germaine Vanfleteegan, sixth.

Close Centennial With Drumhead Service by District Veterans

TRENTON (Special) — The eight days of Centennial celebration were brought to a close at a solemn drumhead service under the auspices of District "F" of the Canadian Legion. The ceremony was observed at the cenotaph behind the post office.

With 20 visiting branches on parade the Legionnaires presented a colorful procession marching from Dufferin Street School, through the centre of the town. The marchers moved along the route, which took them past the Trenton Memorial Hospital, along Catherine Street to King Street, across Division Street and down Dundas Street to Albert Street. People lined the route of parade, particularly in the downtown area.

Veterans who were not able to march in the parade were given transport in cars behind the main body.

The parade, one of the finest ever seen in Trenton, was headed by the Bowmanville Legion's Kiltie band, arrayed in scarlet uniforms. The crowd applauded as the pipers passed and the lilt of the Scotch music carried across town.

Maj. Gen. Graham Takes Salute

A very distinguished soldier of Trenton took the salute from a dais in front of the post office. Dressed in full uniform bedecked with campaign ribbons and decorations, Major General Howard D. Graham, C.B.E., D.S.O., E.D., stood smartly at attention, fingertips of the right hand touching the peak of his hat, while men who served with him and under him in both World Wars, stepped smartly by with head and eyes turned right.

Other distinguished guests standing behind the dais were: Air Commodore W. W. Brown, C.D. (RCAF); Captain A. G. Boulton, D.S.C. (RCN); Group Captain J. B. Millward, D.F.C. (RCAF); Group Captain D. M. MacCaul, C.D. (RCAF); Lt.-Col. R. H. Widdifield, E.D. (H. and P.E. Regiment); Senator W. A. Fraser, Frank Follwell, M.P.; Dr. Fred Roberston, M.P.; Hon. William Goodfellow, M.L.A.; W. E. Sandercock, M.L.A.; Mayor R. E. Whitney, G. G. Alyea, chairman of the Centennial committee.

In the service before the cenotaph Zone Commander Scotty Broughton, of Brighton, performed the opening ritual.

He was followed by Mayor R. E. Whitney conveying the civic welcome.

T. A. M. Hulse, provincial president of the Legion and Mayor J. D. Burnet, district commander of Cobourg, delivered messages from the Legion.

The divine portion of the service was handled by four chaplains and the president of the Trenton Ministerial Association. The service was conducted by Captain the Rev. A. S. McConnell, M.B.E., chaplain, Canadian Legion, Trenton. Centennial prayers were heard from Rev. G. J. Mulcahy, B.A., president of the Trenton Ministerial Association. Scripture reading by Wing Commander Rev. F. W. MacLean, Command Chaplain, RCAF; the Legion memorial prayers by Flt. Lt. the Rev. D. G. Madill, chaplain, RCAF.

Visiting Chaplain Lt.-Col. the Rev. John, W. Forth, M.B.E., chaplain, Provincial Command, Oakville, delivered the address.

Last Post Sounded

Lines of commemoration by John Silver, followed the sounding of the Last Post. The bugler sounding Reveille preceded placing of the wreaths on the cenotaph and the closing ritual.

Weddings

STEVENS—TAIT

A pretty summer wedding was solemnized on Saturday, July 4th, at 3:30 p.m., in Wellington United Church, when Catherine Ruth Tait, of St. Davids, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Tait, of Wellington, became the bride of Lawrence Bernard Stevens, of Niagara-on-the-Lake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stevens. The Rev. A. Poulter, assisted by the Rev. J. F. Lane, officiated before a lovely background of yellow gladioli and blue delphiniums while the guest pews were designated by white roses and satin bows.

The wedding music was provided by Mr. Tom Fittingham at the console of the organ. The soloist, Mrs. George Wath sang "The Lord's Prayer".

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. George R. Tait, the bride was radiant in a waltz length gown of frosted white lace and tulle, fashioned with a strapless, lace bodice, edged with tulle ruching and topped over a cut-away bolero with small collar and long, sheath-like sleeves. The waistline featured deep, petal scallops above a full gathered skirt of tulle. Her shoulder length veil was gathered to a small bonnet.

Miss Beverley Tait, of Wellington, was maid of honor, wearing maize nylon tulle over taffeta. The two bridesmaids, Miss Mary Platt and Anne Stevens, were in striking contrast, romance blue. Over their shirred basques they wore brief cut-away boleros offset with small collars. The full, ballerina skirts fell gracefully away from nipped-in waistlines.

Mr. Alex Platt, of Wellington, attended the bridegroom, and Messrs. Gordon Dorland, of Windsor; Eugene Snider, of Wellington, were ushers.

At the reception, which was held at Grahamanor, Wellington, the bride's mother received, gowned in navy sheer with white accessories and pink rose corsage.

For travelling to points unknown the bride chose a grey, gabardine suit, with white accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will reside at Hillcrest farm, in Niagara-on-the-Lake, R.R. 1.

Guests were present from Flint, Michigan, Detroit, Ottawa, Toronto, and St. Davids.

DOXTATOR—SCHUTT

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, June 20, at 2 o'clock, in the Methodist United Brethren Schurch, Schutt, Ontario, when Irene Aldeen Schutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Schutt, of Schutt, P.O., became the bride of Leslie Nathan Doxtator, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Doxtator, of Carrying Place, Ontario.

The Rev. McSpadden, pastor of the Baptist Church, Wolfe, officiated, and was assisted by the pastor of the church, Rev. Allen.

Mr. Maynard Schutt, of Detlor, cousin of the bride, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Carr, who very beautifully sang "O Promise Me" and during the signing of the register, "The Wedding Prayer".

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over satin, featuring a strapless lace bodice with matching fitted lace bolero and cuffs, coming to a point over the hand. The floor-length skirt was of layers of net over satin. Her fingertip veil of nylon tulle illusion was held in place by a sweetheart - shaped headdress, seeded around with pearls. She chose for her necklace, three-strand pearls with matching earrings. She carried a full cascade of pink roses and white carnations.

Miss Stella Schutt, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, gowned in green nylon net and lace with strapless bodice and lace bolero. The floor-length skirt was of nylon net over taffeta.

Mrs. Thelma Mason, sister of the groom, and Miss Eva Klatt, a friend of the bride, were bridesmaids, wearing gowns in mauve and yellow, respectively, fashioned on similar lines to that of the maid of honor. They wore headdresses of matching colors and carried a rainbow semi-cascade of mixed flowers.

Miss Beverly Doxtator, Carrying Place, little sister of the groom, was flower girl, wearing a floor-length gown of pink nylon net over taffeta with matching bonnet. She carried a miniature bouquet of mixed flowers.

The groom was attended by Mr. Norman Smith, of Belleville. Wallace Doxtator, brother of the groom, and Harold Hogen, of Picton, acted as ushers.

The church was adorned with ferns and mixed flowers.

A dinner was served at the bride's home to about two hundred and fifty guests, after which the young couple left for Niagara Falls, Lake Placid and the North Pole, U.S.

The bride chose for travelling a white dress, red duster and white accessories. The young couple, on their return, will reside at Carrying Place.

Out-of-town guest were present from Picton, Belleville, Carrying Place, Rosemore, Read ville, Detlor, Pembroke, Golden Lake, and Ottawa.

RANKIN—OSTERHOUT

Ferns and lovely summer garden flowers formed the setting in Frankford United Church, Saturday, June 27, at 2:30 p.m., for the marriage of Phyllis Doreen Osterhout, of Frankford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Smith Osterhout, to Hugh Wilson Rankin, also of Frankford, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rankin. The Rev. J. MacEachern officiated.

Mrs. Carl Austin provided the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her bridal gown of Chantilly lace and net over satin, featuring a lace bodice and gracefully full floor-length skirt. She wore a fingertip veil of net and Chantilly lace and carried a cascade bouquet of Betterina red roses.

Mrs. Harold Morrow, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, were mauve net over satin, while the bridesmaids, Mrs. Harry Wickson and Miss Maisie Rankin, sister of the bridegroom, were yellow net over satin, and green net over satin, respectively. Both carried nosegays of summer flowers and wore Sara-effect headdresses.

Mr. Herbert Rankin, of Frankford, attended the bridegroom, and Messrs. Harry Wickson and Harry Burkitt acted as ushers.

The reception was held at

Beauty

Watch The Expression Of Your Mouth

There is more to beautifying the mouth than laying on the crimson glow, all the girls are doing that, from little Sweetie-pie when she enters high school to Grannie who, in her young days, had goose flesh at the idea of using make-up. It was not considered respectable. Complexion paint looked like sin.

It is a good idea, if one is changing beauty rainbows, to regard the lips in their natural state. Usually the contour is pleasing; there are few really ugly mouths. But your mirror will not tell you the queer things you may do, with them, how you can distort them, what unpleasant expressions you can assume. No woman knows anything of women friends, you do a little lip-reading. It will reveal character. The one who keeps her lips tightly pursed together may be a prude or she may be intolerant and critical. The selfish girl and the lazy one are inclined to have lips that are soft and relaxed. She of the bright, expressive eyes and gay spirits will keep her lip ends lifted, which is a grand habit as it keeps the facial fibers strong.

The tissues surrounding the mouth are delicate. By continually drawing them down, they will become soft, and that terrible "down in the mouth" look will become a permanent fixture. Facial operators treat such conditions. They have a special massage movement that one can do oneself.

Place the first finger in the center of the upper lip, thumb at one terminal, second finger at the other. Keep the first finger stationary and draw up the lip ends, forming a Cupid's bow.

They also use what is called the flutter treatment, both lips being picked up in tiny folds. This stepup circulation and brings good coloring.

Good looks depend on soft, well-kept, perfectly molded lips. It is a pity to mar this beauty quality by wearing an expression that reveals unpleasant emotions — petulance, anger, disdain, haughtiness. The lips can speak while silent. Watch what yours say.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

On Understanding The Boys in Service

One of the great problems in times like these, when boys are going into service by the thousands, concerns the girls they leave behind them. And the largest part of the problem grows out of the fact that most of the girls are too young to understand the psychology of these boys. If they could understand it, there would be fewer hasty marriages, fewer sudden love affairs that end disastrously, fewer impulsive engagements to be broken later, and far fewer general heartaches.

The following letter illustrates one angle of this problem. It comes from a girl of 18 who begins by saying that "It may seem childish for me to be asking these questions, but I am just sick about this situation.

Then she goes into the situation specifically:

"What would you think of a guy (age 20) that you've known for quite a few months but who has shown in every possible way that he loves you and wants to marry you, and yet suddenly takes off without a word? True, the place to which he was taking off was overseas, as he is in the army, but don't you think he should have said something about it before he left?

"I love him very much, and I know when I met him that he would be shipping out, but he never gave me the slightest impression that he was only out for a good time. We had plans, dreams of what happened to them I just cannot figure out. We had no agreement, but suddenly there was a cancelled date the day before he left, and he never even called to say goodbye.

"He used to write every day, and now it's been over a month since he left, and no word. What should I do? Should I write to him, and if so, what should I say? And what do you think could have happened that he acted like this?"

May Be Good Reason

Now in the first place, this girl shouldn't be too quick to pass harsh judgment on the boy friend. There may have been very good reasons why he had to cancel the date with her so suddenly and go off in a hurry without having a chance to tell her. Sometimes the army is like that.

But the underlying difficulty is that she doesn't understand that when boys go into service, they are suddenly uprooted from all familiar things and thrust into a set of new and strange circumstances to which it is pretty difficult to adjust. Sometimes such an upheaval throws a fellow out of balance for awhile and, until he finds his feet again, he may do and say things on the impulse of the moment that he later finds didn't fit in with his real feelings at all. It is pretty hard for a girl, who has never had to make any such adjustment, to comprehend quite how difficult it all can be, yet the mature thing is to try to understand, and to be tolerant.

After all, this girl does admit that she knew the young man only a few months, and it may be that she did not know him quite well enough. So she should wait awhile and see whether or not she actually hears from him, and—she shouldn't be the one to write first. If he does write, his letter may clear up all the questions.

Writing her, also, she should have wasted her time and energy if she became worrying. On one count, if she doesn't hear from him, she should know how mature she can be by looking at it in the way I have suggested.

If she makes it a habit to try and accept people as they are, instead of getting all worked up because they are not the way she would like to have them be, it will not only help her right now, in this particular situation, but she will be surprised how much happier with-out excess emotion to situations that will arise in later life.

Cabbage Salad Days Are Here

By Mary Moore

We are told that Salad Week is to be celebrated—or chewed on—in a couple of weeks. Okay, that's one week's salads, but what are our poor vitamin-starved constitutions going to do during the other fifty-one weeks of the year? Wait until Salad Week 1954? Not likely!

Every week should be salad week. Indeed every day should be salad day. Many of you know and practise this rule and are enjoying healthier lives and eating more interesting meals because of your good sense.

The girls who take their salads seriously will like my idea for today—different ways to make cabbage glamorous in your salad bowl.

The Germans excel at this and are ingenious in handling this versatile vegetable.

Cabbages are at their best right now—crisp, cool, green, full of vitamins and minerals and chlorophyl.

Let's give His Succulency, the Cabbage, the spotlight.

Cream Slaw

This is a beauty that will serve eight neat little you have a party.

In the top of the double boiler cook 1 cup of condensed milk (not evaporated) for 10 minutes, covered. Cool. Put in mixing bowl and add 1 1-2 teaspoons mustard 2 teaspoons salt, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce. Beat hard with rotary beater for about two minutes then begin to add very gradually 2-4 cup cider-vinegar. Continue beating for one minute after vinegar is added. This may be made in electric beater if desired, at medium speed. Now chill it. When it is cold it is quite thick. Now add 1 medium-sized cabbage shredded as finely as possible with your sharpest knife—shreds should be hair-thin if you want to make it as a German housewife does. Add also 4 shredded carrots, from 1 to 3 shredded green peppers and 1 medium-sized Spanish onion, sliced paper-thin. Mix and put in refrigerator to chill for 1 1-2 hours before serving. This is friends.

Under the will, the Don Head farm at Richmond Hill 20 miles north of Toronto will eventually be divided amongst Mr. Redelmeier's three sons. Succession duties will take an estimated $1,625,000 of the estate left by Redelmeier who died last March.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. SEECKMAN

A Gift Certificate Is Sometime The Answer

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a special baby-sitting problem, a more personal one than the usual arrangement. My husband and I are going to an important wedding in his family. A friend of my aunt's who knows all about the circumstances, has offered to take care of our children while we are at the wedding and reception, and I have most gratefully accepted her offer. But I must do something about paying her for this kindness. Would it be proper to offer her money, or would some gift be more suitable, and if so, what type of gift?

R.

I think that it would be in better taste for you not to offer money to this kind friend, and I am quite sure she would refuse you didn't. It would be a perfect idea if you could observe or find out from your aunt something that would be particularly welcome to her. Or if this isn't possible, this is a perfect opportunity to give a Gift Certificate made out in her name . . . you can, I am sure, get one in a department store in your city. Then, in the note accompanying this, you can express your gratitude for her goodness, and ask her to "buy with the enclosed a Something you would like."

Children Too Old For Flower Girl, Ring Bearer

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

1. Would a 10-year-old girl be too old to be flower girl? Or would it be better to have her as a junior bridesmaid?

2. Would a 9-year-old boy too old to be a ring-bearer? If so, what part will he play in the wedding procession? Could he be a junior usher?

3. What is the proper order for my processional, consisting of the following: maid of honor, junior bridesmaid (the flower girl, depending on your advice to question 1), usher, best man, and ring bearer (or junior usher)? My father is to give me in marriage.

1. Yes; a flower girl is between eight and 9 years old. If this girl of whom you ask is a tall 10, it would be appropriate to have her a junior bridesmaid.

2. Yes; a ring bearer is usually about 4 or 5 years old. The best plan would be to invite this young man to be an "assistant" at the wedding reception, standing near the receiving-line to carry out any duties that may be called for. (Since, as you say in your third question, you are to have only one adult usher, it would be awkward

Women Appear In Exclusive Queen's Gowns

By MARJORIE KARL

LONDON (Reuters) — Two women, whose fashionable tongues here wagging furiously. Society is wondering how they managed to appear at evening functions in clothes which duplicated the "exclusive" models of the Royal Family.

One, who has been unidentified, appeared at Ascot, the race meeting of the year, in a hat just like the Queen's. The other, Mrs. Rodman Wannamaker of New York, attended the wedding of the year in a dress just like Princess Margaret's.

Of Ascot the Queen and Mrs. X. as the gossip columnists have dubbed her, wore tough, light-colored straw bonnets with black velvet trimming. To the wedding of Lady Rosemary Spencer-Churchill, daughter of the Duke of Marlborough, Princess Margaret and Mrs. Wannamaker wore sleeveless floral print dresses with full skirts and wide Peter Pan collars.

Paris Blamed

Shocked London fashion circles blame Paris. "It couldn't happen here," say royal designers Norman Hartnell and Hardy Amies. "The hat and dress must have originated on the other side of the channel."

The Queen bought her hat from Madame St. Cyr, a Parisian designer with a London showroom. Madame St. Cyr displays her models first in Paris, where they are bought by private customers and wholesalers, then in London. When the Queen made her choice the model was removed from circulation but it had already been sold in France. Mrs. X apparently bought on the Faubourg St. Honore.

Princess Margaret's dress is believed to have been supplied by French couturier Jean Desses. It also was finally found its way into Mrs. Wannamaker's closet the same way as the Queen's hat got onto the head of Mrs. X.

When the Queen and Princess Margaret buy their clothes from English couturiers, they are specially designed for them and are certainly exclusive. But not for long. In a matter of hours, half the women in England may have them.

The Queen has said more than once that she does not wish to be a leader of fashion. But whether she wants it or not, she is.

82 YEARS OF SERVICE TO THE CANADIAN PEOPLE

A. J. Wolfenden, Branch Manager, Front & Bridge Sts.

B3-3

The Liberals say they can't cut your taxes!

the Main Issue in this election is YOUR MONEY!

WE CAN... WE WILL!

We will budget for Government's legitimate needs... we will stop budgeting for bloated surpluses which—in three years—took from the people's pockets without moral or legal right, the staggering sum of $1,618,000,000 more than the Government needed... In the first month of the present year, the Canadian people have already been overtaxed $79,000,000!

We will without impairing the efficiency of our Armed Forces, correct the appalling inefficiencies in the administration of the Department of National Defence... 'Last year, your Government spent almost as much to maintain a service force of 103,000 men and women as the Government spent during the peak year of World War II when Canada had 1,000,000 men and women in the Services'.

We will and the shocking conditions in our Defence Department which the Government's own investigator, (Col. G. S. Currie) described as: "A general breakdown in the system of administration, supervision and accounting... Accounting records in a chaotic condition and of little use in determining the nature and extent of irregularities... Waste and inefficiency far more costly in loss than that covered by actual dishonesty".

We will provide the nation with an administration whose attitude towards the spending of public monies will be one of prudence and common sense. A new Government in itself will mean substantial savings to the taxpayer—it will replace a Government whose arrogant indifference to economy was best expressed by Mr. Howe's scornful remark, "What's a Million?". Or, "If they need a gold-plated piano it is our duty to buy it".

We will reduce or eliminate countless hidden, indirect taxes which grossly inflate the cost of consumer goods, add to the grievous cost of living, increase the price of homes beyond the capacity of most of our people to pay, discourage saving and initiative and hinder the fullest development of national prosperity.

VOTE We will reduce federal taxes by at least $500,000,000 a year... without reducing any pensions, family allowances, or other social security payments. — $500,000,000 TAX CUT NOW!

VOTE We will introduce legislation exempting municipal councils and school boards from Sales Tax and Excise Tax on all purchases of machinery, equipment, instruments and other goods and which will further provide for taxation of all federal government properties in municipalities on the same basis as that of ordinary municipal taxpayers. — A NEW DEAL FOR THE MUNICIPAL RATEPAYERS NOW!

VOTE We will introduce a contributory health insurance program, in co-operation with the provinces, which will assure to every Canadian proper diagnostic, medical and surgical treatment. — NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE NOW!

VOTE We will introduce a housing program which will make it possible for people with small incomes to buy new homes by improving the terms and conditions under which houses can be built and purchased. — A LOW COST HOUSING PROGRAM NOW!

'Rutta II', 'KC 25' Win Quinte Yacht Races

Light morning airs that freshened into a fair breeze in the afternoon greeted the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club scheduled race on Sunday afternoon.

The squadron was divided into two divisions for the first time this season with "Rutta II", skippered by Jim Jenkins, finishing in front of the field in the Keelboat division, with Leo Flagler's "KC25" crossing the finish line first in the centreboard class.

Sailed by owner Ken Ross and "Thunderbird", skippered by Bill Wills, two of the new "J" Flyer" class finished second and third respectively in the centreboard class with Jack Dickens' craft finishing up 4th. position.

"Gypset," Elwood Wickerson's trim yacht finished in second position in the keelboard division with George Graham's "Windrift II" in third spot and Jack Sills' "Windrift II" next. In order came Harold Seldon's 'Halcyon', "Viking," sailed by Freeman Rutties this season with "Rutta II", rowe and "Fazan", the Boyce-owned yacht with Bill Brown at the helm.

The yachts raced over a course starting at the George Graham dock over the first leg to "Niggers' Narrows," thence to a buoy off the Redoomerville shoreline back to the dock.

Mill Davidson's cabin cruiser acted as official boat carrying timers and other race officials.

Following the race upwards of eighty yachtsmen and others were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Graham at an enjoyable reception.

Jackie Elliot Has No-Hitter

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Schwab's bantam baseballers kept their undefeated record intact by downing the Picton nine 8 to 2 behind the no-hit pitching of Jackie Elliott, in Picton, on Saturday afternoon. He walked none, hit one batter and struck out 10 men.

Picton's two runs came in the last inning of the game when, with one down the Schwab team committed six errors. One man was thrown out trying to steal second, but two runs scored before the third out could be made.

Only 3 Picton players reached base as Elliott bore down and struck out all three batters in the second and fifth frames, two in the first and one in the third and sixth.

Thompson started for Picton and was relieved by Conway in the third. Between them they struck out 7 and walked three Dave Coe, Frank Chick and Jack O'Neil each had two hits, while St. Louis got the odd one. The only extra base hit was a double by O'Neil.

Reach Pro Golf Semi's

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Felice Torza, Walter Burkemo and two settled home professionals Claude Harmon and Jack Isaacs, shot their way into the semi-finals of the U.S. PGA golf tournament Sunday.

Only Harmon, of Mamaroneck, N.Y., had it easy, winning 6 and 5 over Bill Nary of Kansas city.

Burkemo, of Franklin, Mich., met the terrific comeback of Dave Douglas with a brilliant eagle three on the final hole to beat the thin man from Newark, Del., two up.

Torza, of St. Charles Ill., eliminated Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach., one up.

The 45-year-old Isaacs outlasted 43-year-old Henry Ransom of Poplar Bluff, Mich., in win one up.

Regent Juniors Score 6-3 Win Over Ribbons

The Regent Juniors defeated the Bloomfield-Wellington Silver Ribbons 6-3 in a Belleville and District Baseball League game at the CNR Field, Saturday night.

The Ribbons went into the lead 2-0 in the first inning; added one in the second and remained dormant, as far as scoring went, for the rest of the game.

The Regents tallied once in the second frame. Then they tied it in the fourth and moved into the lead in the fifth and scored one in the seventh for good measure.

Gerry Goyer led the Regents at the plate with four hits in four tries. Cary slammed out a triple and a double while Hull, Jones, Gilmour and Batchelor each touched the ball for singles. Vern Goyer, Hamilton, Snider and Mowat were the hitters for the losers.

Strachan went the route for the Juniors walking four and striking out none. In five and two-thirds innings Mowat struck out 5 and walked none. He was relieved in the fifth by Bunton who struck out two and walked as many for the visitors.

Strachan bounced the ball off two men in the first inning and balked once.

More for your money...

It's better business to buy Chevrolet Advance-Design Trucks more engine power!

Chevrolet Trucks offer you a selection of four famous valve-in-head engines to match load, grade and schedule. The two great 235.5 cu. in. Loadmasters (conventional and C.O.E.), the 248 cu. in. Torquemaster and the 270 cu. in. Workmaster all feature, full-pressure lubrication and improved Power-Jet carburetion for longer life, smoother performance and extra economy.

more braking power!

Twin-Action rear Brakes and Torque-Action front brakes, both with long wearing linings effectively sealed against dirt and moisture, combine to provide effective braking for greater safety and driving ease. Torque-Action front brakes are standard on all models. The positive Duo-Shoe parking brake on H.D. models, mounted at the rear of the transmission, eliminates cable stretching and greatly reduces service adjustments.

more staying power!

Now, heavier, stronger, more dependable frames of greater rigidity, add to ruggedness and stamina of all 1953 Chevrolet trucks. Long famous for their ability to take the toughest jobs day after day, Chevrolet trucks are now brawnier, sturdier than ever.

more economy!

The new and greater stamina of 1953 Chevrolet trucks plus extra gasoline economy in heavy-duty models with improved valve-in-head performance reduces hauling costs per ton-mile, brings you greater over-all economy throughout the long life of your trucks.

CHEVROLET
A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

Here are a few things we think are worthy of your consideration before you buy your truck. In 1953, Chevrolet trucks are more rugged, have huskier and more rigid construction than ever in the past. This means longer truck life and lower over-all costs to you.

You'll find the increased horsepower and higher compression ratios of the four great valve-in-head engines bring you greater power, greater stamina, greater performance, greater ability to do the job. You'll find that means faster acceleration, greater ability to climb the steepest grades. And you'll find a wonderful gain in gasoline mileage; too!

As any owner of a 1953 Chevrolet truck knows, these are the sturdiest, most powerful trucks Chevrolet has ever built. In every load range, they have proved themselves to be the world's leading money-makers on any hauling job.

Before you buy, drop in at our showroom and talk things over. Let us show you why it's better business to buy Chevrolet Advance-Design Trucks.

Ex-Yankees Team Up To Hand Champions First Double Defeat Of Season

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

WICE WIN!

Bryson Keid's Regent baseball juniors came up with some of the power that has been more or less dormant, on Saturday night and turned back the vaunted Independent-backed Bloomfield-Wellington Combines by a 6-3 count. Behind Billy Strahan's fine hurling the kids came up with some neat clutch hitting after spotting the visitors three runs in the early innings, mainly through errors of omission and commission.

They nibbled at the lead and finally settled down to come up with their best exhibition of the season turning back the big bludgeons of Vern Goryer, Bobby Bunten, Wardbaugh and "Muscles" Mowatt, all former city senior players.

They held the Prince Edward Combines from Picton to a four-all draw Friday night behind the hurling of Bill Drummond, a product from Marmora.

We do not know what league the youngster pitched in prior to coming to Belleville, but there was a droll spot of humor in that conversation he had with Coach "Red" Carson the other night. "Red" had been teaching the youngster how to act on the mound when runners were on base, and how to avoid committing balks.

"Shucks, coach," drawled the kid, scuffing the dirt with a spike, "back where I come from, the umpires don't bother with balks and we pitchers never worried about guys stealin' bases."

WASHOUT!

The CNR Diesels failed to field a team in that game slated with the Bobcats at Alemite Field Saturday night. Seems a few of their stars had baseball dates with the Bloomfield-Wellington Combines, who were defeated by the Regent juniors.-The Bobcats were on hand and went through a stiff practice. It was not ascertained whether the "Bobs" would claim the game by default.

NOT AGAIN!

Fairick (I-calls-'em-as-I-sees-'em-not-as-they-are) Pelissero is in the bad graces of the Ontario Provincial Police chasers-of-the-softball.

It seems "Fifi" undertook the arbiter's role at the diamond classic played by the Fullerton Athletic Club and a Repair Depot RCAF nine the other night, and came up with a performance that earned for him the gate-prize of a copy of Braille.

Last seen he was headed for the tall timbers in the direction of Coubermere clutching three life insurance policies and a copy of "He Done Her Wrong." It seems the lurid tome was his undoing. The villain throttled the heroine too many times on the village greensward with Fearless Frederick always arriving about the same time a third strike whipped over the platter.

Once in a while "Fifi" would raise his eyes from the tome and gaze nonchalantly at the landscape. It mattered little to him that the "honor of the regiment" was at stake. Little did he care if the fruitcosme flyboys wearing the blue of the airforce were making similars out of his fellow truncheoneers. He munched contentedly on a mugful of the perspple that "Lefty" Whitman made famous horseheaven a few years ago. Occasionally he expectorated accurately at a small can at the end of the first base foul-line. They say he had seventeen direct hits, three near-misses and seven caromes.

"Fifi" ensured free base arbiter's pole during the first twenty-three innings. But he tired of standing on third base so long, he remained there until a visiting farmer tied a horse to him, and looping the halter shank, he slunk into Trenton where he acquired a mask, pad, three tommy guns, a quart of insect repellant and a copy of the rules, and bobbed up behind the plate.

"Fifi" managed to get in a chapter of "He Done Her Wrong" while his mates were at bat with the result, "Fairieck" always arrived on the scene when the Fusiliers were swinging like beer-signs and every ball was a strike as far as "Fifi" was concerned.

Finally it was more than human beings, even if they are policemen, could stand. Bellowing like a herd of rhinocephants, the boys in blue, grabbing bats en route, charged for the recalcitrant "Fifi." Gulping a brushel-ful of scrapple, he took off for the distant woods, and up to Saturday morning had not returned. Reports from north of Sudbury stated a wild, haggard-looking person was seen headed for the Arctic regions, but it apparently was not "Fifi".

However the hot brows of the Fusiliers have since cooled and all is forgiven. So "Fifi" Fifi you are all is forgiven. Fusiliers Fullerton, McLeod and Kowal are still talking about the home runs they clouted in the 11-10 defeat, and are ready to kill the fatted calf.

In fact a welcoming committee has been formed with instructions to present you with a handsome engraved white walking stick.

Senators Slug Bombers Twice As Chicago, Cleveland Split; Giants Blast Brooklyn 20-6

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Porterfield and Johnny Schmitz are the new idols of "I Hate the Yankees" clubs from coast to coast. And Jerry Snyder must be at least an honorary vice president.

The trio of ex-Yanks, traded during the regime of manager Casey Stengel, teamed up to help Washington sweep an American League doubleheader from the Yanks 9-to-day, 4-0 and 5-4. It was the Yanks' first double loss of the year.

Porterfield, shunted to Washington in 1951, shut out New York with five hits and allowed only one man to reach second base in the opener. Schmitz, out loose this spring, stopped up with a fine relief job in the second game. Snyder, who sailed on the Yankee farms until he was traded into the Jackie Jensen-Irv Noren swap last spring, came through with three hits, drove in two runs and scored another in the nightcap.

Chicago and Cleveland both gained a full game on the Yanks by splitting two at leveland. Southpaw Billy Pierce checked the Indians 4-0 on five hits to keep the White Sox in second place as the Cleveland came from behind to beat reliefer Harry Dorish in the opener 5-4.

Score 8 in First

Boston scored eight in the first inning and coasted to a 20-6 romp over Philadelphia and Detroit, for the second time, shaded a took both ends of a doubleheader from St. Louis Browns, 10-7 and 7-1.

The Yanks now lead Chicago by 5½ and Cleveland by six games.

Brooklyn's National League advantage slowed to 1½ games when they absorbed a 20-6 drubbing from New-York Giants, their worst defeat of the year. Sal Maglie and Thompson hit two homers, one with the bases full, and drove in seven runs.

Milwaukee and St. Louis, fighting for second split, Warren Spahn pitched his 29th major league shutout in the first to win 4-0 with the help of homers by Johnny Logan and Ed Mathews, his 24th. Red Schoendienst's three-run pinch homer gave St. Louis the second 4-1, balked by darkness after eight innings.

Roberts Completes 20

The Phillies slipped pittsburgh started the winning rally with a double. It was Roberts' 12th victory and 20th complete game in 20 starts this season. The Sunday curfew halted a likely defeat for the Phils in the second game as they trailed 7-0 after five innings when the game was stopped. It will be completed before an Aug. 11 night game.

Chicago and Cincinnati divided a pair of doubleheading games. Hank Sauer hit two doubles and a single to run his string to six straight hits in helping win the first game 8-4, but he was stopped by Clyde Vollmer in the second game. Ralph Kiner hit his 17th and 18th homers and Sauer and Bill Serena also homered but they weren't enough to save the second game, won by Cincinnati, 8-6.

Name Sixteen Players For All-Star Game

CHICAGO (AP)—Sixteen players chosen by nearly 4,500,000 fans in a world-wide poll were named Sunday for the 20th annual big league all star game at Cincinnati's Crosley Field July 14.

All first team spots for both National and American League teams were filled by the poll except those of the pitchers. Pitcher selections will be announced in a day or so by manager Casey Stengel and Chuck Dressen.

Here are the teams selected with their position and batting averages:

National League

National League

1b-Mickey Vernon, Washington .326; 2b-Billy Goodman, Boston .327; 3b-Al Rosen, Cleveland .351; ss-Harold Reese, Brooklyn .286; lf-Stan Musial, St. Louis .308; cf-Gus Bell, Cincinnati .338; rf-Duke Snider, Brooklyn .341; c-Roy Campanella, Brooklyn .298.

Mrs. Hanna Sladek defeated Pat Macken 6-4, 6-4, in an all-Montreal final to capture the women's singles title. Miss Macken and Mariette Bourassa defeated Mrs. Mary Lang and Joyce Smallwood, all of Montreal 6-0, 6-1, to take the women's doubles.

Don Platt of Toronto and Shirley Moore of Montreal won the mixed doubles by defeating Montrealers Jean Dussault and Therese Helie, 8-6, 6-1.

Despite his defeat by Main, the experienced Rochon is expected to make the Davis C●. team, to be named today. Others considered likely prospects are Willey and Bedard.

Lorne Main Wins Quebec Tennis Title

MONTREAL (CP)—Lorne Main, Canada's top - seeded player, showed the form which almost assures him a berth on the Dominion's Davis Cup team as he whipped Henri Rochon of Montreal 6-2, 6-1, 6-0 Saturday to win the men's singles of the Quebec provincial senior tennis tournament.

It was an off day for Rochon but Main, Toronto and Vancouver player, was in peak form as he aced Rochon five times and broke

Panthers Lose Ground In Intercounty Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Panthers, who have been breezing along on top of the senior intercounty baseball league in fine style, suffered a setback Saturday night.

The Panthers lost 3-2 to the third-place Waterloo Tigers and the second-place Brantford Red Sox now are only 1½ games behind them with Waterloo two games back and London 2½.

In other Saturday night games London trounced Oshawa Merchants 8-3; Guelph Maple Leafs won 5-3 over the cellar-dwelling St. Thomas Elgins; and Galt Terriers dropped Brantford 10-9.

Waterloo got a 3-0 lead in the second inning of its game with Kitchener. Playing at home, the Tigers added the winning run in the fifth when right-fielder Augie Herchenratter singled home second-baseman Bruno Casanova. Pitcher Gordon Arisz held the Panthers to six hits for the win.

Russ Evon scored three of London's runs in the home victory over Oshawa by driving in four runs. A double and two singles in four trips to the plate for Tom Thomas, brought up from junior ranks, also starred by setting up three double plays. Bob Proctor limited Oshawa to four hits for the win. Al Trischek took the loss.

Right-hander Ken Yount pitched masterful ball for Guelph's victory. Yount allowed the Elgins only four hits and at the plate he hit two singles and drove in one run. George Carruth hit a three-run homer in the first inning and Eddie Bejma added a home run in the third.

Behind Galt's triumph over Brantford was centre-fielder Tex Eaton. Eaton engineered the only double play of the game and in the ninth inning, with one out, to end the game, he fanned the batting parade with a home run, a double and a single. Pitcher Bob Eaton, centre-fielder Glen Skov and second baseman Andy Turowski also homered for the Terriers.

Big Jeep Jeanup who relieved Eaton in the eighth was credited with the win. Leon Griffith, who hit a home run for the Red Sox, was charged with the loss.

Tonight an all-star team will meet league-leading Kitchener on home ice. Kitchener's benefit game, Proceeds will go to minor league ball in the circuit.

Toronto Athletes Win Seventh Title In Canadian Junior Track, Field Meet

WINNIPEG (CP) — Toronto athletes for the seventh consecutive year, won the team title in the Canadian junior track and field championships here Saturday but uncertainty over wind conditions clouded official jubilation over 15 individual records broke in the two-day meet.

Weather plagued the contestants in west-end Sargent Park Friday cut short the first day's events and turned the track into a sea of mud. Saturday, stiff winds buffeted the young athletes.

Existing records were shattered in 15 events but whether the new marks will go into the record books wasn't to be decided until the annual meeting of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada in Montreal Oct. 21-23.

The rules say that if the wind exceeds a velocity of two metres a second, times in certain events cannot be entered officially as records. Saturday, the wind velocity was 38-miles an hour, about 20 metres a second.

The Toronto athletes, coached by Lloyd Percival, chalked up 322 points. The Winnipeg Athletic Association was second with 94.

Third was B'rith Columbia (composite) with 57. Fourth was St. Lambert, Que., with 53, and fifth was Windsor with 51. The points were awarded on the basis of 8-5-3-2-1 for the first five positions.

Tom Skimming of Toronto was awarded the Orange 'Crush bowl, emblematic of first place individual honors. Skimming won the junior 220-yard hurdle and hop, step and jump events and finished second in the broad competition.

Biggest surprise was 15-year-old George Dinsdale of Brandon, Man., a self-taught athlete in the midget class who won every event he entered. It was his first major meet.

Barr Turner of Fort William ran third in the juvenile 440-yard final, after placing second in his heat. The event was won by L. Sloan of Montreal.

DOUBLE HEAT WINNER

TORONTO (CP)—William Herbert's harness stable from London, Ont., was the only double winner as Thorncliffe Raceway's 34-day meeting opened here Saturday.

Third was B'rith Columbia (composite) with 57. Fourth was St. Lambert, Que., with 53, and fifth was Windsor with 51. The points were awarded on the basis of 8-5-3-2-1 for the first five positions.

Martell Wins Canadian Pro Title With Sensational Clutch Finish

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC - (CP)—Henry Martell of Edmonton, wearing the Canadian Professional Golfers Association crown for the first time, moved to Toronto today for a crack at the Canadian Open.

Along with the 29-year-old erstwhile cop went a similar entry of top Canadian pros who were bombed off to the byways Sunday when Henry came through in a sensational clutch finish.

Trailing for two rounds, Martell shot the last 18 over Royal Quebec in a three-under-par 69 to win the 36-hole tournament with 211, five under par for the distance.

It was a tight one-stroke victory but it was decided until the last green when Henry sank a nine-foot putt that gave him a one-stroke edge over Stan Leonard of Vancouver. Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, defending champion, fell behind on the last nine to finish three strokes away from Martell with 214.

At Balding of Toronto Oakdale cost two over par on the final nine to place fourth with 216. Then came Bill Kerr of Montreal Beaconsfield with 217, Bracketed at 218 were Frank Wilcox, Martell's fellow-Edmontonian, and Stan Horne of Montreal Islesmere.

Golf Head Gets 5th Term

QUEBEC (CP)—Ken Murray of Royal Montreal Saturday was re-elected president of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association for his fifth consecutive term: The entire executive was re-elected.

The members decided to allot $1,000 on behalf of a Canada-wide tournament for assistant pros. Heretofore the event has been confined to Ontario and Quebec. Under the new system, five zones have been named, with zone winners to meet in September. The zones are Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, Northern Ontario, Prairies and British Columbia.

Toronto Pair Wins Doubles

DETROIT (AP) — Cliff Boston and Jack Cheichen of Toronto's Weston Golf Club won both the senior tight doubles and the senior heavy doubles in the Central States bowling regatta on the Detroit river at suburban Ecorse Saturday.

Detroit Boat Club won the meet with 96 points. Ecorse was second with 22 and the Dons third with 15.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Batting: Hank Thompson, Giants, hit two homers, one with the bases loaded, and drove in seven runs in Giants' 23-6 romp over Brooklyn.

Pitching: Warren Spahn, Braves, held St. Louis to three hits in pitching 20th shutout of major league career, 4-0, in first game of a doubleheader.

Scot Golfers Take Hogan To Hearts

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—Door Scots took Ben Hogan to their hearts and gently showed him what in the British open golf championship is beginning to mean.

For tight-lipped, determined Ben is their idea of a golfer—a stern man in a stern old game.

They call him the "wee ice man" and have been openly eager to compare him with an old hero of theirs—Sonny Jones.

But in their usual canny way, most Scots intend to withhold judgment on which of the two American is the greatest until they see how Hogan handles the treeless, 7,200-yard Carnoustie links.

The 40-year-old Fort Worth professional—current U.S. Open and Masters champion—needs only to take the British Open to complete the greatest year any golfer ever recorded since 1930. That was when Bobby Jones won the open and amateur championships of the United States and Britain.

A field of about 180, including defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa, is entered.

Besides Locke, five former holders of the title have entered. They are Max Faulkner, winner in 1951; Fred Daly, 1947; Dick Burton, 1939; A. H. Padgham, 1936, and Arthur Havers, 1932.

Only Irish. The others are English.

Over 200 Golfers Will Battle Par In Canadian Open Golf Tournament

TORONTO (CP) — Some 200 top-flight golfers will battle par at the Toronto Scarboro Golf Club this week and par is shaping up as the underdog.

In practice rounds for the Canadian Open, which opens its four-day run at the 6,340-yard course Tuesday, a number of Canada and American shotmakers have burned up the fairways scoring at Scarboro's 71 standard. Comparative unknowns in intercontinental competition have clipped three and four strokes off regulation figures.

As if in defiance of Canadian Golf Association officials who predicted that Scarboro would be mighty tough to beat, Pete Plemming, a starter from St. Andrews, Ill., the other day shot a six-under-par 65—a competitive course record.

The same day, Vancouver's Bill Mawhinney, a pro style in a hurry, posed to break practically every rule of the game, shot a 66 and then proceeded to place high up have carded sub-par practice rounds.

A survey of pros at the course during the week-end showed that a 72-hole score of between 270 and 272—12 to 14 under par—should get the title. Par is 284 on the course. The 272 figure is four more strokes than Tommy Armour's Bobby Locke took to win the $15,000 tournament over the same Scarboro layout in 1947.

The big American invasion is expected from Canada's United States Professional Golfers' Association championship at Birmingham, Mich., next week. Pros have also are expected from the Canadian PGA tournament which ended Sunday at Quebec.

Names most prominently mentioned to take the Seagram Gold Cup and largest share of the prize money are defending champion Johnny Palmer, of Hadlie, N.C., Jim Ferrier, the transplanted Australian from San Francisco, who won in 1950 and 1951, and Jack Burke, Jr., from Kiamesha Lake, N. Y. Palmer shot a record 268 in the Open at Winnipeg last year.

Others expected are Edmonton's Henry Martell, newly-crowned CPGA champion; runner-up Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon who placed third. Leonard has been top Canadian pro in the open five times, including last time out.

Already here are Fred Hawkins of Pinehurst, Tex., who tied for second in the 1951 Open and tied for third in 1949; Dick Mayer of Minneapolis, who captured last year; cigar-smoking Ky Laffoon, St. Louis, and Jimmy Riegel of Tulsa, Okla.

With 18 holes each day, the field will be reduced to low 100 and ties at the end of 36 holes Thursday and low 60 and ties will play the final day.

Bisons, Toronto Get Twin Splits; Royals Take Two

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals won three out of four International League games during the week-end to put them in a game ahead of the second place Buffalo Bisons.

The Royals downed Rochester 3-0 and 6-2 Saturday and split with Syracuse Chiefs Sunday, taking the nightcap 5-1 after losing a 12-9 slugfest opener.

Buffalo split their week-end games, dividing with Toronto Saturday, 5-7 and 9-3 and repeating with the same again Sunday, winning the opener 5-2, only to lose 3-0 against Don Johnson's two-hit pitching in the second.

The third-place Red Wings split with Ottawa Sunday. The Athletics won the opener 3-2 and the Wings the nightcap by the same score. Ottawa won the opener against Syracuse on Saturday and lost the second game 4-0.

Mary Hackley had a perfect Sunday at the bat, rounded out a homer, a triple and three singles to pace Rochester Royals to a 9-3 victory over Springfield Cubs. Baltimore also downed Jersey Bell-and-ers 9-4 on Saturday.

In the opener Sunday at Syracuse, the Chiefs staged Frank Curpun splurges, batting Hamp Coleman for 10 hits and 10 runs. Jim Hughey Gil Mills pitched five-hit ball for the resurgent Royals.

In the Toronto - Buffalo twinbill Sunday, Buffalo's Paul Foytack held the Leafs to six hits while striking out six and walking two. He also hit a three-run homer in the seventh.

Leafs got to Johnny Pascual early in the second game when centerfielder Bob Addis hit his first triple in the first frame.

Ottawa took their opening game against Syracuse, slipping Cot Deal on a pair of 10th-inning doubles by Grimsley Thomas and Ed Mayo. But in the nightcap, the Wings rallied for two runs in the fifth to win for reliefer Bob Tiefenauer.

SET ROWING TRIALS DATE

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen has decided that rowing trials for the 1954 British Empire Games at Vancouver will be held July 3, 1954, on the Canadian Henley regatta course at Port Dalhousie.

The trials, divided into six events under British Empire Games regulations, will comprise single sculls, coxwain fours, pairs, doubles and singles.

At an executive meeting here Saturday, the CAAO set tentative dates for the 1954 Canadian Henley regatta so it will not clash with the games. The dates submitted are approved by the annual CAAO meeting, are July 21-24.

The CAAO executive also decided that each sculler and oarsmen participating in this year's Canadian Henley regatta must carry a passport picture of himself to aid course officials in checking on age verification.

The CAAO executive has scheduled another meeting next Saturday at Brockville on the occasion of the CAAO Senior Associate's annual regatta there.

WELSOCK WINS

OWEN SOUND — Chuck Welsock of Windsor won the second annual invitation tournament at the Owen Sound Golf and Country Club Saturday with a one-under par 72. He was the only entry in the field of 96 to break par on the sporty nine-hole course. Moe Norman of Kitchener was second with a 74 and George Georgas of Owen Sound and Bill Park of Woodstock showed third with 77 each.

'Lil Mo' Wins Second British Tennis Title

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Maureen Connolly, California's sassy little queen of Tennis, won a battle of baseball sharpshooting Saturday from her traditional foe, Doris Hart, to take her second straight Wimbledon singles championship.

The score was 8-6, 7-5, but the championship didn't come easy. Maureen's Coral Gables, Fla., opponent scrapped for every point and placement and put in some beauties of her own.

Except for the men's doubles title which went to the 18-year-old Australians, Lewis Hoad and Ken Rosewall, Americans swept everything.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia won the men's singles from Denmark's Kurt Nielsen Friday.

Miss Hart and Shirley Fry, of Akron, O., trounced miss Connolly and Julie Sampson, of Pasadena, Calif., 6-0, 6-0 in the women's doubles.

Then the willowy Floridian teamed with Seixas to beat Miss Fry and Argentina's Enrique Morea in the mixed doubles, 9-7, 7-5.

Hoad and Rosewall beat their countrymen, Rex Hartwig and Mervyn Rose, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4, 7-5.

Canada Wins Bisley Overseas Team Match

LONDON (Reuters) — Canada, scoring a total of 1581 out of a possible 1600, won the overseas team match for the British 400 Club Trophy at the national small-bore rifle meeting at Bisley Saturday.

The event was open to teams of four from each country of the Commonwealth, firing 20 shots each at 50 and 100 yards—individual possible 400.

Canadian scorers were Bdr. E. R. Thompson of Parkhill, Ont., 394; Lt.-Col. S. Johnson of Calgary, 397; Officer Cadet E. L. Warner of Lennoxville, Que., 392; Sgt. W. E. Hicks of Edmonton, 398.

New Zealand, only three points behind, was second.

HONOR DUTCH LEONARD

CHICAGO (AP)—Dutch Leonard received everything from an air-conditioned Cadillac to a fishing outfit Saturday as Chicago Cubs' fans tossed a "day" in honor of the 15-year-old knuckle ball pitcher before the Cubs' game, of a double-header against Cincinnati.

Hank Sauer presented Dutch with an engraved plaque and shotgun from the Cub players. Cubs' management presented him with an air conditioning unit for his Auburn home.

Petes Triumph Over St. Kitts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough is slowly moving into the lead in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior standings, the place they occupied at the beginning of the season won the Canadian championship.

The Petes' team, which has enjoyed only on-again-off-again success, started on the top line with a 5-1 win over St. Catharines Athletics league leaders. Saturday night the Trailermen downed the Tecs 9-5 after handing them a 17-7 drubbing at home the previous night. In Saturday night's other game the Yorkers romped to a 29-12 win over Mimico Monarchs.

At Peterborough, St. Catharines got a 4-3 first-period start and turn into 5-3 tie at the half. Ike Hildebrand, Russ Slater and Ross Powell scored four while Joe McNulty, Tony Facto and Bruce Webster notched one each. They tallied the Mountaineers with five.

Peterborough scored within two points of first place in the western division of the intermediate A OLA loop. Leaders are Orillia Terriers, the league-leading Dunnville Mudcats.

TO WAKE SWIM

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Sadko of Whitestone, N.Y., ace swimmer to participate in all Canadian National Exhibition marathons since their inception in 1927, announced Thursday he will attempt to swim the 32-mile distance across Lake Erie from Point Pelee, southernmost point in Ontario, to Cedar Point, O., Aug. 3.

Bennett Wins Kingston Title

KINGSTON (CP) — Howard Bennett of the host Cataraqui Golf and Country Club won the men's golf championship Saturday with a 36-hole total of 151.

Bennett, member of the Manitoba Willingdon Cup team for the last five years, came within one stroke of the tournament record set by Ernie Sendall of A. C. Boeckh of Toronto, last year's champion.

Bennett, last year's champion, was second with 151. G Wagar of Napanee and S. Burton of Watertown, N.Y., tied for third with 153.

Hans Christian Anderson

Climax of Goldwyn Mayer

Hailed as the most ambitious, most expensive and most satisfying picture for a long and notable career, producer Samuel Goldwyn's stylish Technicolor drama, "Hans Christian Anderson," coming Wednesday, to the Belle Theatre, marks the successful culmination of a long held dream. Starring Danny Kaye and Farley Granger the film introduces Jeanmaire, distinguished ballerina and new screen star.

Sixteen years ago producer Goldwyn decided that the stories of the famed Danish story teller would make a wonderful picture. An ordinary man's biography of the man was discarded in the end, since it was his work rather than the details of his life which had become a treasured part of the world's cultural heritage.

Million in Films

Translating an ephemeral thing as an individual philosophy to the screen is always a difficult task,and in this case nothing less than a definite tribute to the capabilities of Danny Kaye will do.

Typically enough, in the midst of an unprecedented economy period in Hollywood, the film is every frame of its 10,800 feet emphasizes quality regardless of cost. In the period of over 100 shooting days, the Technicolor production has finally completed at a cost of some $4,000,000.

"Hans Christian Anderson" turns the clock back 100 years to the Denmark of the 1830's with its colorful markets, its proud sailing vessels, its formal Royal Court, its imaginative people and its delightful children. The story poses no problem, being compounded of equal parts of romance, humor and charm; its purpose the simple one of pure entertainment.

In addition to a magnificent cast, the film offers eight new Frank Loesser songs and four magnificent ballets designed by Roland Petit, Franee's leading choreographer.

Charles Vidor directed from a screenplay by distinguished dramatist Moss Hart.

AT THE CAPITOL—"Invasion U.S.A." Here's how it would happen if it happened now, according to Columbia Pictures' "Invasion U.S.A.", at the Capitol Theatre today for a three day showing. This is an artist's version of a scene in the film. On the same program Johnny Weissmuller is Jungle Jim in "Voodoo Tiger". Both hits are first showings.

Fourth of July Accident Toll In U.S. Is 413

CHICAGO (CP)—The Fourth of July holiday week-end, garnished generally with good weather, brought violent death to more than 400 persons in the United States.

Automobile drivers apparently were careful enough to beat the U. S. National Safety Council's prediction that 290 persons would die in week-end traffic accidents. But not by much.

At least 249 persons died in highway and street accidents. Another 118 drowned and 45 died in miscellaneous accidents.

There was one fireworks fatality. Edward Nolta, 15, was struck on the jaw by a fast-exploded aerial bomb while watching a supervised fireworks display at Wilkes, Calif.

The two-day holiday week-end toll, 413 lives, was substantially smaller than the 643 recorded for the three-day Independence Day week-end of 1952. Last year, traffic accidents claimed 365, drownings 202, fireworks two and miscellaneous 73.

EARLY LESSONS

BERWICK, Sussex, England (CP)—Berwick Girls' High School pupils are taking special lessons in form-filling "to combat the red tape of officialdom they will have to face when they leave school." District firms are providing the forms.

Child Drowned In Blue Sea Lake

OTTAWA (CP)—Owen Douglas Edwards, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Edwards of Sarnia, was drowned Sunday in Blue Sea Lake, about 70 miles north of here.

Quebec provincial police report that the boy apparently fell off a pier near his parents' summer home. His body was recovered in a few feet of water at the end of the pier. Artificial respiration failed to revive him. An inquest likely will be held.

Camera Will Be Used to Study Rock Structure

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's only underwater television camera will be used this autumn to study the structure of dangerous Ripple Rock in the Seymour Narrows near Campbell River, B.C.

Capt. H. R. Smyth, in charge of radio and electrical engineering trials for the national research council, will supervise its use during the west coast experiment. Ripple Rock has been a hazard to navigation for years, but previous attempts to remove it were unsuccessful owing to its peculiar underwater structure and the strong tides surrounding it.

The television unit is to arrive in Vancouver about Oct. 1. Developed by the NRC in 1949, it will undergo modifications to achieve greater efficiency for when covered into the rushing waters. Preliminary trials will be carried out around the 60-foot depth.

The camera has already been used on the west coast, at Nanaimo for the Pacific biological station there and at Esquimalt for the Pacific naval laboratory and the Royal Canadian Navy.

The camera is enclosed in a watertight steel cylinder weighing about 300 pounds. Images picked up by the underwater camera tube are transmitted to television screens aboard the surface vessel, by means of a coaxial cable. All the camera's operations are guided by remote control.

TRANS' FINALE

BIRMINGHAM, England (CP)—Thousands watched Saturday as Birmingham's last streetcar made its final run through a city which at one time had the largest fleet in the world. The ride marked the end of a change-over to buses which has taken 23 years to complete.

Those who reached six no-trump or six diamonds and made it had quite a row to hoe about their score. But not about the accuracy of their bidding. Rule bidding would go like this:

South	North
1 D	2 NT
3 D	3 NT

The south diamond suit is not be-reb idable. So, he passes the three no-trump bid by north. North is unable to discover 12 tricks in the pair. So, he does not bid four no-trump for slam probe.

There is no lead of opponents that will stop declarer from the fulfillment of a three no-trump contract. Even a heart lead will let declarer take 11 tricks without trying.

Unless the opponents get off to heart lead at once, 13 tricks are easy at either six no-trump or six diamonds, which is what makes so much comment among the players after the match.

If the deal is played with diamonds as trumps, the opening lead will come from west. Only if he starts out with a heart lead will a small slam in diamonds be defeated. Two fast heart tricks does it.

Of those who were in five or six diamonds, some are still crying over the way they were down. Especially where west led heart ace and east then overtook the heart queen to give a heart that west ruffed with a lone trump. They think they deserve a better fate.

Some of these south players were ready to give up the game. The east and west players were just beginning to like it.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR TUESDAY, JULY 7, 1953.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Uninspiring outlook from some angles, but the observer who looks twice before deciding can make gains. Start with the thought that you can attain, and you will.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Almost like Aries, you of this sign must delve under the surface and redouble effort to achieve today. Some sacrifice of pleasure could help.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini) — Pull with ancestors, those interested in your problems, business. Get away from the materialistic, concentrate on the important.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Extra fine influences today. Glorify your duties, that you may give full time to right ones. Aspects are favorable to money, business, professional matters.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Carry on promptly all matters of immediate interest. Can be difficult if you are not shrewd and careful about management. Your ability — should lead you to new success.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Advance your own interests in gracious manner but not at the expense of those under you. Libra is noted for fairness.

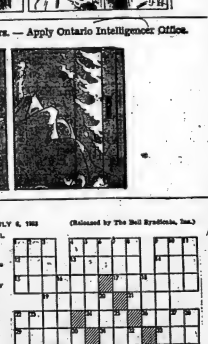
October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Stars urge a sane, modest tempo. It will get you most for your efforts today. Don't exert to exhaustion; it will make you unfit for better things later.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Go-no-go day. A little extra endeavor may catch competitors off guard while you advance. Be reasonable.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — More to be accomplished than one might suppose. Get down to business early. P.M. important for personal affairs, other activities can succeed, too.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — The right move at right time will pay well. Good period for ideas with the future in mind. No gloomy moods, or doubts! Have faith in you!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Day over on the good side of your chart if you are. It means one can advance in choice, understood endeavors. Pass up questionable schemes, people.



YOU BORN TODAY: Usually vibrant, a strong personality, romantic, adventurous, also inclined to egoism. Must be able to recognize your faults as well as have pride in your capability. You can succeed in profession or trade if you will concentrate on it, not shift work or methods often. Make able executive, teacher, lawyer, actor. Pray for God's guidance. Birthdate: Feliks Gross, Belgian painter, engraver.: Geo. Cukor, actor.

One Man Killed

ST. THOMAS (CP)—One man was killed and five persons injured, four of them seriously, today in a two-car collision about five miles east of nearby Aylmer.

Charles Krowec, 31, of Detroit, was fatally injured. In hospital here are David Malton, 13, of the St. Thomas suburb of Lyndhurst; Mrs. Josephine Krowec, about 31, wife of Charles; Arthur Lawrence and his wife Barbara, both 24 and their infant son, David, aged six months. All but the baby suffered serious

36 Persons Die, 18 by Drowning, During Week-End

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thirty-six persons died violently in Eastern Canada during the week-end, 18 of them by drowning. Heavy traffic as a result of July 1 celebrations and fine weather sent the highway toll to 14.

A Canadian Press compilation showed that 18 persons were drowned and three died of miscellaneous causes. Ontario's toll was 16, including nine traffic and five drownings. Quebec had 15 fatalities, 10 drownings and five traffic. Nova Scotia four and New Brunswick one.

There were three double drowning fatalities.

In Ontario, Cameron McGregor, about 45, of Parkhill and Daniel Burns, Jr., 23, of Staffa, were drowned when their small motor boat overturned off Grand Bend.

Russell Baker, 33, Indian superintendent of the Manitwaki area in Quebec, and Arsene Gauthier, of Blue Sea Lake, were drowned when their outboard motor boat tipped over on a lake near Manitwaki.

In Nova Scotia, 32-year-old Francis McDonald, and Robert Smith, 4, both of Waverly, were drowned when their dinghy went to the bottom of Lake Williams near Halifax.

The Ontario fatalities:

Traffic—Wendy McCutcheon, 14 months, of Etobicoke, struck by a car; Charles Krowec, 41, of Detroit, in a two-car collision east of Aylmer; Harvey Hutchinson, 30, of West Luther township, in a car-truck crash; Mrs. Juliette Cladis of Ottawa, in a two-car collision in Toronto; Robert Ford, 26, of Hamilton, when the truck in which he was riding crashed out of control; William Urban Lahrene, 32, of Buffalo, N. Y., when he lost control of his car on loose gravel near Brantford; Paul Calcidrichis, 30, of Toronto, when a panel truck went out of control near Aurora; Carmen Meckley, 8, of Petrolia, when the car in which he was riding crashed into a ditch; Marcel Sicot, 43, of Leamington, in a two-car collision.

Drownings—David George Oldfield, 13 months, of Vinemount, in a cattle watering trough on his parents' farm; James F. Rummett, 21, of Gananoque, while swimming at Smiths Falls' swimming pool; George H. Baldridge, 21, of Hamilton, at a recreation park north of Waterloo.

Miscellaneous — Ronald Whitedock, 9, of North Bay, was found hanged in an old barn in his home after "impressed by" rope stunts in wild west motion pictures; Francois O'Brien, 21, of St. Johns, Nfld., when he fell from a scaffold at the RCAF station at North Bay.

'CHUTIST KILLED

MAUBEUGE, France (Reuters) — Baby Moretti, 20-year-old French woman parachutist, was killed today when her parachute failed to open in an exhibition drop at an air display.

MAKING GREAT STRIDES

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio said Soviet surgeons are making great strides in curing heart ailments. In particular, the broadcast said, a new operating technique gives hope that heart diseases may soon be conquered.

LEAVE FOR KOREA

LONDON (Reuters) — A detachment sent to relieve Turkish troops with United Nations forces in Korea left the Mediterranean port of Smyrna today, Ankara radio reported.

Britain's Prime Minister Fighting Time, Foe of All

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

LONDON (AP)—Tough old Winston Churchill is fighting the creeping onslaught of a foe who always wins in the end.

For Britain's storied prime minister, now 78, it is a fight against time.

Mentally fatigued, with shaky hands and waning powers of concentration, Churchill has taken on the task of trying to reconcile the great United States and Russian powerhouses.

The undertaking is vast enough to spell a man half Churchill's age. It demands wisdom, sustained patience, endless energy and many other attributes.

Nor is it an enterprise which Churchill, a long-time foe of Communism, has assumed for any dramatic effect.

Today it is basic British policy to set the role of an honest broker between Washington and Moscow. If Churchill were to go, his successor could be expected to carry on where he left off, in search of a cold war settlement.

But, Churchill, with unique international prestige and sense of history, has dramatized that policy in a way few other men could.

That very reason has given rise to speculation that his illness may be "diplomatic" and designed to make it easier for Russia to come up with a plan to ease world tension.

Two of Britain's outstanding physicians have ordered the prime minister to quit work for at least a month or risk collapse and worse.

Churchill doesn't believe in being sick. He has always driven himself as hard as he has driven others. But this time he had to obey.

At his country home in Kent, Lady Churchill, quietly tends her husband's needs, restraining his impulses to work, read or speak too much or to play too hard with his lively grandchildren.

He simply buckled under the strain of being prime minister, running the foreign office as well during Anthony Eden's illness and acting as host to statesmen from 74 nations who attended last month's Coronation.

In addition to that Churchill tried personally to lift international relations out of the dumps by pushing for face-to-face talks between East-West leaders.

His sudden withdrawal did more than bring about postponement of the Bermuda parley with President Eisenhower and French Premier Joseph Laniel, which Churchill had hoped might pave the way for talks with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov.

It left the British people sobered by the thought that Churchill was mortal too.

It created a worldwide vacuum at least for a while. The thrusts and thrust of British initiative for weeks has been stirring leaders in many countries.

It kept high British government officers on the edge of their chairs. For Churchill carried over some of his wartime habits into peacetime. As prime minister he has taken on himself most major and many minor decisions. He has demanded information almost daily from his ministers. Departmental chiefs have been briefed with notes marked with the abrupt command: "Pray let me have this day."

Some officials even now pass important papers to his Chartwell retreat for approval.

Churchill's withdrawal also seems to have changed the mood of Parliament. The old man used to answer questions or make pronouncements as prime minister with a combination of geniality, acidity and belligerence.

Since his absence, Parliament has gone along with few if any pyrotechnics.

Most higher-ups feel Churchill's partial retirement can transform the political climate at home and abroad.

At home it probably rules out a general election this year and poses the question as to who will succeed him as Conservative party leader when the time comes.

The main candidates are believed to be Eden who, though sick now, is a vigorous, ambitious party theretician, and Richard A. Butler, 50-year - old chancellor of the exchequer, who is presiding over cabinet meetings in Churchill's absence.

Abroad it gives U.S. leaders more time to sort out their thoughts about Europe and Asia - and about Britain's call for a meeting with the Kremlin heads.

The ball gives France's new government a chance to dig in after a record-breaking crisis.

It also gives Russia a chance to make a move proving the sincerity of her "peace" campaign.

For Russia, receptive to Churchill's plea for an East-West parley, had growled that the planned Bermuda talk was not the way to prepare for one.

The Kremlin conjured up the spectre of a Western plot to gang up on the Soviet Union. Postponement of the Bermuda parley gives the Russians time to follow up informal British-Russian exchanges with action which might make four power meeting acceptable to all the western allies.

That very fact has led many diplomats to puzzle aloud about the vague nature of Churchill's illness.

The doctors tersely described his condition as nervous overstrain. Aides said a complete breakdown at his age would lower his resistance to other organic weaknesses, such as pleurisy and hardening of the arteries.

More than one diplomatic mission here has sent reports home speculating that Churchill's retreat to Chartwell may well have been intended to clear the way for a Russian move.

They have linked the idea with Moscow's sudden recall for consultation of the Russian ambassadors at Washington, London and Paris. All this clearly is sheerest speculation.

Some Papers May be Forced To Give Up

LONDON (AP) — Lord Rothermere, one of Britain's leading publishers, said Saturday premature introduction of sponsored television in Britain might force more newspapers to fold up.

In his annual statement to shareholders, the publisher of the Conservative London newspaper Daily Mail and Evening News said approval of commercial T.V.now "is found to have an impact on newspapers and periodicals since the revenue must come from advertising."

"This impact," he added, "will affect the small or weak publications more than the large or strong. It is possible that more publications will go out of existence, which would be a result much to be deplored."

CHROMITE FOUND

KARACHI, Pakistan (CP)—Large deposits of chromite have been found in Kharan, in the Baluchistan area. The area is believed to contain more than 8,300 tons of exposed ore.

Raid Three Clubs

GODERICH (CP)—Ontario provincial police raided three "bottle clubs" simultaneously here Saturday night, seizing almost 200 cases of ale and beer from the Park House, the Anchor Club and the Huron Chief Club.

The raids were carried out by provincial police from Huron county who assisted the Goderich detachment.

A lengthy list of charges is pending in the case. Police said those concerned would likely appear in police court here Thursday.

Prize Winning Lake Trout

Jim Bell of Flin Flon, Man., landed this monster 38-pound, two-ounce lake trout in Athapapuskow Lake, near Flin Flon to win the Flin Flon trout festival with an automobile (in which he sits) as first prize. Jim used between 400 and 500 feet of monel line with a No. 5 Wiley Buck spinner for the fish. The trout measured 41 inches from tip to tail and 27 inches in girth. — (CP Photo.)

Soldier Surrenders to RCMP After Defiance of Army

MONTREAL (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police said today John Patrick O'Brien, 29-year-old soldier, surrendered to them Monday after standing off army provost corps men for seven hours.

The RCMP called into the case after O'Brien, charged with deserting from the Royal Canadian Regiment in Korea, was ordered to Korea, refused to give himself up to two provosts who called at his home in Saint-Jean Vianney, and fled with Rifle

They said he sat with a rifle on a sofa while Cpl. D. J. Kinnaird and Pte. J. D. Sweeney sought to take him into custody.

His mother, who has had four other sons in the armed services, sat with him. She told newspaper reporters that Patrick had been given a nervous disability pension when he was discharged after the Second World War.

O'Brien claimed he had been maltreated by the army. He said some of his military documents had been falsified and he had lost all his savings because the army had refused him legal aid when he became entangled in a series of court cases.

He also said that provostmen had beaten him when they arrested him on another occasion.

Did Not Report

He was ordered to Korea in February but did not report to the army after pre-embarkation leave.

O'Brien's refusal to give up to the RCMP and he was taken, for an interview with army legal experts before being turned over to military custody.

"Don't say anything dirty about the army," O'Brien told reporters. "I wouldn't want this to hurt enlistment."

TEACHER'S BODY FOUND

BRANTFORD (CP)—The body of Roderick David Paterson, 48, a school principal, was found in Scotland Pond today about 10 miles southwest of here. He was drowned Monday while swimming.

Mr. Paterson came to Canada on Glasgow, Scotland, in 1946 and had attended the University of British Columbia for one year before coming to Brant county.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: A weather over southern Manitoba on Saturday with the arrival of drier and slightly cooler air from the northwest. However, this fine weather will be short-lived as another band of showers and thunderstorms has already entered northwestern Ontario heralding the arrival of a new outbreak of cooler air. This unsettled weather will reach the Sault Ste. Marie - Kirkland Lake area by afternoon and the southern part of the province tonight. Wednesday's weather will be unsettled over but skies will again clear except in the Kapuskasing - James Bay area.

Arrest May Help To Solve Holdups

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said today a man arrested Monday after holding up Cathcart-St. Catherine street branch of the Bank of Montreal may be able to help them solve four other bank robberies in the city.

Police identified the holdup man as Jolin Brown, 25-year-old automobile salesman. He was trapped at gun-point in Central Station by a traffic policeman a few minutes after fleeing from the bank with $85,764 obtained from a girl teller.

They said they believe Brown may be able to give them information concerning four other unsolved bank robberies involving $18,253 which bank takes place in the city in the last four years.

Higher Hog Cholera Compensation Planned

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government will seek legislation to authorize payment to farmers of higher compensation than the old formula slaughtered because of hog cholera, the agriculture department announced today.

The decision, reached by cabinet Monday, applies particularly to the recent outbreak in Southern Ontario, but it is the government's intention to embody the plan in permanent legislation.

Under the old law, maximum compensation is $30 per animal for grades and $50 for pure-breds.

About 2,800 hogs were slaughtered hogs. They are receiving some $75,000 under the current law.

The department said no new cases have been reported since June 19 in Ontario.

Aged Spinster Went Out for Dish Of Ice Cream, It Cost Her $18,000

JERSEY CITY, N. J. (AP)—An 83-year-old spinster went out for a dish of ice cream Monday and it cost her $18,000.

Here, said police, is what happened to Miss Nellie Drain:

Miss Drain left her apartment for some ice cream at a nearby soda fountain and passed the time of day with a woman sitting on the next stool until a third woman joined them.

The new arrival breathlessly told of finding a large sum of money and of giving it to her boss in a nearby office building for safekeeping.

The women offered to share the find with Miss Drain if she would put up money to show good faith.

That sounded fair to Miss Drain, so assembled by one of her newfound acquaintances, she went home and got her bank withdrew $18,000 savings and handed it over to her companion. That let Miss Drain with $1,000.

When they got back to Jersey City the woman said she had to meet her friend at the boss' office and complete the deal. The $18,000 went with her.

Miss Drain waited and waited and then called police.

RUSSIANS SHOOT 46 RED POLICEMEN FOR PART IN RIOT

Resisted Soviet Army During Workers' Revolt

BERLIN (AP)—The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf said today that 46 Communist German "peoples' police" have been executed by Russian firing squads for "disobeying orders and resisting the Red army" during the June 17 workers revolt in East Germany.

No source was given for the report, which is considerably higher than any previous estimate of the number of police executions. Refugee reports have confirmed, however, that the Red German police proved in the uprising that the Russians could not rely upon them against their own people. The "Vopos"—volkspolizei — often refused to fire into the grain harvest, times even joined the rebels. Some 250 have fled to West Berlin in the last month.

Face Food Shortages

Spurred by serious food shortages, the Communist East German government held out new promises Monday to disgruntled farmers today to lure them into delivering quotas based on the new grain low harvest.

Quotas were reduced and more credit and farm machinery promised, according to the Soviet Zone Morgenpost.

Demonstrations in front of empty food stores were reported in many sections. The harvest, which in part is expected to be slim because so many experienced farmers have fled to the West, and those remaining have been hampered by insufficient red tape and lack of equipment.

Cement Visits Berlin

Dr. Arnold S. Conant, U. S. high commissioner in Germany came to West Berlin by plane on the one-spot study of the situation caused by the Russian martial law barricade dividing the four-power city.

The three Western commandants Monday night made a new demand on the Soviets to lift their blockade of the East Berlin sector border and restore to Berliners the right to circulate freely throughout their city."

Although it has been 30 days since the June 17 revolt, there was still no indication of when martial law would end in the East Berlin area. At present, only persons working in certain factories and those obtaining special passes from the Communists are allowed to cross.

Will Walk Out In Week's Time

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—There'll be no "flashing trip" for union carpenters today.

Like a number of the union negotiating committee Monday night with building contractors, he got back to work for one more week. If a settlement is not reached on wages with the contractors by next Monday, they will walk out.

Negotiations have been under way since early May between the builders' exchange and the local. The carpenters originally sought a $1.75 an hour, a 60-cent increase from their present $1.70-an-hour rate. The exchange has offered $1.75.

FOUR BURNED TO DEATH

HONG KONG (AP)—Four Chinese workmen burned to death in a fire that swept a 10-story building in the middle of Hong Kong harbor early today. The fire department said spontaneous combustion probably caused the blaze among bamboo, lime and lighter Kwangtsi, which was laden with drums of kerosene. Extent of damage was not disclosed.

Election Campaign Warms Up With Voting Only Month Away

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

With voting day little more than a month away, the federal election campaign warmed up Monday night. Liberal, Progressive Conservative and CCF speakers fired mutually-critical broadsides on taxes, world trade, Communists and even the kitchen sink.

CCF leader M. J. Coldwell, campaigning in Saskatoon, brought the kitchen sink into election prominence. He said in a national radio broadcast recorded for broadcast from Ottawa, his party will propose, if elected, a host of social benefits, including a good kitchen sink and a first-class bathroom in every home.

The CCF, he said, makes no "political promise" such as the $500,000,000 tax-reduction program of the Progressive Conservatives. His party favored shifting the tax burden from the low-income groups to the shoulders of the high-income earner—"to those who are best able to pay."

Meanwhile, Donald Fleming, Progressive Conservative member of the last Parliament, aimed a fiery barrage at Prime Minister St. Laurent and Trade Minister Howe in a Galt, Ont., speech.

He referred to Mr. Howe as "Clarence Dictator Howe," substituting Dictator for Mr. Howe's middle name of Decatur. Of Mr. St. Laurent, he said: "Don't be misled by these pictures of a kindly gentleman going around patting children on the head and kissing babies."

Taxes Payments Made Claim

Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said there have been "huge payments to some . . . prominent friends of this government. Before they tell you there can be no reduction in taxes, ask them what they are doing to end waste, extravagance and inefficiency."

The $500,000,000 tax-reduction program "won't be done by a government which spends $10,000,000 to tell you what good boys they are, $50,000,000 on travelling and $28,000,000 on professional services, all of which is performed by the civil service."

At a Fort William press conference, Mr. Drew said the federal government should end its jurisdiction over export trade and interprovincial and international transport, to increase employment in processing and manufacturing raw materials.

The federal government should insist that its general policies be put into effect in Newfoundland and all facilities and issuing various forms of permits for natural resources.

Restore Most Purged Books To Shelves of U.S. Libraries

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department has directed its overseas libraries to put back on the shelves most books removed during the recent purge of books written by Communist and controversial authors.

Officials who disclosed this today said the books will be restored unless named in two master lists, the latest of which was circulated last week to the approximately 189 libraries in foreign cities, Instructions were to remove books not specifically named.

Although the lists have not been made public, informants who may not be named indicated they included more than 5 titles. That would mean the restoration of perhaps hundreds. Officials have said all copies of 300 or more books by about 38 authors had been removed.

Officials said the latest order was dispatched to end confusion which resulted from 15 lists, 14 restrictive. The state department has been a target for criticism because of the removal of some books not specifically named in any directives. Senator McCarthy (Rep.-Wis) assailed particularly the removal of "Witness," life

Not Many ROKs Want to Drive To Yalu Alone

By JOHN RANDOLPH

SEOUL (AP)—Not all of the South Korean Army wants to drive north to the Yalu river boundary of Communist China.

It is not hard to find Republic of Korea soldiers who know what a course would be national suicide. It is not hard to find others who, worn out by three years of this war, are willing to settle for any decent truce.

But it is only fair to say that many more are willing to brave everything for victory. The fire department with President Syngman Rhee. The fiery 78-year-old president has threatened to drive north alone if the United Nations signs an armistice with the Communists or learns he considers a "death warrant" for Korea.

There are very few indeed—although there are some—in the Army who say they would resist an order from Rhee to disregard an armistice and attack the Communists alone.

Pull Ground he Taken

There are 16 divisions and thousands of supply troops in the South Korean Army and it is obviously not possible to take a public opinion poll among them. But a random sampling produces three different reactions:

1. A much smaller but influential number of officers and better-educated men doubt, in varying degrees, the wisdom of Rhee's bitter anti-armistice stand.

2. A much greater number say, with or without mental reservations, that they will follow Rhee to the Yalu or death.

3. Occasional individuals oppose Rhee's policies so strongly they

Make Big Haul In Offensive Against Mau Mau

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—British officials reported today their forces killed 241 native terrorists and captured 183 others in an all-out offensive against the Mau Mau deathmen seeking to drive white settlers from Kenya.

The operation, from June 23 to July 5, was the biggest staged by British and supporting native units against bands of rebels since a state of emergency was declared in the East African colony nine months ago.

Twenty-eight of the security forces were killed.

...The operation's bag brought to 1,109 the total the number of Mau Mau claimed dead since the emergency's start.

Reach Agreement

WANDSON, Ont. (CP)—Employees of Hiram Walker and Sons, Ltd., who threatened strike action several weeks ago to enforce wage demands, have reached agreement with the firm and it was announced Monday.

Under the new contract signed between the company and local 61, Distillery Workers Union (AFL), male help will receive a 10-cent hourly increase to bring their basic rate to $1.29 an hour. Female employees received a 16-cent increase to bring their basic rate to $1.25.

Tradesmen received an 18-cent boost to $1.90 an hour.

The increases are retroactive to Jan. 1.

CABINET MAKES THREE MAJOR APPOINTMENTS

Also Discuss South Sask. Dam Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet, cleaning off piled-up chores, took time out from ministerial campaigning Monday to make several appointments and give new cash to a UN proposal to sign a truce now whether or not South Korea objects.

The officers, who normally arrange meetings of the full armistice delegations, will meet at noon (11 p. m. EDT today).

This new development came as an authoritative South Korean source said efforts to win President Syngman Rhee over to an armistice will fail unless the U. S. comes up with "a new proposal satisfactory to Rhee."

Ready to Sign

Armistice negotiations have been in recess since June 28 when Rhee freed some 27,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners. The truce agreement was reported ready to sign.

The liaison officers will meet on the second anniversary of the first meeting to arrange for the truce talks. On July 8, 1951, three U. S. officers flew to Kaesong where they talks the world hoped would lead to a speedy peace.

Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, asked the Communists in June 29 to meet him in Seoul or Rhee refuses to go along. So far they have not answered.

Did Not Meet Rhee

President Eisenhower's truce envoy, Walter Robertson, did not meet with Rhee today. Their talks are deadlocked as a result, of Rhee's insistence that the U. S. agree to resume fighting if a post-armistice political conference fails to progress toward peaceful unification of Korea within three months.

A well-informed South Korean source said Tuesday that Rhee has rejected U. S. compromise plans so far because they offer no solid concrete.

Robertson flew here June 25 in an effort to win South Korean cooperation in a truce negotiated—and it is expected—will be announced.

He is reported to have offered Rhee a number of concessions in an attempt to win his support.

World Stage Walkout

One highly competent source said last week that Robertson told Rhee the U. S. is ready to join a joint walkout with South Korea from a political conference if the Communists used the talks to shield military operations.

He cited Red infiltration into South Korea as a truce violation which might warrant such a walkout.

But Rhee snubbed the offer because it failed to meet his demand for a 90-day time limit.

While the talks were in recess, South Korean students and a few elderly folk paraded through the streets of Seoul chanting anti-truce slogans.

Thinks He Is On Way to Puerto Rico, Lands at Gander Bound for Germany

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the odyssey of Juan Martinez, who started out for Puerto Rico and landed in Germany instead. He repeated his name three times and got three martinis, and who's flying to what he's back home.

Martinez, a one-legged man of 37, started his wanderings Sunday when he mistakenly boarded a Pan-American World Airways plane bound for Germany from Idlewild airport.

The big airliner winged its way east on the four-and-a-half-hour hop to Gander, Newfoundland, as Martinez settled into his seat.

Soon a stewardess came along and asked:

"Manhatian or martini?"

"No Puerto Rican, who speaks only Spanish, thought she was checking his name. So he replied: "Martinez."

The man handed a dry martini.

Twice more he was asked the same question, and each time he reply, and received the same refreshment.

Monday, plane landed at Gander, Martinez promptly noticed that he was in a cooler clime than San Juan.

He made inquiries, and the mistake was uncovered.

Airline officials put him up overnight, Gander, and sent him back to New York on the first available flight. He returned here Monday.

Then just before last midnight he was put aboard a non-stop flight to San Juan.

Martinez, who has two sons in the army in Korea, quipped as he boarded the plane:

"This time they'll probably send me to Korea."

Communists Call Truce Meeting To Give Answer

Rhee Insistent on New U.S. Proposal on Deadlock

SEOUL (AP)—The Communists late today called for a meeting of liaison officers in Panmunjom Wednesday, touching off speculation they are ready to answer a UN proposal to sign a truce now whether or not South Korea objects.

The officers, who normally arrange meetings of the full armistice delegations, will meet at noon (11 p. m. EDT today).

This new development came as an authoritative South Korean source said efforts to win President Syngman Rhee over to an armistice will fail unless the U. S. comes up with "a new proposal satisfactory to Rhee."

J. S. McDiarmid Lieut.-Governor Of Manitoba

WINNIPEG (CP)—John Stewart McDiarmid, whose appointment as Manitoba lieutenant-governor was announced Monday in Ottawa, had the longest period of service of any active Canadian cabinet minister when he retired June 30 as Manitoba's minister of mines and natural resources. He had held the post since 1932.

His job as mines minister sent him ranging over the 250,000 square miles of rural Manitoba that constituted his domain with the same tireless efficiency that made him a fine curler and put hole-in-one zip into his golfing.

Of the Manitoba portland that he loves and worked to develop he once said: "Nature is beckoning men. Man's work is slight."

He was born Dec. 25, 1882, in Ottawa, the son of parents who came to Canada with his parents in 1887 and spent his early youth on a farm near Perth-Andover, N.B.

A lumber merchant in private life, he entered politics for the first time in 1925 as a city alderman. He was elected to the federal house in 1926 and served until 1930.

U.N. Assembly Must Eventually Discuss Korea

GORE BAY, Ont. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson, president of the United Nations general assembly, said Monday night that the assembly must meet eventually to discuss the Korean situation.

Mr. Pearson, who has been in close touch with international developments while campaigning for the Aug. 10 federal election, told a Liberal party rally in this Manitoulin district constituency that the assembly must hold the session to discuss an armistice in Korea if one is signed, or what to do if one is not signed. He mentioned no date.

He said the meeting will be "the best time for our unity and cooperation in the interests of world peace."

Mr. Pearson was speaking in his home riding of Algoma East.

Mother of Liberal House Leader Dies at Flesherton

FLESHERTON (CP) — Mrs. James Oliver, mother of Farquhar Oliver, Liberal house leader in the Ontario Liberal party, died Monday. She suffered a brief illness and would have celebrated her 78th birthday July 31.

The former Mary MacKinnon, Mrs. Oliver was born near Priceville district and until eight years ago lived moved to Flesherton. In March, 1952, Mrs. Oliver and her husband observed their 50th wedding anniversary.

She is survived by her husband, one son, Farquhar Oliver, and two daughters.

Chairman Ken Hubley thanked friends, at the Country Club golf course on Wednesday of the week.

Entry forms are coming in steadily and the committee expects over 2 members to participate. Others wishing to take part are requested to call the Y.M.C.A. before Wednesday noon.

The Birds, Rest, Cass and Hubley Trophy will be awarded to the low gross winner, and engraved silver-plated spoons will constitute the other 18 and 9-hole prizes.

INSPECTOR PAYS VISIT TO "Y"

The local Y.M.C.A. was host yesterday to Stan Symington, acting boys' program director of the National Council of the YMCA, who is now touring all the Y Boys' Camps in Ontario.

While in the city, Mr. Symington conferred with Messrs. J. Bryan Leslie, chairman of the Physical Education committee and Ted Wooding, chairman of boys' work of the Y's Men's Club.

Mr. Symington was very pleased with the way the camp was organized for the boys during 1952-53, and with the expansion going on to the physical department. He also expressed the hope that summer camp leadership will be found soon, so that boys' club activities will be added to the existing program.

HOLIDAY PERIOD DIVIDED FOR STAFF

A spokesman for Stewart-Warner Corp. stated today that not all the employees will be taking holidays the latter part of July. He stated that while 250 will be away then approximately 122 more from the electronics division and a skeleton staff from other departments will take holidays in August or September.

C of C Business Directory, Map Of City Off Press

The Belleville Map and Business Directory, a folder combining a street guide of the city, a welcome to visitors, facts about the city, things to do while here and a business directory has been printed and copies have been mailed out today. The folder, put out by the local Chamber of Commerce project, had previously been under discussion by the board of directors, who later approved its printing. Don W. Kingdon, secretary-manager, has announced that 10,000 copies were run off.

Not only have folders been sent to all major Canadian cities but fifty have been sent to each Chamber of Commerce or Board of Trade in every community in Ontario. Mr. Kingdon also stated that 100 folders were sent to each port of entry in Canada and the United States and to the Canadian Government Travel Bureau in New York and Ajax, Alta. American chambers of commerce and boards of trade which have been asked to contact in considerable attention of persons on Front Street.

Movie a Thriller

The film itself was a "thriller." The story is simple and acted in a small cocktail bar in the heart of New York city, revolving about the lives of a few persons. One was a cattle-buyer, one, a factory owner, a correspondent for a newspaper for television the bartender, a girl who spent her time between television and a soft talking young man who called himself a forecaster.

Around these characters was woven one of the most intricate plots of [illegible] complications and tragedy. Packed with action beginning with the capture of all airfields in Egypt by the rebel forces with attacks upon major cities of the United States by the air force, it tremely realistic both in drama and high-flying action.

The technicolor was as interesting menace throughout the entire production. Under the credits of newscasts and by the characters in the drama as they speculated, it is not difficult to figure out just what country he represents. There are several close-ups of M/Jet aircraft bearing the hated insignia of the Red Star.

Not Named

There are also frequent references by the news-[illegible] war-mongers." Three guesses, and the first two don't count. Nevertheless though, the producers of the film are inclined to shy away from directly labelling the enemy.

Each of the seven characters in his [illegible] emergency experience a rude awakening.

Invasion U.S.A. sent people away from the theatre remarking, "There should be a few more films like that around."

Not only is the picture guaranteed to disturb complacency in the neighborhood, but it is also high in entertainment value. Of course, the romance angle enters the movie with the girl who began as a cattle buyer and the TV announcer as the main characters. The surprise ending is really a surprise and adds to the film's merits.

Northern Electric Employees Set Safety Record

Employees at the Northern Electric plant reached the 3,000,000 man-hours mark without suffering a lost-time accident on Monday, it was announced today. The record was started on October 18, 1951.

In a letter to the announcement, E. S. Booth, plant manager, commended all of the plant's employees for their contribution to safety. When the employees reached the new mark last Monday, they had completed 527 days without suffering a lost-time accident.

After reaching the 3,000,000 man-hours mark, Mr. Booth said the employees' immediate objective would be the four-million mark. He said that employees should reach that figure around the middle of February, 1954.

It is also understood that if N.E. employees can reach the 3,500,000 man-hours mark they will have set a new record for Ontario.

Only one other firm reporting to the Industrial Accident Prevention Association of Ontario has reached the 3,000,000 man-hours mark.

REDS A-BOMB STOCK

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A high defence expert said government officials believe Russia has enough atomic bombs to drop two on about 97 areas in the United States. Kenneth Edmunds, protection specialist for the civil defence administration in Washington, said "we know now that the Russians have bombs that can strike at any point in the United States and make it back to the Soviet Union, with refuelling in flight."

Civil Defence Units Attend Thrilling Movie

A squad of sea cadets, four members of the St. John Ambulance Brigade along with officials represented active of the civil defence unit and city fire department, gathered in front of the Capitol theatre Monday evening. Last night marked the opening for the first showing of the motion picture "Invasion U.S.A." The film was run-off before a packed theatre.

Prior to the beginning of the show, firemen gave a display of their equipment with special emphasis on their motor driven, 75 foot ladder. Altogether the display in front of the theatre attracted considerable attention of persons on Front Street.

Syracuse TV Power Will be Increased

Local residents are going to be able to receive channel three, WSYR-TV, Syracuse, on their TV television sets more clearly than the more powerful Rochester station which is a month-and-a-half. The president of Booth Radio and Television, H. E. Booth was informed in a telephone conversation with Syracuse on Friday that the station is increasing its output from 25,000 watts to 100,000 watts.

The change-over is expected to take place about the middle of August 1-15. Mr. Booth estimates reception will equal that of Rochester and may better it. At the present time, residents are getting only fair reception from WSYR.

Plane Damaged In Crash-Landing Near Crookston

on a farm near Crookston Monday afternoon, the slight damage to the craft and apparently no injuries to the pilot.

Cecil Jones, on whose farm the plane landed, said his children saw the aircraft flying over one of his fields during the afternoon, but nobody saw it land.

Later he and the plane and investigated. The craft had a splintered "prop" and a damaged wing. Nobody was in sight, and it is believed the pilot went away to secure help.

Provincial Police Constable A. O. Bailey, Madoc, who investigated the crash, said today that the pilot had not been located up to noon.

There were no visible signs of injury to the lone occupant of the plane.

SEEKS PREMIER

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Soekarno said he would make another attempt soon to pick a prime minister to end the 33-day government crisis. Foreign Minister Mukarto, whose Indonesian Nationalist party caused the resignation of Prime Minister Wilopo's government June 3, said last week he was ready to get the Nationalists, Moslem Masjumi and other parties to agree on cabinet posts.

Soviet System Primitive Says Rotary Speaker

"It is not sufficiently realized that the Soviet system is utterly primitive. Only in the most backward of savage tribes is there found common ownership under the rule of a chieftain. The worship of amorphous state; the deification of a non-existent proletariat, are decisive evidences of unexampled self-deception that could exist only in an utterly primitive society. To find a parallel to communism, one must go to Islam in the white heat of Mohammed's Hegira." Such were Gladstone Murray's disdainful comments on communism, made in his address at the Rotary Club at the Hotel Quinte on Monday.

Mr. Murray, presently the policy counsel for the Responsible Government Group of Canada, assisted in the formation of the British Broadcasting Corporation and was at one time director-general of programs in Canada. The topic of his address was the "Elizabethan Ages."

Creaking at Joints

In his scathing remarks directed against the communist party, the speaker was inclined to brush off communism as being of not too little concern. He had this to say: "It is the whole structure of the Soviet empire is audibly creaking at the joints; it cannot possibly remain free from dom for more than ten years. The Soviet philosophy of communism has no quality of endurance. While, of course, we must continue to take whatever protective measures we should be put to, there is no cause for panic reaction."

Comparing the two Elizabethan ages, Mr. Murray suggested the world may look forward to another age of discovery and progress." He dwelt for a time on space travel, voicing his opinion that by the year 2000 most of the major bodies of our solar system probably will have been explored. The speaker told his audience that at the present time giant rockets are being built to carry man beyond the limits of atmosphere.

Threshold Of New Age

"We stand on the threshold of a new age of discovery and exploration, more challenging, more adventurous than any previous era," the speaker stated.

Mr. Murray told of the plans for a space station to be built to carry travel, noting the first step will be the establishment of a space station some 22,000 miles above the earth. The next step, according to the speaker, will be the establishment of a second station, 33,000 miles from earth which will ultimately lead to a landing upon the moon's surface. Mr. Murray said, once at the moon, man would be in a position to explore further into the solar system.

"Despite the obvious fascination and space travel," the speaker said, "I am more interested in the reaction on our planet, enabling mankind to discard such pointless nonsense as the iron curtain as a prelude to the next great forward progress in human well - being and the creative arts. As this unparalleled era of expansive outlook links the earth with the universe, it should be an achievement of productive and creative energy on our own planet. The collapse of Soviet power will be the last serious obstacle to the creation of a new world civilization, and the anarchy of tribalism that has disfigured human history."

In conclusion Mr. Murray stated, by answering the call to destiny, we Canadians shall go forward as sovereign free citizens of Canada, as charter citizens of the British Commonwealth, and as founder citizens of a free world commonwealth, leading humanity through the new Elizabethan era of adventure and fulfilment."

The speaker was introduced by Frank Murray and the thanks of the club were extended by T.Y. Wills.

Medical Officer Submits Report For June

Dr. A. M. Brula, medical officer of health, released the monthly health department report today. It was revealed in the report that the sanitation department is taking periodic samples of water from four lobel swimming sites. This is being done once a week according to the release and the practice will be continued throughout the summer months.

Milk from the farms and pasteurized products of city dairies continued to be sampled regularly. Many complaints which have been turned into the sanitary inspector have been investigated and reports tendered to the Public Health Council. The council has been closed in lieu of three grade "D" reports.

The total of scarlet fever, seven cases of measles and one case of chickenpox were reported to the health department in June. There were two new cases of tuberculosis children reported during the month.

The total attendance at the city hall immunization clinic was 215. This figure included 195 inoculations and 55 vaccinations. During the month, 188 visits by health inspectors and 107 other inspections made during June. Vision tests numbered 78 and 130 pre-school children were prepared for physical examinations by the family physician. This included vision and hearing tests and measuring of the height and weight.

The fourth and last round of immunizations was completed in the schools during last month for those students whose parents had requested the service. Five child health clinics were attended by 53 infants and pre-school children.

Queen and Princess See Play About Rhodes

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (Reuter)—The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret Monday ended their Royal Study visit to Rhodesia's Federal centenary celebrations by seeing a pageant based on the explorer Cecil Rhodes.

More than 3,000 persons, including many school children, packed the Centenary Exhibition Theatre. The royal visitors occupied a box with Governor Sir Peveril William-Powlett, Northern Rhodesia and their hosts.

The Queen Mother and Margaret left later for the overnight journey to Lusaka, on the next stage of their 1,500-mile tour.

GILBERT STEENBURGH

MADRIGA.—The death occurred at his home, Cordova Mines on Friday morning evening of Gilbert Steenburgh, at the age of 73, son of the late George Steenburg's and Cordova Mines. He was born at Round Lake, near Havelock.

For some years he conducted a general store at Cordova Mines which he later sold to E. C. Pace.

Next he carried on a trucking business and later moved to Marmora where he built carrier between that village and Bonarlaw Station. He also operated a taxi business about four years ago he bought out the grocery business of Ross Barrons at Cordova Mines to return to his former store. His health became impaired some time ago and he had been confined to his bed for some months. He was of a friendly disposition and will be mourned by many friends in Marmora and Cordova.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, Arthur, Cordova Mines and Carman and Earl, Oshawa and two daughters; Mrs. Charles Ghent (Ida), Cordova Mines and Mrs. Keith Sanders (Evelyn), Belleville.

The funeral was held on Monday leaving the residence of his brother-in-law, Percy Ford Cordova Mines for St. Andrew's Church, Marmora.

Interment took place in Keller's Cemetery, Healey Falls.

ELECTION

Mr. Drew also referred to some critical attention from Justice Minister Garson in a national radio address in Winnipeg. Mr. Drew questioned whether Mr. Drew could "trust his government. He said Mr. Drew receives little more than token support in half the provinces. His main strength was in Ontario.

"Is not the more likely alternative to Canadians a strong and powerful administration some feeble coalition under Mr. Drew of Conservatives, Social Credit and a few Quebec independents?"

In a Quebec address from Ottawa, Immigration Minister Harris referred to Mr. Drew's promise to the Ukrainians that a Conservative government would outlaw Communist activities in Canada.

The best defence against communism was conditions other than "hunger, insecurity, fear, fear, and arbitrary government, such as we had under the Tories 20 years ago. . . .

"Let . . . us be on guard to prevent anyone starting a witch hunt in this country."

Cathedral to Mark Claim

In Kitchener, Ont., John Diefenbaker, Conservative opposition member of the last Parliament, said the federal government collected $2,400,000,000 in taxes. Of this, needs of government in the last seven years.

"That amounts to $2,000 a day, every day since the year 1. Yet, Liberals say Mr. Drew's policies of reducing taxes by $500,000,000 would be done."

At Gore Bay, Ont., External Affairs Minister Pearson said it is "impudence to suggest that we are not interested in tax cuts."

"We are concerned with realistic tax cuts. Our quarrel with the Conservatives is that they cannot cut $500,000,000 from taxes without interfering with essential services or going in for deficit financing."

In a speech at Saskatoon Mr. Pearson said the Liberal government does not want a dam in the South Saskatchewan river at Outlook. Such a part of the controversial South Saskatchewan river irrigation and power project.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Monday's mixed to lower price pattern persisted in forenoon stock market trading today.

Uranium and New Brunswick base metals traded lower. Included in the losers were Conwest, Anacon, Chimo and New Highridge. New Larder U was a bright spot with a small gain in heavy trading.

Industrials were forward in a majority of cases but weakness in leaders such as Abitibi and Royal Bank produced the group's first index loss in four days, Canadian Celanese took a loss of $2, in a weaker textiles section.

Golds tended higher, led by Kerr Addison with a gain of three-eighths. Holding companies showed declines in Argentaria and Mentor.

Base metals turned weaker. Leading gainers in lower ground were such higher-priced issues as Falconbridge and International Nickel. Hudson Bay Mining topped the losers in the junior section, dropping an extreme 22 cents.

Western oils moved a fairly wide list of issues with plus signs in the majority. On the senior exchange Trans Empire and Security but Peruvian and Western Leaseholds weakened.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were generally steady at Monday's advance at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: cattle 1,800; calves 310; hogs 340; sheep and lambs 30; boldover from Monday 300 cattle.

Choice light steers 19-20; on lot 20.75; good light 18-19; choice weights 17.25-17.75; good-choice 18 18.50; a few 19; good cows 14-15; good bulls 13-14; plain downward to 11; choice fed yearlings 20-20.75; mediums downward to 18; medium to good stockers 15.50-18.

Calves were steady at 18-20, for choice vealers; a few tops 21 common to medium 15-18.

Hog prices not established.

Lambs were steady at 22 for good ewes and wethers; good bucks 21; good light sheep up to 18; culls 5-7.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Sales were steady at the egg market today and prices were unchanged. Quotations to shippers on eggs in fibre cases were: A large 58; A medium 48; A small 38; Grade B 47; grade C 42. Wholesale to retail: A large 73; A medium 71; A small 55; grade B 58; grade C 47.

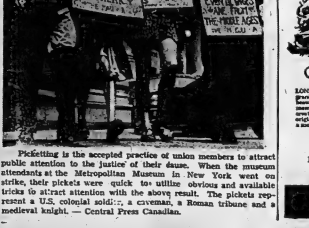
DOLLAR RATE



MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 13-16 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today, unchanged from noon rates on 90 U.S. cents. Pound sterling $2.79 8-16, against $2.79½.

SPRINGS SURPRISE

LONDON (AP)—The inclusion of Fred Trueman, Yorkshire's 23-year-old wonder fast bowler, was the big surprise the England selectors produced Sunday in announcing the team to meet Australia in the third cricket test match opening at Manchester next Thursday.

They also recalled W. J. Edrich, after an absence from test cricket of three years, and brought in J. C. Laker and R. T. Simpson.

OUR CHANGING WORDS

A Manitoba judge has just ruled that a will leaving $3,000 "for the purpose of promoting and propagating the doctrine and teaching of socialism" is void for uncertainty. The difficulty of determining the proper heirs would be too great. "There is an infinite variety of doctrines, political parties and economic groups," says the judge, "which claim to support socialism in their own particular way and according to their own particular beliefs."

This leads "The Printed Word" to observe: "A telling commentary this, upon the extent to which socialism has permeated the political life of the country." "The Printed Word" maintains that not so many years ago such a bequest "would unquestionably have gone to the C.C.F. party."

We think "The Printed Word" is rather venturesome, to endeavor to say what a judge would have done a few years ago. The plain truth of the matter is that the C.C.F. was not the first Canadian organization interested in promoting socialism. Furthermore, a good argument can be made for the assertion that there is today an "infinite variety" of organizations supporting socialism, this is more the result of a change in the meaning popularly given to the word than to a multiplication of groups dedicated to the advancement of the principles which were considered to describe "socialism" in the days when the C.C.F. was first organized.

Indeed, one of our major troubles today, in the political field, is to arrive at some common agreement as to what different terms mean. Most of those people who give serious study to the matter are convinced would throw up their hands in horror if they awoke some morning to discover that the government had decided that it would permit private companies to carry on their business without any form of restraint. The man who will praise the "equality of opportunity" offered in this country will sometimes call together a meeting of distributors of some particular commodity in an effort to discover how labor can prevent some outsider from opening up a business in this already over-crowded field. And how many Russians in a land where state is the everything and all is the nothing repeatedly maintained the state apparatus must—and would—gradually "wither away" in a Communist regime? Karl Marx and Adam Smith, if they returned to this world, find it indeed a queer one in which to live than with the modern versions of the economic theories which they shaped and gave to posterity.

FREE READING MATERIAL

If anybody is hard up for reading material, we have in our possession two efforts from the talented pen of the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission. Any reader can have them for a small fee, to cover the cost of mailing and of a search through the wastepaper basket.

One of these pamphlets is entitled: "Report Concerning Alleged Instances of Resale Price Maintenance of Book Products in the Montreal District." The other, with an equally suggestive title, is: "Report Concerning Alleged Price Discrimination Between Retail Hardware Dealers in North Bay, Ontario."

There are unquestionably some people in Canada who would find these pamphlets of absorbing interest, much to be preferred to the account of the adventures of the landed gentry in the thirteenth century, the warrior feats of Buck Rogers in the twenty-fifth century or even the way of a man with a maid in our present day and age. It just so happens, however, that none of these interested persons happens to occupy a chair in the office of the Ontario Intelligencer and we doubt very much whether any of them will be found in the offices of other weekly and small daily newspapers published throughout Canada.

However, all of these newspapermen are accustomed to the luxury of regularly receiving first editions in which they have not the slightest interest. They come in every mail, from every conceivable office of government, and there is one phase of government in which all political parties are in complete accord. It is noteworthy, too, that in this realm there seems to be no quarrel between public and private enterprise. Almost every publication which is big enough to have acquired a few shareholders to substitute for the taxpayers' role in the economy of governments has decided that public ownership is leading to ruin and that the best way to do a good job of public relations is to issue a mass of reports on subjects of little importance and dispatch them by regular mail to people to whom they will not be of the slightest interest.

So far we have been unable to discover any sinister plot hidden beneath this mass of verbiage. Improbable as it may seem at first, we do not think the Communists have a finger in this pie. It does not appear to be a plot to denude our forests by creating an insatiable demand for paper—one of the biggest users is ourself. Nor is there a little of evidence that the governments have gone into league with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association to maintain a high level of employment by providing jobs for hush-workers, paper mill employees, writers, linotype operators, proof-readers, postage-stamp makers and letter-carriers. We admit we have not yet fully probed the possibility that a group of leaders is deliberately attempting to facilitate the organization of the Amalgamated Brotherhood of Wastepaper Basket Emptiers, but we suspect that this line of investigation will lead us up a blind alley.

Too bad we could not take the pamphlet producers up that alley with us — and leave them there!

THE RESTFUL SEASON

The banquet season's over. Now the witty chairman rests from the task of introducing all the "most distinguished guests".
And the waitresses and waiters, whom I call my favorite group,
May take a brief vacation from the job of lading soup.

The banquet season's over. I shall not be asked to orange in the fruit cup and the carrots mixed with peas.
Fish the children I'll take dinner, knowing when dessert we reach
There is no one at the table who'll be asked to make a speech.

Oh, restful, glorious summer when the banquet halls are dim,
And no chairman rage for order and no one pays heed to him!
Now I'll take my evening supper
at a table simply spread,
Where the children do the talking
—and then early go to bed.

TODAY'S TALK
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DON'T DIE ON THIRD

We are just beginning in the glorious game of baseball always get a thrill when we see a player on third base. Especially when there are two out in the ninth inning and with a batter at the plate with two strikes on him. The most alert chap is that one on third—and he is one most watched, for a single or an error could easily give a run that would mean the game.

I recently witnessed a case as described. The man on third thought it was an easy out for the batter and so lingered—and died on third—because there was an error and the batter got to first. Later that possible run by the man on third could have been the game, for in the next play the batter was out.

Alertness is a wonderful quality. The fellow "who never misses a trick" is usually the one who keeps his eyes open and his mental faculties in perfect tune. He never accepts defeat, though it may be recorded against him many a time. It's always something temporary with him. He takes the home plate. He is a winner!

I knew the late Henry Ford for a period of over twenty years. He was an inspiration to me, and undoubtedly to thousands of others. His dreams and projects never knew third. He was forever at bat with new ideas. He inspired his whole team, for he never filed the "impossible" ideas. He went ahead and made them realities. While others thought his ideas impractical, he exclaimed that "the future fairly startles me with its impending greatness. We are on the verge of undreamed progress."

The Patent Office is filled with ideas that their creators never bothered to work out or to perfect. They died on third because the game was over before they got around to home and to score. The winners in this life contest of ours are those who never let an idea go to sleep. It is ours to make today an improvement over yesterday—and tomorrow must have all the heritage and experiences of all the years gone before. Don't die on third!

Fairy Tales Rewritten For Modern Totskis

East German communists are rewriting the fairy tales to "purge them of bourgeois tendencies" and make the heroes red revolutionaries.

Here's what the Washington Post thinks would happen if Red Riding Hood were purified. First in the communist version, then the professional ex-communist version.

This Red Riding Hood Hewed to the Line
By Hans Christian Malenkov Friendly

Once upon a time there was a libertine girl whose name was Natasha Petrovna Riding Hood, called Red for short, who was a member of the Party fraction on the Volga Steamboat Line.

One day, as she was preparing to attend a komsomol discussion on group elaboration of the temporary liberalization of the Lumpenproletariate, the Commissar spoke to her.

"Little Red," he said, "I have an important assignment for you. The head of the shop nucleus at Toptnost Staspe has notified us that he is sick with a bourgeois deviationist, "Pack up some in your little rucksack and take it to him."

"And be careful on your trip," the Commissar said. "Watch for the wolves here and Toptnost Steppe are full of fascist beasts."

"I'll be careful," said Little Red, as she packed up the agitprop and set out on her journey.

On the way, sure enough, she was accosted by a capitalist exploiter named Georgei Porgei Wolf. "Where are you going, Little Red?" asked Wolf.

"I am going to Toptnost Steppe to give the head of the shop nucleus all this dialectical materialism" she replied.

At that, Wolf jumped into a jeep and raced to the secret underground caves of the Red Army who, in turn, had once liberated it from Yankee imperialist running dogs and held it a short cut to Toptnost Steppe. Once there, he murdered Grandma, the head of the shop nucleus and sat at her desk.

"What big boots you have Comrade Head of the Shop Nucleus!" the proletariat exclaimed when she entered.

"All the better to uplift the workers!" Wolf replied.

"What big dollar signs you have on your shirt front. Comrade Head of the Shop Nucleus!" she cried.

"All the better to make a good impression at the Yorgzin store," said Wolf.

Then a culturally backward attitude oriented toward the social oppression of working masses you have, Comrade Head of the Shop Nucleus!" she declared.

"All the better to fool you to medieval serfdom," Wolf shouted, and at once jumped up and began to chase Little Red around the room.

But at that moment, a handsome Lumpenproletariate Lothario who finished his day's job of moving a piano by means of a rope suspended a river with atomic energy locked in the window and saw what was going on.

"What music is this I hear coming out of your room?" he shouted.

Georgei Porgie Wolf cowered in silence. He knew his counter-revolutionary music.

"It is nothing other than Shostakovich's Formalistic Splinter of the Cultural Cell of the Central Committee of the All-Soviet Party Presidium," Young Stakhanovite continued. "Listen to those regressive rhythms and anti-proletarian counterpoint. Why, this man is no apparatchik; he is a Bukharinite deviationist and may be even a Trotskyite with an entirely meretricious conclave. We will purge him at once."

With that, he leaped in the window, drew a bottle of vodka and forced the contents down Wolf's unwilling throat.

Little red, saved from the fate of becoming a decadent parasite, beamed at Stakhanovite. "In my basket, Comrade," she said, "are get good Marx".

The young man smiled back with a socially valid expression. He said, "It comes from knowing all the Engels."

They lived happily ever after, exceeding all their production quotas.

This Red Riding Hood Had Changed Her Hue
By Sudens Grimm Friendly

Once upon a time there was an understanding young lady named Miss Riding Hood. She had once been a card-carrying Communist Party member but had quit, so she was always called Miss Ex-Red Riding Hood.

One day after she had finished screening the entrants in the National Soap Box Derby to be sure there were no Communists among them, she received a telephone call from Toptnost Steppe.

The caller was the security officer of the Division of Mines and Pleasures. "Come quickly to Washington, Red Riding Hood," he begged. "We are having a terrible time reviewing the loyalty of the Loyalty Review Board to be sure the views the loyalty of our loyalty reviewers."

"I will come at once," Ex-Red Riding Hood obligingly agreed.

"And be careful on your trip," the patient's nonce. Even now I'm myself of every opportunity to say tick, tick about what I find in the cushions of the chesterfield in my host's bathroom.

To begin with, of course, there's the medicine—both ancient and modern—which shucks, I pass that because I believe it is harmful only to those who suffer from the associated neglect of dentistry.

Then aspirin. Now I'll admit I'm a timid soul about my own safety, yet I take taken a dose one of these analgesic drugs.

ITEMS THAT DO NOT BELONG IN THE MEDICINE CABINET

I do not remember where I got the idea, but in the dreary first winter in Penn Yan,

Dr. Brady

I was depressed and waited and waited for my first patient — paying patient. That is — I had some wise doctor told me that the profession's too shouted for a bonfire every ten years. So I dispose of medical textbooks that have become obsolete. Somehow the idea seemed eminently sound, although it did not apply to the annual of medical books I had borrowed or stolen up to that moment. In the course of the next four years, however I divided my copy of Osler's Practice of Modern Medicine (Sixth Edition) into two seventy sections and carried one section in pocket or bag to read pending the arrival of a new citizen.

Another favorite pastime of those days was inspection and criticism of whatever first aid or medicine chest Mrs. Brady had packed, supplied and snooped about the premises on my first visit. Also the Sure enough, on the train she was accosted by a wolf. "Where are you going, Miss Ex-Red Riding Hood?" he asked.

"I am going to Washington with a big responsibility. I've got a telephone book containing 205 or 57 or 81 names of persons sympathetic to the Communist Party cause," she said.

"Let me help you," he asked.

"When I was in the Party, and Secretary of the Young Party Hacks' Fashions' column in The Daily Worker, I was officially informed that I was on the F.B.I. card index for all the wedding guests. And a great many of the older guests of weddings I was just so many Mays and Junes in their lives.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

Now that the bridal months of May and June are past, it might be a safe time to bring up the little question of these Saturday weddings. Saturday is a fashionable day for wedding, because the bridegroom's holidays can most easily be arranged to start that day for a good two week honeymoon. That is all very well for October weddings, or March weddings, or weddings in But in May and June, it means thousands of week-end cancellations for all the wedding guests. And a great many of the older guests of weddings I've just so many Mays and Junes in their lives.

"Then, a fortnight's year old friend of mine, "I figure if I live to be seventy, I've just got ten more Mays and Junes left. And I've seen there were three Saturday weddings I had to attend, one in late May and two in June. Year before last, two June weddings. And I've loved the weddings. It is all very well to bear in mind the young; but they ought to forget Mays and Junes ahead of them. I've made up my mind that from now on, I am going to decline all Saturday wedding invitations; and will send the happy couple a wedding present in advance, hoping they will take the hint with regards to my absence."

Funerals are a different matter. Funerals are not planned months ahead, like weddings. And there's recently died in Toronto a very well-known financier. He had several weeks' notice that he was going to die. But he had arranged practically all the details of his funeral, to the subject of funerals. No notice of his death was published. Nor did he publish a paid notice. Only his immediate family and a handful of his most intimate friends were advised. His funeral was early on a Saturday morning in May. And in the newspapers of that day there appeared the simple facts which concerned the funeral as over and past. The large company of his friends and acquaintances who would be sorry that he had for longer than they would have if they had attended the formality of his funeral.

Strength for the Day
DR. EARL DOUGLASS

TAKE THEM IN STRIDE

A prominent oil company recently issued a report showing, among other things, that they had lost almost seven hundred men during the year, one-third of which were dry holes.

You get discouraged sometimes, turn to the Sports-Section of the newspaper and read the batting averages of the great baseball players. They are never very high. Players have more strike-outs than they have clean hits. Spectators shout and come only a few times in an athlete's career. Home runs are few and far between, even in the case of the so called "home-run kings."

Most of us are built in such a way that we are unhappy unless we are winning all the time. The only successful people are those day by day holes in at least one-third of their shillings. A real baseball player knows what is coming to him, in season and out. The lawyer loses his share of cases and the doctor, after doing his best by his patients, very often finds them dying on his hands when he was confident of their recovery. Sometimes husbands and wives that do not get an error in judgment.

Get reconciled to dry holes, strike-outs, knock-outs, and defeats. Take them in your stride.

Take reverses and don't get bitter over them.

Chase Boys from Park But Let Cars on Grass

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer,

We saw half a dozen small boys on the Fair Grounds Park one day. They had a bat and ball and started to play cricket. A man, presumably a Parks. Board, employee, promptly chased the boys and took the bats from them. "This park is being saved for its esthetic beauty," said we. We were in no position to question this decision.

Then, one day, we saw cars driving merrily over this same precious grass, leaving tracks that would remain for a fall. We even saw one car driven by a city alderman. Are we wonder that this grass is fit for a bowling club's parking lot, but not for children's games.

Chairman Alyea Thanks All For Co-operation

Trenton—(Special)—O.C. "Buster" Alyea has thanked all those people who co-operated to make the Centennial Celebrations such a success.

Treasurer Ernie Harlick indicated that the eight-day show was also a financial success and the centennial ledger will be in the black figures when the final accounting has been completed. An auditors statement is expected within the next 10 days or two weeks.

Those people who made up the Centennial organization were: Patrons, Senator W.A. Fraser, Maj. Gen. H.D. Graham, D.S.O., M.C., E.D., A.D.C., A.M., LL.D., D.Litt., AFC, CD., Mayor R.E. Whitley; chairman, O.C. Alyea; vice chairman, Fred Parker; treasurer, E. Harlick; secretary, Miss A. Keating; finance, R. Tervill; accommodations, Mrs. F. Kerr; purchasing agent, E.E. James; legion, W. Colterjohn; Lions, F.J. Aziz; Llason (service clubs) H. Gardiner; Rotary, C.A. F.) Sqdr. Ldr. C. C. Lee; Trades and Labor, R. Tervill; Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. E. D. Finlay; publicity, F. Booter; adviser, Sqdr. Ldr. Roy Bone.

Become Log Rollers

The annual city council meet to discuss serious business tonight.

The last time they got together was last Friday night when Mayor H. E. Whitley and the city councilmen competed in a log sawing contest before swarms of hometown and visiting people.

The contest will go down in history as one of the more outstanding attractions of the Centennial. It was only one of the ways a great chief magistrate and council co-operated with the Centennial committee in the town across.

Incidentally, the mayor, who actually stood up on the log before he tumbled into the water was awarded a prize of $25, sponsored by Finance Chairman Eben James. Other councillors participating were: Cliff Gunter, R. Smithrim, D. McPherson, D. J. MacDonald and Rhen James.

Salvation Army Officers Arrive To Take Posts

TRENTON (Special) — Lieutenant George Richard and Mrs. Richard arrived last Thursday in Trenton to take over the Salvation Army post here, recently vacated by Lieutenant Paul Gardner and Mrs. Gardner, who were transferred to Orillia.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Richard come to Trenton from Lindsay where they have been in charge of Army work there. They are accompanied by their two children and look forward to a happy stay as they work among the people of this community.

The new couple look forward to renewing many acquaintances in the district for the Lieutenant spent nearly two years at No. 6 Repair Depot during the war and following discharge returned to work for Morton-Parker Ltd. for about 16 months.

Bus Service Suspended

Bus service was suspended on Sunday at the close of the Centennial celebration. The operator intended to resume the service during the eight-day festival.

Last week town clerk O. W. Larry sent advertisements to local and out-of-town publications. To date he has had no replies which indicates people in town may be waiting for some time before transportation situation is solved.

Merchants in the outlying district are finding business picking up since residents in the suburbs now find it difficult to get down town to shop.

47 Crew Members Removed From Grounded Vessel

SPUSAN (AP)—U.S. Navy small craft removed 47 crew members from the grounded American freighter Cornhusker Mariner today, leaving only the captain and six men aboard the ultra-modern cargo carrier.

The 14,500-ton freighter, contested last year at a cost of $7,000,000, was slammed by heavy sea into Lighthouse Rock off Busan harbor early today.

Geese Impressionable Says National Geographic Society

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) —Trouble with some silly geese has been diagnosed at last. The poor creatures may think (a) that they are human beings, or (b) that human beings are geese.

The National Geographic has been looking into the goose situation, and its report Monday is surprising indeed.

It seems goslings are so impressionable that the first thing seen or heard by them may be identified forever after as one of their own species.

So if a human being quacks around a day-old gosling, that gosling may go through life convinced he and the human are from the same nest.

This is known as imprinting, and

Stevenson Ends Round-the-World Flight is explained in the National Geographic news release.

Studying bird behavior, the Austrian naturalist, Konrad Lorenz, realized that most birds do not recognize their own species by knowledge, but rather by some definite early contact, it says.

"A newly hatched goose, for example, looks upward when it first sees the light of day. Anything that moves and then draws away in a certain manner will imprint the gosling, be it bird, beast, or human kind.

Fortunately, the first thing seen by most geese is its ma or pa. Otherwise, things would come to a pretty pass.

Once a goose is deluded, it is deluded for keeps. It ignores its own species, and later falls in love with members of the family to which it thinks it belongs.

Prime Minister To Meet Cabinet Before Going West

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberals may meet with the cabinet in another session before heading west into the strongholds of the minority parties.

The cabinet session—first for the prime minister since he dissolved Parliament in mid-June—is billed as a "routine" meeting, but undoubtedly discussions on the election campaign will be prominent.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, considered the strong man in the cabinet in almost certain to take up the issue of Liberal policy on building of the south Saskatchewan irrigation and power project in his home province.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has come out in favor of support for project which a royal commission has turned down as uneconomic. The Liberals have said they were willing to review the situation, but they have not made a firm commitment on construction.

Big Issue

The project, which the royal commission said would cost $250,000,000, is a big issue in Saskatchewan, ruled by a CCF provincial government.

M. J. Coldwell, national CCF party leader, gets most of his strength from that province. He gets back into the national election fight today after a temporary halt following the sudden death of his wife.

Another issue likely to be taken up by the cabinet is plans for increasing federal compensation payments in southwestern Ontario to farmers whose hogs were slaughtered in the June hog cholera epidemic.

Farmers have been complaining the current payment scale is too low. Payments likely will be increased to "market value"—whatever the cabinet considers that to be.

Tea-Day Sweep

Mr. St. Laurent plans to head west tonight for a 10-day sweep of the Prairies and British Columbia by plane and train.

Solon Low, national Social Credit leader, will be in Alberta where the national party gathered most of its strength in the last general election.

Mr. Drew completes a 12-day western campaign Wednesday and they will concentrate on eastern Ontario for a few days before going into Quebec and the Maritimes.

The big issue in the campaign still appears to be the question of tax cuts with Liberals slamming the Progressive Conservatives on their promise to reduce taxes by $500,000,000-a-year if elected.

Free Elections In E. Germany Asked by Unions

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — The two big U.S. labor organizations Monday urgently asked President Eisenhower to call for workers' and four-power talks on free elections in East Germany.

AFL president George Meany and CIO president Walter Reuther, in a joint telegram, also asked the administration to lodge a complaint with the United Nations against the Russian crack-down in East Germany during the June 16-17 uprising.

The telegram from the leaders of 16,000,000 American workers was dispatched after delegates to the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions here heard moving stories from East German delegates of the terror and suppression during the anti-Communist rioting.

The appeal to the 83 countries voted unanimously for ratification by measures to raise moral and material aid to East Germans "victims and refugees from Soviet persecution and tyranny."

The AFL - CIO telegram said: "We ask that our government press for immediate negotiations for free elections in a united Germany, and for the establishment of free political parties and free trade unions, and for the immediate liberation of German workers imprisoned by the Soviet occupation authorities for their resistance on June 17."

Chinese Launch New Assaults After 4-Day Lull

By ROBERT GIBSON

SEOUL (AP) — Chinese troops snapped four days of rainy silence on the Korean battlefront today with attacks against American and South Korean hill positions on the muddied western front.

Infantrymen of the U. S. 7th division wrung grimly to the top of Pork Chop hill after more than 1,000 Communists seized the flanks of the ground in savage hand-to-hand fighting.

Five miles to the southwest another 1,000 Reds smashed against Arrowhead ridge, but the South Koreans held their ground.

Attacking behind a 15,000-round artillery and mortar barrage, the Reds pushed through ankle-deep mud early today and leaped into American trenches on Pork Chop.

Both sides called for reinforcement, after eight hours of heavy fighting, the 7th reported it was holding the outpost's central position.

Reds Repel Reds

The South Korean 2nd division, battered by 5,600 rounds of Red artillery and mortars, threw off the Communist attack after hours of bitter fighting. In the afternoon, the ROKs reported the Reds had withdrawn under enemy fire.

A tapering off of heavy rains that all but grounded allied planes the last three days allowed the 5th air force and marine fighter bombers over front lines.

Twenty F-84 Thunderjets swept strong Red positions in the Kumsong sector in the west, dropping napalm and high explosives.

Night-flying B-26 bombers, aided by two C-47s lighting up the battlelines with flares, bombed Red positions near Pork Chop and Arrowhead. Results of the bombings were not evaluated.

Disperse Attack

Ground action was reported southeast of the Kumhwa-Kumsong road, where Allied guns dispersed a Red attack.

The Korean government estimated that 15,000 persons were temporarily homeless, 2,326 houses flooded, 420 others destroyed, mostly in the provinces southwest of Taegu in southeast Korea, in floods last week end.

Sixteen Koreans were reported dead.

Turkey Makes Most Dramatic Use of U.S. Aid

By PRESTON GROVER

ISTANBUL (AP)—Of all NATO countries, Turkey has made the most dramatic use of American aid to build up military and economic power under the guns of the Soviet Union.

Aside from a fighting force, the outstanding accomplishment has been expansion of a road system such as the area has not had since it was run by the Romans. It now has 18,000 miles of machine-maintained highway compared with not even a tenth of that three years ago.

In addition, its industrial plant, especially agriculture, has increased to such a degree that it has changed from a wheat-importing country to the fourth largest world wheat exporter.

Turkey has a military force of about 250,000 men which is in good fighting condition and high in morale. Of this force, about 20,000 are in the navy and 20,000 in the air force. The balance are land fighters.

Only Cavalry in NATO

Turkey has probably the only cavalry in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Its mounted divisions are deployed right next to the 200-mile-long Russian frontier. This is by far the biggest direct contact NATO has with the Russian Frontier.

The Turks insist that cavalry is best suited to cover the choppy, roadless territory along the frontier.

A group of correspondents from NATO countries visiting Turkey were shown tank, infantry and cavalry units. Their correspondents had been in Turkey during the last war and had seen the army as it did that period. The contrast with today is startling. In those days the Turks had five separate types of rifles, the most modern of which were left over from World War.

Artillery Moves In

Today they have modern rifles, including a good one which they are making themselves. American artillery has been moved in. Czechmyen are equipped with machine-gun rifles and bazookas.

The Turks do not hesitate to name the enemy they are building up to support. They have been fighting cold and hot wars with the Russians for centuries. When they got on a round table conference of visiting correspondents, the opposing forces were labelled Turks and Russians, not "Blues" and "Reds" as is the custom with other NATO countries.

Medalist Honors For Bobby Locke

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—Bobby Locke of South Africa, defending champion, shot a fine 71 on Carnoustie's rain and wind-swept course today to win the top bidder for medalist honors in the British open golf championship while Ben Hogan of Texas shot a 75.

Locke had a five-under-unofficial par 65 Monday on the easier Burnside course and ended the qualifying round with a 136. Hogan, U. S. open champion from Fort Worth Tex., had a 68 Monday on Burnside, and had a qualifying score of 143 as he participates in the championship out.

Far for the longer and tougher championship course is an unofficial 72. It is 7,200 yards, while Burnside is only 6,589 yards.

The 100 low qualifying scorers will play 18 holes on the championship course both Wednesday and Thursday, with the low 50 continuing into the 36-hole final round on Friday.

Junior Jumble

News of Interest to 4-H and Junior Farmer Members in Hastings County

By A. G. DALRYMPLE

It hardly seems possible that another year is past since fairs started, and with this thought in mind we would like to mention the coming fairs in Hastings County at which Junior work will probably be taking part. Belleville Fair, from August 17th to 20th, will be the first fair in the county, and it will be a busy week for Juniors in the county of Hastings. Tuesday, August 18th will be Junior Day with the usual busy program. The girls' program will include judging and demonstrations on foods and gardening, clothing and hospitality, while the 4-H and Junior Farmer section has been changed somewhat this year, to include a short tour of the exhibition with a quiz on what the Juniors have seen as well as the judging competition and agricultural quiz. The Belleville 4-H Calf Club will be in the ring on Wednesday, August 19th, while fifteen members of the South Hastings 4-H Swine Club will exhibit their swine on the 20th. We would remind the Juniors that their entries must be in for the Junior Day by August 8th, if they wish to receive a ticket to the banquet.

Other Fairs

Other fairs at which 4-H Clubs will be exhibiting will include: Moira, September 28th; Madoc, October 7th and Stirling, September 16th., all of which will have the Calf exhibits, while Tweed on September 22rd, and Marmora on September 7th, with Cle Hill on September 9th, will complete the list of fairs. We would remind the 4-H Club members that they should have all of their records up to date and now is the time to train that calf or pair of gilts that you will be showing at the local fair.

We now have on hand a draft copy of the preliminary prize list for the international plowing match. In October 6th there will be a special day open to residents of the counties of Ontario, Peterborough, Victoria, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Durham, and Northumberland. On this day, classes will be open to any person wishing to compete. In brief, there is a class for practically any type of plowing that anyone would wish to do and the prize money is quite attractive.

The county of Hastings County is contributing to this prize money, so we hope that a goodly proportion of it come back to our Juniors in the County. Plans are being made to help coaching days when a member of the Ontario Plowmen's Association will be in the county to give coaching on match plowing. We would suggest that anyone either old or young who is interested in this coaching, drop a line to us at the Ontario Department of Agriculture, Stirling, at once, and we will notify you of when the coaching day or days will take place.

Weddings

MOORMAN—WEST

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, June 27, in Angus United Church, when Gertrude Lenora West, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. S. E. T. West, Angus, Ontario, became the bride of Roscoe Glover Moorman, of Corbyville, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moorman. The Rev. John Glover, uncle of the bride-groom, assisted by the Rev. J. M. Fraser, officiated at the ceremony.

Mrs. Alex. Bass, of Sudbury, sister of the bride, sang "The Lord's Prayer", before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love", during the signing of the register. She was accompanied at the organ by Miss Nelson.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of traditional ivory satin with sweetheart neckline and long sheath-like sleeves ended in lily-point's over the hands. The gracefully full skirt was brought up at each side with lily-of-the-valley sprays. A satin corsnet, studded with pearls, held her floor length veil of embroidered net, and she carried a bouquet of red and white roses, stephanotis and maidenhair fern.

Miss Elaine West, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, was gowned in ivory nylon net with brocaded taffeta bolero and matching taffeta skirt.

Little Miss Joanne Kennedy, niece of the bride, as flower girl, wore a frock of yellow taffeta with matching picture hat. She carried old-fashioned nosegays of pink and yellow roses.

At the reception held in the church assembly room, the ladies of the W.A. served a delightful buffet luncheon. The bride's mother received, wearing printed crepe with matching navy picture sheer redingote and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore Alice blue crepe trimmed with lace with navy and white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. Alex Bass, Sudbury, and Mr. Winston West, of Angus, acted as ushers, while Mr. Richard Ireland, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom.

For the wedding trip to Chautauqua Lake, the bride wore a suit of powder blue with white accessories and corsage of red roses. Mr. and Mrs. Moorman will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Belleville, Toronto, Fisherton, and Sudbury.

SANDERCOCK—CUNNINGHAM

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Taylor Cunningham, Wellington, Ontario, at high noon on Saturday, July 4, when their daughter, Lillian Florence, was united in marriage to Mr. Wellington, became the bride of Donald Sandercock, of Trenton, R.R. 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Alfred Poulter, minister of Wellington United Church. The home was gaily decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers, white wedding bells and lovely spring flowers, delphiniums and roses forming backgrounds for ferns.

Mr. Thomas Fillingham provided the wedding music, and accompanied the soloist, Miss Wilma Cunningham, sister of the bride, who sang, "I'll Walk Beside You."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, entered the living room to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, radiant in her gown of nylon lace, net and satin, featuring a lace bodice with Peter Pan collar, and long molded sleeves pointed over the hands. The full-length skirt of accordion pleated nylon net over satin fell in graceful folds. She wore a fingertip veil of nylon lace and net held by a lace headdress of tiny white roses and Ivy-of-the-valley, and carried a hand bouquet of pink roses, white carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Shirley Cunningham was her sister's attendant, wearing a floor length gown of canary yellow nylon net with a pencil skirt, matching headdress, and carrying a nosegay of matching flowers.

Little Miss Suzanne Cunningham, niece of the bride, was flower girl, and dressed as flower girl, frocked in pale green and carrying a Colonial-style nosegay.

Mr. Robert Sandercock, of Toronto, cousin of the bridegroom, acted as groomsman.

Following the reception, which was held at the bride's home, the bride's mother, attired in navy blue crepe with white accessories, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore pink crepe with white accessories, received the guests. The young couple left for a honeymoon in the Muskoka district. The bride travelled in a navy blue linen suit with white linen accessories and the bridegroom in Trenton, upon their return.

Guests were present from Kingston, Penn, U.S.; Sudbury, Toronto, Belleville and Trenton.

Mead Johnson Holds Enjoyable Picnic

Under a favorable sky Mead Johnson and Company of Canada, Limited, played host to their employees, families and friends at the annual company picnic on Saturday. The setting for this happy affair was at Tweed Memorial Park.

The day's events were set under way at 11.15 a.m. by Claude Bryant, chairman of the picnic committee, who welcomed all those present and trusted they would find reason to enjoy themselves.

Two meals, unlimited soft drinks and ice cream cones were provided for all.

The day's races and contests were well received by the contestants and in many cases provided great amusement for the spectators. One of the happiest groups on the grounds was the kiddies who all received mouthorgans to help fill the air with music.

At the close of the day Mr. D. L. Menzies, vice-president and general manager, thanked and complimented the committee and ground assistants for their efforts. He then presented the prizes to the winners of the numerous events.

Following is a list of events and winners.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

LETTERS AND ANSWERS

She And Her Husband Quarrel Constantly

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been married for three years and a half. For the first year of our married life my husband I got along fine, but ever since then we have quarreled constantly. It seems that no matter how nice I am, or whether I am right or wrong about anything, he always finds something to fuss about. This goes on all the time we are together, even in front of friends, and it hurts me very much.

I have been sick and lost a lot of weight, and the doctor has told me that I have a bad case of nerves and should never quarrel or worry about anything. But when I tell my husband this he just laughs at me and tells me I am feeling sorry for myself.

I loved my husband, but it seems now as though I just don't care to go on living this way, so please try to give me some advice.

R.T.

Dear R.T.:

What you really need is to sit down with some wise person who can help you analyze your situation to find out the underlying causes for the constant quarreling that goes on between you and your husband. Occasional spats, and even quarrels, are perfectly normal in married life, but where the friction is as continuous as yours seems to be, there is trouble somewhere that needs adjusting.

It is impossible to give you any useful advice when I know so little about you and cannot ask you the questions that might help discover the source of trouble. So I advise you to find someone in your town with whom you could go over the whole problem. Perhaps there may be a psychiatrist or marriage counselor whom you might consult. Or you might prefer to talk with your minister, priest or rabbi. Have you explained domestic details to your doctor and given him a chance to make suggestions? If not, do this first, and he may be able to direct you to the person in town who could be most helpful.

It is no wonder that you have a bad case of nerves when you are living in such a state of chaos all the time. But if you can be helped to find out why this is so, there may be a very good chance of straightening it out so that you and your husband can live in peace and harmony.

A Boy Who Should Listen To His Mother

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18-year-old boy, and in love with a girl of 16. We would like to be married, and her parents are willing to give their consent, but mine object. You see, I have already been married once and it broke up after a year, and my parents don't want me to marry again so soon. But I know it is the real thing this time, and I would like to know how I can convince them.

Carl B.H.

The best way to convince your parents that you have acquired more maturity—which is what they are worrying about—is to be willing to wait until both you and this girl are old enough to know your own minds, and to take on the responsibility of marriage. It doesn't sound to me as though you had learned anything from your previous experience.

I can't imagine any sensible parents consenting to the union of a teenage daughter marry you at this point, and I hope the attitude which your own parents are taking may have some influence on her. I strongly advise you to let if influence you, too.

Trifles That Add Up To Important Results

By Mary Moore

It's the little things that inflate the ego of we mousy little housewives who forge ahead every day week in and week out doing our duty without whimpering but hoping eternally for a pat on the back.

Grace, who cannot afford to titles for her chronic gripings, has a garden and offered to sell hot dog salad in September—which she makes by the gallon from her own garden produce—to church members. To this she has sixty-seven orders for one-pint jars at 60 cents each. All proceeds go to the new church building fund. A personal pat on the back from this hand—to Grace, for using what talent she had to such good effect.

I had a lift from my discovery of a new plastic-mesh cleaning pad that washes out perfectly clean under running water. You know how the steel and copper ones "mat" and get ragged and rust on to the little particles of food, no matter how well you rinse them? This plastic pad keeps its shape, I have used mine for two months now and it is still sound and puffed out and sweet-smelling. It doubles for a dishcloth too. It even trims for a carrot and potato scrubber. What's more the kids cottoned to it and our pots and pans shine after every dishwashing.

In this house I have one lunch to pack every day during the summer for Pete. Compare that to the score of readers who has four lunches to pack every day of the year, and I blush.

"Lunch-packer" says she enjoys packing them at night and stowing them in the refrigerator because her family is as thoughtful. They prepare their own breakfasts and leave her snug in her bed for another hour after they leave at 6:30 a.m. Reciprocity there!

She has some good lunch packing tricks to pass on to us: (1) she opens a can of pink salmon—1 pound—pours the liquid from it, removes the bones and mashes the flesh to a bowl with a fork. To it she adds 1-3 cup chopped green pickle, about 3 tablespoons generous mayonnaise, a squeeze of lemon, and a little extra salt. This makes enough for the sandwiches for one day's lunch when she extends it with about 4 tablespoons soft butter. Adding the butter to the filling means you have only one spreading operation. She adds a crisp lettuce leaf to every sandwich. Her family says they do not will when the sandwiches are kept in refrigerator overnight.

(2) Another time she hard boils 2 or 3 eggs, and peels them and puts them through the grinder. To them she adds 1-3 cup mayonnaise, a 1-inch slice butter, some chopped chives from her kitchen garden and extra celery seeds and salt and pepper.

(3) Each lunch gets a banana, or apple, when they are in season, 1 or 2 nourishing cookies of some kind—such as date-oatmeal or brownies or hermits, 1 or 2 whole wheat sandwiches (the men take 2, the girls 1), some carrot strips or radishes or celery hearts or dill pickles, all paper wrapped in a twist of wax paper, and another tweetful of raisins or Spanish peanuts with the skin on. Her folks can buy milk at the plant.

Any tips there that you could adopt? Do you have any lunch-packing tips that you could pass on to us?

Old Worry-Wart Mary finds herself perturbed. There aren't enough young cooks who know how to make homemade soup from leftovers.

For instance, if you had not much but the bone left from your Sunday roast beef what would you do with it? Give it to Rover? or let it be the backbone of a pot of soup? Winter or summer, soup may be made to fit in to your menu pattern.

Homemade Soup

Leave some of the unsliceable bits of meat on the bone from Sunday's beef roast and add 4 cups of water or four cups liquid made up of water and the vegetable waters you have been saving from cooking asparagus, potatoes, peas, carrots, etc. Put that on to boil and add 2 tablespoons each barley and rice; 1-2 cup each chopped celery tops and grated carrot and canned tomato; 1 small onion grated; (and, if on hand, 1 tablespoon each lentils and macaroni alphabets); 1 teaspoon each salt and MSG; 1-4 teaspoon each pepper and celery seeds. Boil gently covered until barley is tender. It requires the longest cooking. Now chill this and skim off layer of fat. Lift out bones. Rebuild and taste. Does it need more salt? If this is to be the one hot dish for lunch or for a cold-plate dinner, sprinkle each bowlful with grated cheese just before serving. Or you want to make it go further, float a slice of dry toast on the brew sprinkling with grated cheese.

When leaving smoothies of fruit or vegetables must be peeled by hand, prevent the finger which directs the paring knife with a piece of adhesive tape.

How To Write Your Bread-And Butter Letter

Dear Mrs. Beechnam:

Your bread-and-butter letter can be, should be, a very charming expression of the You-Who-Went-Visiting . . . of the You who was delightfully aware of the goodness and kindness of your hostess and her family . . . of the You who wants to say gracious and really adequate thanks for services beyond pitality. This letter of appreciation needn't be long . . . but it must be prompt, and it should show that your heart and thoughts are in the right place when it comes to that wonderful Art of Appreciation.

The most helpful suggestion to keep in mind while you are writing this important thank-you letter is: Write from the point of view of your hostess. Put yourself in her place, and consider what you, if you were she, would like to be thanked for. Don't ever take hospitality for granted . . . particularly in these days when food prices have to be what they are and when service either doesn't exist or is limited and skeletyl! Offering hospitality today means extra planning, time, expense and adaptation on the part of all the members of the family. We have to be a pretty nice guest to deserve all this . . . and we should write a good and adequate thank-you note.

Here are five helpful hints to guide you:

1. Make a bow first to the hospitality in general . . . "What a wonderful time I had with you and your dear family, and what perfect ous memories I have to cherish always!"

2. Mention and thank for special plans made for your entertainment and happiness and comfort. Your favorite sports planned for. A tea, luncheon, card party, dinner, given for you; a dance to which you were taken. Beautiful drives, a merry picnic. The lovely guest room assigned to you, perhaps looking on some quiet trees or a garden your hostess knew would bring you needed rest. If you had not much but the bone left from your Sunday roast beef what would you do with it? Give it to Rover? or let it be the backbone of a pot of soup? Winter or summer, soup may be made to fit in to your menu pattern.

3. Include a thank-you to members of the family: "Please tell my dear pal Phil of yours my so-thoughtful host, and to Emily and Jimmy, for their many kindnesses to me."

Don't think that I'm advising you to write about all these things. But I have seen so many bread-and-butter letters that were so stiff in their sparse, sweeping statements that I am trying to draw out from the usual visits two or three details that will check up with your experience to be enthusiastically thanked for.

You have lovely memories of your visit. Thank for the plans and features that made them memorables. And this will make "the memories linger on," not only for you but also for the hostess and the hostess, and her family, in whose home you were a guest.

22 CHILDREN INJURED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco and Oakland police counted 22 children injured, one man half blinded and a Chinese market badly burned by week-end firecracker mishaps. A lighted sparkler, tossed by two boys into a crowded bus, set a $50,000 fire in an Oakland market. It took 35 firemen to stop the flames.

APPEAL FOR FUNDS

Canadian Armored Car Troop Probably Only One in Korea

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)—The Canadian Army has only one armored car troop. Ottawa doesn't even know about it yet!

It's an armored car troop, attached to the newly-arrived "A" squadron of Lord Strathcona's Horse. It's probably the only one in Korea.

"Actually, it was a casualness operation," says Lieut. Pat Carew of Kelowna, B.C., troop commander. It was born of the brigade itself.

The Strathconas provided the men and six units in the brigade provided the armored cars which had been standing unused in vehicle parks more than 18 months.

Command Vehicles

Useful in mobile operations as command vehicles, the eight-ton greyhound "light" armored cars became unfashionable when the war froze to a halt in September, 1951.

Equipped with wireless, they are relatively heavily armed, carrying a 37-millimetre cannon with which is co-axially mounted a .30-calibre Browning machine-gun plus a separately-mounted .50-calibre Browning on the turret. Each of the four crew members carries his personal weapon—either a Sten gun or a pistol—and there is a supply of grenades in the turret.

After getting to know his front, and after studying' lessons of the May 2 battle when an enemy force overran a position of the Royal Canadian Regiment, Brig. Jean Allard decided he wanted a mobile reserve of fire power.

A senior brigade officer said: "The need was for a weapon to bring greater fire power quickly to bear on vulnerable areas and on possible enemy forming up places when they appeared threatened."

The armored cars — scattered among infantry battalions, the engineers, the Strathconas and the ordnance field park—seemed the answer.

So they were rounded up. Much tuning-up had to be done after their 18 months' inactivity, but a crew of Strathcona mechanics under Lieut. W. G. Svab of Montreal of Humboldt, Sask., got them into shape. Svab, an RCEME officer, runs the unit's light aid detachment.

Picked Good Men

Maj. William Ellis, the new Strathconas' squadron commander, "went overboard to pick good men for the troop."

Luckily he had enough for the job.—"Baker" squadron, which returned to Canada earlier in June, left behind a number of men still intelligible for rotation—and Ellis had brought with him an up-to-strength unit.

No special training was needed for the wireless operators, but Carew set up a range in the hills for his gunners, and for a week they practised on their new weapons.

Then the armored cars went into the hills with the tanks of the Strathconas. Security still prevents publication of fuller details of their employment.

Meanwhile rotation is catching up on the unit—which is where Ottawa comes in.

The idea has been given a month's try-out and the results, coupled with a request for authority to use the extra manpower in this way, are being forwarded to Ottawa. Then the brigade would be able to replace men now in the troop as they go home.

It would enable the brigade to get maximum use out of equipment it already has, but the troop would "remain an unusual wrinkle and a purely local one," say officers here.

Canadian Colony Fast Growing Up In New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
Canadian Press Correspondent

TOKOROA, N.Z. (CP)—A Canadian colony is growing up at Tokoroa, fastest-growing town in New Zealand, where Canadians are lumbering, New Zealanders how to handle key jobs in the kraft pulp industry.

Tokoroa, a timber town in the centre of the North Island, owes its existence to the operations of New Zealand Forest Products, huge timber organization which has 178,000 acres of man-made forests in the district.

The company makes wallboard and many other timber products and is now launching out into the paper industry. It has installed big stills for kraft pulp and paper at Tokoroa and they are on the point of beginning production.

Imported Experts

To get the industry under way it has imported experts from several countries to carry out the top jobs and trains staff recruited locally. Workers come from several sawmilling countries, including Australia, Britain and Scandinavia, but the largest number of experts has been recruited in Canada.

The manager of the mill, D. L. Stacey, is New Zealander, spent 12 months examining mill operation at a huge kraft sulphate mill at Port Alberni, B.C., and the assistant mill manager, J. P. Turner, is also a Canadian from the same Vancouver Island works.

Canadians performing key jobs in the mill include Geoffrey C. Norman, J. F. Sanders, W. F. de Boeck, K. E. J. Durocher, A. J. Durocher, E. J. Connerly and W. McLaughlin, all of Nanaimo, B.C.; L. F. Read of Vancouver, W. Bigrigg of Port Alberni and W. Watson of Langley Prairie, B.C.

The contract of the workers is four years, but the company hopes they will stay permanently.

Warm Welcome

It has a novel reception scheme for its workers from abroad. All are provided with houses in the big housing estates it is building at Tokoroa, 144 miles from Auckland. When they reach Auckland by ship or plane they are taken to the big furniture store in the city and select their own furniture from samples on display. The store's branch at Tokoroa moves the furniture into their house, and they arrive to find it ready for occupation, complete with a week's provisions.

The mill at Tokoroa is the first chemical pulp mill to operate in New Zealand.

It is the start of a development which will offer many opportunities to Canadians in the next few years. A vast project for harnessing the government's planted forests in the North Island is under way, with the government, New Zealand industry, and several big American firms taking a share in development.

SENTENCE SUSPENDED

NEW TORONTO (CP) — James Hazelwood, 24, of Gormley was placed on suspended sentence Monday after pleading guilty to stealing $300 worth of tires from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company Limited. Police said that during a two-year period more than $33,000 worth of tires were stolen from the plant.

Inquiry Ordered Into Execution Of Timothy Evans

LONDON (AP)—An investigation was ordered today into the execution of a man who went to the gallows largely on testimony of mass-murderer John Christie.

Home Secretary Sir David Maxwell Fyfe told the House of Commons he has appointed a special counsel to look into the case of Timothy Evans to see if there "may have been any miscarriage of justice."

Evans was hanged in 1950 for murdering his 14-months-old daughter at 10 Billington Place where three years later Christie admitted slaying seven women himself. Christie is scheduled to be hanged July 15.

Christie was the chief prosecution witness against Evans after Evans' pretty young wife and daughter were found strangled in 1949.

Misgivings that an innocent man had been wrongly hanged were raised in the Commons after Christie admitted strangling Mrs. Evans when brought to trial him self two weeks ago.

Christie denied, however, that he killed the Evans child.

Evans was tried only for murdering his daughter.

Home Secretary Sir David rejected demands for a public inquiry into the Evans case but assured the House all the evidence would be examined in private by a special attorney.

Mrs. Roosevelt Critical Of Sen. McCarthy

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declared here today that Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.-Wis.), has done a great deal of harm to my country."

But, she added, "I am speaking as a Democrat, of course."

Mrs. Roosevelt held a press conference before leaving by plane for Belgrade on the next leg of a world tour.

Answering foreign and Greek reporters' questions on McCarthy, chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, Mrs. Roosevelt said:

"You have to feel very free in the United States these days to disagree with him."

She credited him, however, with "perhaps creating something which is essential" — public realization of the danger of communism.

She added: "But he has made the great mass of people blindly afraid . . . He will cast a shadow over anybody . . . People in the United States today are afraid to be different, to disagree with neighbors because of the possible consequences."

Earlier in her tour, in Hong Kong, Mrs. Roosevelt said Mr. Carthy had done more damage to other countries than to the United States.

"Fear makes people do stupid things," she added.

ONCE TAUGHT IN CHATHAM

Social Credit Elects 3 More In B.C. Voting

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Social Credit government, re-elected to office in the marathon British Columbia election, today is assured of holding at least a six-seat majority in the next legislature.

Social Credit elected three more members Monday, bringing its total strength in the 48-seat House to 27 members. It is also leading in the two seats still to be decided. Twenty-five seats are required to form a majority government.

The CCF, which will again form the official Opposition, elected one more member Monday night to bring its strength in the new legislature to 14.

In the last legislature Social Credit, under Premier W. A. C. Bennett, held 28 seats while the CCF had 18.

Minister Elected

Health Minister Eric Martin and Bert Price were elected for Social Credit in Vancouver North at the end of the fifth count under B.C.'s alternative voting system. Both seats were unchanged.

In Vancouver-Point Grey Tom Bate was elected, retaining the seat from the Progressive Conservatives.

The CCF member elected was Arthur Turner, who held his seat in Vancouver East.

The two seats still in doubt are in Vancouver-Point Grey where Social Credit candidates are leading on the B and C ballots.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner has a substantial lead over Liberal and CCF candidates, and Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston has a slim lead over Liberal leader Art Laing.

The latest standings—Elected: Social Credit 27; Liberal 1; Progressive Conservative 1; Labor 1. Leading: Social Credit 2.

Legend of How Silver Discovered Is Debunked

COBALT (CP)—The legend of how silver was discovered here in 1930 was debunked Monday during Cobalt's 30th anniversary celebrations.

Modeste Larose, 81, brother of Fred Larose, who has been credited with discovering silver by throwing a hammer at a fox and missing the animal, said the tale has persisted long enough.

He said it was an accident that Fred, who died at Bull, Que., 12 years ago, discovered silver. He had been prospecting for it.

He and Fred were working on the Timiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway in the autumn of 1903 when Fred made the find near a smithy he had set up at the east end of Cobalt Lake.

Modeste lived at Cobalt for 30 years. For the last 20 years he has lived at Kirkland Lake.

About 1,000 visitors joined with residents Monday to watch a 1½-mile parade through the town.

Move May Be Made to Recall UN Assembly

By JOHN HEFFERNAN

NEW YORK (Reuters)—A move may be made this week toward recalling the United Nations general assembly to consider the Korean situation in the light of President Syngman Rhee's refusal to agree to a truce.

The statement made in the British House of Commons today by R. A. Butler, acting prime minister, that Britain favors recalling the UN general assembly into session if Rhee rejects terms of a Korean truce, reflected an opinion generally held in the United Nations. Most delegates have been in agreement that the United States' negotiators in Seoul should be given every chance of reaching a settlement with Rhee.

But there is a growing feeling in UN circles that the present position can not be allowed to drift much longer.

Supposed to be Patient

Some quarters feel the first step towards bringing the assembly back should have been taken last week. But in view of the energetic efforts being made in Seoul by Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's envoy, to find a common ground with Rhee, there was a disposition to be patient.

That was why delegates did not at once act to back up the suggestion of Prime Minister Nehru of India, made about 12 days ago, that there should be an early meeting of the general assembly.

Unless there is a marked change in the situation in Seoul within the next day or so qualified observers expect the demands for a general assembly meeting to increase.

$100,000 Pier Fire

Czech Government Has Decided To Annul Decree

VIENNA (AP)—Prague radio announced today that the Czechoslovak government has decided to annul a decree that made it a criminal offence for workers to stay away from their jobs without good reason.

The law had been enacted because of widespread absenteeism following riots and disturbances in the country last month.

The annulment made Czechoslovakia the fifth East European Soviet satellite to modify its policy on the handling of its restless workers.

East Germany and Hungary have announced a slowdown of agricultural collectivization, less police terror and a return to some degree of private enterprise.

Roumania has dipped into food reserves and announced new increases in food rations. Albania late in June wrote off charges against peasants who failed to fill their quotas of grain, rice, wool and meat in the 1948-52 period.

Time to Take Steps

Only Poland and Bulgaria have yet to take steps to counter the public unrest which has erupted in open rebellion in East Germany and Czechoslovakia, and has produced rumors of similar unrest in the other Red-ruled countries.

The Prague broadcast said the Communist cabinet abolished the law against absentee workers Monday after the central committee of the Czech Trade Union Federation declared the law was "unnecessary" and said it would take over responsibility for ending absenteeism.

Under the decree, workers who stayed away from their jobs four times received terms in forced labor camps.

$4,000 BANK HOLDUP

MONTREAL (CP)—A 28-year-old gunman Monday held up the University-St. Catherine street branch of the Bank of Montreal and made off with $4,000. Moments later he was trapped at gun-point by a traffic policeman in the Canadian National Railways Central Station a few bucks away. He was not immediately identified.

Member Nominated

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Charles Coyle was nominated Monday night by the Progressive Conservative party to seek re-election for Elgin in the forthcoming federal election. Mr. Coyle, member for Elgin since 1945, got the nod over Thomas Carrah, St. Thomas mayor.

Party reforms promised by the Progressive Conservative party would cut by "at least 14 per cent" the cost of essential items such as food and cloth, John G. Diefenbaker, MP for the old Saskatchewan riding of Lake Centre, told the meeting.

BACK TO PENITENTIARY

COBOURG (CP)—Donald Brown, 24, of Castleton, released a few months ago from Kingston penitentiary, was sent back Monday for three years after being convicted on three counts. Arrested last week in Cookville, his offences included stealing a calf in Brighton township theft of gasoline at Brighton and breaking and entering in the Niagara district.

Two Men Killed

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Glen Jordon, aged 33, of RR 3, Chatham and Wilfred J. Roesch, aged 32, RR 4, Chatham, were almost instantly killed on the third concession of Harwich township, just east of here, Monday night when their car was crashed into a parked truck.

The two were dead on arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital, Chatham. An occupant of the truck escaped injury.

Drew Holding Press Conferences During Campaign

By ALLAN DONNELLY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Regular press conferences have developed in the election campaign of Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader.

In six days last week Mr. Drew held five—in Victoria, Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton and Saskatoon—to answer questions on a wide variety of topics. He held one Monday at Fort William.

Such conferences have occurred only intermittently in the course of Canadian election tours.

Mr. Drew said the conferences last week had been arranged by local party organizations, partly to permit local press coverage in advance of his platform appearances which are usually in the evening.

On this basis, there was no indication that conferences will be continued for the rest of the campaign, but Mr. Drew said he thought future conferences were "quite possible."

Such meetings to date, with the four newspaper men travelling on the election tour and perhaps a half-dozen local newspaper and radio reporters, have been informal. Mr. Drew replies fully to most questions dealing with general topics. These have included his party's program on tax savings, housing and reallocation of federal-provincial taxing fields, the proposed national agricultural board for farm prices, the party's defence plan for a law defining and outlawing Communist activities.

He parries some questions, including the usual query on his party's chances of forming a government after the Aug. 10 election.

Critical of Housing

MONTREAL (CP) — Subsidized housing was criticized Monday by Canadian builders.

Management committees of both the National House Builders Association and the Quebec - Home Builders Association, meeting here jointly, urged Canada's next government to put prospective house owners at the top of its list and provide increased mortgage facilities and lower down payments on national housing administration loans.

Gordon S. Shipp of Toronto, national president, said prospective home owners should be given priority in any housing policy, followed by people who could afford to pay economic rents.

Writ Is Served

OTTAWA (CP)—Daniel Nerenberg, Labor-Progressive party candidate for Ottawa West in the forthcoming federal election, launched a breach-of-contract suit Monday against the Ottawa transportation commission.

Mr. Nerenberg is seeking $10,000 damages, claiming the OTC refused to carry out an alleged agreement with him to display 120 posters on streetcars July 4, 6 and 7 announcing an LPP rally.

A writ issued in the Ontario Supreme Court was served on D. N. Gill, OTC general manager.

OK 4 LIQUOR LICENCES

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario liquor licence board announced Monday approval of four new licences in Medora township, Perth; Cumberland township and Windsor. The Northernaire hotel in Madora was granted dining room and public house licences; the Link Tay Tay Golf and Country Club in Perth was granted a restricted club licence; the Edgewater Hote, Cumberland township, was granted a dining room licence; and the Skyline Club in Windsor was given a club licence.

THE GREEKS HAVE A WORD FOR IT

. . . We mean the magic word that tells a mule to get going. It probably worked better than usual, recently, when Greek mule-drivers had to transport into the isolated interior, roofing materials needed for the construction of refugee shelters. The government purchased 2,000 tons of aluminum for the purpose — and incidentally licked the transportation problem.

Another nice thing about aluminum's lightness is that a given poundage goes two to three times as far as with other metals. It often means that aluminum, with all its advantages, actually costs less, too. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Hapless St. Louis Browns Equal All-Time Rec ord For Losing Streak

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARTER, Sports Editor

Yukon Eric, the barrel that walks like a man, who toothed on eight-inch legs in his native Alaska, or was it Dawson City, will displace several hundred cubic feet of air here Friday night. The "Yuke" makes his 1953 debut here on that evening when he pits his tremendous strength against the speed, agility and ringcraft of popular Don Jonathan, the giant from the salt flats of Utah.

Jonathan is perhaps one of the most popular of the younger set of Pachydermia, and is a tremendous favorite with the faithful hereabouts. Just how he will stack up against the bone-crushing tactics of the Scourge of the Alaskan Wastes will be seen Friday evening.

"The Yuke" since his last appearance here has been given word of one of his ears. His new stents abused the ring with a slight list to starboard on account of loss wind resistance on the port side. It all happened in a bout with "Killer" Kowalski, who gets real angry when they take away his popsicles as did Yukon on that fateful night in Montreal. The "Killer," it seems, has a favorite hold, an anaesthetic, in which he leaps in the air over the prostrate carcass of the foeman and descends with terrific force on the ears.

On this occasion the Yukon ear met in the path of the pile-driver knee of the "Killer" and it parted company with Eric's negrin' before he could kiss it good-bye. "Yuke" was laid up for some time while the doc covered up the hole in his head, but he is all right now, although he looks a mite lopsided.

The Yuke has a magnificent body with a chest possessed of numbing crushing power. The story is told that when a younger sir, somebody pulled the old gag, "Open the window till I throws like chest out." They did. He did. And the whole side of the log shanty caved out. You can take that one for what it is worth.

What should be a humdinger of a semi-final is that between the popular Bobo Brazil, the "conk-boner", and Man Mountain Dean, Jr. The preliminary set has Don Fetches and Ilio DiPaolo, the handsome Italian, swop bunny-hugs.

HIT STRIDE!

Regent's juniors, fresh from their defeat of the Bloomfield - Wellington Silver Ribbons, travel to the Trenton Flyers' diamond ballwick this evening where they take on the fly-boys in a scheduled game at 8.30. Manager Byrnon Reid and Coach "Red" Carson were pleased over the week-end over the youngsters' last 19 innings' victory over the loop-leading Ribbons. Both Carson and Reid have held faith in the kids all season, and foresee they would come up with a victory over the Flyers tonight.

At that the kidlets nearly threw it away, once on an error —twice on errors of omission—and on another occasion a Ribbon run scored when Davey Jones slipped and fell as he was about to pick a Ribbon fly out of the air.

The victory, however, gave the Regents plenty of confidence and they feel they can make it two in a row at the expense of the Flyers this evening.

PRETTY SCENE!

While-winged yachts breasting a rippling sun-glinted surface against a shoreline of varying greens made a handsome nautical picture off George Graham's dock on Sunday afternoon. Large craft, small craft, dinghies and sailboats combined to give a real "yachting" touch before the regular club race of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club got under way at three o'clock.

Heeling slightly to a fair breeze the larger boats of the squadron veered off on the first leg, stretching out against the far shoreline as marginal distances began to vary. It was a pretty sight!

The new edition of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club has skipped the toddling stage and is merging gradually into a full-fledged organization. It is next to amazing what club members have accomplished since a few at the start of the season decided to take time by the forelock and acquire the ramshackle buildings in Victoria Park that have since been converted into an attractive clubhouse.

Membership in the club is increasing and the yachtsmen are planning exciting boats not only to members and guests at monthly fiestas, but to visiting yachtsmen from both side of the border. Already the hospitality and facilities of the club and the Wilbe Marina is in circulation along the Lake Ontario shoreline on both sides of the "crick."

And the squadron itself is gradually attaining man-size proportions. Many additions were made to the squadron this year, including four of the Y Flyer type of sleep-rigged smallcraft; the two kirkcads and Morley Smith's "Jet the Quiste," the "Ken-Bar III". Recent additions are the "Rutish II", owned by Jim Jenkins and a boat acquired by Bill Argue.

Drop Nineteenth Straight To Clawless Detroit Tigers; Yanks Take Two; 'Bums' Win

By BEN PRIESTLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

St. Louis Browns may be losing themselves right out of a new home, at last they're doing a thorough job of losing in their old one.

Going into tonight's game with the American League pennant-sparkling Cleveland Indians, the hapless Browns are all even with the major league record for consecutive defeats in their own park.

They dropped No. 19 Monday night, an 11-inning 4-3 affair with Detroit Tigers. Only the Boston Red Sox of 1965 lost that many games in a row at home. The Browns' last victory in St. Louis was June 2 when they beat Washington in the first game of their previous home stand.

Such a distressing record might well chill the enthusiasm of the several major league cities which have been seeking the Brownie franchise. Denver Bill Veeck tried and failed to move to Baltimore in March. He said Monday night he does not plan to revive the proposal at the American League meeting next Monday.

Near Collar

Before the season opened Veeck said he'd have to draw at least 750,000 fans to meet expenses. In 40 games only 193,929 have shown up. Baltimore is the only city Ray Bohne hit a home run in the 11th to break up Washington in the contest.

The Browns now have equalled the major league percentage points of the American league collar on which Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics had a more or less full-season lease.

The Indians regained second place by defeating Chicago 6-3, but lost half a game on the second-place Yanks in the front-running New York Yankees, who took both games of a Philadelphia 10-5 and 5-3. The Tribe trails by 6½ and the White Sox by seven. Boston settled into fourth hold on a first division berth, edging Washington 4-3.

In the National League, Brooklyn Dodgers rebounded from their 20-6 licking at the hands of New York Giants to smother the harmless Cincinnati Pirates 14-2. They gained ground on all of their close rivals except the second-place Milwaukee Braves and third-place St. Louis Cardinals were idle and Brooklyn's Duke Snider connected 6-0 to the two-bit major league debut of the Giants' Allan Worthington.

Chicago Cubs came from behind to nip Cincinnati 7-6, despite Ted Kluszewski's 25th home run the Redlegs.

Lead By Two

Brooklyn leads Milwaukee by two games and the Cardinals by 3½.

Mickey Mantle, sidelined with a bad leg and ordered by doctors to rest at least another week, showed up as a pinch hitter for the Yankees and hit a grand-slam home run in the first game. Allie Reynolds, who went back to the bullpen after another failure Sunday as a starter, came to Vic Raschi's rescue in the second game and received credit for his seventh victory.

Al Brazle and Dale Mitchell led a 13-hit Cleveland attack. Rosen hit his 21st home run and Mitchell collected a double and two singles in running his hitting streak to 16 games.

Ivan Delock, back with the Red Sox after a stretch in the minors, scattered seven Washington hits in his first major league start of the season but it took a pinch hit single in the ninth by Ted Lepcio to beat southpaw Tommy Byrne.

Tigers Defeat Fergus Thistles

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton Tigers Monday night defeated Fergus Thistles 10-6 in the first intermediate lacrosse game, using the new and smaller goal, to be played in Eastern Canada.

Tigers now are within four games of the first-place Thistles in the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association.

Hamilton was sparked by three players acquired when Brampton Excelsiors folded last week. Jack Dixon and Jack Simpson and Chuck Simpson and Jack Sibbald were the others. Other Hamilton scorers were Chub Brown, Jack Dorney and Bill Ranjon.

Fergus goals were notched by Ken Hill with two, and Bob Dobbi, Stan Abbot, Don Campbell and Ron Landoni.

TWO BLOCKS DESTROYED

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Fires raged in two small Swedish towns today causing damage estimated at about eight million crowns ($1,600,000). Two blocks were destroyed in the central part of Ljungby, a small town in the southern district of Smaland. The other fire occurred at the west coast town of Lysekil, where eight buildings were destroyed.

Red Schoendienst, Geo. Kell, Head Major Hitters

NEW YORK (AP)—Veteran infielder Red Schoendienst of St. Louis Cardinals and George Kell of Boston Red Sox are threatening to run away with the major league batting races.

Schoendienst holds a 23-point advantage over his nearest National League competitors, Frankie Baumholtz of the Cubs and Jackie Robinson of the Dodgers. Kell boasts a 14-point lead over Pete Suder of the A's in the American League.

Schoendienst tops the National loop with a .351 average and Baumholtz and Robinson are tied for second with .328 each. Kell leads the junior circuit with a .342 mark, while Suder is runnerup at .328. Figures include Sunday's games.

In retaining his front-running position Schoendienst gained seven points during the week as he went 13-for-31.

Eddie Mathews of Milwaukee is tied for the National League lead in both home runs and runs batted in. Mathews and Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski share home run honors with 25 apiece and Mathews, Redleg, Gus Bell, is deadlocked with Brooks Everett Youngster in RBIs with 68 each.

Grid Boxer Wins Third

WELLAND (CP)—Bob O'Rec of Toronto, 1952 all-star lineman with the Balmy Beach Football Club now pro boxer, knocked out Jack Bunyan of Syracuse, N.Y., on Monday night in the first round of a feature bout at Welland's amateur bout for his third consecutive knock-out victory. O'Rec, weighing 185 pounds, took only 57 seconds to dispose of Bunyan, who weighed 180 pounds.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN
by Elmer Ferguson

The greatest tennis player of all time, in the opinion of many enthusiasts, has passed with the death of a man whose late years were unfortunately shadowed. Whether Big Bill Tilden was the greatest, as many claim, will always be a point of contention, as all comparisons must be, but there is no question he was the greatest showman of all the tennis stars.

Tilden was a flamboyant swaggering figure in sport's Big Six of the golden Era of Sport, the Roaring Twenties. Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Babe Ruth, Red Grange, Walter Hagen and Tilden were figures such as are most likely to grace the sport scene again certainly not at one time.

And none was a greater showman than Tilden. Even in the most important circumstances he could not resist showmanship. He seemed to see if he could give the other fellow handicap and still beat him.

Perhaps the most conspicuous instance in which this sheer gamble came to the surface was when Tilden was playing a Davis Cup match with the Japanese team member Shimidzu—a fine player too.

Tilden, apparently through deliberate design, in the opinion of experts who saw the match, allowed "Shimmy" to win the first two sets and he got within match point of the third set before turning on the heat

Then he began firing in canneonading fashion, and "Shimmy" had that third set and the next two games defeated in a match that had seemed already won. The set scores were 5-7, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.

Tilden did the same thing in another Davis Cup match, but this time it was done in a fit of pique. That was in 1923 and the Australian team was the challenging group. The matches were played at Forest Hills.

John B. Hawkes and James O. Anderson were the Australian aces. In a singles match, after winning the first set, Tilden made a petulant gesture, flung the racquet he carried close to the base line. The lineman called it "in". This point won him the set.

The crowd booed the lineman's decision. That irked the sensitive Tilden. But his anger took a peculiar twist. Instead of turning in and endeavoring to beat the Australian quickly, he deliberately threw the next set to his opponent, 6-1. It was his way of responding to the crowd's booing. He deliberately handicapped himself in order to show his contempt for the crowd and perhaps for his opponent.

Then he cut loose. He powered in everything he had. He won the fourth set and the match in decisive fashion.

A great showman, a tremendous tennis player, he made America tennis-conscious in the '20's, when the game was far less popular than it is now. That he could create stimulation in such an era, when sportdom was populated by giants, speaks highly of his qualities.

Bisons Thump Springfield As Montreal Loses

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The rampaging Buffalo Bisons are in hot pursuit of the league-leading Montreal Royals in the International League.

The Bisons thumped the lowly Springfield Cubs 5-3 Monday night while the Royals were turned back out of the Maple Leaf City last month 4-3 by the Buffalo to 1½ games back of the leaders.

The Bisons scored the winning and insurance runs in the seventh and eighth innings to hand the last-place Cubs their 12th straight defeat.

Joe Harris was the winner. He pitched until the ninth inning, allowing only five hits, when he had to call on Don Coppage to help him out of a jam. Coppage then went the route for the Cubs, yielding but a safe blow.

Syracuse's Johnny Murphy covered a Chiefs' rally at Syracuse to beat Montreal with a grand-slam homer, Syracuse outhit the Royals 8-6.

Starter Johnny Griffore was credited with his seventh victory against five setbacks.

Two other games, Toronto at Baltimore and Ottawa at Rochester were postponed because of rain and wet grounds respectively.

Walls May Fight Rocky Marciano

EDMONTON (CP)—The Journal said Monday in a Los Angeles dispatch that Henry Armstrong is trying to arrange a match between Rocky Marciano, world heavyweight champion, and Earl Walls, Canadian titleholder, in Los Angeles next November or December.

Walls, from Windsor, Ont., now fighting out of Kansas City, knocked out Rex Layne of Salt City in 63 seconds here last Friday.

Former holder of the world's featherweight, lightweight and welterweight titles, Armstrong has asked Vic Tanzey, millionaire sportsman, to include Walls' name among possible opponents for Marciano in Armstrong's "Boy Town Camp" show, the story said.

'Oncle Jonkel' Names Stadium

MONTREAL (CP) — Vern DeGeer, sports director of the Gazette, said today in his column "Good Morning," that "Armstrong Memorial Stadium" would be an appropriate name for the new $500,000 sports stadium under construction in Winnipeg.

He said the late Eddie Armstrong, former sports editor of the Winnipeg Free Press, played a major role in organizing the first Grey Cup football final.

A native of Saskatoon, DeGeer said he "hopes Winnipeggers don't come up with something like 'Civic Stadium' when the contributions of a fine disciple of sport like Eddie Armstrong are so well remembered by so many of us."

Armstrong died in 1950.

Home-Brews Give Notice in Practice They Are Threat in Canadian Open

TORONTO (CP)—The word is out around the Scarboro clubhouse today to keep an eye on the home-bred pros in the 72-hole Canadian Open golf championship this week.

This is the time, some observers believe, that a Canadian has a good chance of leading home the 183-man field.

Canadians have given notice in practice rounds on the par 71 layout that they may be able to hold their own against the big American entry list.

Eddie Western Canada pro made their initial appearance on the $4,000-purse Monday and their cards raised a few eyebrows among the clubhouse crowd. All came in with nine-par rounds, led by Saskatoon's Pat Fletcher who scored a sizzling 66, just one stroke off the competitive course record.

Henry Ransil of Edmonton, who nudged Fletcher at the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champion on Sunday, took a 67, and the long-driving Stan Leonard of Vancouver had a 68. Phil Farley of Toronto, one of the country's leading amateurs, also had a 68.

Will Beat Par

There's no doubt that par will take a beating when play starts in earnest Wednesday for the $3,000 first-place money and the Seagram

Gold Cup. The pros and amateurs have been cracking perfect figures the last few days.

Ralph Robinson, professional from Los Angeles who was just another name to spectators, also shot a 68 Monday while better-known golfers made the course look easy in abbreviated rounds. Even though the Arkansas traveller who won the Open four years ago, was under after 11 holes before packing up in a morning rain, Ben Inman of Tulsa, Okla., considered a dark horse, was five under for seven holes when he called it a day.

Defending champion Jimmy Palmer of Badin, N.C., probably just a little shaky from his off-color showing in the U. S. PGA tournament at Birmingham, Mich., last week carded even par, finishing below the Open record with a sensational 282 at Winnipeg last year.

Jim Ferrier from San Francisco, a two-time winner, worked out with a one-over-par 72, but he still is considered a dangerous threat to make it three titles in four years.

The top-heavy field will be reduced Thursday to the low 100 and ties after 36 holes and all ties of 54 holes it will be further reduced to the low 60 and ties.

Bobby Locke Has Something to Say About British Open Golf Tourney

By STERLING SLAPPEY.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—Bobby Locke, Johannesburg duPlessis and Ben Hogan were the big show Monday in the opening qualifying round of the British open golf tournament over two windswept Carnoustie courses.

Locke, the defending champion from South Africa, set a course record of Sunderland with a 65. Hogan tired a 70—one under the unofficial par—on the same links. On the tougher championship course, Panton came in with a 75-34—39, best ever recorded in official competition at Carnoustie.

The championship course is 7,200 yards with an unofficial par 72, while Burnside is 6,296 yards with an unofficial par 71.

After today's second qualifying round with three players switching courses, the field is cut to the low 700 for the tournament proper starting Wednesday on the championship course. There will be 36 holes Wednesday and Thursday, and the field will be cut to 80 for the 36-hole finale on Friday.

Hogan, U.S. open champion playing for the British Open for the first time, was two under par for the first nine. He didn't fare so well on the incoming nine, taking a 36.

Locke, out in 33, got a red hot 32 coming in. Magnificent putting and fine chipping were the South African's best weapons.

Other low scorers on the Burnside course included Max Faulkner of Britain, 34-34—68; Flory van Donck, Belgium, 34-36—70; Harry Bradshaw, Britain, 34-36—70, John Anderson, Britain, 36-35—71, and Dai Rees, Wales, 35-35—70.

Golf Colleens Trim Canadians

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (Reuters)—Ireland defeated Canada's women's golf team seven to two Monday, with one draw, in an international match here.

The new British champion, Marlene Stewart of Toronto, continued her brilliant career the first nine holes to be cut to 36 and three up—but was pressed out by Joan Lester, head of play by Irish champion Philomena Garvey.

Two weeks ago, Miss Stewart beat Miss Garvey seven and six in the British championship final.

Other results: Mrs. R. McCann defeated Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria, one up; Miss M. G. Smyth defeated Barbara Davies of Victoria, five and four; Miss P. O'Sullivan defeated Dainty Chisholm of Montreal, seven and six; Miss D. Forster defeated Mrs. Graeme Tyrer of Montreal, five and four.

Mrs. J. R. Beck and Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, the Canadian captain, drew; Mary Gay of Waterloo, Ont., defeated Mrs. J. Fallon, one and seven.

Foursomes: Miss Garvey and Miss Forster lost to Miss Stewart and Miss Chisholm, down; Mrs. McCann and Miss Smyth defeated Mrs. Tyrer and Miss Lester, two up; Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Fallon beat Mrs. Todd and Miss Gay, one up.

British Cricket

LONDON (Reuters)—The Australian cricketers gained an easy victory over Northamptonshire, only unbeaten team in the county championship, on the losers' home ground Monday.

The Australians won by an innings and 62 runs. Northamptonshire's batting was unusually weak. They scored 141 in their first innings and 136 in their second.

Close of play scores in first class matches:

Australians 323, Northamptonshire 141 and 136. Australians won by an innings and 62 runs.

Oxford University 313 and 161 for five, Cambridge University 191.

Leicestershire 308 for eight declared, Sussex 60 for two. Rain restricted play.

Yorkshire 137 and 138 for six, Surrey 282.

Nottinghamshire 344 fr six declared, Derbyshire 125 and 151 for five.

Somerset 188 and 90 for two, Hampshire 360 for five declared.

Middlesex 300 and 204 for five declared, Warwickshire 172 and 26 for one.

Gloucestershire 381 for six declared, Worcestshire 324 for two.

Glamorgan 154 and 109, Lancashire 258.

Sport in Brief

BLACKWELL QUITS

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ewell Blackwell's attempted baseball comeback ended in failure Monday when the New York Yankees' towering righthander went into voluntary retirement.

Blackwell, whose sizzling offerings earned him a record of nine consecutive no-hitters by the batty whip," left the Yanks for at least temporarily because of his health problems.

Blackwell, just decided it hurt too much when he tried to throw hard," said Yankee manager Casey Stengel. "He hopes a long rest will solve his problem."

The 30-year-old Blackwell's quiet fadeout was a far cry from his heyday with Cincinnati. Ewell was the base of National League batters when he racked up 22 victories in 1947 out of a Cincinnati ball club that finished fifth with a total of 73 wins.

The lanky hurler was hampered by a sore arm all this season. He was acquired by the Yankees last August after being waived out of the National League. Blackwell contributed only one victory in five Yankee appearances in 1952.

He said he would rest at Tampa, Fla. until next spring and then try once more with the Yanks.

TO COACH ORFUNS AGAIN

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Tony Kolowski has signed for another year as coach of the Peterborough Orfuns, Canadian intermediate football finalists last year. The Orfuns defeated Hamilton for the OHFU title, ousted Montreal in the Eastern Canada finals and lost to Winnipeg in the final.

READY TO COACH COUGARS

VICTORIA (CP) — Billy Reay, former centre with Montreal Canadiens of the National League, has signed a two-year contract to coach Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League, Fred Hutchinson, Cougar's general manager, Monday confirmed earlier reports that Reay had been hired. Reay succeeds Ed Dorobuy.

EZINICKI WINS ON LINKS

WINTHROP, Mass. (AP)—Hockey player Bill Ezinicki teamed with Ernie Doherty of Woburn to win the New England Professional Golfers Association pro-amateur tournament Monday with a low foursome of 61. Ezinicki, a forward for Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League in the winter, is a summertime golf pro at Colonial Golf Club in Lynnfield.

CHESS TEAM TO U.S.

LONDON (AP) — A formidable team of Russian chess masters—complete with a trainer — left the Soviet capital for the United States, Moscow radio reported Monday. World champion Mikhail Botvinnik heads the team invited to play in a tournament which begins in New York July 15. They will meet a team which includes the two top players in the U.S., Samuel Reshevsky and Reuben Fine.

STOOPE—OOPS!

NORTHAMPTON, England (AP) —The touring Australian cricket team ran into a "casualty" in a match with the Northampton Monday and it was good for a laugh for the crowd of 10,000. Doug Ring, crack bowler for the Aussies, split the seat of his pants when he bent down to snap up a low catch. The match was held up while the sheepish Ring ran off the field for "first aid."

All-Stars Defeat Kitchener Panthers In Annual Game

KITCHENER (CP)—A team of All-Stars Monday night defeated Kitchener Panthers, leaders of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League, in the loop's annual all-star game.

One-armed Pete Gray of Guelph Maple Leafs saved the Stars twice, in the seventh he beat Kew Lee's fly with room on second and third and one away and threw to the plate to nail Harry Pavlin trying to score. In the 10th, he came through with a single with the bases loaded to drive home the All-Stars' first two runs.

Mel Duncan, the league's top pitcher, went all the way for the Panthers. He had the Stars to eight hits and they bunched more than one only in the last inning. British Lovely, Oshawa outfielder for the Stars, and Gray had two hits each.

The winning runs came when Kew Lee, second in the 10th by doubling down the third-base line. Harry Musselman sacrificed him to third. Duncan walked Waterous. Billy Flick to set up a double play, then gave intentional walk to Guelph's Eddie Napier to fill the bases.

With the infield right for a pop fly play at home, Gray let one over the first baseman's head into right, scoring Lee and Duncan. Bill Welker made a wide throw-in, a third came home.

The stars used four pitchers. But Rippelmeyer of Oshawa, Bob Feeny of Lindsay and Ed Dracpho of Guelph went three innings each. Bill Spasak of Preston pitched one. Drapcho was the winner.

The All-Stars were managed by sports writers Lorne Brain of the Galt Reporter and Rex MacLeod of the Guelph Mercury.

Close Play In Golf Tourney

Close play featured the sweepstakes golf tourney held at the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club on Sunday.

T. A. Carruthers carded a low net of 38 to take the honors with Murray Middlehall and Art Bridge both 40's for second spot.

Ralph Ketcheson had a 32 for the low gross with Scotty Reid, Bob Murphy and Bill Oliver, carding 34's. Ted with 35's were Jack Todd, Bill Holway and John Rywerk.

The high score for nine holes went to Ted Warwick with a 67.

The Clare B. Morgan Bridge draw for handicappers from 18 to 22 is now made out and is posted on the club bulletin board. The low man should contact top bracket players to arrange for matches.

Art Bridge In Golf Finals

Playing masterful golf in the second nine holes Art Bridge edged veteran Val Smith one up to reach the final bracket in the Bay of Quinte Country Club men's championship series.

Bridge meets T. A. Carruthers in a 36-hole match for the club title.

Two holes down on the first nine, Bridge narrowed the margin to one at the fourteenth hole. The pair halved the fifteenth and Bridge made it all square at sixteenth hole. The next hole was halved and Bridge came through at the eighteen to win the match one up.

The championship round starts at nine o'clock Sunday morning.

'Brook' Ripples Through Rain To Victory

TORONTO (CP) — The trotters and pacers moved through a thunderstorm cloudburst at Thorncliffe Raceway Monday but the going made no difference to a four-year-old mare named Amelia Brook.

Driven by Hugh McLean and owned by Mrs. Amelia Vincent of Oshawa, Amelia Brook won the $1,000 Orangeville Pace, feature attraction.

Before the rain, Amelia Brook ran second to the favorite, High Boy, in the sixth race, fired head of the pace, and then came back after the cloudburst on a muddy track to capture the ninth race, the second heat.

PLAYER SWITCH

KITCHENER (CP) —Kitc ener Panthers have released left-fielder Jack Kinney and will bring Sherby Miller back off the reserve list to replace him, Don Gallinger, manager of the Senior Intercounty Baseball League team, announced on Monday.

Kinney has been having trouble with his hitting and his current average is around .200. He will probably play catcher Ross Doherty in left field for a time, but won't be available for another three games as he has to be on the reserve list for four games before he can be brought back.

A'S SELL PITCHER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Athletics Monday sold southpaw Dick Rozek to their Ottawa farm club in the International League. They also recalled Outfielder Neal Watlington from Ottawa, Ivarsan catcher Joe Astroth suffered a broken thumb in a week-end game.

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—A pair of tenacious young battlers of the links, Walter Burkemo and Felice Torza, rang up last-ditch semi-final victories Monday, and they'll play for the 35th United States PGA golf championship.

Burkemo, of Franklin, Mich., fought from behind three times to eliminate Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N.Y., one up. He sank a 15-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

Torza outlasted a magnificent comeback by 45-year-old Jack Isaacs of the Langley air base in Newport News, Va., on the 39th hole.

Because IT HAS NO TUBE
Act now to prevent this!
It may save your life...
The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire gives you maximum protection against the blowouts that cause most accidents, that frequently result in serious injury, and death.
It can save you trouble...
The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire seals punctures on running wheels... protects against the annoying trouble caused by flat tires.
It will save you money...
The B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tire provides greater safety than any tire and tube, yet it costs less than the conventional safety tire-tube combination.
Accidents like the one above can happen when blowouts occur—that's why you owe it to yourself to find out about the safer protection B. F. Goodrich LIFE-SAVER Tubeless Tires. Most blowouts are caused when the inner tube explodes through chafing or broken cords. But, because it has no tube, a LIFE-SAVER Tire changes a sudden, dangerous blowout to a safe s-l-o-w-down—allowing you ample time to stop your car safely, with perfect control.
PUNCTURE PROTECTION
A gummy rubber compound under the tread immediately seals around penetrating objects, and permanently seals the hole after the object is removed. Inconvenience and delays are eliminated.
BLOWOUT PROTECTION
Instead of a tube, the LIFE-SAVER has a patented inner lining that's part of the tire. In event of a nail puncture, only a small break in the liner, a s-o-s-a-v-e-r that lets you stop safely.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Ribbiter

You can be loaded with trumps and still not pick up those of opponents with straight leads. So, you may have to resort to some kind of a tough play that will answer your purpose.

This was the deal shown here:

NORTH	WEST	EAST	SOUTH
♠ A Q 6 2	♠ 9 7 5 4 3	♠ K J 10 8	♠ 4
♥ None	♥ K 8	♥ A 9 6 3 2	♥ Q J 10 5 4
♦ A 9 6 3 2	♦ K Q 10	♦ J 8 7 5	♦ 4
♣ A K 6 2	♣ 10 9 7 5	♣ Q J 8 3	♣ 10 6 4

With north as the dealer the bids would probably go like this:

North	South
1 D	3 H
2 S	3 H
4 H	4 S
4 NT	5 S
6 NT	7 H

With south in seven hearts, west leads the diamond king. All south has to do is take all the trump tricks and call it a day. So, dummy wins the first trick with his diamond ace, then south ruffs a diamond.

Now south slaps down two top trumps on which dummy throws two small black cards. When west fails out on the second lead, it looks as if east must take a trump trick in the future.

This can be prevented only by smothering east into ruffing some trick. To do so, south's last card must be, reduced to only two cards (both trumps) when dummy is still in the lead.

Spade king is overtaken with dummy ace. Another diamond ruff by south. Spade jack is overtaken with dummy's queen. Another diamond ruff by south. Club queen is overtaken with dummy king.

Dummy returns a spade. East shuffs a club. South ruffs. The club jack is overtaken with dummy ace and each hand is reduced to two cards.

Dummy now leads either one of his two remaining cards. East and south hold nothing but two trumps. East is annoyed into ruffing and south overruffs. Nothing to it, much.

MADOC

Business Changes Hands

Madoc—Mr. Angus McKenzie has purchased the Duffin Funeral Service and residence of Mr. George Duffin, Madoc, from which he will carry on business under the name of MacKenzie's Funeral Service. Mr. Duffin will continue the furniture business which he operated under the name of Tonks and Kelly.

Mr. MacKenzie comes to Madoc as an experienced funeral director. He was born and educated in Fort William where he entered the undertaking business. He is a graduate of the Canadian School of Embalming, Toronto.

During World War II he served with the R.C.N.V.R. Upon his discharge in 1945 he became associated with a Toronto funeral firm until moving to Cobourg in 1952.

He attends the Presbyterian Church and is a member of the Masonic Lodge, Canadian Legion and Lions Club. He is married and has two children, Richard four and Mary Edith two. He is an ardent sports fan, enjoys fishing and has been active in Boy Scout work.

St. John's Anglican W.A. held a supper meeting at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Nayler during the week. During the evening a presentation was made to Mrs. Joe Miles who has been a very active worker during their stay in Madoc. Mr. Miles and Master Neal were recipients of gifts from the different organizations of St. John's Anglican church. Mr. and Mrs. Miles will be greatly missed in their church and community life of Madoc village and vicinity. Quite recently Joe sold his business, Frigid Lockers to Mr. Stanley Fox. Mr. and Mrs. Miles left on Monday to take up residence in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Ashley spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Moffet at Coe Hill.

Mrs. Harry La Fontaine, of Toronto, is spending a few days with her friend Mrs. Earl Burgess.

Miss Anne Nickle leaves this week-end to attend summer school in Toronto.

Mr. Archie Ashley and daughter, Moods, of Yankiek Hill is spending a week with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Ashley. John Ashley who is attending Officers' Training School at Camp Borden, will spend the week-end in Madoc.

Mrs. Will Brown, of Uxbridge, is spending a few weeks with her brother, P. Allan and Mrs. Allan.

Mrs. Harding of Winchester, is visiting her friend Miss Rachel Christie.

AT THE BELLE—Bob Hope and his fiery-tempered fighting surveyor, Marilyn Maxwell, co-star in a scene from Hope's new comedy hit, "Off Limits," now showing at the Belle Theatre. Hilariously clashing with the Military Police and prize-fighting, the laugh - loaded package of celluloid merriment is sure to delight you.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The most successful movie producers in many years, Jack Palance, wants to give up scaring people.

The square-built cool miner's son and former prize fighter made a solid impression with "film fans when he played a murderous game of hide-and-seek with Richard Widmark in "Panic in the Streets." He landed an Oscar nomination for trying to bump off Joan Crawford in "Sudden Fear." He's a hit now in his role of attempting the same for Alan Ladd in "Shane."

"I want t get away from sadistic killer. I like being an actor, and I don't want to get varied roles to stay in business."

He says he can mail supports his theory. He gets a lot of letters to the effect of "don't let them type you in pictures." Right now he's getting his wish. He has Joan Fontaine and Corinne Calvet clamoring for him in "Flight to Tangier."

Palance's career following the pattern established by a number of film greats. Humphrey Bogart started in films as the gangster Duke Mantee in "Petrified Forest" and spent years trying to get on the right side of the law. He finally made it, Clark Gable also started as a dame-slapping bad guy, then mellowed into leading man parts.

Palace appears less menacing in person than he does in films. He is handsome, but his features are rugged and not as severe-looking as in his pictures.

Palace interrupted his college studies at the University of North Carolina to enter the ring as a professional boxer. His promising ring career—20 fights, 18 wins, was in Aetna interrupted by the air force. When he got out of the service, he returned to school, this time at Stanford. That's when he turned actor.

AT THE BELLE
Genius For Perfection

Samuel Goldwyn, dubbed the "genius for perfection" for his unmatched record of 18 hit films in 19 years, has added to his fame with "Hans Christian Anderson" the lavish technicolor production coming to the Belle Theatre on Thursday.

The same dramatic understanding and technical skill which produced such films as "The Best Years of Our Lives," "The Little Foxes," "The Pride of the Yankees," "Wuthering Heights," "Dead End", "Dodsworth", and "Arrowsmith" among others and the same amazing judgment which could see Will Rogers, Eddie Cantor, Vilma Banksy, Ronald Coleman, Gary Cooper, Danny Kaye, David Niven, Dana Andrews, Teresa Wright, Joan Evans and Farley Granger who were to be a few of the entertainers brought to the screen audiences via Goldwyn Productions.

Goldwyn's new production Hans Christian Anderson presents a new personality in Jean Maire and Kaye discards his zany antics and becomes an engagingly modest and quietly beguiling personality, whose songs are warm and comforting, whose humor is gentle and whose performance will bring delight to the whole family.

SEND JAPAN FLOOD AID

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Red Cross will send $20,000 to the Japanese Red Cross for relief of Japanese flood victims, Rollie G. Mills, chairman of the Canadian society, announced Saturday. Half the amount is supplied by the Junior Red Cross to assist child sufferers.

AT THE CAPITOL—Hand-to-claw fight with a raging lioness is staged by Johnny Weissmuller in Columbia's new Jungle Jim Adventure, "Voodoo Tiger," at the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday. Co-starring with Johnny is Joan Dixon. Matinee Wednesday at 2.00 p.m. On our stage "Sunny Carnival."

AT THE CAPITOL—Peggy Castle, star of the Technicolor hit, "Flight to Tangier, U.S.A." Now showing at the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday. On the same program Johnny Weissmuller as Jungle Jim in "Voodoo Tiger". Matinee Wednesday at 2.00 p.m.

AT THE DRIVE-IN
"Singin' in the Rain"

When sound movies arrive in the late twenties, Gene Kelly, swashbuckling screen hero, and his co-star, Jean Hagen, make their first talkie. Because of Jean's nasal voice, the film is a flop at its preview, but Gene is reassured of his own ability by Debbie Reynolds, aspiring and talented actress with whom he is in love. Then Gene's buddy, Donald O'Connor, suggests Debbie's voice be dubbed in place of Jean's—and the latter threatens a lawsuit if the truth comes out. At the preview Jean scores a tremendous hit, thanks to Debbie's voice. The audience cries for a speech from Jean but, puzzled by her nasal intonations, yells for her to sing. Gene has Debbie sing behind the screen, which is raised to reveal the hoax and make Jean a laughing stock.

AT THE McCARTHY—Clifton Webb and Barbara Stanwyck star in a poignant scene as an international socialite couple whose basic concept of what is worthwhile in their lives finally cause them to separate after twenty years of marriage in a story set against the historic sinking of the Titanic in the Twentieth Century-Fox film, "Titanic," opening Wednesday at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, JULY 8, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Pleasantly favorable day. Nice people, nice things are in first order and should move ahead, give encouragement and aid others as they advance.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Should be good period for you conscientious, kindly folk. Matters concerning home, family, real estate, gardening, all work with foods, servicing the public stress now.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Not all stimulating for activities requiring keen analysis but there are no unconquerable hindrances. Just be sensibly cautious.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Excellent rays from your Moon; you have better than a just bright outlook. Set don't overdo, and do allocate your activities sensibly.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Benefic day on whole, mostly for familiar matters, home, interests, your regular work duties. New undertakings require extra caution, more thorough investigation.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Things may seem unsettling as you start today but keep right on: you'll be surprised how well your efforts turn out. Private interests especially spon-sored.

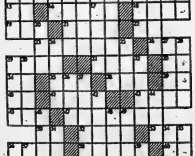
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Delicate work, personal attention to small important details, patience—these will count heavily in your favor. You can advance in your occupation.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—This can be partly restful and fruitful day, depending largely upon how you handle it. No need for nerve-wracking speed. Be serenely efficient.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Some restrictions so it will be wise to view day's schedule calmly, astutely. Don't rush or worry. Think matters over before decisions.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Fine influences from your Saturn, plus Moon's friendly rays should give you a feeling of cheer and go-getiveness. Don't overdo but be ambitious.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Neptune's benefic rays can be very helpful in your sector and you can attain much if truly eager and active. Don't waste time in unnecessary details.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Grand vibrations! Your personal interests, confidential matters, all brain work spurred by helpful influences.

YOU BORN TODAY: First, some of your fine qualities and assets. You are loyal, devoted to family and wise traditions you have deep respect for religion, art and life's finer things. Could succeed as writer, actor, reporter. Your faults are tendency to argue and criticize too much, and to fret needlessly. God has blessed you with —One gift. Birthdate of: John D. Rockefeller, founder of oil fortune; philanthropist; Fitz-Greene Halleck, poet.

EXPERIENCED MOTORIST

DONCASTER, England (CP)—Dr. Walter Wilcox, a brisk and bustling 79, has been driving a car 21 years. He keeps his 1933 sports model—fitted with anti-theft traps, 14 lights and 10 dashboard switches because it would take too long to transfer the gadgets to a new car.

Makes You Cooler, Just Thinking Of It

Crew of the U.S. icebreaker Northwind have memories of scenes such as this to keep them cool on hot days. The ship made a 12-month trip into the Arctic, visiting Kodiak, Dutch Harbor and Gambell, a Siberian Eskimo village on Bering Sea's St. Lawrence Island. Temperatures, though not spectacularly low — from zero to 10 below — were cold enough to create ice too thick for the Northwind to push through. When stopped by ice, the crew, in parkas, mitts and mukluks, played games of baseball on the smooth icefields. — Central Press Canadian.

At Little Current, Ont., Lester Pearson, minister for external affairs, found himself in a quieter atmosphere than he had expected it more than the U.N. sessions over which he presided. He was the centre of attraction when he visited the community as part of his election campaign. — Central Press Canadian.

The U.N. Was Never Like This

Wellington on the Lake

CANADA

O Canada, our native land,
The soil we hold as dear,
How beautiful on every hand
Thy golden gifts appear!
Thy prairie lands and mountain peaks,
Thy lakes and rivers free,
With farms and homes and fruitful plains
A chain from sea to sea.

O dear North Land, our love, our pride,
We hear the spirit call,
O those who for they dear sake died,
Who gave their life, their all,
That every race beneath the sky
Be free from tyranny,
And' neath the folds of Freedom's flag
Might dwell in unity.

The thistle, shamrock, and the rose
The fleur-de-lis of France,
United on our life beside
The spirit of romance;
As long as dear old Britain's flag
Waves over land and sea,
Canada will stand with heart and hand
For truth and liberty.

Dominion Day, 1953.

WELLINGTON—What a wonderful country is this north land, this Canada, of ours! Like the name Dominion. Quoting the last lines of a speech by the Scottish Canadian writer, David Walker at the Canadian Authors' convention, Toronto, "Canada! what a ring the word has in 1953. What tales there are to be lived and told." Walker won the Governor-General's award for his story "The Pillar".

Walking down street on the morning of Dominion Day we were pleased to see flags waving in the breez and the flowers raised in many yards. The garden of Mr. F. Ford was gay with roses and many summer blooms.

Motoring into the country in the afternoon we missed the bunting and the street dance put on by the legion, but were welcomed at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. C. B. Clapp, Hillier, where we enjoyed a view of the beautiful garden, the arbor of climbing roses being particularly attractive. The rooms were inviting with these beautiful flowers, a bowl of roses centring the dinner table. Every wall decorated with paintings by the artist, we enjoyed visit with their guest, Mrs. Gladys French, of Whitby, who told us of her pioneer winter in Florida. A bouquet of flowers on my living-room table is a prized gift from this Hillier garden.

Mr. John Bell and daughter, Toronto, were recent guests of his mother, Mrs. Mabel Bell.

The strawberry and pie social on the Ogilvie lawn, Saturday night under the auspices of the Legion, was a pleasant affair with refreshments served at quartet tables.

Canning factories are busy canning peas which are proving a good crop.

Miss Mary Lumb and Gladys motored to Springfield, Ontario, on Friday to attend the wedding of a niece—the wedding taking place on Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley, the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Morton and Mrs. H. B. Anderson were guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Clapp, Hillier, on Tuesday. Mrs. Gladys French, Whitby, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C.

B. Clapp.

The sale of household effects at the home of the late Mrs. Clayton Pettengil on Saturday, attracted the usual crowd. Mr. George Bailey was the auctioneer.

Mr. Glendon Sanders is leaving this week for Toronto, where he will join his father, Mr. Warden Sanders in the hardware business. Glendon's many friends join in wishing him success.

Miss Gena Benson, Windsor, is holidaying in her summer cottage, Lilac Lodge. She is now entertaining two lady friends.

Mr. and Mrs. William Burd are spending a week with Miss Grace Sanders.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton, Melville, are now occupying their new home on Consecon Street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith and Mrs. Nelson will spend the week-end at Minden.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hubbs, Cedar Springs, are enjoying holidays in a cottage on West Lake Shore.

The Belleville-Prince Edward Club of the Bay City will hold a picnic in Wellington Park on the afternoon of July 8.

Mrs. W. Thomas, Belleville, sent a few days in Wellington the guest of Mrs. John Conley and called on old friends.

Mrs. Leona Whyte, Bath, called in town on Thursday en route to Trenton.

CANADIAN BORN

We first saw light in Canada, the land beloved of God;
We are the pulse of Canada, its marrow and its blood;
And we, the men of Canada, can face the world and brag
That we were born in Canada beneath the British flag.

Few of us have the blood of kings, few are of courtly birth,
But few are vagabonds or rogues of doubtful name and worth
And all have one credential that entitles us to brag
That we were born in Canada beneath the British flag.

—Pauline Johnson.

Sydney Pierce New Ambassador To Brazil

OTTAWA (CP) — Sydney D. Pierce, one-time Montreal newspaper man who climbed the diplomatic ladder to become Canadian minister in Washington, was appointed Monday Canada's new ambassador to Brazil.

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced the new appointment for the roving diplomat who has held scores of war and post-war posts abroad, including Canadian representative to Organization for European Economic Co-Operation.

Mr. Pierce, who once worked for the Montreal Gazette and The Associated Press in New York, succeeds Dr. E. H. Coleman, who now retires from the diplomatic scene. Dr. Coleman, 63, is a native of Braeside, Ont.

Born at Montreal in 1901, Mr. Pierce attended McGill University and lectured at Dalhousie University later. He joined the external affairs department in 1944.

Canadians Draw First Six Of New-Style Jeeps, Trucks

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (AP)—Six Canadians have drawn the first six of the 1,300 new-style jeeps and trucks they are to receive before summer's end.

But armistice possibilities have senior officers wondering whether Canada's soldiers will be in Korea long enough to justify the $3,500,000 outlay involved.

The bulk of the new vehicles are not expected to be available before late August.

Six months' use would be considered justification for carrying out the program. But the feeling here is that if only two or three months' use may be had from the vehicles before they are turned back again to United States Army ordnance depots, then the brigade might as well carry on with its present transport.

The brigade now has two each of the new jeeps and the new three-quarter ton and 2½-ton trucks. The trucks have hydromatic drive. Pre-Issue Tests

The new vehicles have been allotted—one of each—to the brigade's general transport company, RCASC, and the 25th ordnance workshop, RCEME, for pre-issue tests.

Meanwhile senior drivers and mechanics from both units have attended U.S. Army courses on the vehicles and now are teaching instructors who will handle classes for the rest of the brigade's drivers and mechanics.

The transport company's first mechanics to study the new vehicles at a US Army ordnance depot were Lewis S. Sgt. Richard Painchild of Toronto; Cpl. Joseph P. O'Connor of Montreal; Cpl. William L. Jimmo of Escuminac, N.B., and Pte. James E. McCafferty of New Albany, N.B.

Its first drivers, who studied at the 1st U.S. marine division's transitional school, were Cpls. Henry I. Heighton of Guysborough, N.S., Ken J. Price of Kingston, Robert A. Sweet of Merigomish, N.S., and Verlin E. Welland of Calgary.

Sgt. Fairchild, who now lectures the mechanics classes, says:

"The trucks have tremendous power for hauling loads. There is no driver fatigue. The driver sits on a single foam-rubber seat in a forward cab. There is a double seat beside him for passengers.

"Servicing is easier because the radiator, engine and transmission can be removed as one unit. The transmission control which was the same as a unit, which makes for easy maintenance in the workshop.

"They were built for driver comfort and long hauls."

ROSLIN

ROSLIN — Miss A. Stirk, of Brampton, spent a week recently with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Stirk.

Mrs. E. McKee, of Toronto, has returned home after spending a week with her brother, Mr. William Gillespie and Mrs. Gillespie.

Mrs. R. Clare is a patient in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. G. Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. J. Chisholm left on Sunday for a motor trip to western Canada. While away they will visit the Calgary stampede.

Word has been received from Miss Isabelle Bates Reg. N., since her arrival in Vancouver, B.C., where she has accepted a position in the general hospital there.

Mr. and Mrs. John Fargey spent several days recently with the latter's parents, at Inverness, Quebec.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman White and Mrs. William White spent the week-end in Watertown, New York.

The Women's Missionary Society of the Presbyterian Church held its regular monthly dinner on Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Laurison Montgomery.

Mrs. A. Bates, Miss Mary Bates, and Mr. Gordon Carleton, attended the recent Carleton wedding in Walkerton.

Mrs. Sam Stirk left this week for Saskatchewan where she will visit her father Mr. Farley.

Mr. John Fargey has been appointed postmaster at Roslin to succeed Mrs. R. Clare who resigned due to ill health. The change over took effect the first of July.

Rev. R. F. Gardam preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening in St. Paul's Church, Roslin, and also his last in the diocese as he is leaving this diocese to go to Detroit, Michigan, where he has been appointed rector of St. Mary's Church. Mr. and Mrs. Gardam and family left on Tuesday for their new home.

Prior to their departure, they were presented with a number of gifts from the A.Y.P.A., Ladies' Guild and the W.A. of St. Paul's Church, Roslin, the Roslin school and St. John's Church, Moneymore.

On Sunday afternoon, the annual I.O.O.F. Decoration Day service was held in the Presbyterian Church, Roslin, with the service being taken by the minister, Rev. J. MacMurray.

SOVIET ENVOY LEAVES

PARIS (Reuters)—Russian ambassador Jacob Malik left for Moscow Friday after holding his post here for three years. The Kremlin is believed to have designated his successor, but the French government must approve the new ambassador before his name is made public. In Moscow, Pavlov will join Georgi Zarubin, Soviet ambassador at Washington, and Jacob Malik, ambassador at London. Both Zarubin and Malik are expected to return to their posts.

Lost Control

GREELEY, Ont. (CP)—A blundering bee sent three persons to hospital Sunday.

It invaded an automobile driven by Kenneth E. Nobel of Ottawa. There were two passengers, Louella Gillis and her mother, Mrs. Margaret L. Quigg, both of Ottawa.

The buzzing bee apparently disturbed the occupants. Nobel lost control and the car smashed into a tree and was almost wrecked.

Greenley is about 10 miles south of Ottawa.

MARMORA

Young Publisher Wins Contest In United States

MARMORA — The Marmora Herald has received a copy of the Oneta Press published by David Andrews, twelve-year-old son of Emery Andrews and Eleanor Morse Andrews of Rochester, N.Y., and grandson of Mrs. J. Frank Morse, a popular summer resident at Crowe Lake for many years.

David Andrews was born Crowe Lake on August 28, 1940, so his achievements are of particular interest to Marmora and Crowe Lake people.

His publication has twelve pages and cover with good illustrations of news matter and advertising and has a news editorial and humorous paragraphs, all exceptionally good for so young a publisher. David is receiving the congratulations of his friends at this time for winning the junior prize awarded by Walter Farley, author of the Black Stallion series of books. The author held the contest which was nation wide, to rename the farm of his fictional racehorse. The winner got two months' vacation at Flushing Post Farm, South Royalton, Vermont U.S.A. his transportation, riding clothes and a $100 defence bond. The name chosen by the young publisher was "Futurity Farm."

Directors Meet

The directors of Marmora Agricultural Society met on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lajoie in Marmora township. The president Carl Heath was in the chair, attention was drawn to the improvements which had been made on the grounds at the recreation centre but the principal business hinged on the carnival which is being held on the evening of August 5. In this connection Irwin McCoy will head the gate committee, William Leveridge the booth committee and Major Percy Gray will be asked to take charge of grounds. The entertainment committee expect to have the program ready shortly. The August meeting was arranged to be held at the summer home of the secretary treasurer, Thomas J. Bateman at a date to be later announced. The ladies served refreshments following a business meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cumming and two children of Quebec are spending ten days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Cumming at Belmont Lake. Mrs. James Cumming is a daughter of Mrs. Reine Bourbeau of Marmora.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ronald McGarvey in the Madoc nursing home on Thursday, July 2.

Says Industry Neglected

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—W. C. Nickerson, a member of the Canadian delegation attending the recent Empire fruit growers' conference in England, said Saturday on his return that he felt Agriculture Minister Gardiner had been so busy with wheat and dairy negotiations that he had neglected the Canadian fruit industry.

He said Canadian canned fruit was very popular in Britain and "they are anxious to see us back on the market." Canadian fruit has not been allowed into the country since 1939.

Beaverbrook's Express Defends Reported Romance of Princess

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret's reported romance with a handsome, divorced airman was editorial support Sunday from one British newspaper and another gave the Princess a tip on what to do if Queen Elizabeth won't approve the match.

The Princess' rumored romance with Group Capt. Peter Townsend, drew comment as far away as Australia, where a leading Methodist churchman told his Melbourne congregation recent gossip and rumors about Princess Margaret's activities were unfair and completely inhuman.

Following publication of reports about the rumored romance between the 23-year-old Princess and Townsend, a 38-year-old commoner, he was transferred last week from of his position as equerry with the Royal household and assigned to Britain's embassy in Brussels as air attache.

Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express accused the Church of England of blocking the marriage.

"High members of the Royal Family were not opposed to the match, but had been advised to break it up," the Express said, asserting that "the Church does not harm the life of a Princess, whose welfare the people hold so close to their hearts."

MUSICAL ANIMALS

London (cp)—A piano-accordion-ist visited the zoo and proved that music hath charms to soothe the savage beast. Chimpanzees beat time, sea lions stood with eyes closed in rapture, and a lion did a four-footed version of a quick-step.

The Express pointed out that Townsend had divorced his wife in 1952, charging her with misconduct, and had been awarded custody of their two sons. "He was not the guilty party," the paper said.

The Sunday Pictorial said that after the 21 St. in August, 1952, the Princess can marry without the Queen's consent. Under the Royal Marriage Act, a member of the British Royal Family over 25 can marry without the Sovereign's approval 12 months after giving the privy council notice of intent to wed.

In Melbourne, Dr. Irwin G. Benson, superintendent of the Victoria Central, Methodist Mission, described the Princess as a devoted Christian woman and said "she now is being subjected to amounts of speculation, criticism and reference to which no member of a democracy should be subjected, let alone a member of the Royal Family.

"I think that members of our Royal house, to whom we pay so much popular acclaim, receive less than justice and sometimes even less than decency from certain sections of the press. It must be remembered that tradition prevents the members of the Royal Family from defending themselves against gossip, rumor and scandal," Dr. Benson said.

MOUNTAIN BUILDING

NAPIER, N.Z. (CP)—Land in the Hawke's Bay district of New Zealand's North Island is showing such changes that experts consider a major mountain building period is in progress. Surveys show rises up to 26 feet and drops to 17 feet over a 40-year period.

MADOC JUNCTION

Young Couple Honored by Friends

MADOC JUNCTION — A pleasant time was enjoyed last Friday evening, when neighbors and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Stapley to honor their son and bride, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stapley (nee Erma Vardy) who were recently married.

Mr. A. Wannamaker acted as chairman for a short program consisting of community singing led by Miss Gladys Clarke, and Mrs. Maurice Clacey. Piano solo by Miss Donna Stapley; selection on the accordion by Miss Gladys Clarke, piano solo by Mrs. Maurice Clacey.

Mr. Carl Reid was then called on to read an address expressing congratulations and best wishes to Sam and Erma and also extending to Erma a warm welcome to the neighborhood.

Mr. Vernon Clarke and Mr. Robert Chambers on behalf of the community and charivari boys presented the newlyweds with a lovely tri-light floor lamp with illuminated base and two end tables.

Both Sam and Erma graciously thanked their friends for the good wishes and lovely gifts ,and extended an invitation to come and visit them.

All joined —in singing "Blest Be the Tie That Binds".

Refreshments were then served and a social time enjoyed.

Woman Identified

YOUNGSTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—The battered body of a woman recovered Wednesday near the mouth of the Niagara river was identified Sunday as that of Mrs. Inez Belle Winslow, 55, of Neliston, N.Y.

Mrs. Barbara Fitzner of Clarkville, N.Y., a daughter and Mrs. Edna Kasler, a sister, made the identification.

Mrs. Fitzner said her mother had been in ill health.

Niagara county coroner James Neary withheld a death certificate pending further investigation. He said she died of shock from pelvis, spine and rib fractures, and was not drowned.

To Rebuild Plant

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Walker Bros announced Saturday that the company's quarry building, destroyed Friday night by an estimated $35,000 fire, will be rebuilt at once. The plant will be shut down for two weeks.

Company officials praised the Stamford and Thorold firemen for saving valuable stone crusher and screening equipment. The quarry is located in Stamford township.

NO RESTRICTIONS

WASHINGTON (AP)—There will be no restrictions on the subjects discussed when the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France meet here next Friday, President Eisenhower has said a principal purpose of the quickly arranged meeting is to increase understanding generally. The agenda was left open for any problem facing the free world.

Communists Ready To Negotiate Final Details for Truce

No Indication Rhee Will Accept Terms Laid Down

SEOUL (AP)—The Communists said today they are ready to negotiate the final details of a Korean armistice, even though South Korea objects violently.

There was still no indication that stubborn President Syngman Rhee would accept a truce which fails to guarantee unification of his war-battered nation.

The Communist reply to Gen. Mark Clark's June 29 proposal to sign an armistice now was delivered by liaison officers in a five-minute meeting at Panmunjon.

The letter laid down what appeared to be some tough conditions for the armistice, including a ban on the introduction of more combat planes, warships or weapons into Korea during the truce negotiated in the years of hard bargaining. But observers said the Reds might waive some of these when the truce talks resume.

Other Demands

The Reds said the United Nations command must:

1. "Take effective steps" to assure South Korean compliance with armistice terms;

2. Recover 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners set free on orders of President Rhee last month;

3. "Consider the absolute responsibility" for seeing that none of the 8,000 anti-Red prisoners remaining in Allied custody escape.

The Communist letter said "our side agrees that the designations of both sides meet as an appointed time to discuss the question of implementation and the various provisions prior to the signing of the armistice agreement."

"The date for the meeting will be discussed and fixed through liaison officers of both sides through liaison officers."

May Ask to Fix Date

Informed sources said the new move probably will be an Allied request for a liaison session to fix the date for a meeting of the full truce delegations.

Thousands of South Koreans paraded through the streets of Seoul crying for the UN command to fight on until Korea is unified.

President Eisenhower's truce envoy, assistant secretary of state Robertson, was due here with Rhee again Wednesday in an effort to win his support of a truce. The Reds said they will wait for Rhee's insistence that the U.S. agree to negotiate for the mutual post-armistice political conference progresses toward unification of Korea, before they do.

Robertson Rejects

Robertson has rejected the demands.

News that the Communists were ready to go ahead with preparations for the armistice created tension in the South Korean government.

Dr. Karl Hong Ki, official government spokesman, told newsmen privately:

"It is obvious that by this action the Communists are trying to do Rhee a liberal.

"2. Break relations between the Republic of Korea and America.

"2. Ruin the negotiations now going on between the Republic and the American government.

Make the United States send troops on more difficult terms later.

He declined to say what steps his government planned.

The Communist letter was addressed to Gen. Clark, who as UN commander is empowered to sign a truce without South Korea.

Sherlock Holmes Passes Moscow Security Check

LONDON, AP)—Moscow radio said today that good Soviet kiddies and grown-up communists, too, can be fans of their famous character of the capitalistic world, Sherlock Holmes.

The adventures of the detective Baker street sleuth have gone out to avid Russian readers from the Molodaya Gvardiya publishing house, the radio said. It noted also that 30 other editions of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's works have been published in the Soviet Union since the end of the Second World War.

The broadcast, commemorating the 33rd anniversary of Doyle's death, said the British writer's children's stories were particularly popular.

Socreds in B.C. Capture 28 Seats As Counting Ends

VANCOUVER (CP)—Final party standings in the hangfire British Columbia election became known Tuesday, nearly two weeks after voters went to the polls June 9.

The seat-holding record was Vancouver-Point Grey, where the outcome on one of the three ballots was a surprise.

Liberal leader Art Laing, who resigned the party seat to contest the riding, defeated Education Minister Mrs. Tilly Rolston on the fifth count under the province's alternative voting system.

Mr. Laing trailed through most of the preceding counts but was elected on the distribution of the second choices of the CCF candidate.

The Liberal leader's victory brought his party's strength in the next legislature to 28 members.

28 Secred Winners

Social Credit, under Premier W. A. C. Bennett, will have a clear majority after seven months in office as a minority government after the June 12 election last year. The party captured 28 of the 52 seats at stake.

The CCF will again form the official opposition, holding 14 seats, down four from their total in the last House.

The remaining two seats are held by the Progressive Conservatives and Independent Labor.

Mrs. Rolston was the second cabinet minister to go down in defeat. Lands and Forests Minister Elmer Gunderson lost out to Dak Ray to P.-L. Gibbs, a liberal.

Premier Bennett has refused to step down. Mrs. Rolston and Mr. Gunderson in the cabinet. Mrs. Rolston said she was not sure whether Mr. Gunderson has not yet decided whether he will remain in the government. The premier has indicated by-elections may be held to seat the ministers.

Two Persons Killed

QUEBEC (CP) — Two persons were killed and five others injured in an auto crash Tuesday near L'Islet, 65 miles southeast of here, it was learned today.

Dead are Mrs. Alice Bradley of Toronto, and Antoine Paradis, of Montreal.

Injured were: Donald Bradley, 17; William Perkins, 22; Helen Bradley, 21; Diane Smith, 2, and Philip Smith, 1, all of Toronto.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Cool air circling around the old storm centre east of the Great Lakes swept into Southern Ontario Tuesday evening, and showers and thunderstorms were scattered along its leading edge. As the Great Lakes area cools deeper into the cool air there will be gradual clearing along the lower lakes, and sunny weather will be general over the southern part of the province today and Thursday.

FRENCH PREMIER'S REFORM PROGRAM IS GIVEN APPROVAL

Assembly Passes Bill After 16-Hour Session

PARIS (Reuters)—Premier Joseph Laniel today won from the French National Assembly endorsement for a tax and reform program on which he had staked the life of his 10-day-old government.

After a 16-hour session the assembly voted 320 to 277 to accept Laniel's finance bill, which provides the government with extra revenue and permits it to undertake reforms in the civil service and nationalized industries.

Laniel had made it clear that he would resign if defeated on any of the bill's key clauses. His resignation would have faced France with another leadership crisis similar to that which preceded his investiture as premier.

In thanking the assembly for its support, Laniel said the bill was "indispensable for the economic recovery of France."

It puts new taxes on gasoline, alcohol and passports to provide the extra revenue which the Bank of France demanded as a condition for any further advances to the government.

The bill enables the government to borrow another 110,000,000,000 francs ($315,000,000) from the bank, extend previous loans, and increase taxes by 80,000,000,000 francs ($228,000,000).

La Presse Fire Quickly Brought Under Control

MONTREAL (CP)—Firemen today quickly brought under control a fire in the offices of La Presse, French-language daily.

No one was injured.

The fire was believed to have started in the newspaper's rotogravure section. No immediate estimate of damage was available.

As soon as the fire was extinguished plans were made to publish at least one edition of the newspaper Tuesday.

The editorial department was the first to resume operations after following the fire. Water damage forced temporary closing of the business and circulation offices.

The three-storey La Presse building is located on the corner of St. James and St. Lawrence streets in the downtown business district of Montreal. Heavy rush-hour traffic was tied up for more than an hour.

First reports that the fire had been touched off by an explosion proved unfounded.

Dies in Hospital

KINGSTON (CP) — Murray Delyea, 30, died in hospital today from injuries received in an automobile accident on the city's outskirts Monday.

Two other men, Chester Delyea and Robert Lake, were injured. Their conditions were reported to be good. Police said the accident occurred on a curve. Murray Delyea was driving when he went off a road, struck a telephone pole and was thrown out.

The three men are from the Kingston area.

Mounties Pack Their Bags for Home After Private Inspection by Queen

LONDON (CP) — The RCMP Coronation contingent packed its bags today for home.

The red-coated band leaves by sea Thursday. The Mounties wrapped up their tour Tuesday with a private inspection by the Queen at the Royal Mews in an informal appointment that only the Royal Family and the 46-man group knew about.

The Queen, the Duke of Edinburgh, Prince Charles and Princess Anne inspected them astride their chal-black horses.

An RCMP spokesman said the inspection took about 15 minutes. The Queen chatted briefly with several members of the contingent which sails from Southampton for Halifax.

Since they arrived, the Mounties have received some of the most rabid acclaim of any visitors this summer. They took part in the Coronation procession in two parades and in their own musical ally-known musical ride on at the royal tournament here and at a week-long exhibition at Ailsa, Scotland.

Elsewhere they went they drew crowds and fan mail reflecting the breath of the old west they still represent to Britons.

The RCMP spokesman said today that the Mounties had been asked by the palace to keep the inspection a secret.

Drew Explains in CBC Talk How Tax Cuts Can be Made

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, explained Tuesday night where a government of his party proposed to make 40 per cent of their promised $500,000,000 tax-cuts. It would come from the defence budget—"this Frankenstein of waste and extravagance which they (the Liberals) have created."

Mr. Drew said in a recorded speech broadcast over the CBC's Trans-Canada network that "the choice is clear. There will be no tax revision by the Conservatives. There will be by a Conservative government."

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, criticized Liberal immigration policies in Digest, Sask. He described them as "haphazard, uncertain and confused." The CCF, if elected Aug. 10, would have no part in a immigration program linked with this party's policies for a planned economy.

Wants More Immigration

The Liberal program would maintain full employment and provide adequate housing facilities. Steps would be taken to encourage farm grants standards of employment, wages, hours and working conditions not less favorable than those in effect for other Canadians.

"We would also like to see the present undemocratic policy of discriminating in the selection of immigrants on the basis of race.

In Moosomin, Sask., Agriculture Minister Gardiner attacked the controversial South Saskatchewan power and irrigation project in a campaign address. He said the federal government will secure cost estimates of the project in the agreement among the three Prairie provinces before proceeding with the water.

He said the government has made this clear to the Saskatchewan government. Mr. Gardiner spoke shortly after a meeting here with Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan to discuss the Alberta government's recent action requiring that the water be used solely for irrigation purposes.

Garson Makes Change

At McAuley, Man., Justice Minister Garson attacked what Mr. Drew and Premier Duplessis of Quebec are out to destroy—the Dominion - provincial tax rentals agreements.

He said that as Ontario's premier Mr. Drew "fought against them at every stage." He had not changed his position since then. Mr. Garson urged a conference last November to "preserve unity" among the federal, provincial and municipal governments at a time when the "ink was scarcely dry" on the second post-war agreements.

In Lunenburg, N.S., Trade Minister Howe said at a nominating convention that voters have three choices on voting day Aug. 10:

"The present government which raised Canadian exports by almost six times since 1935 or a Progressive Conservative government which would revert to the disastrous trade walls of the depression era.

In Southampton, Ont., John Diefenbaker, leader of the Progressive Conservative spokesman and member for East Prince Liberals, said that Prime Minister St. Laurent has left grave concern about agriculture's future at a time when surpluses are growing and markets are shrinking.

It was particularly serious that Mr. St. Laurent intimated during the June 29 budget speech that flour prices for farm products in Canada should be cut, Mr. Diefenbaker said.

Says Liberals Create Fear

Later in London, Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals "are aware that seeking re-election on the strength of its record won't do. It is seeking to "create fear in people's minds."

He suggested that a Progressive Conservative government would do away with old-age pensions, family allowances and social security had "no basis in fact."

In his radio address, Mr. Drew said most of the $500,000,000 tax cuts promised by his party would come by ending budget surpluses and by reducing defence costs from the level established by the Liberals since the war. His party was just as determined as the Liberals to pay off the national debt but the government had no right to use money for that purpose without Parliament's approval.

"We can save at least $200,000,000 and probably a great deal more in defence expenditures alone without any reduction in our defence effort."

In saying this could not be done, what the Liberals "really are saying is: 'we won't try to do it.'"

Report Intimate of Stalin Names Reds in U.S. Clergy

NEW YORK (AP)—The House of Representatives' Un-American activities committee says witnesses in one an "intimate acquaintance" of Joseph Stalin named several U. S. clergymen as members of the Communist party.

The witnesses were said to have given the group "information of serious significance" about Communist infiltration of the clergy.

Representative Kit Clardy (Rep., Mich.) said the witness was a friend of New York hearings of the Committee, meeting in executive session Tuesday. He emphasized the committee is not probing clergy or churches but is "trying to expose Reds "whether in the clergy . . . or any group."

The probe is being pursued here today with Rep. Harold Velde (Rep., Scherer (Rep. Mich.) sitting as a subcommittee of one to hear two witnesses. The committee sessions were adjourned.

No Indemnities

Clardy did not identify those named in the testimony, nor did he say how many persons were involved. He said the information would be checked and—if verified—made public in open session. The committee policy "to forestall all possibility of smearing and defaming innocent citizens."

A prepared statement by the committee said it had received testimony on how Communists "planned to and did infiltrate the ranks of clergy" in the U. S.

Witnesses giving the information were identified as Clardy as Dorothy Jamin Gillow and Joseph Kornfeder, who said he was active here as an "important Communist party functionary and intimate of the late Soviet premier.

Gillow was described as a charter member of the American Communist party who broke with the Reds.

The committee statement—said that in a closed hearing Monday Gillow identified "information and testimony" on Communists among the clergy from Carl Archibald Roosevelt, son of the late U. S. president Theodore Roosevelt.

NOMINATE WINTERS

LUNENBURG, N.S. (CP) — Resources Minister Winter Tuesday night was nominated to contest the new Lunenburg - Queens constituency for the Liberals in the Aug. 10 federal election.

Plans Ordered For Metro's First Arterial Highway

TORONTO (CP) — The executive committee of the council for Metropolitan Toronto ordered Tuesday that plans be drawn up for a municipal Toronto's first arterial highway.

It is expected that a lakeshore expressway of four lanes will have top priority. The expressway will run from the Humber bridge to Woodbine Avenue. The road is expected to exceed $35,000,000.

Fred Gardiner, chairman of the council, ordered a meeting of the works commissioners for Metropolitan Toronto, members of the Toronto harbor commission and the city planning commission to study plans for the expressway.

Police Cars Being Equipped With Radar

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Dana Porter said today that Ontario provincial police cars are being equipped with radar to help cut down the number of traffic accidents.

Mr. Porter said, an officer can park on the side of the road and by means of radar that passes him is recorded on his radar screen.

Before the equipment is put in use, highways will be marked with signs indicating that radar readings are in operation.

Similar radar equipment is in use in some sections of the United States. The result has been a get reduction in accidents, the attorney-general said.

GENERAL STRIKE IN EAST BERLIN PLANTS IS CALLED

Demand Those Arrested In June be Set Free

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—Defying Soviet troops and tanks, East Berlin workers were reported today to have called a general stildown strike in all major plants of the Communist sector.

The report came from West Berlin Police Chief Johannes Stumm, who said in an interview the workers' "basic demand is the release of all persons arrested in the June 17 revolt."

Earlier reports of the stildown touched off speculation that a new workers' march on the government might materialize much in the manner of the June 17 uprising which broke the Red world and brought Soviet armored legions pouring into East Berlin.

This time, however, the East Germans apparently tried the stildown instead of a march rather than risk further bloody clashes with Communist arms.

Hundreds Quit Jobs

Refugees from East Berlin said the first word of the stildown call had laid down their tools at the Bergman Borsig works, the Stalin Allee building construction site, the Hennigsdorf steel mills, the Siemens electrical plant and the Rotkehrsradorf pottery mill.

Despite the new strike reports, Western Allied officials headquarters announced on Red radio Berlin's Soviet sector that the traffic ban between the city's east and west sectors would be permitted starting Wednesday.

Since the June 17 revolt, traffic between the east and west sectors had been permitted only to persons with special passes. It virtually all came from the east sector to Germans working on the other side of the border.

The broadcast said the passes would no longer be required and that subway had resumed train traffic, which the Soviet sector had cut off during the June 17 disorders, would resume normal intersector operations.

Resumption of the traffic had been demanded twice by the Allied commandants in West Berlin and hotly denied Russian charges that the barriers against traffic was ordered by Western agents.

Other Demonstrations

The U. S. military commission's Berlin newspaper, Neue Zeitung, reported strikes and demonstrations in other parts of Soviet Zone. Protesting citizens, it said, demanded the abolition of high and consumer goods promised by Communist Premier Otto Grotewohl's puppet regime.

East Berlin's new strike wave was launched last Tuesday when construction workers on the big Stalin Allee housing project, the same group whose strike ignited the revolt three weeks ago. They threatened to walk out unless the government despite the Russian tanks and troops restored martial law in the city's Soviet held portion.

Strike Hard

The workday started today without any signs of a march. A tight Russian blackout kept foreign observers but from the western sector of the frontier activity in the east appeared "normal."

The U. S. radio station RIAS quoted the East German leaders in their tempers lest they be drowned in the flood. The West Berlin newspaper Der Tag, with close political and church connections in the East, has reported 200 Germans lost their lives in the June uprising.

'Slimy Creature With Hideous Tail' Has Western Out. Town in Dither

NEW HAMBURG (CP)—A slimy three-toed creature with a hideous tail crawls the streets of this southwestern Ontario town by night and by day, Police Chief George Thomas said today. The 2,300 residents are in a dither.

The chief says it's no joke and won't rest until he kills "this thing." Others already have a couple of shots at it.

Deep marks in the ground, made by the three toes on two legs, have been seen clearly in the mornings. The heavy tail has also left an imprint.

"This is no joke," the chief said, "in fact it will be a tragedy if anyone is attacked by it."

He said he caught a glimpse of the creature Saturday night as it was half-running, half-crawling back to its lair somewhere near the 20th river.

"I fired at it with my revolver, but it was too dark to tell whether I got it or not. I'm not the only one by a long shot who is waiting every night from now on."

Townspeople are also on the hunt. Many hunters have forbidden their children to go near the river. Chief Thomas figures the creature to stand about three feet and weighs about 50 pounds.

Dr. F. A. Urquhart, director of zoology a Toronto's Royal Ontario Museum, said the creature might be either an American lobster or a great blue heron both large water birds.

He said both birds have three toes and are common in Canada.

Shirley Anne Mills, Brother Roderick Drown in Bay

Family Moved to Trenton From Oshawa Week Ago

TRENTON (Special) — A sad tragedy brought grief to the Mills family here yesterday today when a brother and his older sister drowned while swimming at the bay front south of the ball park.

Nine-year-old Roderick Allen Mills, and his older sister, Shirley Anne Mills, 11, had been warned by their mother not to go swimming when they were home for lunch. Apparently they went to the water's edge 300 yards away, soon afterwards because Ernie Cooney, a workman on pier construction, saw or heard no one swimming in the vicinity and was on his way through without the day excepting during the noon hour while he went home for lunch.

Dr. J. W. Farley, chairman of the Parks' Board, viewing recent progress made on the construction of a pier in the harbor was the first to notice that something was amiss. He found two piles of clothing and an abandoned bicycle by the shoreline. There were no signs of bathers in the water.

Attracts Attention

The doctor attracted the attention of Jack Blakely, who was walking on the waterfront at the time. Wade to the pier, 200 feet from the police Mr. Blakely discovered a body floating in the little slipway at the east end of the breakwall. Police recovered the boy's body with a long pole while a boat was needed to bring up the girl's body drifting out to deeper water of the bay.

It is possible that the little boy entered the swimming hole in the water so soon after eating and Matapedia in Gaspe peninsula. Liberals have been vociferous in their criticism of the election of changes, charging that the Union Nationale government is seeking to perpetuate itself in office. The government said the amendments were necessary to relieve confusion some or unworkable features of the old act.

Only Commentator

The Liberals objected to a new provision providing for a returning orator, appointed by the returning officer, for each polling subdivision. Previously there were two commentators, one named by the government party and one by the Opposition.

Another amendment provides that each candidate will have contested of two agents in each poll, with the deputy returning officer appointed by the government and the poll clerk by the Opposition. The amendment provides further that if either fails to show up, his replacement will be appointed by the returning officer.

Other minority amendments were required to keep representation of both parties on an equal basis.

Seek to Borrow Silver Chain To Greet Queen

NEWPORT, Wales. (Reuters) Monmouthshire county council has sent out an urgent call for a silver chain so the council chairman can welcome the Queen at the border.

The chairman's badge of office, a chain of 24 silver gilt links and an enamelled medallion worth about $330, has been stolen.

The Queen arrives on her state Coronation visit to Wales.

Quebec Election Act To Be Tested In By-Election

By RICHARD DAIGNAULT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's redistribution amendment Act, a subject of vigorous controversy in the legislature during the session, will receive its first test Thursday in three by-elections.

Georges Lacombe, Liberal leader, who suffered personal defeat in last year's provincial election, will seek a seat in Montreal Outremont. The other two by-elections are in Portneuf, a predominantly rural and lumbering area near Quebec City, and Matapedia in Gaspe peninsula.

Liberals have been vociferous in their criticism of the election of changes, charging that the Union Nationale government is seeking to perpetuate itself in office. The government said the amendments were necessary to relieve confusion some or unworkable features of the old act.

GARAGE AND CAR DESTROYED BY FIRE OF UNKNOWN ORIGIN

Fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the garage and automobile belonging to Murney Ray, residing at the junction of the Point Anne lane and Highway No. 2 early this morning.

Ray told Provincial Police that he had parked the car in the garage at midnight and was awakened at 4.45 a.m. by the sound of a horn.

He arose and saw the garage a mass of flames. The car was a 1950 Pontiac sedan.

The Belleville fire department responded to the alarm, but it was stated the flames had made too much headway in the building.

KIWANIS MEMBERS BID FAREWELL TO JACK WALTON

Members of the Kiwanis Club met at the Kiwanis centre on Tuesday for the regular noon luncheon. There was a minimum of progress.

Tribute was paid Jack Walton, Dominion Bank manager and director of the club, who leaves on Friday to take over management of the Orillia branch. President Frank Creeggan complimented Mr. Walton on the work he has done for the organization the six years he has been in the city. The president presented Mr. Walton with the president's rose as a token of appreciation.

Following a brief sing-song the meeting was adjourned.

BOY PAID WELL FOR HONESTY

Until yesterday John R. Miller, of Bowmanville, was one of those adults who are wont to think that the younger generation is going to the dogs.

His doesn't think so any more. Miller lost his wallet while visiting in Trenton. It contained $100 in cash.

At the police station he found thirteen-year-old Pat Ferrell handing in the wallet.

Mr. Miller gave the youngster $10 and said he had changed his mind about teen-agers.

POLICE SOOTHE WOUNDED FEELINGS IN FAMILY TROUBLES

Apparently two husbands thought it was open season for beating up their spouses. City police received two calls where irate hubbies had thrown pooches at the lady of the house, one in a Front Street restaurant and the other in an upper Front St. apartment.

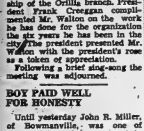
Another hubby, who had been drinking, didn't like the reception he got when he arrived home late and promptly locked the little lady out for the night. Police soothed the wounded feelings.

Two minor accidents resulting in dented fenders and no injuries occurred at different parts of Front St.

3 DOGS POISONED IN THURLOW TWP.

Charles Bradshaw, dog catcher for Thurlow township, told Provincial police last night that three dogs have been poisoned in the vicinity of the Veterans' Land Act area near the McFarlane Woodworking Co.

Police are investigating the poisonings.



MARSHAL TO HEAD PARADE IN CITY

Donald (Pete) Hunt, native of Picton and an Orangeman for the past quarter century, has been selected as marshal for the county lodges at the "Orange Walk" at Campbellford on Saturday.

But "Pete" has kept pace with the times, somehow. He won't ride the traditional white horse. It's a motor car for him.

200 YOUNG PHEASANTS PLACED IN COUNTY

Two hundred pheasant poults were distributed in suitable locations in the Prince Edward district by the Picton Rod and Gun Club. The young birds, eight weeks old, were hatched at the provincial game nursery at Napanee, and obtained through the Department of Lands and Forests.

John Walton Named Manager Of Orillia Bank

Arnold J. Wolfenden has been appointed to manage the Dominion Bank in the city. He succeeds John Walton who leaves Friday to take over the management of the Dominion Bank in Orillia.

Mr. Wolfenden was the former manager of the Islington Ave., and Steele Street branch in Toronto. He entered the bank in Montreal and moved to Toronto in 1941 where he served with the inspection department. From 1942-46 he was manager. served with the Royal Canadian Artillery in Canada. Following discharge from the army he rejoined the bank and was appointed to the Yonge Street staff, worked in the chief accounts and inspection departments for a total period of seven years.

After leaving head office, Mr. Wolfenden was appointed assistant manager of the Fairbank branch in Toronto. Two years ago he opened the Eglinton Ave. West branch, where he has been until moving to this city. The manager is married and has two children, a boy, six and a girl, four years old.

Mr. Walton has been active since having to leave Belleville. He said he had enjoyed his stay in this city and had made many friends. He is a director of the local Kiwanis club and was treasurer of the community chest during the campaign. The manager entered the bank in Trenton in 1923. He managed the Madoc branch for six years and has managed the Belleville Branch since 1947, when he left Madoc. Prior to that, Mr. Walton served in managerial positions at Larder Lake and Cobalt. He and Rusella will leave at the end of the week.

Juvenile Baseball

"Cuffer" Noakes, Elliott Motors juveniles racked up their third victory of the season out against a single loss in Picton last night, defeating the homesters by a 6-3 score. The win gives the Motors kids top-spot in the league standing.

Corlies started for the Motors but developed a streak of wildness in the first innings giving up two runs. He was relieved by Rumleski who, finished the seven-innings route.

Abbott hurled the entire game for the losers giving up nine hits. Rumleski let the homesters down with three safeties.

The Motors play host to the Wellington juveniles at the Fair Grounds tonight starting at 6.30.

Group Will Visit Kingston To Seek Modern Bus Station

TRENTON (Special) — Council last night made arrangements to have a delegation combining the Town Planning Board, Retail Merchants Association, Mayor E. R. Ruddy and Traffic Chairman Don McPherson meet Colonial Bus Line people at Kingston next meeting and building a new modern bus station in Trenton.

Council members discussed the need of playgrounds for children in the Dufferin Ave. area and the wartime housing area. It was suggested that residents of those communities should show an interest and fix up playgrounds for their own children. Commented Mayor Whitley: "If they haven't got enough gumption to get out and organize a playground it's just too bad. It's nearly time for the people themselves to take an interest." Observed town clerk O. W. Larry: "This is a great chance for some aspiring councillor to promote votes." Councillor Eben James noted that the two drownings earlier in the day showed the dire need for playgrounds. "There was no excuse whatever for those children losing their lives," he said.

Councillor James remarked on the condition of the water in the harbor. In his opinion the creosote kills the bacteria from the sewage dumped in the river through inadequate septic tanks. The discussion came about while the mayor and council reviewed sewage and their famous Centennial log rolling contest.

Advises Removal

Mayor Whitley advised the removal of the ticket booth from outside the fence around the ball park to the dressing rooms, suggested fixing the eight-sided building for dock attendant Leo Augor.

Councillor Reg. Armstrong proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman and committee of the Centennial celebration and the chief of police and his staff.

Council recommended erecting three light standards in the CNR parking area behind the downtown station.

Visitors Help Cobalt Celebrate 50th Anniversary

Cobalt, which calls itself the biggest small town in Northern Ontario, is now bigger by 2,000 visitors who have flocked into the silver-mining community to celebrate its 50th anniversary. During the week-long event there will be such goings on as hand steel-drilling contests, tours to mining areas, a ladies' log-sawing contest, a soapbox race for children and many more activities. And although it's not on the schedule officially, there will be a lot of talk about the good old days when W. G. Miller, whose plaque Premier Frost is standing beside, gave the town of Cobalt its name when working around that area as first provincial geologist. Cobalt is tabbed by geologists as the birthplace of Ontario's rich silver-cobalt mining. It also sparked the rushes to Kirkland Lake, Porcupine, Red Lake, Noranda and even Eldorado. — Central Press Canadian.

IN MEMORIAM

FRIZZONE. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Florence May Frizzone, who departed this life July 8, 1952.

We who loved you sadly miss you,
As it drews another year.
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of you are ever near.
—Ever remembered by son and Charlie, daughter-in-law and family.

VESTRAFELT. — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Ann Vestrafelt, who passed away July 8, 1950.

Her thoughts were so full of kindness,
Her every deed was love.
And so we think that where she is
She must be like above.
As angels hush their watch up there,
And fold their wings to rest,
That we dream of mother forever,
We love and miss her so.
—Always remembered by her daughter Rose, son-in-law and grandchildren.

PARRISH. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Thomas James, who passed away July 8, 1952.

He is gone but not forgotten
And as dawns another year,
We think of him more, thinking
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness still come o'er us
Friends may think the sorrow healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered.

HAZARD. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Frederick Hazard, who died July 8, 1931.

There is a link death cannot sever,
Love and memory last forever,
But our thoughts reach out to you.
Dear Lord, we cannot understand,
But we wish you could share it too.
Yet in Thy wisdom Thou doest say,
Please God just let him know
That we love him and never forget
We long to see you.
—Dad, Mother and John.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Prices were firm on light steers and heifers and steady on other killers at the Ontario stockyards today. Receipts: Cattle 290; calves 70; hogs 230; sheep and lambs 119; holdover from Tuesday 600 cattle.

Choice light steers 19-20; medium to good 17-18.50; good to choice heavy 17-18; good heifers 18.50-19; plain steers and heifers downward to 15; good cows 14-15; good 4s 12½ to 13.50-14.50; choice fed yearlings 20 to 21.50; a few stockers 13.17.

Calves were firm at 18-20 for the bulk of sales with tops at 22; common to medium 10-17.

Grade A hogs 33; dressed sows 23.

Lambs opened at 28 for good ewes and wethers and closed at 27; bucks were at a new dollar discount; common to medium sheep 5-8.

PLANE CRASHES, 6 DIE

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP) — A four-engine navy plane crashed in flames on the west bank of the Chester river south of here Tuesday, killing the six men aboard. The navy in Washington said the plane was a Constellation transport on a training flight from its base at the Patuxent, Md., naval station.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) —The U.S. dollar was at a discount of 25-32 per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. The noon rate was 99 13-16 cents. Pound sterling $2.79 3-8, against $2.79 5-16.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices turned mixed to weaker in light previous stock market trading today.

Uraniums and New Brunswick base metals lacked their customary volume as they traded generally lower. Brilund dropped to a new low of $1.75 on a 65-cent loss. Gunnar countered the trend with a 15-cent gain followed by encouraging mine reports from its property in the Beaverlodge uranium area of northern Saskatchewan.

In industrials, Tembiya was the only issue advancing in fractional gain as it added 2½ at $33.

Golds settled lower after weakness developed in holding companies and juniors. Hollinger helped stabilize seniors with a fractional gain.

Base metals showed a majority in key stocks such as Sherritt-Gordon and Steep Rock easing a minor index drop. Hudson Bay was a bright spot in higher-priced issues.

Losses for Jasper, Central-Leduc and Banff set an easier tone for western oils although Devon Leduc and Canada Oil Lands made a little headway.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Sales were steady and prices were unchanged at the ex-ex market. Quotations for graded cream in 36-lb cases were: A large 63; A medium 62; A small 59; grade B 57; grade C 42. Wholesale to retail: A large 70; A medium 67; A small 65; grade B 52; grade C 47.

Butter solids: first grade tendencies 38 cents; non-tenderable 36½-36¾; western 38.

Midget Baseball

Robb Rockets won their eighth straight by defeating the Houston Lumber 8-5 at the Fair Grounds last night. It was a hard fought battle as both teams held the lead at various stages of the game.

Ryan pitched for the losers giving up 8 hits for 6 runs, he walked 5 while striking out 3. Buszard pitched for the winners, giving up 5 hits for 5 runs. He walked 6 and struck out 10.

For the Rockets, Moore and Buszard each had a double, while Little, Carrothers and Hagerman each had a single.

For Houston's Phil Cornell led the attack with a perfect 3 for 3 for 3 times at bat. Schrieder had two hits as did Spry.

REQUEST SIGN POSTS

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—A bill to require Ohio police to post signs warning motorists of zones in which speed is measured by radar or electrical equipment passed the Senate, 29-3. The bill as it now stands provides such signs must be posted not less than 750 feet or more than 1,500 feet in advance of such a speed measuring zone.

HUSBAND KILLED

WARREN, O. (AP)—Mrs. Dollie Hector, 54, lay for 19 hours near the body of her husband before rescue workers pulled them both under a pile of newly baked hay. Claude B. Hector died when the left of his barn collapsed and buried him under several tons of hay. Mrs. Hector was hurt and trapped under the bales.

PICTON

Liberals Decide Not to Enter A Candidate

Picton — Liberals of Prince Edward-Lennox have decided not to enter a candidate in the present election. This action was decided upon at a meeting of representatives of the various polls held this week in the town hall at Adolphustown. Officers of the Association, headed by Gerard Kavanagh, reported that a number of men had been approached as possible candidates, without success, and the nomination was offered anyone interested in the hall with no takers.

One Liberal commented frankly, "No Liberal can beat George Tustin (Progressive Conservative candidate) in a straight fight".

While the Liberals failed to get a candidate, it does not mean an acclamation for Mr. Tustin, member for 18 years. Donald Thompson of South Bay, a farmer, yesterday announced that he would enter the fray as an Independent candidate.

"I feel that it is time for someone to come out and speak freelessly and frankly for this diversified farming and industrial constituency in home matters and wage earners, unfettered by any political affiliations whatsoever," he said in a statement.

Mr. Thompson is an ex-warden of Prince Edward, president of the County Federation of Agriculture and has a number of offices in farm groups.

Road Will Be Taken Over By Department

PICTON—The four and one-half mile of road between the village of Cherry Valley and Milford is being taken over by the Ontario Department of Highways as a development road, Norris Whitney, MPP, Prince Edward-Lennox announced yesterday. Work will commence in the next few weeks. The government will pay the entire cost exclusive of the asphalt top which would be laid for another year. Cost of the project is around $43,000.

Development road in the townships of Athol and South Marysburgh was considered in view of the fact that both have large areas taken over for military purposes and have large acreages of pasture land.

Mr. Whitney also announced that there would be considerable work done by the department on the Bay road, and in a section of Hillier township.

Had Wild Ride

Few thrill shows were ever more exciting than that at the farm home of Aubrey Brooks, near Demorestville. His son, Allan, three and one-half years, got into the car his father had left standing facing the garage. It was in gear and Allan pushed the starter. Zip, the car shot ahead, crashing through both walls of the frame garage, leaving the ends and roof standing. Allan's older brother James, 18 ran after the car and though he fell twice, managed to jump into the car after it had travelled several hundred feet and get it stopped as it tore through a heavy steel fence. He suffered a sprained ankle but young Allan was unhurt and appeared to enjoy his wild ride. The car escaped with only a headlight and a small hole in the gas tank.

PASS EXAMINATIONS IN GENERAL ACCOUNTS

The names of two city residents appear in the list of successful candidates following the writing of the examinations in General Accounts at Toronto this spring. Mrs. D. J. Brown was successful in the intermediate, part one examinations and K. M. Silber passed the finals.

Obituary

MRS. MARY MITCHELL

STIRLING — The funeral of Mrs. Mary Mitchell, one of the pioneers of Stirling, who had resided in the village for over 60 years, was held on Monday, St. John's Church of England. The rector, Rev. H. C. Secker, conducted the service and Mrs. Burton Woodbeck rendered "The Old Rugged Cross."

The bearers were: Roscoe Wright, B. Belshaw, Earl Morrow, Will Bowen, Harry Jones and John McGowan.

Interment was made in Stirling cemetery, besides her husband, William Mitchell, who predeceased her a few years ago, there are no known survivors.

CAMPBELLFORD

H. N. Carr Installs Rotary Officers

CAMPBELLFORD — Past president Harold N. Carr officiated at the installation of officers at the regular meeting of the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday night.

In his address to the club, Mr. Carr stressed the fact that Rotary is first and foremost interested in service. The meetings and the fellowship that the members enjoy are merely a means to an end. "The gospel of Rotary is service and assistance," he said. Members were asked to observe the rules of honesty, decency and good fellowship.

Personal Convictions

Mr. Carr went on to say that, "it did not matter what color, race or creed a Rotarian may be. What matters is his personal convictions and what does he stand for? The man who works well with others in the service of his community, without any racial prejudice, fosters in his heart the ideal of service and daily dealing carries with him the power which is circling the globe in the interest of peace.

"It is this power, multiplied by the thousands of members of clubs around the world that is bound to exert an influence for the ultimate good of humanity at large.

Officers Installed

Mr. Carr installed the following officers for the coming term: Past president, Frank G. DeCarole; president, Bud Davidson; vice-president, Wm. McComb; secretary, Hilton Beatty; treasurer, Austin Putnam; directors, Dr. C. A. Bright and Leo Doherty.

Retiring president Frank DeCarrol was presented with a past president's pin by the new president, Bud Davidson, on behalf of the club.

SAVED FROM LONG WALK

HUNTINGDON, Que. — Officers who stopped a 10-year-old youth asked him where he was going. The youth said he was going home to Guelph, 16 miles away. He said he left his father's car because he wasn't allowed to sit in the front seat. Police finally located the family car nearby and saved the youngster the footwork.

Contractor Loses $10,000 on Sure Betting Scheme

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Otho L. Piper, 47, a wealthy Warsaw, Ind., contractor, complained Tuesday to Windsor and Detroit police that he lost $10,000 in a horse racing bet Monday when he became involved in a "sure thing" scheme which had earlier earned him $6,300 in winnings.

Piper, a former wrestler, took his loss good naturedly and said it wouldn't break him.

Police said they were inclined to go along with Piper's theory that he was the victim of a mistake rather than an attempt by two friends to swindle him.

He told police he was first introduced to the complicated system of laying "sure thing" bets two years ago when he met a man known to him only as Col. Kreicher, about 70, in a Warsaw betting parlor.

Under the system, two men introduced to Piper as Harry Bolinger, 43, and Jack Ahern, 30, used an "electronic telephone." With this gear they were able to rush results of horse races to clients seconds after a race was over and before the results were delivered to bookies through normal channels. They the men "in the know" hurried to bookies to place bets on the horse that won.

Piper said he received a telephone call two weeks ago from Bolinger and Ahern who said they had a "sure-fire system that wasn't ethical but that it worked."

On advice of the two men, Piper flew to Windsor. At a hotel here Monday he met the two men and Col. Kretcher.

Piper said he was assigned to handle the Windsor end of the electronic telephone over which he heard a voice on the other end say No. 3 horse won the race at Monmouth Park in New Jersey. He relayed the winner to the three men who placed bets, including Piper's $10,000.

Piper later received a call from the three men who informed him

RENT CONTROLS

A letter from a reader in the Oshawa Times-Gazette announces rent controls, declaring that they are "based upon a false premise—upon the premise that the landlord should provide housing to tenants who are unable to pay rents according to the law of supply and demand."

That statement is made in the opening sentence and this letter-writer gets away to a bad start. For most Canadians would object to the writer's premise, that a landlord should be entitled to charge all the traffic will bear. The writer draws several conclusions. One is the manner in which a grocer sells strawberries. But it is quite possible for a man and his family to exist—and even to enjoy life without paying the price for strawberries fixed by the law of supply and demand. Unfortunately, it is not so simple to live on the law of supply and demand. The price of strawberries was not seriously reduced by the war. That of houses was. No self-respecting government could have permitted some landlords to profiteer as they did during the housing shortage. There was nothing false, in those days, about the premise that a landlord should not be permitted to charge as much as the law of supply and demand would allow him to charge.

But what was not false at the war's end may very well be false today. We suspect it is. A realistic appraisal of the situation might lead a competent judge to the conclusion that a continuation of rental controls is doing more to perpetuate than to solve the housing problem.

Merely lifting the controls is not the answer. Many people are paying as much rent as they can afford. Some readjustment in building costs appears imperative. But, if we could reduce building costs and then lift the controls, a flood storm which the lifting of rental controls would bring, we might find that lifting the controls would eventually result in lower, rather than higher, rents, by encouraging the construction of rental accommodation, thereby increasing the supply and lessening the demand.

HOW IS YOUR DIAPER PAL?

Have you a diaper pal?

Oh, but you should have. If you are a father of a tiny of tender years, that is.

Ruth Watson, Reg. N., says so. Well, perhaps that isn't quite fair to Watson, Miss or Mrs. Maybe she does not say so. All we know is that the Health League of Canada says that Watson (Miss or Mrs.) has written an article in the June issue of the magazine "Health" telling about classes for expectant fathers. In the Health League press release several of Watson's sage observations on the subject are quoted, with the appropriate quotation marks, but the diaper pal sentence is devoid of these little comma symbols. Do not know whether they thought it common or unclean. It seems rather obvious that that sentence is going to fall flat on its face, anyway, quotes or no quotes.

Of course, we are led up to it very neatly, with a statement which only a baby-hater could dispute. Every baby needs to have the loving care of its father as well as its mother. That is the gist of the statement. And what's to be done with that? Then comes the catch sentence. If he is to be a pal on fishing trips later, he should be a pal in diaper days! The exclamation mark is not of our making. But we will let it stand. It is a whole lot less offensive than some marks which would seem equally appropriate.

Now let us gently break some news to Watson (Miss or Mrs.). Any similarity between a fishing pal and a son in his diaper days is strictly Reg. N.—Regular Nonsense that is. Diapers are useful articles of clothing in the life of a nuisance under foot going on—but even a father can appreciate that their presence is much more desirable than their absence. What they are pinned around the child's person for is another matter entirely. A instructed, guided, always loved and frequently played with — but as long as it needs diapers it cannot, in the very nature of things, be considered a pal.

The most absolutely essential attribute of a "pal-ship" is the establishment of a feeling of equality. There is no equality between a diaper changer and a diaper changee, no matter what the blood relation may be. No boy is a fishing pal of his father if the father looks on rod and line in his son's hands as just another diaper in changed from wet to dry. No father can become a pal in the appropriate moment when small fish may be in the vicinity and grabbed away from the little brat with scant ceremony in the unlikely event of any one taking hold of the line. The man who can make his son a diaper pal will never make him a fishing pal and Watson (Miss or Mrs.) being unable to test the accuracy of that statement by becoming a father, is expectant or otherwise, will just have to take our word for it.

P.S.— Just read the article over again. Discovered that Watson is a Miss. Explains a lot.

GARDEN LESSON

The garden's full of beauty and the air is full of song
And the roses, red and yellow, gladly seem to get along.
Now and then the birds are frightened by an owl or noisy crow
But two robins for a single worm is more often seen.
But it seems to be apparent every thing by nature's plan
For the service it was meant for,
does a better job than man.

It is true by rigid instinct bird and flower are firmly held.
To fulfill their single purpose they by nature are compelled.
They cannot change conditions;
they must live and they must die.

As the Lord above intended, and they cannot question why.
But I look about my garden,
thinking every thing I scan
For the purpose it was made for,
does a better job than man.

We have enemies to battle. We have human cowls and cows.
Who threaten our destruction and we know them as our foes.
But we have the gift of reason and the genius to improve,
And we surely ought to manage to get out of hatred's groove.
Now the roses all are blooming;
there's a songbird in the tree
And I wonder will man ever be as fine as he could be?

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE DAYS

50 YEARS AGO

July 8, 1903.

The Griffin Opera House, which for many years was known as the German Lutheran Church, is being demolished. The job is giving employment to a number of local men. Some quaint relics are also being brought from Toronto by the wreckers.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Hinchey have returned home after spending several days in Montreal and Quebec City.

Miss Jessie R. Tutte, Miss Madeline Young, Miss Norma Weddon, Miss Jane Smith, all of Belleville, and Miss Iverson of Ottawa, will sail shortly from Montreal for the Bermudas, Duchess of Bedford. They will spend two months there, returning home at the end of the party including Miss Grace Tucker, Miss Ina Gordon, Miss Mabel Cone for a left a few weeks ago.

Dr. W. J. Wills is spending a few holidays at Buck Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Hatch and family of Toronto are now at their cottage on Cedar Island.

Mrs. E. Pigden has returned home after spending some time with friends in Prescott and Ogdensburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Bryan are spending their vacation at Brockville, Prescott, Ogdensburg and Montreal.

38 YEARS AGO

July 8, 1912.

Mr. R. Wasman and family of Chicago, Ill., are visiting his brother here. The journey from Chicago to this city was made by motor car.

Mr. Robert Craig, Conservative M.P. for North Hastings, has been selected by the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, K.C., to speak at his cabinet without portfolio.

A motor car driven by Leslie Weaver of this city was damaged in an accident on the Madoc road when it struck a cow half north of the city last evening when the car driver's horse shied and ran off the road. The car went into the ditch and a front wheel was broken off. No one was injured. The car was left at the scene of the accident until this morning and during the night it was stripped of four tires, coil, headlight bulbs, radiator cap, oil cups and a woollen jacket was stolen. The provincial police are working on the case.

60 YEARS AGO

July 8, 1912.

Miss Annie Barrett of New York City is visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Tate Massey have arrived here from England and are visiting his mother, Mrs. Lord Massey, Sidney township.

Mrs. Frank Creeper spent the past week with friends in North Port.

Lieut. Col. W. N. Ponton visited the cadet camp at Barriefield yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Duffin of Ops are visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCourt of Chicago, Ill., are visiting relatives here. Mr. McCourt is an old Belleville boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick have returned home from Toronto where they visited friends.

Prof. Ashley and wife of Philadelphia, Pa., are visiting relatives here.

Mr. Ernest McCormick is attending the photographers' convention in Toronto.

58 YEARS AGO

July 8, 1902.

Punt races will be held here during July and August on Wednesday afternoons and the meeting which was held at Hotel Quinte last evening the following officials were appointed: Judges, J. V. Jenkins, William Blackburn; timekeeper, Dr. McFee. Other Carsew; secretary, Richard S. Bell; assistant secretary, Robert Black; timekeeper, J. A. McFee.

A number of citizens who have failed to register their dogs will appear in police court tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Percival are visiting relatives here.

Mr. D. Crow and family, William street, have left to spend the summer at their cottage at Crowe Lake, near Marmora.

Smut Smells Sweet

(By J.M.G. in The Wheat Free Press)

When mildly in the future species a judicious bunch of perfume behind their ears might be surprised to know that the best of the alluring scents were distilled from most unromantically—corn smut.

But it is quite true, as a French novelist of the last century observed: "Opportunity knocks some from flowers whose names they bear." And it has also been that a U.S. farm plans to prepare synthetic musk, for the manufacture of perfumes, from chemicals discovered in the N.R.C. Prairie Regional Laboratory in Saskatoon — and that corn smut is the basic ingredient of that substance.

The N.R.C., of course, is the National Research Council, and in its modern laboratory, a three-story brick building on the campus of the University of Saskatchewan, an elite staff of scientists carries on a wide variety of experiments, from research in the plant chemistry, its application to food values and possible conservation of the products of western agriculture.

It was Dr. G.A. Ledingham, director of the laboratory, who told us the story briefly.

The process was discovered in the course of investigations into "hydrazides and protein chemistry . . . and investigations of the chemistry of carbohydrates and gums."

This technical terminology is not for the layman, but Dr. Ledingham, from an N.R.C. report of 1952 which outlined work then just begun at the lab.

Dr. Ledingham merely told us that "a new fermentation was worked out," that it appeared to have importance and so was patented.

It interested a great many scientists and fully a dozen scientific publications have asked about Dr. Ledingham's discovery.

The product was an antibiotic"—"one that they're using in therapeutic use— made from a reaction of certain sugars and fatty acids, both corn smut as the basis for the main sugar.

When an N.R.C. discovery is patented, the patent is made in the name of the Canadian Patents and Development Limited, a Crown company, which then licenses the discovery, inviting Canadian industry to be interested in developing it. The N.R.C. does not wish to go into business itself but it does want to see its discoveries put to use.

For this reason it takes the"precaution of keeping the right to when selling a patent, to make the patent available to a second company if the first fails to develop or exploit the discovery. Any profits the Canadian Patents and Development Limited are set aside for "further research and development."

Apparently no Canadian firm interested enough to go into the fermentation process and the patent was sold to the U.S. company which, by further chemical treatment, has transformed the substance into musk, previously most difficult to synthesize. Present musks, by the way, around five hundred dollars a pound.

Dr. Ledingham turned us over to Dr. A.C. Neish, who conducted us through the well-equipped building. In various labs strange liquids bubbled up in intricate contraptions of flasks, test tubes and glass coils. None had quite the rhythm that Rimsky-Korsakov gave in "The Man in the White Suit". We complained of this but Dr. Neish, in his white lab coat, just smiled indulgently. He told us something of his own work, the study of the biochemistry of the higher plants with radioactive tracer elements, and he took us into a room where, in each marked "danger—keep out") into which the radio-active chemicals were stored in special containers of glass cubes. Dr. Neish tries the chemicals out on plants —and if the plants gobble them up he can trace them with a geiger counter.

MOST AMERICANS NEED CA AND D

From the fragments of my sketchy diet that appear in print I conclude that the fates are determined I shall never get over my concern over this concept or belief, namely, that no or a few Americans suffer from calcium deficiency due to our ultra-refined diet, and the deficiency manifests itself in numerous ailments, as various as headache, rheumatic, eczema, sinus trouble, almosts generally attended with aches or pain for the relief of which victims resort to phenacetin, acetanilid and other heart-damaging, blood-destroying drugs.

My feeling of frustration may merely be peevishness but it does seem to me that every time I begin sharp attack on the subjujject of the daily intake of vitamins, a carrot comes out of the laboratory and gives Aunt Polly or Uncle Dan a new variation on the theme of "calcium deposits in joints, blood-vessels, kidneys, brains or what have you and that makes fruit juice seem positively silly as little squib is hidden away where only the most

Let the physician who chooses to dismiss this as another pipe dream consider the question of calcium, and maybe he will see a gleam of light!

Calcium regulates excitability of nerve fibres and nerve centres.

Calcium is necessary for the adequate contraction of heart muscle to maintain good circulation.

Calcium is necessary for clotting of blood.

Calcium diminishes permeability of capillary wall.

Calcium is essential for ossification of bone and for good healing of fracture.

All the above is biological. The effects of the calcium you should get from food if you followed a high calcium diet from cradle to —you know, that absurd, garish tomb.

This being a health column we shall say nothing about the use of calcium as medicine.

But even if your regular diet is a high-calcium diet — that is, composed mainly of milk, eggs, cheese, peas, beans, greens, peanuts, nuts—you might still suffer seem to me that every time I begin from calcium deficiency if your daily intake of vitamin D or some substitute vitamin D were inadequate, for vitamin D is essential for normal utilization of calcium in the body. Your vitamin D may be adequate or two in summer nor for a season or a year, but every day you do not get some vitamin D. By output of vitamin D, I mean the quantity you manufacture in your body when you are sufficiently exposed to sunshine, daylight or the ultraviolet from a suitable lamp.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Unlike a dog, a cat will come crawling and snuggling, the stranger may reasonably assume that straight up to a stranger and arch its back, stiffen its tail and begin rubbing itself chummily against a stranger's ankles. This is not the case. The cat is not so easily counted to the credit of cats. A dog, on the contrary, takes a shine to all strangers; sometimes barks and shows signs of peerless fury—but only as a matter of form. It is only after a reasonable period of investigation that a dog will really admit of a friendly pat.

The effusive nature of cats is embarrassing to many people. And it may be for good reason. For a pet dealer informs me that the reason a cat comes so eagerly up to strangers and begins fawning around their legs is that the body so coolly against the ankles is simply that the cat is trying to get rid of its fleas. Notice, he says, how the cat fluffs out its fur as electrically as if it were performing this act: how its body is stiffened and arched. Most people are not particularly aware of the live of cat fleas. But there are very many who are most attentive to cat fleas, and these are the people who receive the most enthusiastic welcome. A cat just rubs up on a stranger and appears to rejoice in

Heckling Lost Art

(Ottawa Journal)

A sad and curious thing about Canadian election meetings is their apathy. Not long ago the hecklers; without people in the audience well-primed with facts and figures, used to get up and fire them at the unfortunate speaker who betrays himself into trifling errors.

In the old campaigns there were always "plants" in the audience, those profiteers about which we hear so much today in the competitive speaker at a stormy meeting in 1921. "They are all on the payroll," shouted the heckler in the voice—a hit at a number of prominent politicians—of the plants that brought down the house.

"Sell all on Ottawa quotation!" in charge of finance—"If at the end of the year you found yourself with a million dollars what you do?" "I would beat it," would be the eager reply in the audience, and the meeting all but broke up.

Laurier, Borden, Meighen and Bennett all were heckled. They were heckled in Meighen's day by rose to his highest when heckling was almost silenced and won the cheers of a great, open-air, hostile meeting in Quebec City. Then came the dreadful days of conscription by hurling back lacrosse balls filled.

Today, perhaps because of the manuscript, perhaps because Canadians are more interested, in the latest stream-lined number than in politics, perhaps because our modern politicians are more impressive, heckling has disappeared.

The loss is that our political orators, such as they are, massacre facts only to invite silence. So it goes; a monotonous repetition of dullness, with not a phrase from the platform, or a quip,from the crowd.

In England heckling is an art and a great and useful part of the drama of politics. They train for it there, make them a part of a party's weapons; train

'Bold Pioneer' Fastest Ship

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

When faster ships are built you may depend upon it that Britain will build them.

Many monster ships took part in the Coronation naval review off Spithead but outstanding among them all was the Bold Pioneer. She is the fastest vessel in the world, having been clocked at 44 knots in her speed trials. Her exact speed has not been revealed, but 40 knots is equivalent to 30 miles an hour. A ship that size could do a mile down the English Channel at that speed, firing her 4.5 gun and also her 3-inch anti-aircraft guns. Submarine could stand any chance against her before it could crash-dive.

The "Bold Pioneer" left watching ships behind as she tore past them, her bows out of water, her guns blazing, her crew cheering guns blazing. Her wash made the other ships roll on their beamends. The "Bold Pioneer" didn't, at all. Cowes, Isle of Wight, she is the largest warship ever built. The 12,000 horsepower gasturbine engines were designed and built by Metropolitan Vickers, and all tests have exceeded expectations.

This monster, almost 14 1/2 feet long, draws only seven feet of water and her displacement is 20,000 tons. Her main armament is that on engineering miracle, and the Royal Navy is as proud of her as it is of the mighty Vanguard which led the parade.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE FOG

We have all experienced the sight of the sun suddenly blotted out by the mist overhead. When it gets too heavy we call it merely—the fog. But it is very serious to the pilots of ships at sea. They slow down to a crawl and keep the fog-horn calling through it. Cars on the highways also have to slow down and drive with great care, and air liners are grounded.

Not even powerful sun can penetrate a dense fog. Man is almost helpless when it hits. But there is this cheerful fact—the fog always lifts! Behind it is the sun, and as it takes the fog in its arms and, after a comparatively short time, it is gone.

There is so much in life that reminds us of nature's fog. There are times when we get into a mental or spiritual fog. We don't know the next road ahead to take, because we see nothing clearly. And all too often this sort of fog does not soon leave us—often remaining for days or months. Even our closest friends fail to offer means for its escape.

Some of us do not know how to a way out. There is no book in the world so enlightening as the book of Job—experiencing a terrible spiritual fog and turned to God for guidance. David, the Psalmist, often seemed caught in a fog and called upon the Lord, as many of the Psalms suggest that he did. I have often wondered what inspired David to write his Twenty-third Psalm. Was it to celebrate the triumph over a period of depressive mental or spiritual fog?

From the reading of my daily newspaper I get the impression that Washington is not the only government that is feeling its way through a puzzling fog! Many nations are enveloped with a fog, through which they have no clear way resolved upon to lead them into the light. There is a remedy, however, more potent than radar. That is faith, courage, and the

GOD OR THE TELEPHONE

Years ago as a boy I rode over areas of a western desert which were then unfenced. Often I was very glad to sell for ten cents an acre. Today, with irrigation water now all over this land, it is said to be worth thousands of dollars an acre. Each section fell on the land when then. Nor does it today but when the farmer wants water he only turns on the gates to the telephone and orders the water turned on. In that section of the world the farmers declare, "We used to pray for rain, now we telephone for it."

There are both advantages and disadvantages in this new arrangement. The physical and economic advantages are apparent. But not only in the construction of the irrigation project but in most things we are losing the power to commune up a satisfied sense of his own adequacy and feeling that we can get along very well without God. He doesn't pray now — he telephones for it. He doesn't have me and people like me to do it for Him!" Because a man has an automobile and a bank account, a social security number and a good job, he sees little reason to pay much attention to God except on Easter Sunday and Christmas. He goes to church because everybody else is going.

We used to pray for rain," he murmurs complacently, "now we telephone for it."

RCAF Personnel Collects Sport Trophies in Past Week

A weekly review of sports' activities in and around Middleton Park shows that RCAF personnel and their families have been busy collecting trophies and battling it out in many different fields of sport.

Carney and Michael Maroney brought home three silver trophies from the Trenton Centennial Soap Box Derby. Members of the RCAF Water Birds swimming club swam away with a total of twenty-three ribbons and silver cups during the Centennial swim meet and the RCAF Station Trenton "Jets" ladies' softball team defeated Belleville when they met in Bayshore Park to help Trenton celebrate her birthday.

RCAF Station Trenton's golf team came from behind to win the Air Officer Commanding's cup, recently, by defeating teams from No. 6 Repair Depot and Training Command headquarters by a wide margin. The winning team for the past two years, Training Command Headquarters, tied for second place with the Repair Depot. Final tally gave the station 30 points and 21 points each to Headquarters and the Depot.

Following is a list of individual prize winners:

First Round

Low gross—C. Niddery (8RD) and D. G. Black (Station) (tie), 79.

2nd low gross—Sgt. F. J. Blair (TCHQ), 80.

Low net—Capt. LaHaye (Station), 66, (33), 67.

2nd. low net—S/L E. J. Geddes (TCHQ), 82, (14), 68.

3rd. low net—Sgt. R. Cronk (Station), 84 (14), 70.

Second Round

Low Gross, C. Nidderry (8RD) 72

2nd Low Gross, D. G. Black (Station) 78

Low Net, Sgt. Fry (8RD) 67—66 (34) 66

3rd Low Net, S/L. A. A. Kemmper (8RD)—65 (36) 69

Round two saw Station cross from behind to add 17½ points to their second place round one total, thereby giving them the final winning total of 39 points. Leading in round one, Training Command dropped into third spot in round two to tie with 8RD for second place in the overall series.

Ladies' Lakeshore Loop League

RCAF Station Trenton "Jets" ladies' softball nine with two losses and eight wins moved once again into tie position for first place last week with Belleville, having recorded eight wins and three losses. The "Jets" now have a total of 132 runs to their credit with 71 scored against them in the series. Trailing closely behind the two first place teams is Baltimore with only two losses out of nine games played.

The "Jets" tallied up their second loss last week when Belleville defeated the home team by a score of 19 to 12 in Belleville. The home game was played in Bayshore Park as part of Trenton Centennial celebrations and gave the "Jets" a 21 to 9 win over Belleville.

The No. 6 Repair Depot "Rockettes" scored a win and a loss in Belleville they were defeated by a close margin with a score of 3 to 2 for Belleville. In a home game the "Rockettes" defeated Colborne by a score of 12 to 9 to give them their third win of the season.

Britain to Stand Firm in Holding Suez Canal Zone

LONDON (CP) — Britain will stand firm in Washington on her policy of holding the Suez canal zone pending a wider settlement with Egypt, government officials said Tuesday night.

The word came out after the British cabinet met Monday to brief the acting foreign secretary, the Marquess of Salisbury, for his talks Friday with U.S. State Secretary Dulles and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault.

Salisbury's orders to stand firm may have been prompted by the belief here that Dulles has been formulating a new Middle East policy for the U.S. since his recent swing through the region. Some officials have deduced from Dulles' public statements that the U.S. may be inclined in the future to show more sympathy for Egypt's case in the prolonged quarrel with Britain over Suez canal defence.

Egypt has demanded that Britain quit the great bases built up around the Suez at a cost set at $1,400,000,000.

Britain has refused to quit, arguing that her skilled technicians alone are capable of maintaining the complicated installation, but saying she will gradually withdraw her estimated 70,000-strong Suez garrison if Egypt agrees first to join a wider Allied-sponsored system of Middle East defence.

Malan Says No Need to Leave Commonwealth

CAPETOWN (AP)—Prime Minister Daniel Malan said Tuesday there is no need for South Africa to leave the Commonwealth to achieve greater freedom.

Malan told the South African Parliament: "The Commonwealth gives us the greatest freedom we could wish for. On the grounds of achieving greater freedom for South Africa, no case could be made out for leaving the Commonwealth."

He was commenting on a motion by Opposition Leader J. G. F. Strauss, who had asked the House to approve the way in which the government has been cooperating with the rest of the Commonwealth. This was Malan's first public statement in South Africa since his return from the Coronation and Commonwealth conference in London.

After accepting the expression of approval, Malan said that whatever anyone might think about the future of South Africa—whether with or without the Crown—the present position is that the Crown is part of the constitution.

Weddings

CLANCY—BROWN

Before a lovely background of assorted summer flowers and double ring ceremony was solemnized in Carmel United Church, Stirling, on Saturday, July 4, at 12 o'clock, when Rev. A. E. Baker united in marriage Verna Ida June Brown, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Brown, of Stirling, to Gerald Allan Clancy, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clancy, of Wellman's.

The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. Malcolm Sharp, and the soloist, Mr. Douglas Tyrrell sang "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony, and "Because" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her gown of white Chantilly lace and nylon net over taffeta fashioned with strapless molded bodice, with sweetheart neckline of tulle, and lace jacket with long fitted sleeves. The full skirt was accented with points front and back outlined by nylon ruching and a deep flounce. Her fingertip veil of imported tulle illusion, edged with Chantilly lace, was held in place by orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible and sweetheart roses with rosebuds and stephanotis cascading down the white streamers.

Miss Ruth Clancy, only sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride, as maid of honor, wearing orchid, and Misses Beverly Reid, Ruth Parks and Carol Ray, were bridesmaids attired in yellow. The attendants all were lovely in gowns of net with matching bracaded silk boleros and matching net pleated headdresses. They carried nosegays to correspond.

Little Miss Marilyn Brown wore ankle length dress organdy and carried a basket of sweetpeas, rosebuds and baby's breath.

Mr. Gordon McInroy, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man, with Messrs. Ray Sharp and Allan Wallace, as ushers.

The reception was held in the church hall where the bride's mother, attired in navy nylon marquisette with corsage of pink and white carnations, received, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore navy sheer and lace with corsage of pink and white carnations.

Those who served were, Betty Smith, Marlene Carlisle, Marlene Armstrong, Beverly Burleigh, Lorraine Haight, Anita Bailey, Lela and Donna McColl, Barbara Meiklejohn and Ruth Donan, assisted by Mrs. Joseph Grills.

Immediately following the reception, a large family Bible was presented to the bride and bridegroom from the congregation of Carmel United Church, it being the first marriage ceremony performed in that church.

For travelling through the United States and Western Ontario, the bride chose a suit of blush pink with white and navy accessories and a corsage of deep rose carnations.

Guests were present from Peterborough, Sarnia, Toronto, Guelph, Norwood, Ottawa, Whitby, Markham, and surrounding districts.

STAPLEY—VARDY

Tall standards of pink and white stocks, spires and other spring flowers formed a lovely setting on Saturday, June 6, at 2:00 p.m., in Grace United, Stirling, Ontario, for the marriage of Irma Jane Vardy, of Stirling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Vardy, to Samuel George Stapley, also of Stirling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Stapley. Mr. W. E. Belch, of Belleville, officiated.

Mrs. Robert Reid, of Springbrook, sister of the bridegroom, rendered the wedding music, and was accompanied Mrs. Ken Broadworth, soloist, who sang, during the ceremony, "A Marriage Prayer", and during the signing of the register, "The 23rd Psalm".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of floor length white nylon taffeta fashioned with fitted, scalloped bodice with lace yoke, and long sheath-like sleeve ending in lily-points over the hands. The skirt was gracefully full, falling in soft folds. Her French illusion veil was held by a halo of lace and taffeta, and she carried a Colonial shower bouquet of Briarcliffe roses, lily-of-the-valley and white sweetpeas with white satin streamers showered with rosebuds.

Miss Doris Griggs, of Bancroft, was bridesmaid, wearing lime green taffeta, featuring a fitted scalloped bodice with net yoke, and full floor length skirt. She wore a Juliet matching cap and carried a nosegay of Briarcliffe roses, lily-of-the-valley and mauve sweetpeas.

The two flower girls, little Misses Barbara Anne Vardy, of Stirling, and the baby's cousin, little Ruth Stapley, of Trenton, niece of the bridegroom, were demure in their floor length frocks, the former in orchid taffeta, and the latter in yellow taffeta, fashioned with fitted bodices and full tiered skirts. They carried baskets of sweetpeas with yellow streamers, and mauve streamers respectively, and were breathless

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She's All Dad Has — What About The Boy Friend?

The girl is 18, the boy 17, and this most teen-agers, there is problem. She tells it this way:

"My mother is dead, and my father and I live together. I am the only one Dad has now, and we think the world of each other, but I have quite a problem about my boy friend.

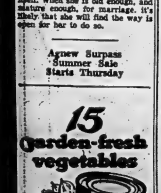
"Dad says I should see this boy on Fridays and Saturdays and no later than 11 o'clock, and if I ever do see him any other night during the week only until 10:30 p.m. If this boy telephones me during the day, Dad yells at me and says to tell him not to phone any more. He is always forever threatening to break us up.

"My questions are (1) is there any way I can possibly be sure it is love that this boy and I feel for each other; and, assuming it is, and (2) do you think I should give him up because of my dad, since I realize I am all Dad has? This boy and I are planning on getting married sometime. I want to know how any one can really know what true love is."

Let's take this girl's question about true love first.

True love is a combination of a great many things. If a person has perfect faith in someone else, knowing for a certainty that this other person would never be anything but honest, loyal and loving; if the two of them have the same basic standards of life so that they fundamentally agree on what is right and what is wrong, what is worth while and what is not; if they have many common interests and tastes, so that they like to do the same kind of things and enjoy the same kind of people; if they know and understand each other's faults so that they can take those faults in stride, and not try to make each other over according to their own ideas—these are some of the "ifs" that must be decided before anyone can be sure whether or not what he or she feels for the other person is the kind of feeling that would make a happy marriage.

Not an Brief Acquaintance



Such "ifs" cannot be decided on brief acquaintance. A young man and a young woman must know each other a good long time before they are in a position to know to decide them. So I think this girl should not bother her head about them just now, but be content to wait the time to give her the right answers, as it certainly will if she is patient.

Now let's talk about her father and her relationship to him. For the present, I would say he is perfectly right in expecting his daughter to be home on Fridays and Saturdays and at 10:30 other nights. In all respects, my wishes, and makes a point of always being at home at the time he says, he may be willing very likely to allow her to stay out a bit later on very special occasions, if she does not ask such a privilege too often.

In regard to her boy friend's telephone calls, perhaps, like many another teen-ager, she has been having long conversations with him too often. If her only way to excuse for adults to have to listen to each chatter, but it does tie up the telephone for long periods at a time. Perhaps if she confined her calls to the time when her father is away at work so that he wouldn't be annoyed by them, and was responsible about not talking too long anyhow, it might solve the problem. She might talk this over with her boy friend and get his cooperation.

As for the question whether or not she should give up her boy friend because she is all her dad has, it is not right for any young man or woman to renounce marriage purely for the sake of staying with either father or mother. But this is something, too, that needn't be worried about now, and I'm sure the future will take care of itself. When she is old enough, and mature enough, for marriage, it's likely that she will find the way is open for her to do so.

Do You Enjoy Your Dinner Guests?

By Mary Moore

There are two types of hostesses that I want to bring into focus for a minute or two.

You know both types: Number One is the gal who strives for perfection—the spit and polish type of general—who cleans and plans and organizes all week. If she is having eight for dinner. Then works herself into a state of exhaustion "at the last minute seeing to every last detail. She can't enjoy her dinner with her guests because of her passion for perfection and split-second timing. When the guests leave she holds her brow, says "John bring the aspirin" and falls in bed moaning.

Number Two feeds you on delicious and abundant food to which you can help yourself if you like for it is all there, but she didn't quite manage to get all of the dusting done, or the part in her hair quite straight, but she did manage to sit and talk with everyone of her guests. And, since the guests stayed so long, began getting them another meal! They protested, but they stayed!

If must be said to their everlasting credit that they helped with the dishes afterwards. Slovenness or living lowness had provided good quality paper plates, so the dishwashing spree was somewhat relieved.

The guests of our first hostess would not be invited, and suggest such an informal clean-up, what with grown Daddy dishes and all to be handled with loving care.

Which one are you?

Remember that in these days of servantless households you have to decide between the enjoyment of your guests and your own pride.

Your guests come to enjoy you. Your organization should be unobtrusive and secondary.

Out-of-doors meals lend themselves to informal entertaining and are the time to dispense with the "Miss" before her name for the information of the shoe or stranger to whom I am writing.

You should not sign a letter, any kind of letter to "Miss Mary Smith." "Mary Smith," is your correct signature . . . a title is not a part of a name. Therefore if a letter is signed "Mary Smith" the reader takes it for granted that the title is "Miss." However, whenever you think it is necessary to indicate the title, write Miss in parentheses before your name. Like this:

Sincerely yours,
(Miss) Mary Smith

The topper has taken on all sorts of changes this season, making for an interesting variety, and the most useful of garments. While fleece is used for this one, a fine choice for the traveler, since with a slim skirt or dress it adds up to an interesting suit. It is straight and boxy with very slight shaping in front and back controlled by a low placed belt. Buttons of shell. The skirt shown with it is in rayon and cotton mixture, in a bold black and white check. With the skirt is a black pullover, sleeveless sweater. Each piece is a separate but all add up to a nice outfit.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. BEECHMAN

Appreciation . . . A Heart-Warming Habit

Appreciation . . . a to gratitude . . . to happiness. Three wonderful steps to a good way-of-living. William Lyon Phelps, in his beautiful and famous little book on "Appreciation," says inspiringly; "Appreciation begets gratitude; and gratitude begets happiness. You cannot store or save gratitude; economy there is fatal. If one tries to save gratitude, one may find it gone; but the more gratitude one gives, the more one has left." Good words these; words to remember in our day-by-day life.

How Married Woman Signs Letters

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been married recently, and by following your column I've learned how to use and sign my "new name" correctly in practically all circumstances. But I haven't come across the answer to one form that has perplexed me lately. That is, what is the best form, or at least a good form, for a married woman to use when signing her name to, say a letter making a business appointment: for example, to a painter concerning the painting of a room to begin, to a sewing-woman about an appointment or buying some sewing-materials, or to the woman who comes to clean by the day, or to the butcher or baker or I write the usual salutation... "Dear Mrs. Smith," "Dear Wife, Kellogg" . . . I must not sign the letter "Mrs. Walter Thompson." But still it doesn't seem suitable for me to sign my first name to this kind of letter. Any suggestions, Mrs. Beeckman?

Marian S.T.

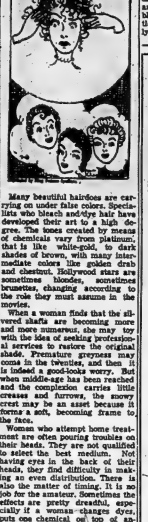
Your reaction is right. In signing this kind of letter a married woman usually would avoid signing her first name . . . this seems unduly personal. And so she signs her initials and name, M.S. Thompson. . . . and for necessary information or identification, adds her married name in parenthesis below and to the left of her signature. Like this:

Very truly yours,
M. S. Thompson
(Mrs. Walter Thompson)

No "Miss" In Signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman,

I'm 18 years old, single. When I write a letter to a stranger for example, this letter to "you shouldn't I sign my name "Miss Mary Smith"? I've been told that I should, but to me it makes more sense that I should sign the "Miss" before my name for the information of the shoe or stranger to whom I am writing.



You should not sign a letter, any kind of letter to "you shouldn't I sign my name "Miss Mary Smith," "Mary Smith," is your correct signature . . . a title is not a part of a name. Therefore if a letter is signed "Mary Smith" the reader takes it for granted that the title is "Miss." However, whenever you think it is necessary to indicate the title, write Miss in parentheses before your name. Like this:

Sincerely yours,
(Miss) Mary Smith

Beauty

By HELEN JAMESON

To Dye Or Not To Dye?

Many beautiful hairdos are carrying on under false colors. Specialists who bleach and dye their hair have developed their art to a high degree. The tones created by means of chemicals vary from platinum; that is like white-gold, to dark shades of brown, with many intermediate colors like golden drab and chestnut. Hollywood stars are sometimes blondes, sometimes brunettes, changing according to the role they must assume in the movies.

When a woman finds that the silvered shafts are becoming more and more numerous, she may try with the idea of seeking professional services to restore the original shade. Premature greyness may start on the temples, and then it is indeed a good-looks worry. But when middle-age has been reached and the complexion carries little creases and furrows, the snowy crest may be an asset because it forms a soft, becoming frame to the face.

Women who attempt home treatment are often pouring troubles on their heads. They are not qualified to select the best medium. Not having eyes in the back of their heads, they find difficulty in making an even distribution. There is also the matter of timing. It is no job for the amateur. Sometimes the effects are pretty dreadful, especially if a woman changes dyes, puts one chemical on top of another.

After a certain time, one is likely to want to be rid of the whole messy business. If the first application were all, it wouldn't be so bad, but nature keeps right on sprouting white threads and the new growth must be touched up. That treatment is a delicate one, for applications should not overlap.

If, after dyeing, you decide you prefer white hair, what can be done about it? There are dye removers, but they will not work in all cases.

A drastic measure, but one that is about the best and speediest, is to have the head shaved and to wear demountable hair for the time being.

Within six or seven months the new growth will measure two inches or more. Then the cold wave can be given and the lady will sport a white poodle cut. And very pretty it can be, too.

Home treatments often bring troubles.

Fashion Flashes

A cover up that is a change from the usual stole or bolero, for wear with strapless or sunback dresses, is a neat wraith. Black and white striped cotton, bound in black braid and fastened with little black shoe buttons, goes smartly with black culottes or linens.

Not all skirts are slim. A beautiful import is of paper-thin gray taffeta, an ankle-length dinner dress. An enormous collar, high in back and sloping almost to the waist in front, is edged with the fabric. The tent skirt is extravagantly full, but falls in graceful folds.

Taking hold is the new suit trend, that of fine cotton fabrics cut and handled as carefully as fine wool or silk. Black piqué is used for one such suit, with a fancy, cutaway jacket, the collar tabbed down at either side with white buttons, set to form a triangle with the buttons of the fastening. Skirt is slim; jacket is lined in red and white checked gingham to match the bow-necked blouse.

Flattery is the nice job of a new group of hats, made to wear with dressy town clothes. A medium-brimmed sailor has a brim massed with white flowers above and below, to contrast with the rounded crown of black velvet. Edging the brim is a band of corded turquoise velvet ribbon.

WELLINGTON

Jr. Institute Girls' Clubs Hold Achievement Day

WELLINGTON. — The Prince Edward County Junior Institute girls' homemaking clubs, which are sponsored by the Women's Institute, held an achievement day in Wellington Town Hall on Friday, July 3. Miss Montgomery of the Department of Agriculture and Miss Nobbs and Miss Laura Phippen took charge of the meeting. The topic was "Vegetables and Ways of Using Them". There were about 75 present including the girls, their leaders, and some visitors. In the morning the girls were divided into groups to build up menus and school lunches. Afterwards these were judged by the girls, with reasons for the way they did the judging.

The leaders of the clubs gave their reports. This finished the morning session.

The girls took the lunches they had made over to the park and enjoyed a picnic.

After dinner each club had an exhibit of vegetables prepared in five different ways. One member gave a two-minute talk on the exhibit.

"The Happy Go Lucky Farmerettes", of Allisonville, exhibited five ways of using cabbage. "Sal's Vegetable Quests", of Mountain View, also gave five ways of using potatoes.

Bloomfield's "Peppy Gals", demonstrated various kinds of vegetables used in different ways. "Pin Up Girls" from Cherry Valley, gave five different uses of potatoes.

The "Jumping Jills", of Wellington, five different uses of peas. They all looked nice, indeed and were a credit to the girls who had prepared them.

Their club books were most interesting with various recipes etc., in them.

Miss Montgomery spoke to the girls giving them various ideas for improving on the ways of exhibiting and doing things.

A short play by each club was presented next.

"Dressing Up a Salad" by two girls from Bloomfield, was very good.

"Vegetables Go to a Party", by the girls from Cherry Valley.

"Preparing Dinner" by two girls from Demorestville.

"Vegetables At School" by ten Wellington girls and "Vegetables Go To School in the Lunch Box", by four girls from Allisonville.

These skits were all good and some quite amusing.

Miss Noble and Miss Phippen both commented on the work of the girls and gave some suggestions on various things to help the girls.

Mrs. A. Wannamaker, county president of the Women's Institute, spoke briefly giving encouragement to the girls and their leaders.

Certificates Presented

Miss Montgomery presented certificates of achievement to Barbara McDonald, Dawn Cronk, Eleanor Leavitt, Marilyn Latchford, Miss Howe, Faye Young, Joan Longwell, Truda Rounbom, Reva Corsling, Margaret Holley, Joyce Dick, Carley Cleave, Mary Cronk, Lois Wasmund, Marlene Hennessey, Diana Haggerty, Shirley Norton, Nancy Dubnage, Peter Wiggins, Florence Wood, Margaret Corfield, Joan Barker, Ann Drecker and Barbara Redner. These were for two-year projects.

Miss Margaret Hicks received a county honor certificate for six projects with a pin to be presented later.

A provincial honor pin and certificate go to Miss Florence Wood for 12 projects. These will be presented at Guelph in the fall.

A vote of thanks was given to the Wellington group who were the hostesses for the day and also to the Wellington W.I. for preparing the hall for them.

Showdown With Rhee Near, U.S. May Ask Britain, France To Join in Security Guarantee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red willingness to go forward promptly with final truce arrangements intensified today the crisis over the Korean armistice negotiations.

A top-ranking U. S. government official said a truce "has got to happen" but conceded no formula yet found is acceptable to South Korean President Syngman Rhee.

The official, who asked not to be named, evidently was expressing an administration determination to go to great lengths to obtain an armistice.

It was reported these might include an appeal to Britain and France to join in some form of security guarantee to South Korea which would be satisfactory to Rhee.

Two Key Questions

Two key questions on Rhee's attitude apparently remain unanswered.

The first, on which the South Korean leader was the main factor, is his mind quickly, is whether he will forcibly resist establishment of the proposed armistice line and the withdrawing his troops from the United Nations command and ordering them to ignore a cease-fire.

The second question, depending on the answer to the first, is whether the UN command under Gen. Mark Clark can take or is willing to take measures to overcome any active opposition which Rhee might order.

In their letter to Clark today, the Communists told him he must take steps to assure South Korea's cooperation in making the proposed truce effective.

Have Thus Proved

That appears to go beyond what Clark has promised so far. In a letter to Rhee, Clark told the Reds that the UN command "will, by the limits of its ability," maintain military safeguards to insure that the armistice terms are observed.

The fundamental problem of Allied unity is involved. If the UN command and South Korean forces fall out to such a degree that their military effort is hampered, then the security of UN troops would be endangered and the whole future of South Korea—with powerful Communist armies concentrated it front and northern side of the battle line—could be jeopardized.

On Parley Agenda

The position of the Western allies on the form of the armistice agreement stand is scheduled as one of the major topics for discussion at the Big Three meeting of ministers concerning the conference opening here Friday.

Says Communists In U.S. Govt. From '38 to '48

CHICAGO, (AP)—A former navy bureau of ordnance engineer has disclosed the existence of an underground network of Communist subversives operating in U. S. government departments from 1938 to 1948, the Chicago Tribune says today.

The Tribune reports that Max Elitcher, 33, identified as a close friend of executed atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, testified in secret Monday before the House of Representatives committee on un-American activities in New York.

The Tribune says Elitcher described how Communist cells infiltrated the navy, commerce and agriculture departments. He identified their members. Most of those named are still in Washington, the paper said, but it is understood all have left the government since 1948.

The Tribune gave this account of Elitcher's testimony:

Elitcher and his wife, Helene, were close friends of the Rosenbergs and Morton Sobell, who is serving a 30-year sentence for the wartime conspiracy to steal the A-bomb secret.

Elitcher and Sobell went to Washington in 1938 to work for the navy bureau of ordnance, and Sobell recruited Elitcher into the bureau's Communist cell, of which Sobell was chairman.

Members of this group had access to classified documents below the classification of top secret, but Elitcher disclosed knowledge of any actual spying.

Famous Diamond Made Smaller After Being Stolen

AIX - EN - PROVENCE, France (AP)—A Paris diamond cutter testified Tuesday that the famous "La Marquise" diamond, stolen from the Begum Aga Khan three years ago, now is an emerald-shaped stone, seven carats smaller.

"La Marquise," a great stone which gave off a pinkish light, was among $650,000 in jewels snatched from the bedroom of the fabulously wealthy Moslem leader in a daylight robbery in 1949. Ten Corsicans and Frenchmen went on trial Monday for the theft. "La Marquise" alone was worth $176,000.

The diamond cutter, 55-year-old Henri Waffelman, defendant, said he reduced it from its original 23 carats to 13 carats after 18 days of intensive work early in 1950.

Waffelman said he received the gem from a longtime friend, Hilarion Fromaget, 36, another defendant, who in turn got it from Jules Bettinelli, a jewel dealer, also on trial.

Waffelman's testimony lent weight to the claim of Lords of London which insured the Begum's jewels and claimed the 12-carat diamond is the transformed marquise.

Earlier, George Lindsay Watson, a French war hero who says he is the godson of Sir Winston Churchill, denied he had been the gang's tipoff man in the holdup.

U.S. May Offer Surplus Food To E. Germany

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the United States department are exploring the possibility of offering surplus American food to hungry East Germans.

The step is being considered as a joint cold war - humanitarian move, aimed at least partly at capitalizing on the unrest in Soviet-occupied East Germany.

The state department, it was learned, has enlisted American High Commissioner James Conant in Bonn for his view on whether the United States should undertake such a project.

Conant was instructed to give the department some idea of what public reaction would be in East and West Germany to such an offer, of Edinburgh.

Barred by Act Says Officials At Ottawa

PEMBROKE (CP)—A Progressive Conservative candidate said Tuesday his party's workers are not allowed to campaign at the Deep River, Ont., townsite of the Chalk River atomic energy project.

Deep River has a population of about 2,800, mostly workers for Atomic Energy of Canada, Limited. There are about 3,000 persons in Petawawa camp.

At Ottawa, officials said campaigning in armed forces stations is barred by service and election regulations and that Mr. Clarkson could not relax these. Accredited party representatives are allowed as scrutineers during voting.

Deep River comes under the Renfrew county control board and Trade Minister Howe. The minister was not in the city, and an aide said he knew nothing of campaigning regulations at Deep River.

Drew and Party Stopped by Moose Near Schreiber

SCHREIBER (CP) — A moose stopped the train carrying Progressive Conservative leader George Drew on his election tour today and paid for it with his life.

The moose, standing on the track, was knocked down by the locomotive and carried along beneath the train 30 miles east of here.

A steam pipe beneath one coach was broken and the train was delayed for an hour while the coach was taken off the train.

Mr. Drew was travelling in a private car at the rear of the eastbound Canadian Pacific Railway train travelling from Fort William to Sudbury.

Schreiber is 136 miles east of Port Arthur.

Says Obstinate Rhee Could Shatter Chances for 'Peace in Our Time'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Alexander Wiley (Rep. Wis.) Tuesday accused Syngman Rhee of "capriciousness, obstinacy and astuteness" and said the South Korean president's anti-truce stand "could shatter the chances for world peace in our time."

Wiley issued a statement as Rhee held fast to his demand for an iron-clad United States guarantee that Korea will be united by either political or military action regardless of the armistice.

Wiley said he was speaking only for himself, not for the foreign relations committee which he heads. But the position he holds lent weight to his words.

He said that if Rhee persists in his threat to pull South Korean troops out of the United Nations forces and fight on, they could "end up by destroying not only themselves but the United Nations."

A different viewpoint was expressed by Wisconsin's other Senator, Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.) the investigations sub-committee chairman. McCarthy said:

"I think Syngman Rhee is one of the greatest patriots of all time."

Mop Up Remnants After Smashing Assault by Reds

SEOUL (AP)—Victorious U. S. and South Korean infantry mopped up the remnants of two Chinese regiments today after smashing the onslaught of some 6,000 Reds on Western Korea front.

The battles, which opened Monday, dropped to a sporadic stage as Communist 65th and 89th Infantry crept through an intense Chinese artillery barrage to pull the last Red survivors.

Troops of the 89th Red division had just about cleared off their position on Arrowhead ridge by noon, but U. S. troops still were working on small knots of Chinese trapped in old bunkers on the western slope of Porkchop hill.

New Assault Planned

After action farther east to the southwest, north of Kosangso, just before midnight Tuesday, the Reds struck at neighboring outposts Berlin and East Berlin. They were smacked back off the northern slopes but later in the morning the Reds took another stab at East Berlin and were locked in heavy action at midday.

Artillery fire was intense in both actions.

After a partial lifting, mist and drizzling rain closed down over the battle again, by what appeared to be the final stages of the five-day action that turned the battlefront into a quagmire.

Bombers Active

The heavy ground support missions by the air force, but during the night B-26 bombers got in their heaviest strike in nearly a week, attacking Red convoys, a railyard, and Red front positions.

Off the east coast skies cleared and the U. S. battleship New Jersey slipped in near shore and lambasted enemy buildups north of Anchor hill.

Casualty List

OTTAWA (CP)—An army casualty list Tuesday included three men wounded in action and three killed injured in action. The last list was issued July 3.

The six all are members of the 1st battalion, the Princess Patricia's, Canadian Light Infantry.

The army list brought to 1,465 total casualties so far suffered by Canadian troops in Korea, including 295 dead; 1,043 wounded; missing, 95 injured and 1 prisoner.

British Dentists Against Way Plan Handled

BUXTON, England (Reuters)—Britain's dentists Tuesday began an open rebellion against the way socialized dentistry is being handled.

The long-brewing revolt came to a head during a session of the British Dental Association's convention here. The dentists' main complaint is that they aren't making enough money.

They are not grumbling about the nationalization of dentistry, which the Labor government introduced in 1948 under the National Health Act. The main thing that bothers them is the revision of the plan which makes patients pay £1 (£2.8) toward treatment, and half the cost of dentures.

This happened in 1951, still under the Labor government, and since then patients have been much fewer and dentists' incomes much lower.

The association's president, Dr. Edgar Houghton, said the national dental plan has failed.

In the years of all-free dental service — 1948 to 1951 — Britons rushed by the millions to get their teeth fixed and dentists had bumper years.

FARMHOUSE BURNS

NAPANEE (CP)—Fire Tuesday destroyed the farm home of the Henry Sizer family in rural Adolphustown. The farm, owned by Earl F. Miles who is at present living at Indianapolis, Ind., is managed by Mr. Sizer who lived in the tenant house.

Controller Says Council Minutes Were Altered

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Controller W. Ernest Atkinson charged Tuesday night that someone had tampered or changed the minutes of a council meeting three weeks ago during which council decided to buy fire department uniforms from Canada Clothes House, Ltd.

At that time council, which had previously split several times on whether the city should insist on buying only Canadian goods or buy from the lowest bidder, turned down a board of control recommendation that the uniforms be bought from Tip Top Tailors, Ltd., a Canadian company which had submitted a higher tender.

Mr. Atkinson said Tuesday night council had passed a resolution under which council would always buy from the lowest tender in the future. He charged the motion was not included in minutes of that meeting and said in addressing council members in general that he didn't "blame you for trying to back out after seeing what you had done."

MAKE EMERGENCY LANDING

BAD EILSEN, Germany (AP)—Two Danes who made an emergency landing in the Soviet zone in their two-seater Tiger Moth plane have been released into West Germany. Soviet soldiers and Communist people's police carried the plane through the 10-yard plowed border strip not accessible to vehicles.

Endorsed Communism

MONTREAL (CP)—Gerard Cole, champion marathon runner, and Henri Rochon, Canadian Davis Cup tennis play, said Tuesday they recently unwittingly endorsed the Communist-inspired youth festival scheduled for behind the Iron Curtain next month.

Both said in statements "we don't want to have anything to do with communism."

The festival, sponsored by the World Federation of Democratic Youth, is scheduled to start in Bucharest, Rumania, Aug. 2, and will run for two weeks.

Both Cote and Rochon signed a leaflet endorsing the festival at the request of an unidentified organizer.

Britain's Latest Challenger For World's Airline Business Soon Will Be in Production

By FRASER WIGHTON

HATFIELD, England (Reuters) — Britain's, latest challenger for the world's airline business, the Comet II, will soon be rolling off the production lines here.

The new jetliner is faster than Comet I, now in regular service on International air routes. She is also slightly bigger and can travel further without refuelling.

First of a fleet ordered by British Overseas Airways Corporation, the aircraft is expected to fly in August. Six more are in an advanced stage of construction at the De Havilland plant here. Production lines have also been laid down at Belfast, Northern Ireland, and Chester, England.

Extensive trials have been carried out on a prototype of the Comet II, which is powered by four Rolls-Royce Avon turbines. A British Canberra bomber powered by two similar engines recently crossed the Atlantic in three hours, 46 minutes.

Taking shape alongside the Comet II is the prototype of a still faster and much bigger transport, the Comet III, which has won British her first UK order for jet airliners.

Three of these 58-to-86-seat airliners have been commissioned by Pan American Airways, which has an option for more.

Rae Monopoly

Britain has a monopoly so far as mass-produced transport types in regular service on international routes. Apart from about 30 Comets either built or under construction, there are orders for 80 propeller-jet Vickers Viscounts, 47 seat planes which fly at over 300 miles an hour.

These are covering 100,000 miles a week on BOAC routes, to Pakistan, India, Ceylon, South Africa, Burma, Singapore and Japan. They are being operated also by Union Aeromaritime de Transport de France, Air France, and the RCAF.

Customers for the Comet II in clude Panair do Brazil, Commonwealth Pacific Airlines, the Japan Airline, Canadian Pacific Airlines, Venezuela Air Lines and other operators.

The Bristol Airplane Company now is completing the first production model of its 95-seat propeller-jet Britannia, which is to be available of flying the Atlantic from London to New York at 380 to 390 miles an hour.

Three further big jetliners are in prospect. One is the huge Avro "Atlantic," a pure-jet transport like the Avro delta wing bomber, which is already flying. This is expected to have a cruising speed of between 550 and 600 miles an hour.

The others are the proposed Vickers V. C. 7 jetliner and De Havilland's expected successor to Comet III.

$95,000 FIRE LOSS

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Rio's largest department store, A Exposicao, was "destroyed by fire. Net losses are estimated at more than 100,000,000 cruzeiros ($95,000,000).

May Proceed Soon With Control Dam Says Chevrier

MORRISBURG (CP) — Transport Minister Chevrier said Tuesday night the government had been told that the New York state power authority will be licensed "in about 10 days" to co-operate on the power phase of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

He said at a political meeting in this St. Lawrence river town that once this licence is granted the New York authority by the federal power commission in Washington, the first step will be construction of a control dam at Iroquois, Ont.

The New York power authority and the Ontario hydro-electric power commission will build the power projects in co-operation.

"We have been told in about 10 days time the New York power authority will receive licence from the federal power commission in Washington to proceed with this important project."

At the same time work starts on the Iroquois dam, "the government will launch work on navigation works in the channel," Mr. Chevrier said.

Mr. Chevrier said however that opponents in the United States might hold up work on the project by litigation.

Strathconas Perfect Technique For Shooting Up the Enemy

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

IN KOREA (CP)While the rest of the world wonders about a Korean armistice the new Strathconas here have perfected the regimental technique for shooting up the enemy.

It's a spectacular business which results in thick whorls of white phosphorous smoke belching out of several holes at a time in the hills on the other side of no man's land.

Best exponent of the art because he's been closest to the Chinese is Sgt. Demetro Pushkorenko of Vernon, B.C. Only 600 yards from the enemy and able to take on targets up to 1,500 yards distance with extreme accuracy, Pushkarenko's four Sherman tanks have played havoc.

High Explosive First

With pinpoint precision they send first of all three or four high-explosive shells into enemy observation posts, bunkers or caves that are the targets of the day.—

The shells go right through the openings, explode inside with smashing effect, presumably killing or wounding any occupants, and certainly reducing to tinder the timbered structure within.

The bunker then is set afire with a couple of rounds of white phosphorous.

It usually takes between three and five minutes for the effect to become obvious.

Then the smoke begins. It pours forth not only from the target but from as many as five or six other openings indicating the extent to which Chinese tunneling has honeycombed the positions opposite.

After the phosphorous shells have burned out, fires they have started in the wreckage carry on the destruction, changing the smoke's color from white to black.

Brig. Jean Allard, the brigade commander, after watching a Pushkarenko shoot one day at five a.m., returned to the tanks' position to congratulate the sergeant. Later, en route back to his headquarters, he called at the Strathconas' command post to congratulate Maj. William Ellis of Ottawa and Calgary, the squadron commander, on the work.

Ellis says the new Strathconas find the assignment "much as we had expected it."

"The monthly news letter the former squadron used to send us cheed us up pretty well," he says. "A" squadron relieved "B" squadron early in June.

Walter Burkemo Pro Golf Champ

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP)—Walter Burkemo Tuesday defeated wee Felice Torza, 3 and 1, in the 35th U.S. Professional Golfers Association championship.

The blonde belter from Franklin, rumich., only one up at the end of the morning round, won the first three holes of the afternoon with sharp putting to put the fledgling pro from St. Charles, Ill., into a hole from which he never recovered.

Torza rallied twice to cut the advantage to two holes at the 34th but Burkemo applied the pressure and closed the match with a par four for a half on the 35th.

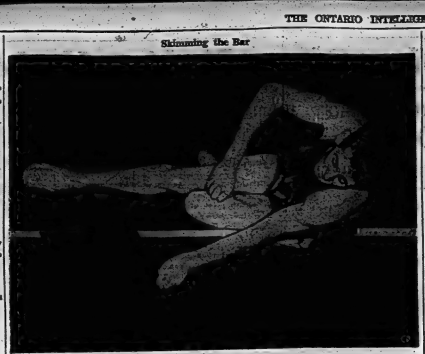
PRIES' ACE IS FATHER

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Robin Roberts, pitcher for Philadelphia Phillies of the National League Tuesday became the father of a second son. His wife, Mary, gave birth to a nine pound-13 ounce boy. The Roberts' other child is Robin, Jr., 2.

Kilmitz Winner Over Saunder

TORONTO (CP) — Johnny Kilmitz, scrappy fighter from Hungary now fighting for the Bagnato AC of Toronto, Tuesday night outpointed Danny Saunder of Hamilton in the five-round main bout of an amateur card at East York Arena. It was a 147-pound affair.

In the scheduled five-round semi-final at 135 pounds, Hans Bachofer of Toronto scored a technical knockout over Oscar Sicord of Brantford at 1:33 of the third round. In the other semi-final, also a five-rounder, Tommy Whalen of Brantford won a decision over Sonny Forbes of Toronto in a 147-pound class fray.



SOX HURLER HAS SON

CHICAGO (AP) — Billy Pierce, ace pitcher of Chicago White Sox, announced Tuesday the birth of his first child, William Reed, born Monday night in Detroit. The boy weighed eight pounds six ounces.

Schmidt Signs 15th Contract With Bruins

BOSTON (AP)—Milt Schmidt of Kitchener, Ont., 35-year-old centre, Tuesday signed his 15th National Hockey League player contract for Boston Bruins. He missed three years of serving with the RCAF during the Second World War.

Despite his age, Schmidt still is regarded as the hellwether of the Bruins. While playing in all but two of last season's 70 scheduled games, Schmidt totalled 34 points with 11 goals and 23 assists.

In 10 playoff games, in which the Bruins upset Detroit Red Wings and then lost the Stanley Cup final series to Montreal Canadiens, Schmidt popped in five goals and had one assist.

Petes Defeat Mimico 10-7

MIMICO (CP) — Peterborough Trailermen defeated Mimico Mountties 10-7 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game Tuesday night. Two players from the disbanded Brampton Excelsiors, Red Hartley and Bill Bradkin, played for Mimico.

It was the first time Mimico fans had a glimpse of six-man lacrosse recently approved by the OLA executive and they seemed to enjoy it.

Mimico's leading scorer was Don Meeks with three goals while Pop Chard and Bill Braddin netted two goals apiece.

Locke Fires a Brilliant 71 For Carnoustie Medal Honors

By STERLING SLAPPEY

CARNOUSTIE Scotland (AP) — Ben Hogan and Carnoustie's soggy championship course ran head on in the British open golf tournament Tuesday and the course came out best. The seaside layout's slow and shaggy greens lofted the U.S. ace's chemical score to 73.

Along with a 70 Monday on the easier Burnside course, that gave the Texas a 145 total—easily low enough to qualify him for the tournament proper today.

Defending champion Bobby Locke of South Africa fired a brilliant 71, one under the unofficial Carnoustie par, for a two-day 136 and the unofficial score to 1.

Peter Thomson of Australia was tied with Locke at 136 and Dai Rees of Britain was at 137.

While Locke was brilliant on the greens, Hogan had poor success putting. He took 35 putts.

The 31 low scorers qualified for rounds of 18 today and Thursday.

The field will be reduced to 55 for Friday's 36-hole finale. The qualifying scores don't count in the tournament proper, which is medal play.

Second to Locke were John Panton of Scotland and Christy O'Connor of Ireland with 141s. Panton, member of the British Ryder Cup team, had a 72 after an opening 69 record 68. O'Connor, a likeable Irish pro, toured the Burnside course in 68. He had a 73 Monday.

Lloyd Mangrum, another American veteran, shot the hottest round of the day, a 67 at the Burnside. He qualified with 145.

Scores of other qualifying notables included: Ossie Pickworth, Australia, 73-69—142; Norman Drysdale, Irish power hitter, 70-72—142; Albert Pelissier, Fort Marly, France, 73-69—142; Antonio Cerda, Argentina, 72-70—142; Charlie Ward, English Ryder Cupper, 72-71—143.

Sport in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—The famous name of Jersey Joe Walcott was missing from the summer light ratings announced Tuesday by the National Boxing Association.

Of the five heavyweights listed as outstanding boxers or better, only one is a hangover from the Joe Louis era. He's Ezzard Charles, the former champion who is rated 2, a contender for the title held by Rocky Marciano of Brockton, Mass.

The NBA heavyweight rankings include 15 fighters, 10 of them without honorable mention.

Arthur King, a Toronto boxer now fighting out of Philadelphia, was listed as an outstanding boxer in the lightweight class.

Outstanding heavyweights were listed as Roland LaStarza, New York; Dan Bucceroni, Pennsylvania, was listed as logical contender to the title held by Archie Moore of California. Outstanding boxers were listed as Joe Maxim, Ohio; Holande Sawyer, British West Indies; Rocky Jones, Pennsylvania; Dan Nardico, California, and Jim Slade, New York.

For the vacant middleweight crown, Randy Turpin of Britain and Bobo Olson of Hawaii were named as contenders.

NEARS TRACK RECORD

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Newport Dream from Octave Blake's Newport stock farm of South Plainfield, N.J., missed the track record for harness horses by a fifth of a second in taking the $14,200 E. H. Harriman Challenge Trophy for two-year-old trotters at Historic Track's grand circuit meeting Tuesday.

Driven by A. Cameron, Newport Dream won his elimination heat in 2:1 and then came back to take the final in 2:08, A. M. Marlin's Worthy Acclaim, winner of the first elimination stake in 2:09, was second in the final with third going to Goblin.

David H. Johnston's black filly, Bewitch, took the $14,978.40 Coaching Club Trotting Oaks for three-year-old fillies by beating out Fiesta Hanover and Lark Hanover.

Regent Juniors Play 5-All Tie With Flyers

The Regent Juniors tied their second game of the season 5-5 with RCAF Flyers in a scheduled Belleville and District Baseball league game at the Flyer's field last night.

The Juniors overhauled a three run lead in the top of the sixth to break even.

The Juniors took the lead in the top of the second. The Flyers tied it and then the Juniors again broke out into the lead in the top of the fifth. Then the bomb fell, as far as the Regents were concerned, because the infield blew up and the Flyers pushed across four runs. However you might say that the Regents caught the same bomb and threw it right back at the Flyers because they got three in the top of the sixth.

Goyer led the Regents at the plate, slamming out a double. Batchelor and Gilmour each hit singles. McHarg led the Flyers in the wood department with two singles, while Meade, McCartney and Oulette each connected for singles.

Dall started for the Regents and in five and two-thirds innings struck out three and issued as many free tickets. Drummond pitched to the last man in the bottom of the fifth and got him on strikes. Cochrane went in to bat for Drummond and then walked out.

Lawrence started for the Flyers and in five and two-thirds innings had got five outs, a strike-out route and passed three to first. He was relieved by Cosborne who walked two in two-thirds of an inning this Meade relieved him. He fanned one and walked two.

Lineups:

Regents—Jones ss; Hull lf; Carr lb; Goyer 3b; Gilmour cf; Batchelor 2b; Stephens rf; Hall c; Dall p; Drummond p in 5th; Strachan p in 6th.

Flyers—McDonald 3b; LaPlante lb; Davis cf, c in 7th; Meade c, p in the 6th; McCartney 2b; Mathews rf; Lilall rf in 5th; McHarg lf; Oulette c, cf in 6th; Lawrence p; Cosborne p in 5th.

Score by innings:

	R.	H.	E.
Regents	010 013—	5	3	8
Flyers	200 030—	5	5	0

Scorer—F. Upper. Time 2:15.

Brooklyn's Home-Run Artillery Offsets Pitching; Yankees Lead Reduced

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

GOOSIE GOSH!

Ben Hogan, the cynosure of the eyes of the golfing world, avoided head-on into Carnoustie's touch, saggy, windblown course yesterday and emerged all square. The very little American, favored by many of the experts to cop the British Open Golf Championship hands down, ran into a most difficult layout and the best he could do was a 76, five more strokes than his Monday round. However Hogan looked qualified easily for the tournament which gets under way today.

Bobby Locke, brilliant South African and defending champ, stole the links thunder from the favored American with an outstanding 71, one under the unofficial par for the course for a two-day 136 and the medal honors. Locke was brilliant on the greens while Hogan had to take 36 putts.

The tricky Carnoustie course is one of the toughest in the world for even the experts. Its wind-swept borders that line the sea are liable to be "sunshot" with a side one minute and a nasty sighting, only mayhem the next.

Willie Turnesa, former British amateur champion, who has played the course said: "I think playing Carnoustie for the first time is such a great handicap that if Hogan wins the Open he will be one of the greatest golfers of all time."

"Golf in Britain," said Turnesa, in a vastly different game to that played in the United States. The British don't hurry at all unless they have to battle the elements, which are modern at skipping the ball hardly head high playing against a heavy wind.

"If Hogan thinks some American courses are fast," remarked Turnesa, "wait 'till he sees Carnoustie. The greens are like concrete. You can't pitch hole-high and stick on the greens so you do or so many courses at home. Hogan will have to learn to play the run."

"British golfers," he added, "are good with the pitch and run. That is Bobby Locke's forte. It's good playing in the wind, too. The wind blows so hard you can't take a chance. If he blows your ball and nerves your ball wills you course for the first time, I'll say that's excellent golf."

Course for the first time, I'll say that's excellent golf."

But Ted Bishop, another former United States amateur champion, who has seen about Carnoustie has a different opinion. He thinks Hogan will adjust his game beautifully to Carnoustie and "show the British golf which will have them ragging. Still the course."

Tommy Armour, former British Open, United States Open and U.S.P.G.A. champion, who also knows Carnoustie, predicted Hogan will win the British Open because he is such a fine competitor. Armour has the greatest competitive record of all time in any sport and that included Willie Hoppe in billiards," said Armour.

PLAY IN OPEN!

Speaking of golf, 188 aspirants for Hubs honors start a-questing today at the Toronto Scarborough course as the Canadian Open Golf Championship gets under way. Representing the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club will be T. A. Carruthers and Charlie Pridetil, the club pro. Dr. George Faulkner is going along for the ride to watch some of Jack's big guns in action.

The perennial question has come up, "Can a Canadian take the title?" Johnny Cusack hasn't won the bauble since way back thirty-nine years ago when Karl Keffer, Ottawa, annexed the premier golfing glory.

Bobby Locke, at present battling the British and American brassie in the British Open at Carnoustie, won the title in 1947 with a record shattering 282. Porky Oliver got a competitive course record of 63 at the same time.

THEY REMEMBER TIERNEY.

Bill Meyer, the former Pittsburgh manager, began talking about Jim (Cotton) Tierney, old-time big league infielder, who had died a day or two before. Tierney was one of baseball's noisy, fun-loving characters.

"I've often used Tierney's stories when I get up to make a talk," Meyer said.

"One time Cotton was in the dearest slotting by the manager. A rookie outfielder was bedeviling up everything that was hit his way. Every time he'd make an error, Tierney would wedge the skipper and say, "Gosh, that kid's terrible, isn't he?"

"Finally, the manager turned to Tierney and said, 'Tierney, you've played the outfield, haven't you?'

"'Okay, get out there in right field.'

"Tierney was almost as bad as the kid. He misjudged one fly ball and let another get through his legs for a triple. When he came to the bench he beat the boss to the punch. 'Skip, that kid's got that outfield in such a mess nobody can play it now!'"

REFEREE!

Lou Boudreau and Joe Cronin were talking about Mickey Mantle's 565-foot homer and Boudreau—referring to the report that the wind had helped—said: "That's silly. The wind never had a chance to catch up with that one!"

WRESTLING!

Two of the biggest men in heavyweight wrestling and sport in general will be the main bout opponents at the Memorial Arena on Friday night when Don Leo Jonathan, 258, of Salt Lake City, collides with Yukon Eric, 374, of Anchorage, Alaska.

Not only are they outstanding in the matter of size and stature, but Jonathan and Yukon are a pair of the most able and colorful wrestlers in the game. Jonathan, an agile giant of Kowalski's build, drop-kicks, flying tackles and zips up like a lightweight. Yet everything he does has that 258-pound drive behind it.

On the other side of the ledger, Yukon is one of the unlighted heavies since Samson. His 68-inch chest, enormous arms and almost invulnerable physique make him practically too much for any one opponent to take on. His specialties, the Kodiak Krunch, chest smash and woodsman's chop, are crushing attacks.

The semi-final is of main-bout calibre.

Explode Six Circuit Clouts In Twin Wins Over Pirates; Indians, Sox Gain on Champs

By Ben Pelegar
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooklyn Dodgers have unlimbered their home - run artillery. They hit the circuit six times Tuesday in winning a pair from Pittsburgh 5-4 and 9-3 and set a National League record of blasting at least one out of the park in 21 consecutive games.

In neither contest did the starting Brooklyn pitcher stay the distance. They usually don't. In 76 outings the Dodger mound staff has turned in only 23 complete games.

The twin triumphs edged the Dodgers 3½ games ahead of the second - place Milwaukee Braves who won a single contest from Chicago 4-1.

St. Louis Cardinals outlasted Cincinnati 7-6 and the suddenly-improved New York Giants won twice from Philadelphia, 5-4 and 6-1.

Philadelphia Athletics broke an eight-game losing streak with a two - run ninth - inning rally that earned a 4-3 decision over New York Yankees.

Loss 30 in Row

The Yanks' two nearest pursuers both profited. Second-place Cleveland moved within 5½ games by handing St. Louis Browns their 30th straight home defeat, a major league record. The score was 6-3 with the Indians getting all the runners in the last two innings. Chicago routed a pair of Detroit rookies to score in the ninth and nip the Tigers 3-2.

Billings Brown of Boston Red Sox pitched the day's only shutout with Washington Senators as his fourhit victims, 3-0. Jerry Lane, making his major league debut, allowed just one run in eight innings before being lifted for a pinch hitter.

Gil Hodges, Duke Snider and Jackie Robinson hit home runs for Brooklyn in the first game of a Pittsburgh but Carl Erskine left under fire when Preston Ward made it close in the ninth with a grandslam home run off Ben Shantz.

In the second game Preacher Roe hit the first home run of his long career in support of Joe Black. Before it was over Billy Cox hit a pair, Pittsburgh again came up with a ninth-inning rally that produced five runs and disposed of Roe.

Record Crowd

A record Milwaukee crowd of 37,113 saw Johnny Antonelli, who has been sick, win his first game in a month with the help of home runs by Eddie Mathews and Andy Adcock.

The Cardinals got only seven hits at Cincinnati but three of them were home runs and one was a bases-loaded triple by Red Schoendienst, who also accounted for two of the four-baggers.

The Giants ran their winning streak to five games with the help of excellent pitching from Marv Grissom, a castoff from the American League, and Al Corwin. Grissom worked six innings of the first game to register his first National League victory since moving over from the Red Sox.

Dressen Names National League All-Star Team

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Charlie Dressen of Brooklyn Dodgers dipped into the ranks of seven ball clubs Tuesday to fill out the Senior National League All-Star team which will meet the American League all-stars in the annual game here next Tuesday.

He named seven pitchers with a total record of 64 victories and lost (up to games of Tuesday) to support an array of power hitters. This is the team which the Dodger pilot will have available:

Ralph Roberts (13-6) of the Phils, who has pitched in two previous All-Star games; Gerry Staley (12-3) of St. Louis Cardinals; Hoyt Wilhelm (6-4), New York Giants' great reliefer; Murry Dickson, who has a 7-3 record with Pittsburgh's last-place Pirates; Curt Simmons (7-3), star of the Phils; Sam Jones (10-3) of Milwaukee Braves who will be making his debut in competition; Ben Black (8-3

Panthers Extend Lead In Intercounty Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dale Markert, Elgins' sharp lefthander, showed St. Thomas fans why he tops the batting department in the Senior Intercounty baseball league.

He knocked out two singles and a double in four trips to the plate Monday night as St. Thomas Panthers in their 13-7 victory over Galt Terriers Tuesday night.

In the night's other game Kitchener Tigers blanked the fourth league lead to two games over second-place Brantford with a 6-0 win over the Red Sox.

The victory broke a three-game losing streak for the Elgins. The sixth-place Terriers gave a big hit to the Elgins, getting only three of the 13 runs, by committing eight errors against three for St. Thomas. They have played a game off with a four-run first inning and then never headed.

Ed Steele with two doubles and a single for five times at bat drove in four Terrier runs. Galt Comets posted his second win in five starts with Pete Kowal, Galt hurler.

Tonight Brantford plays at Kitchener, Waterloo at Galt, Oshawa at Guelph and St. Thomas at London.

Mickey Mantle, Ed. Mathews Called 'Two Greatest Powerhouses in Years'

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Two powerfully-built youngsters who didn't cast their first vote until last November are the most-talked-about young players in baseball today.

They're Mickey Charles Mantle, new pride of New York Yankees, and Eddie Mathews, a comparative newcomer to the great Joe DiMaggio. The other is Edwin L. Mathews, Jr., local of Milwaukee Braves who is likely heir to Ralph Kiner's National League home run crown.

Mantle and Mathews stand out as the two greatest powerhouse kids to arrive in a long time. The surest way to start an argument is to pick one over the other.

In the American League, especially in eastern cities, they'll tell you that Mantle, the heavily-muscled, switch-hitting Oklahoma kid with the speed of a comet is the greatest young ball player in the country today. Ask any National Leaguer, especially from the Milwaukee and St. Louis way and Mathews, the baby-faced Texan with the blacksmith arms, has greater potential than anyone in the game.

Despite recent batting slumps by both, Mantle is hitting .312 to Mathews' .302. The Milwaukee crasher, however, has walloped 25 home runs to 13 for Mantle. Eddie is the only major leaguer to homer in every park in his league this year. Last year Mathews hit 25 homers to 23 for Mantle. Eddie also leads Mickey in runs batted in, 66 to 52. Mickey has scored more runs but Eddie owns a higher slugging percentage. Although Mathews is considered fast for a big man, he is no match for the Mercury-booted Oklahoman.

Mantle is the fastest man in the majors. He has been timed repeatedly going from the plate to first base on a bunt in 3.1 seconds.

During a football scrimmage in 1947, Mantle was kicked in the left ankle. An infection followed and this developed into osteomyelitis, a bone disease. His knee and ankle are the only things that can stand between him and true greatness. Mathews is hale and hearty.

Neither Mantle nor Mathews is a polished ball player. Both are practically helpless against certain types of pitching. Both make mistakes in the field. Despite Mantle's dazzling speed, he is a novice at running the bases. Neither is an adept bunter.

But it must be remembered that both are only 21, possess tremendous natural ability and have time to overcome their faults.

Alouettes Sign Argos' Dekdebrun

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Alouettes announced Tuesday that former Toronto Argonauts quarterback Al Dekdebrun will play for Montreal this season.

The Als said they have concluded a deal with the Argos giving them Dekdebrun in exchange for a draft choice next year in addition to a "nominal cash consideration."

Dekdebrun played four seasons with Cornell University before coming to Canada in 1949 to play with Hamilton. He joined Toronto in 1950, leading them to a Grey Cup that year. Last season he was with Brantford Indians.

Dekdebrun said the Alouettes "made me a wonderful offer. It's more money than I ever made in football."

While the star quarterback didn't say how much his contract was for, he did admit it was more than he got from Argos, which was $6,000.

"I couldn't afford to let it pass," he told a reporter in Toronto in a telephone interview from his home in Buffalo.

Suggest Stadium Be Named For Sports Editor

TORONTO (CP)—Two Eastern Canada sports columnists went along Tuesday with a colleague's suggestion that Winnipeg's new $500,000 football stadium be named for the late Eddie Armstrong, former sports editor of the Winnipeg Free Press.

Vern DeGeer started the ball rolling Tuesday by devoting his entire "Good Morning" column in the Montreal Gazette to the subject.

He said Armstrong played a major role in organizing the first Grey Cup football final and was "one of the greatest editorial links between West and East our dominion has ever known."

Ted Reeve of the Toronto Telegram didn't want to stick his "long snout into Manitoba matters," but commented in his column, "sporting Extras," that DeGeer's notion sounded like a good one.

Baz O'Meara joined in hearty support with a piece in his "The Passing Show" in the Montreal Star.

GIANT BROOK TROUT DIES

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey fish authorities today mourned the death of the largest brook trout ever to inhabit the state hatchery at Hackettstown.

Charles O. Hayford, state fish culture superintendent, said the hatchery's premier brook trout died last week, presumably of old age.

He said the trout weighed 6¼ pounds and was 22 inches in length and 16½ inches in girth.

Yankees In Bus Crash; No Injuries

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A bus carrying New York Yankees baseball team from Comiie Mack Stadium to the Pennsylvania station Tuesday night crashed into an underpass.

There were no injuries although the players were reported shaken up.

The crash smashed in the entire front of the bus.

Royals Ousted From Int. Lead By Buffalo

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A new driver today sits in the saddle in the International League.

Buffalo Bisons, who have been clawing their way steadily to the top, moved into first by taking a doubleheader Tuesday night from the fall-out Springfield Cubs while the Royals were downed 3-1 by Syracuse Chiefs.

Buffalo leads by only three percentage points but the Bisons are proving tough campaigners and may be hard to overtake.

Springfield fans watched silently as the rampaging Herd handed the Cubs their 17th and 18th straight defeats, 3-2 and 6-5. Jack Wallace's's single in the sixth inning scored the winning run in the abbreviated opener and gave veteran Ernie Nevel his fourth victory. Buffalo took an early 5-0 lead in the nightcap but had to field off a desperate last-inning rally by the losers.

Syracuse Chiefs' victory before a home-town crowd made it three out of four over the Royals as Lynn Lovenguth scattered six hits for his fifth win. Syracuse got the same number of safe blows off Bob Ludwick, but the Montreal hurler was wild.

First baseman Charley Kress slammed three home runs for the winners as the Red Sox swept the Ottawa Athletics, 6-2 and 13-0. Kress homered once in the abbreviated opener and twice in the second contest, running his total for the season to 18.

Jack Fazzholz pitched eight-hit ball to earn the shutout in the second game, while three Ottawa hurlers were belted for 15 safeties. Rookie lefty Niles Jordan went the route to win the twilight test.

The Orioles swept a double bill from Toronto, defeating the Maple Leafs 9-3 and 8-3 at Baltimore.

Four round-trippers, two by Joe Lonnett, highlighted Baltimore's 11-hit attack in the second game as Ron Mrozinski scattered nine Toronto singles. Stanley Jok and Jack Lohrke accounted for the other homers.

The Birds ran up a 6-0 lead in the opener before the Leafs staged a three-run uprising in the fifth.

Suggests Major Leagues Rookie Stars Play Doubleheader With All-Stars

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that the all-star teams have been selected for Tuesday's game at Cincinnati, how about making it a doubleheader with a preliminary between the rookie stars of each league.

The 1953 crop of new talent looks the best in years, especially the National League gang. It would be interesting, in fact, to see how an all-rookie team from both leagues would stack up against the big wheels.

Par first base in the National, this vote would go to Wayne Belardi, the Brooklyn kid who has been hitting home runs since he got the job.

Portland Youngsters

Another Dodger, Junior Gilliam, belongs on second. The fleet negro from Montreal settled down around .250 after hitting way over his head in early season. He is an accomplished fielder and has learned to make the double play with Pee Wee Reese. Jackie O'Brien of Pittsburgh also has done a fine job, coming right off the campus at Seattle University to the big leagues.

Eddie O'Brien, Jackie's twin, has been playing good ball at short for Pittsburgh but he would have to yield the first string job to Daryl Spencer of New York's home run hitter who finished fourth in Al Dark out of his job.

Ray Jablonski, an erratic fielder for St. Louis, has been right up there in the runs batted in department all season. He would have the third base job.

The Cincinnati of Cincinnati, Bill Bruton of Milwaukee and Bip Reginldt of St. Louis form a solid outfield with good balance in batting punch and defensive ability.

Catching isn't too strong with the exception of Hobie Landrith who has been around before.

The pitching staff of Harvey Haddix of St. Louis Don Liddle and Bill Bubl of Milwaukee, Ruben Gomez of New York, Thornton Kipper of the Phils and Bob Millikan and Johnny Podres of Brooklyn would fill the bill.

Don Bollweg of N-Y New York Yankees would be the American League first baseman and teammate Andy Carey at third. Harvey Kuens of Detroit is the best hitting new shortstop but Billy Hunter of St. Louis and Milt Bolling of Boston probably are better fielders.

Tom Umphlett and Gene Stephens of Boston, Carmen Mauro of Philadelphia could handle the outfield.

Bob Wilson of Chicago is the catcher.

Roby Hollorran of St. Louis, the no-hit man, Mike Fornieles of Chicago, Charley Bishop and Marion Pricare of Philadelphia, Mike Blyzka and Don Larsen of St. Louis, Sonny Dixon of Washington and Bob Keegan of Chicago could handle the pitching.

Two Twin Winners At Thorncliffe

TORONTO (CP) — Two double winners dashed under the wire and a third horse almost made the select group at Thorncliffe Raceway Tuesday in a harness racing card that featured no single race.

A well-known eight-year-old pacer, The Refresher, in retirement last season, came back to win the third and seventh races. The other two-time winners was Barbara Anne McKinney, owned by R. R. Russell of Toronto, which scored in the second and fifth races. She also was the favorite.

Zinns Song, from the Burnett-Lawrence Stable at Durham, just managed beating the day's third double-winner. She was nipped in a photo in the ninth race by Thor Grattan, owned by Ila and Gordon of Cobourg, after winning the sixth race handily.

Remember When

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

George Herman Ruth, rookie pitcher with the minor league Providence Club, was picked up by Boston Red Sox 39 years ago today for a reported $2,900. Five years later, sold to New York Yankees, Ruth switched to the outfield and became the greatest home run hitter of all time.

Serve Canada and Yourself In the Army

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Good bridge players do not show contempt for rules they know to be correct. When in competition, however, they seem to laugh at rules in their attempt to thwart opponents.

There was the deal shown here:

NORTH
♦8 5
♦K 8 7
♣A Q 10 9 4 2

WEST	EAST
♠K Q J 9 5	♠10 8 2
♥K Q J 10	♥9 7 3 2
♦Q 9	♦J 10
♣K 7	♣J 8 6 5

SOUTH
♠A 7 3
♥A 6 5
♦A 6 5 4 3 2
♣3

The only correct opening bid is in the west hand. Neither the north player nor the south player has a sound distributive bid that fits the trick count required by rule. Nevertheless the players auctioned like this:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 S	2 C	Pass
2 D	Dbl	3 C	Pass
Pass	Dbl	3 D	Pass
Pass	Dbl	Pass	3 H
4 D	4 H	Pass	Pass
5 D	5 H	6 D	Pass
Pass	Dbl	All Pass.

As you can see, each side got stubborn and tried to keep the other side from buying the contract. Up to game was not unreasonable. But when they got into the five and six level, it got dangerous.

When partner has not yet bid, a double of not more than three in a suit is for takeout. So, the first three doubles by west were requests for east to bid. The three heart bid was the result.

Thereafter, west was willing to take a sacrifice. By the time he was up to five hearts he could have been downed four tricks. It was far out of proportion if the opponents doubled.

South and north were a little surer of their ground until they got to five or six. But not too sure. Somebody should have been hurt bad. But south took 13 tricks. How crafty can the cards get?

Foreign Trade Deficit Boosted By May Figures

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's May import total set an all-time monthly record and further boosted the country's foreign trade deficit this year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

For the first five months of this year, imports exceeded exports by $309,900,000. There was an export surplus of $114,800,000 for the same period in 1952.

Exports for the January-May period this year were valued at $1,603,700,000 compared with $1,740,900,000 for the first five months last year. At the same time, imports rose from $1,626,100,000 to previous month and $386,000,000 in $1,813,600,000.

May imports rose to $422,200,000 compared with $393,100,000 the previous month and $396,000,000 in May, 1952. Previous monthly high was 405,100,100 in May, 1951.

Exports for May stood at $385,00,000 compared with $386,900,000 a year earlier. There was an import surplus of $37,200,000 in May compared with a May, 1952, export surplus of $1,000,000.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, JULY 9, 1953

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Literary efforts, other mental tasks hold prime position now. Enjoy your time be cheerful and things will come easier. Wisely control emotions.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Let strong faith dominate endeavors. If matters don't coincide with your immediate plans, just bide your time. Things will work out.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Particularly encouraging with your planet Mercury in major aspectic aspect. Let your entertaining qualities as well as business sense be paramount.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — May not be satisfying period from place angles but redouble effort to counteract these setbacks. Your keen progress if you try hard.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You are keenly aware scrutinizing things you need not fall into pitfalls and day can be productive. Have faith.

August 24 to September 22 (Virgo)—Fine vibrations most of day. Among top favored are personal business and investment activities. Good period for promotion, secretarial work.

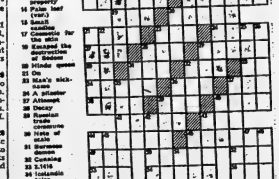
September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Another stimulating day. Your zodiacal chart says go forward with full heart and mind to make fine gains. Avoid careless mistakes, they threaten.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Some possible conditions that could confuse if you don't keep level head. Build on sound ideas use your intelligence, have no fear.

November 22 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Four square quality will carry through day. Avoid moves of chance, going on hearsay. Domestic, social affairs rate high.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Lay ground-work first, hold to good plans unless extraordinary circumstances warrant change. Follow through in matters of urgency.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — No extremes! Go carefully in financial matters. Trade, business may change without notice, especially stocks, bonds. A.M. period critical time; P.M. brightens.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You will need realistic thinking, efficient manoeuvering to achieve advance. Heart interests could hold key to better all-round results than supposed.

YOU BORN TODAY: Are bright, daring. Eager for life, good things and fun. Be careful to avoid extremes, exerting excessively. Splendid talents for interesting, useful living, making a name a top place in your endeavor. Take yourself to task for what you do not do well. Use your many God-given gifts. Birthdate of: Elias Howe, sewing-machine inventor; Ann Radcliffe, novelist.

TAUGHT FOR 50 YEARS

MOUNT HOPE, Ont. (CP)—Scores of people of all ages gathered in Community Hall Park Saturday to honor Kate Thornton of Canadoc upon her retirement after half a century as a public school teacher in this district. A varied program of entertainment was carried out in which many of her former pupils took part. She was recipient of farewell gifts including a substantial purse of money.

Alerted for Action in Suez Canal Zone

This well-armed British Tommy peers out of his sand-bagged, barbed-wire protected outpost, at right, to keep an eye on the local traffic passing along "Bren Gun Alley" and over the Suez bridge (background) spanning the Sweetwater canal near Ismailia in the tension-bound world of the Suez canal zone. Though fighting has stopped, the British and Egyptians literally live at "bayonet point" in this hot-spot of the middle-east. All non-essential and non-military personnel have been evacuated from the zone by British authorities as a safety measure. President Naguib of Egypt has demanded that British withdraw from the canal zone and few know when or whether Naguib will try to enforce his demand with military force. — Central Press Canadian.

Pursued by Raging Forest Fire

Carrying his trench digging shovel, this firefighter runs across Pallett creek in Los Angeles mountainous forest as flames from a bush fire race towards him. The roaring fire, out of control along a 40-mile front, has ravaged over 40,000 acres of the national forest and destroyed 20 buildings. Undaunted by the water of Pallett creek, the searing flames of the fire leaped over it and destroyed six homes in the Juniper Hills section. — Central Press Canadian.

To Succeed Bingham as Head of RCR

Lieut.-Col. T. S. R. McCoy, 33, of Hamilton, Ont., has been named commanding officer of the 1st Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment, succeeding Col. F. R. Bingham, who was recently named commandant of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry, Camp Borden, Ont. Lt.-Col. McCoy, seen above, is now on the directing staff of the Canadian Army Staff College, Kingston, and will assume his new duties when the current college course ends late in September.—Central Press Canadian.

Mayor Assists Austrian Widow To Find Man

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — Mayor F. O. Robinson pulls a mean Cupid's bow.

Two weeks ago he received a letter from an Austrian widow, Louise Palmstorfer, asking him to help her find a Canadian husband. The mayor said then that he has two eligible Ontario farmers lined up.

Both offer "a good home" to Mrs. Palmstorfer, about 30, and her 12-year-old son. The mayor said one farmer is from Bamberg, a village near Kitchener, and the other from Markdale, 70 miles northwest of Toronto.

DROVE CAR OVER WHEAT

STRATFORD (CP) — Leonard Petzie, who pleaded guilty to leveling three-quarters of an acre of wheat by driving his car back and forth through it, Tuesday was given two years' suspended sentence for damage caused and ordered to pay $75 restitution to William Anderson of Stratford.

Named by St. Laurent to Brazilian Embassy

Prime Minister St. Laurent has announced in Ottawa the appointment of Sydney D. Pierce as new ambassador to Brazil, effective Aug. 1. Mr. Pierce was moved from the organization for European Economic Co-operation to Washington at a time when Canada's $5,000,000,000 arms program began rolling in 1951. He was given the rank of minister, but his real job was to head Canada's Defence Production Office in Washington and help in the acceleration of the movement of arms between Canada and the U.S. — Central Press Canadian.

COW KILLS WOMAN

CARMAN, Man. (CP) — Mrs. Fred Berecrombie, 57, died in hospital here Tuesday after being attacked by a cow Monday.

Mrs. Abercrombie, who lives on a farm two miles south of here, was about to drive the cows home when one cow knocked her to the ground and hunted her, crushing her chest. Her father-in-law tried in vain to drive the animal away.

KILLED BY STREET-CAR

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Charles Webster of Ottawa was killed Tuesday when she stepped from the curb into the path of an Ottawa transportation commission tram in the west-end section of the city.

Canadian Workers Further Covered After August 3

OTTAWA (CP) — Extended unemployment insurance coverage for Canadian workers will go into effect Aug. 3, it was learned today.

The enlarged benefits cover persons who become incapacitated after losing their jobs. They were authorized at the last session of Parliament, but proclamation of the measure was delayed while details of the plan were worked out.

Officials said unemployment insurance commission offices across the country now have instructions for applying the legislation.

Persons thrown out of work now receive insurance benefits only as long as they are available to take on other jobs. If sickness or other disability bars them from calling personally for their insurance cheques, they do not collect.

Under the new amendment to the Unemployment Insurance Act those becoming incapacitated after unemployment starts will continue to receive benefits for as long as they would be qualified to get them if they were capable of working.

However, workers who have to leave the job in the first place because of illness or injury will not be covered by the federal insurance plan.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

W. A. Sponsors Fine Ice Cream Social

WHITE'S DISTRICT.—The ladies of White's Woman's Association, assisted by the ladies of the community, and several young ladies who helped with the serving were business recently to many friends from the neighboring communities for a successful strawberry and ice-cream social supplemented by cakes, tarts and cookies.

Following this sumptuous repast, the chairman, the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton called the gathering to order and after a short address called on Mrs. George Caves, local talent, for a solo "Because" accompanied by Mrs. Verna Waldron, Mrs. Waldron also provided music while the guests were being served. Mr. Arnold Meyers local artist, who travelled extensively in Mexico the past winter, was then called upon for a showing of colored pictures taken and sketched of interesting people, scenes, buildings, animals and other items of interest accompanied by an interesting commentary of each.

Many had fallen with interest to his articles in the Ontario Intelligencer describing his trip and enjoyed seeing the many pictures mentioned.

Mrs. Caves again favored with a solo, "The Lord's Prayer", which was enjoyed and which added a perfect ending for a successful evening.

Miss Pearl Nicolson, of Toronto, was a visitor last week of her mother, Mrs. Everett Nicolson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter, of Belleville, also Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bilham, Larry and Sylvia, of Bayside, were recent visitors at Black and Bass Lakes.

Miss Audrey Bowers is a visitor of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fair of Thurlow.

Miss Sylvia Bilham spent the week-end with her uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Jones of Camdhon.

Mr. Donald Bowers has returned home from Kingston General Hospital, where he was a patient last week for X-ray and observation.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sandercock (nee Miss Lillian Cunningham) who were married on Saturday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Cunningham of Wellington district, by the Rev. A. Poulter of Wellington United Church. They are spending their honeymoon at Muskoka. Guests from this district were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock; his grandmother Mrs. James Sandercock; his grandfather, Mr. Frank Brooks; his sister Mrs. Clifford Millar; Mr. Millar, Sylvia and Gary. Also Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Westfall and family of Sudbury, were recent visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones and Mrs. William Westfall.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Hogle and Mrs. Robert Jeffery of Trenton, were Saturday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones.

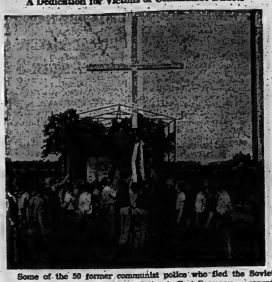
Congratulations to police constable Bruce Westfall and Mrs. Westfall of Trenton, on the birth of a son at Trenton Memorial hospital on Thursday, July 2nd. Bruce was a former resident of this district.

Sunday School and church services were observed at White's Church on Sunday afternoon. The Rev. R. W. T. Middleton gave a fine address. A duet "The Voice Divine" was rendered by Miss Doreen Middleton and Mrs. George Bilham Communion service will be administered next Sunday evening; church and Sunday School services will be cancelled until Sunday afternoon August 16th.

MADOC JUNCTION

MADOC JUNCTION — Mr. and Mrs. George Jervis accompanied Rev. L. Norman, Mrs. Norman and son to Wasaga Beach, where the Rev. and Mrs. Norman will spend the month of July at one of Mr. Jervis' cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bridges and Bruce, of Oshawa spent Dominion Day with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges.



Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wilson and children, of Peterborough, are spending their holidays at the home of their mother, Mrs. Frank Smith, and Mr. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Marlow visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly, of Warkworth, on Sunday.

Misses Grace Clarke, Marilyn Reid, Suzanne Gallagher, Annamae Clarke, Marlene Madill and

A Dedication for Victims of Communist Bullets

Some of the 50 former communist police who fled the Soviet sector of Berlin during the recent rioting in East Germany — caused by workers seeking better living conditions — are shown erecting a cross with a wreath in memory of the seven victims who died at the hands of red rulers during demonstrations. The seven-yard high cross was erected just 20 yards in front of a Russian tank memorial in West Berlin. Several hundred refugees who fled along with the police attended the ceremony. — Central Press Canadian.

Bobby Clarke from Eggleton school, enjoyed the recent bus trip to Old Fort Henry, Kingston.

Miss Gladys Clarke and her pupils from Wellman's school took the same trip.

Sorry to report that Mrs. Gordon Nelson is a patient in Kingston hospital.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Neighbors, Relatives Make Presentation

WHITE'S DISTRICT. — The neighbors and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seneca Reid to honor their son, Ernest, and his bride, who were recently married in Kemptville.

After a social time, the chairman, the Rev. R. W. T. Middleton, called the gathering to order and Mrs. Leonard Young read an address, congratulating Ernest on his choice of life partner. Ernest and Dorothy both attended Kemptville Agricultural College. Although they are acting for the present in the Ottawa district, the thoughts and good wishes of their many friends go with them.

A wicker set of chair and rocker was presented to them by Mr. Ernest Curtis and Mr. William Yateman with the good wishes of young and old in the community.

Both Ernest and Dorothy replied thanking all for their kindness and inviting all to visit them in their new home.

Refreshments were served then all departed for their homes.

Korea Truce Talks To Resume Friday; Clark Sees Rhee

Rhee Given Important Letter But It Is Not An Ultimatum

By SAM SUMMERLIN

SEOUL (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators return today to Panmunjom to resume negotiations on final detail of a Korean armistice which South Korea has bitterly assailed and said it will not recognize.

The United Nations command said full-scale truce talks, recessed on June 30, will get underway at 11 a. m. Friday (10 p. m. EDT today).

The meeting presumably was arranged during a 15-minute liaison officers' session at Panmunjom today. But the official UN spokesman refused to say more than that the meeting was held "for administrative purposes only."

Clark Sees Rhee

Announcement that the truce talks would resume came a few hours after a top-level UN delegation headed by Gen. Mark Clark acted again to win President Syngman Rhee's support of a truce, which Rhee opposes.

A highly-placed South Korean official said Rhee still is isolated out despite U. S. offers of a military security pact, "substantial" economic aid and expansion and training of four more divisions for the 16-division South Korean army.

The source told Associated Press correspondent Bill Shinn that Rhee still is insisting that his country "must have from America concrete assurance the Korea will be unified"—peacefully or by force.

He added that the 5-day talks between Rhee and President Eisenhower's special truce envoy are described as "cordial."

An authoritative source said Clark handed Rhee an important letter, dealing with South Korea's objections to an armistice. But an official spokesman said the letter was not an ultimatum to Rhee to accept present truce terms.

The UN command said today's liaison session after the Red's said Wednesday they were ready to resume the truce talks, which were recessed June 30 when Rhee ordered the release of some 27,000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners.

UN generals and statesmen have failed to budge Rhee's insistence that there can be no armistice but war unless a post-armistice political conference assures forced unification of Korea in three months.

Attending Thursday's conference with Clark and Robertson were Vice-Admiral Jo Kwan Ellis O. Briggs and Robert Murphy, political adviser to Clark.

Shantenver Orders

Washington reports said President Eisenhower and his top advisers had been ordered to draw up new instructions for Clark following receipt at the Communist letter saying the Reds were prepared to restart the machinery for completing an armistice.

The Red letter made it clear, however, that the UN command must shoulder the responsibility for getting South Korean objectives the terms of an armistice. It also called for the Allies to see that the more strident anti-Communist speeches and to assume responsibility for rounding up the 27,000 now at large.

Bevanites' Paper Angrily Charges Cabinet Vetoed Marriage of Princess

LONDON (Reuters) — Tribune, the left-wing political weekly, said today that the British cabinet had vetoed suggestions of a marriage between Princess Margaret and Group Capt. Peter Townsend, court attendant with whom her name has been linked romantically.

It was learned last week that Townsend, 38, is to be sent to Brussels as air attache at the British embassy after nine years of service in Buckingham Palace. Last year he divorced his wife after 11 years of marriage.

Tribune said Britain's members of Parliament who support Aneurin Bevan, left-wing Labor leader, declared:

Tribune believes that Princess Margaret should be allowed to make up her own mind whom she wants to marry. Most other people, we imagine, would agree with that simple proposition.

But the British cabinet does not agree.

"According to our information, the cabinet was asked for its advice on whether the Princess should be elevated to marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend. The cabinet said 'No.'

Tribune said the objection was based on the fact that Townsend has been involved in two divorce courts, though he sued as the innocent party on the grounds of adultery.

It said that when the Queen referred the issue to the government "the cowardly cabinet" agreed with the Church of England, which also opposed the match.

Tribune said the process of interference with a girl's private life is all part of the absurd myth about the Royal Family which has been so assiduously built up by interested parties in recent years," Tribune said.

It added that "the incident is not made any more savory by our knowledge that three members of the present cabinet have themselves been involved in divorce cases."

Red Artillery Is No Worry, He's Under Table

SEOUL (AP) — Associated Press correspondent Robert Gibson, stationed at a Korean forward command post, was dictating a story on a field telephone to his office here Wednesday night.

"Just a minute," he said. There was a short pause with some rattling and banging in the distance.

Then he was back on the phone again "that was some incoming Red artillery," he explained.

"Better knock it off and call back," he said.

"Oh it's all right now," Gibson said. "I'm under the table."

Flow of World News Disrupted By Recent Bans

NEW YORK (AP)—Blows were dealt the free flow of world news in Argentina in the last six months. Readers of newspapers in Spain looked in vain for any mention of British pre-Coronation activities. An Associated Press correspondent was ordered out of Tehran for writing about the wounded Iranian attacking Americans.

These were some of the developments recorded in the semi-annual Associated Press survey of censorship and other conditions that long have been a headache to editors.

The Iron Curtain was drawn about a little Moscow permitted by group of U.S. newspaper and radio executives to visit the Soviet capital for a week last March and report their impressions while there.

Poland let in some Western correspondents to cover a sports event and Hungary admitted several to report a Communist - led trial conducted in Budapest. All this seemed linked with Russia's peace gestures to the West since Stalin's death.

For more than a month Argentine newspapers did not print dispatches of U.S. news agencies which had long supplied them with U.S. and world news. The agencies were accused by President Juan D. Peron of engaging in a campaign to defame him abroad.

In May the Peron regime suspended for a week the credentials of the agencies to receive news by wire-less. The ban was lifted Friday. Argentina's leading independent newspaper resumed publication of dispatches from the Associated Press. There was no direct censorship of news during Argentina, even at the height of the controversy over the agencies.

The freedom of the press committee of the Inter-American Press Association reported in March that the situation in Argentina had not improved. The report said that Bolivia, Colombia, Venezuela, Paraguay, El Salvador and the Dominican Republic as other Latin American countries where freedom of the press was curtailed.

In Spain a few weeks before the Coronation in April a newspaper men were forbidden to write about the coming event. No reason was given. The order, however, was finally withdrawn.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The Great Lakes area lies under a wide trough of air flowing down from the north. Minimum temperatures Wednesday night and Thursday will be 45 to 50 degrees in many localities, and maximum temperatures today will barely reach 70 degrees even along the lower lakes. There is a possibility of a few scattered showers in all localities today.

On Friday skies will be mostly sunny, temperatures somewhat will be up about five degrees, and no precipitation is forecast for any part of Ontario.

BERLIN BORDER IS RE-OPENED; STRIKES STILL ON

Sixteen Major Plants Affected by 'Sitdowns'

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN (AP)—The communists lifted the Iron Curtain before rioting East Berlin today, permitting free Western travel into the Russian sector of the divided city for the first time since open rebellion brought tank-enforced martial law to the area.

Border crossers said 16 major factories in the Soviet - sector capital were affected by sitdown strikes which broke out Wednesday to demand release of workers arrested in the June 17 revolt. Approximately 100,000 persons participate in the government's announcement Wednesday night that the "great majority" of these had been released.

Reports from the east zone outside Berlin indicated dozens of Soviet tanks and Magdeburg, Leipzig, Halle, Brandenburg and Dessen were hit by slowdowns. Refugees said the Russians long since had lifted martial law outside Berlin but reimposed it after four-hour nightly curfew in Halle, where a bellicose workers set fire to the Communist chemical plant June 17.

Double Pretzels

Though Red German infantry and police patrols, were doubled on the Berlin sector borders between East and West Berlin, the communists paid scant attention to the Western traffic rolling the city's only-blocked elevated trains and subways across the border.

Each automobile and truck at the dozens of crossing points was checked, however, and Red police chief Waldemar Schmidt said on Radio Berlin that "every provocateur and propagandist will be arrested and dealt with sternly."

Reberation of the Russian sector travel had been a secondary concession by the Soviet peace offensive in half-a-dozen trouble spots around the globe.

Premier Stalin of Salisbury, acting British foreign secretary, and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault were to join in the Big Three talks in Paris Friday and running through Tuesday.

Dulles was understood to be interested in urging the new government of Premier Joseph Laniel, to speed ratification of the European Defence Community which would permit West Germany to arm.

Also, he is likely to press the British for an early solution of their difficulties in Egypt, with a step which would clear the way for creation of the Middle East Defence Organization.

Wants More Aid

Bidault reported ready to ask the U. S. for a substantial increase in American assistance for the fight against Communist Viet Minh rebels in China. Officials indicated the U. S. government would look favorably on the request favorably if it can be assured France has worked out plans for a realistic program of fighting the Reds.

Authorities said Korean truce and post-truce political problems undoubtedly will be discussed, but Dulles is known to have no plan or intention to bring up these problems. He has been given assurance that Lord Salisbury may urge Dulles to take strong action if necessary to get Syngman Rhee from President Syngman Rhee from blocking establishment of an armistice in Korea.

To Discuss Germany

Authoritative sources indicated a large part of the talks may be devoted to the German problem and the attitude of Russia toward the West, as it has developed since Stalin's death and his successor to the premiership of Georgi Malenkov.

One concern, it was said, will be to plan for co-ordinated action by Britain, including Malenkov, expected to get little consideration Lord Salisbury, according to advance information, will not push it and key U. S. officials believe that this is not the time to undertake talks with the Kremlin at the highest level.

St. Laurent Says Drew Trying To Scare Voters Into His Camp

By Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister St. Laurent charged Hon. George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader Wednesday night with trying to scare Quebec voters into his camp.

He said Mr. Drew is doing this by raising the "bogey" of federal centralization of power, asserting theme of the election campaign speeches of both Mr. Drew and Mr. St. Laurent.

Mr. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said in Hamilton that the establishment of his party would consider taking the province's industries under public ownership to "halt exploitation by a few firms which in effect form a giant monopoly."

He said the CCF also would establish a new labor relations board, representative of producers of all provinces, which would set "just and reasonable" floor prices for livestock.

Returns to Carleton

While Mr. St. Laurent was campaigning in Winnipeg, Mr. Drew returned to his own constituency of Carleton which includes parts of Ottawa. At a public meeting in the capital, Mr. Drew said the government of his party is the only one that would "stop and end open the books on the "waste and staggering inefficiency" of the Liberal government.

Mr. Drew also received some applause when he referred to federal cabinet ministers—Transport Minister Chevrier and Externals Affairs Minister Pearson. The former described as "foolish and ridiculous" Mr. Drew's promise of $300,000,000 in tax cuts. Mr. Pearson said the promise is an example of an artificial one which does not stand up to analysis.

Trade Fight

Trade fight flows said in Halifax that Progressive Conservative trade policies would bring prohibitive duties and shrinking markets abroad.

Health Minister Martin took a similar line to Mr. St. Laurent's, using different tactics. He said at a Bruce peninsula Indian reservation that Mr. St. Laurent deserves the title Great White Father because he doesn't try to get the members of the Canadian family fighting among themselves.

Mr. St. Laurent said Mr. Drew "hopes to frighten people in any province with a bogey and to get their support by appealing to their fear of being dominated by other parts of Canada."

Returning to Communist activity, Mr. St. Laurent said he urges no statutory ban as proposed by Mr. Drew. Rather the policy should be one of vigilance backed up by a "steady resistance to destroy communism's breeding ground—poverty."

In Ottawa, Mr. Drew said the Liberal government cannot pretend it had nothing to do with the little taxpayer. The tax cuts promised by his party would be of most benefit to pensioners and people on small incomes by meeting the problem of sales and excise taxes on necessities.

Mr. Drew renewed his pledge of permanent status for "many thousands" of civil servants now classified as temporary. He said he is prepared to stand on his record of dismissal with civil service independent of Ontario.

Trade Minister Gardiner and Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Jack Pickersgill came up with a unique confession for a cabinet minister. He said he was a Conservative, not a Liberal.

But he changed his mind about 27 years ago because Conservatives advocated high tariffs, racial and religious hatred and refused to see Canada become a really adult nation.

German Re-Armament, Egypt, Indo-China, Will be Discussed

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The foreign ministers of Britain and France are due here today to join with U. S. Secretary of State Dulles in mapping Allied strategy for dealing with the Soviet peace offensive in half-a-dozen trouble spots around the globe.

Premier Stalin of Salisbury, acting British foreign secretary, and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault were to join in the Big Three talks Friday and running through Tuesday.

Dulles was understood to be interested in urging the new government of Premier Joseph Laniel, to speed ratification of the European Defence Community which would permit West Germany to arm.

No Mink Coats For Your Wife Judge's Advice

LONDON (AP) — Britain's top trial Judge counseled: Don't buy your wife a mink coat; if she insists, don't get it but a fur coat instead.

Speaking at the annual dinner given by the lord mayor of London, lord chief justice Goddard said:

"For goodness sake, don't give your wife a mink coat. You will not be able to sleep o'nights. And if you have given them mink coats you ought to change them for rabbit.

"It is extraordinary how thieves get to know, these days, when you have made one in your house you deserves to lose them."

Five Are Hurt When CPR Train Jumps Off Track

SMITTSVILLE (CP)—Five persons were injured today when baggage cars of an eastbound Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train hurtled off the tracks near this town 20 miles west of Ottawa.

The injured, all but one in a newspaper story railway investigators were searching for a missing man believed to have been a passenger aboard one of the two baggage cars. CPR officials at Ottawa said they knew of no missing persons.

Taken to hospital at Ottawa were Alexander Lyle, assistant vice-president of the CPR at Montreal; his wife, Florence; Carl S. Major of Kenmore, N.Y., CPR engineer en route to Montreal; Charles Baker of Ottawa, conductor of the train, and Paul Chamard, chef aboard the business car.

Mrs. Lyle's husband was detained The other four were released after treatment.

MURDERER ROBS GALLOWS, STABS SELF IN HEART

Pavlukoff Commits Suicide in Cell

VANCOUVER (CP) — Convicted murderer Walter Pavlukoff, under sentence of death, took his own life in a cell at Oakalla prison Wednesday by plunging the sharpened end of a spoon into his heart.

The 40-year-old killer robbed the gallows 10 minutes after his lawyer had lost his appeal against execution had been rejected by the British Columbia court of appeal.

Pavlukoff had been sentenced to hang for the brutal bludgeon murder of bank manager Sydney Petrie in 1947. He was captured in a Toronto suburb last January after eluding police for more than five years.

Warden Nearby

Warden Hugh Christie said guards were nearby when Pavlukoff stabbed himself with the improvised knife.

"The handle was quite small, barely half its normal length," Christie said. "But it was long enough to go between his ribs and pierce his heart."

Lawyer Harold Fisher said Pavlukoff appeared in good spirits after being told his appeal had been rejected.

"He gave no indication of what he was going to do."

Pavlukoff's suicide brought to a sudden end a case that began on a fateful night in August, 1947.

Robs Bank in 1947

At precisely 3 p.m., closing time of the Kitsilano branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, a hollow-cheeked gunman a walked into the bank waving a Luger pistol.

Seconds later, manager Sydney Petrie lay in front of the vault, shot through the chest. He died in hospital later that night.

The murderer escaped without any money.

The next day, a warrant was issued for Pavlukoff's arrest. For the next five years, he was on and up on the RCMP's list of most-wanted criminals.

His capture in North York came as the result of a tip to police from a salesman who recognized Pavlukoff from a picture.

Pavlukoff offered no resistance when picked up on a street corner and soon was en route to the coast for trial.

He had worked in Toronto for years as a meat cutter, living in an obscure rooming house.

2 Blenheim Men Killed in Crash Near Oakville

HAMILTON (CP)—A crash on the Dundas highway near Oakville this morning claimed the lives of two Blenheim district men, Murray Lark, 18, Blenheim, and Ivan Lark, 20, Blenheim, when their car hit a blazing cab of his truck, and his passenger, Robert Sheppard, 21, died in St. Joseph's hospital here five hours later.

Provincial police constable William Duncan, of the Oakville detachment, said Lark's truck caught fire a load of potatoes went off the highway into a ditch and burst into flames.

Constable Duncan said that the truck was gutted.

Iran and Russia Are Reported Preparing Non-Aggression Pact

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Tehran newspapers speculated today that Premier Mossadegh will seek the Soviet Union may be in the offing. They based their speculation on reports that talks between Premier Mossadegh and the Kremlin are preparing to negotiate a non-aggression pact, standing border and financial claims against her big Communist neighbor.

The newspaper Ettelaat, Iran's largest, said a Soviet mission may come to Tehran for negotiations and that U. S. officials are watching developments with anxiety.

The reports coincided with a disclosure by Iranian sources that President Eisenhower has written Mossadegh he can expect no large-scale U. S. aid until the premier settles his oil dispute with Britain.

Eisenhower also was reported as telling the aged premier the U. S. is dictated by the freedom allowed Communist activity in Iran, presumably a reference to the recent trial of members of the pro-Red Tudeh party into key government departments.

It was understood that Eisenhower's letter referred only to new Communist activities and did not cover U.S. military assistance and past four technical assistance program will continue. In recent years, Iran has received a $25,000,000 export-import bank loan for economic development, $47,000,000 in point four aid, and undisclosed amounts of military equipment, along with the services of a small U. S. military mission helping to train the army and police.

Say Churchill May Retire Soon Due to Health

Claim Anthony Eden Would Become Government Head

LIVERPOOL (Reuters) — Two British newspapers said today that as the result of doctors' warnings Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill, 78, may announce his retirement in the near future.

The Liverpool Daily Post said Churchill's successor would be Anthony Eden, foreign secretary who is in the United States reporting from the third of a series of gall bladder operations.

Both the Liverpool paper and the Birmingham Post, which made a frontpaged story of the report, said that Churchill has received "serious warnings" from his doctors, on whose orders he began a rest from overwork two weeks ago.

Each said, however, that he is making such good recovery at his country home in Chartwell, Kent, that he may decide to postpone his resignation for a little longer.

The Liverpool Post predicted his announcement would come within the next few months.

The Post, a usually cautious, conservative newspaper, splashed the story on its front page under an eight-column headline. It gave no source for the report, which came from its political correspondent in London, and added that it might be denied officially.

Denial is Possible

The report said the prime minister "has taken the decision with extreme reluctance and only because of serious warnings by his doctors."

But it added: "It is not impossible that if Sir Winston's recovery exceeds all present expectations, he would later decide to carry on for some time longer."

The scary said a denial is possible because of the effect his retirement might have on the Conservative party and because it might "postpone indefinitely a big Four meeting with Russia."

Churchill, said the newspaper, "has succeeded as Foreign Secretary by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who is "swiftly recovering from recent operations and expects to return from the United States in the next few days."

The newspaper said Harold Macmillan, at present housing minister, might succeed Eden as foreign secretary. Macmillan, 59, underwent a major lung operation Thursday. He is making a satisfactory recovery.

The Post said the resignation "could come within the next month, early in August or September, living on an obscure rooming house.

. . . Sir Winston might equally choose the occasion of the (Conservative) party conference in early October."

Aged Tabby Dies

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—"Scooter" the famous old grandfather cat of Cats, died Wednesday at the home of his mistress, Mrs. William Pocock. Scooter was a 40-year-old cat, was 36 years old.

Mrs. Pocock, president of the Canadian National Cat Club said 16 was the highest age she knew of for a domestic cat to live to.

If, as claimed among cat lovers, a cat's life is equal to seven to a human's then Scooter was 252 years old.

FAIR REMANDED

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Charles Grisham and Harold Mair, both of London, Ont., were remanded for trial in county criminal court here Wednesday on charges of forgery involving about $400.

Snitches Drinks, Pigeon Arrested But Is Unruffled

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—A tipsy pigeon was released at the police station after sleeping off one of the worst drunks the desk sergeant said he had seen.

Patrolman Roy Scherer caught the red-eyed bird wobbling out of a bar.

Scherer said the pigeon apparently helped himself to some leftover drinks at the bar.

Desk Sgt. Philip McLean said the bird couldn't walk a straight line.

The prison appeared unruffled by the whole affair when he was officially discharged.

Four Red Attacks Broken Thursday On Korean Front

By FORREST EDWARDS

SEOUL (AP)—U. S. infantrymen hammered back four Red Communist attacks today and Turkish troops stemmed another north as much of Korean battlefront crackled with thunderous artillery barrages and bloody hand-to-hand combat.

For the first time in weeks, the Reds threw their heaviest assaults at U. S. units Wednesday night.

They were stopped cold, with heavy losses, by dawn.

Then the Chinese and the Chinese slammed recklessly into four key Allied positions across the front—twin outposts Berlin and East Berlin in the west near Panmunjom, site of the truce talks; Porkchop hill and South Korean-held Arrowhead ridge on the west central front; and Kim Il Sung ridge, in the east.

The U. S. 8th army said more than 1,200 Reds were killed and wounded by artillery duels and close-quarter fighting—some of it hand-to-hand with gun butts and knives.

United Nations casualties were not disclosed.

Associated Press correspondent Robert Gibson, reporting from the Porkchop sector said Chinese big guns were pumping rounds a minute on some portions of that embattled hill.

In addition to the four main bloody fights, 45 small patrol clashes were reported.

In two of the battles—on Porkchop and Arrowhead—U. S. and Malaya troops holed up in their own bunkers as Allied artillery showered down on them.

On the Western front, elements of a Chinese battalion attacked Arrowhead ridge, defended outposts of Berlin and East Berlin.

Chinese troops "burned" both outposts, dropping shells on the U. S. and Malaya on the positions without touching the U. S. troops on the crest.

Belleville L.O.L. No. 2187 will march in the Ottawa parade while L.O.L. No. 274 will parade at Campbellford. This lodge meets at the L.O.L. rooms here at eight Saturday morning and will travel by bus to Campbellford an hour later.

Picton lodges will march at Campbellford, while those from the northern and other areas will parade at Tweed and Bancroft.

TRIO ARRESTED NEAR HOSPITAL

A brawl near the hospital late night between two men who had been looking on the wine when "it was red" resulted in a trio being arrested and lodged in the city cells. The third man was found in a car investigating city police, who found the liquid evidence, one bottle and another half filled with wine.

TELLS OF HOLIDAY IN GREAT BRITAIN

Wing 418 of the Royal Canadian Air Force Association has received a letter from the vice-president, Borden Gill, who is presently holidaying in England with his wife.

Mr. Gill reports the country similar to what it was when he was overseas during the war with the exception much rebuilding has been done. In the letter, the vice-president has put it this way: "The English countryside is much the same as you remember it. The towns and cities have heated their battle scars from the bombings of the war and have been very nicely rebuilt."

He is a member of the sales staff of Bill Dafoe Limited, Colman Street.

BASEBALL GAME MOVED UP NIGHT

The baseball game scheduled between the Regent Juniors and Trenton Flyers on the latter's grounds for Friday night will be played tonight, manager Bryson Reid said today. The hitching forward of the game was necessitated through the scheduling of a softball game between the Glen Ross Junkers and Point Anne for tomorrow night.

ATTEMPT MADE TO ENTER OFFICE

An attempt was made to break and enter the Church Street office of the Beaver Lumber Company, early this morning, police said today. The intruders' efforts proved fruitless.

Investigation of the office light attracted the attention of a passing constable and an investigation followed immediately.

Young Liberals Hear Address By Candidate

At a well attended meeting of the South Hastings Young Liberals Association held recently evening, Frank Follwell, Liberal candidate for South Hastings in the coming election spoke briefly on the importance of said association in the Young Liberals, pointing out that their youth enabled them to do a great deal of the leg work that is necessary during an election campaign. Mr. Follwell pointed out that the young voter of today is taking a more active part during elections and must continue to do so for the benefits of the country as a whole. He further emphasized his remarks by stating that in a recent election there were but the 20 to 30-year-age group out-polled and cast in favor of the Liberal Party and their form of government. Survey indicating that they are fully satisfied with the present party in power.

Mrs. Follwell was followed by Robert Temple, executive vice-president in charge, explanation of the Ontario Young Liberals Association limiting his remarks to the efforts that the younger members of the party can perform to make an election successful.

The president of the Association Jack Scanlon was in the chair.

Sen. Wm. Fraser Feels Mars Vacation for Him as Likely As Victory for Drew Aug. 10

MARMORA (Staff)—Senator William Fraser of Trenton did not find Mars Wednesday night, but not even in his dreams. Of course, he did not expect to do so. He thought it highly unlikely that he would. He told those attending the Hastings-Frontenac Liberal nomination meeting in the Town Hall on Wednesday afternoon that it was unlikely that he would make a trip to Mars Wednesday night as it was that Progressive-Conservative Leader George Drew would win the forthcoming Federal election on Aug. 10. And he left his audience in no doubt as to how improbable—and how undesirable—he considered a Drew victory.

"I know Tories—and Toryism—I think as well as any man in Canada", he asserted, "and the architect in Canada of Socialism is George Drew.

"Toryism is a school of thought. It is as far divorced from democracy and freedom, as we Liberals know it, as Communism is separated from Roman Catholicism or Episcopalianism.

"I am saying that the Tories don't want to see Canada prosperous—all it will do is show the people how to legislate so that this is possible.

"George Drew is a destructionist—not a constructionist. George Drew believes that Canada was so to get a pile by the fence, so he can peak it at the circus on the other side".

Right Speakers

Senator Fraser was the last—and the final—speaker at a parade of eight speakers, who included Reeve McDonald of Sidney, president of the Central Ontario Liberal Association; Norman Gilroy of Coe Hill, who was elected president of the Hastings-Frontenac Liberal Association; the nominee, Frank Follwell, the aspirant for the Liberal nomination for the riding, Cleworth Ward Foster of Madoc; Mr. Dingwall Conquest, the nominee for the riding of Hastings-Frontenac; Arthur Lewis, president of Peterborough Liberal Association, and Delbert Sine of Harold, vice-president of the Hastings-Frontenac Liberal Association.

Senator Fraser opened his address by reminding his audience of his early experiences in political affairs, the first in the riding of West Hastings and later in Hastings-Peterborough, which riding has now become Hastings-Frontenac as the result of the addition of a part of the former riding of Addington-Frontenac.

Plea For Prejudice

"There is no room in the public life of the Dominion of Canada for prejudice, religious or racial—racial hatred," declared Senator Fraser. He charged that there was a whisper campaign in the Federal Cabinet Minister Louis St. Laurent, because he was a member of the Roman Catholic Church. But Dr. Robert Manion, former Conservative leader, was a Roman Catholic, he said "and the people of North Hastings, at that time were a little bit mum about any religious issue."

As support for his charge that Progressive - Conservative Leader George Drew was destructionist, the Senator Fraser referred to Drew's Reno gun charges and to his references at the time of the last Federal election to the T.C.A.'s North Star aircraft, which Senator Fraser said Drew had characterized as a "tomb based" and "sardines". Yet these planes, said the Senator, had since flown over three million air miles between the continent and Korea.

Baby Bonus Question

Senator Fraser claimed that when Drew was Premier of Ontario he had stated that he would do everything within his power to prevent the family allowances bill from becoming law. He described Conservative opposition to this bill as a "stark attempt to divert from the distribution of wealth by taxing those who had wealth and distributing it to those who had income." This bill he said "in my opinion has done more for the children of Canada and for the parents of Canada than any other bill ever placed on the statute books."

Now, he continued, the Toronto Globe and Mail is advocating that the means test be applied to family allowances—and restored for old age pensioners.

Surpluses Reduce Debt

"When Mr. Abbott (Finance Minister Douglas Abbott) has a surplus, he doesn't throw it away as does that surplus to pay off the mortgage on our homestead, the Dominion of Canada," said Senator Fraser. "He urged our listeners to work for the return to power of the Liberal government at once.

This same theme of the prosperity of Canada and the assurance that this prosperity was largely the result of wise government by the Liberal party, during the past eighteen years ran through most of the speeches.

Name President

Lorne McDonald, of Kingston, was the chairman when the meeting opened. He said that Bert Wendland, who had been elected president of the Hastings-Frontenac Liberal Association in the riding of Hastings, later been obliged to resign. He accordingly called for nominations for the position and Norman Gilroy, of Coe Hill, was elected by acclamation. He assumed the charge of the conduct of the remainder of the meeting.

Mr. Gilroy first called on Mr. McDonald to address the gathering. The latter stated that the Central Ontario Liberal Association told those present that they were glad to see—considering the small attendance — some three score. It was a difficult time of year for farmers to attend political "gatherings, he said. Mr. McDonald then called for getting pankicky. "This is Mr. Drew's last chance", he asserted. "If he doesn't make good this time he is definitely out. There is no doubt about that. He charged that Drew was "flirting with the truth" in some of his statements.

"Nobody denies," he said, "that the Liberal party has control over the handling of the country's finances. In 1945 $15,000 contracts being let in a year some errors were inevitable. "It happens in any business. It is bound to happen."

Need Government Member

What you have a man who is on the side of the government—which we are going to be—in the next government—you have a better prospect of developing your natural resources", Arthur Lewis of Peterborough told the gathering.

"If we are going to continue to enjoy freedom every one of us should give some of his time to promoting the welfare of this country—and I know no way you can do that better than by going out and working for the election of a Liberal candidate on Aug. 10."

Mr. Lewis said that Liberalism has been the foundation of this country and has been the cause of building it into what it is today."declared Rourke Ferguson, ex-M.P., of Norwood. Senator Robert Taft of the

Obituary

THOMAS SMITH

The funeral of Thomas Smith, who died recently in Toronto, was held from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home this Thursday morning, to St. Michael's Church for Requiem Mass. The Mass was celebrated by Rev. J. J. Buckley while Rev. Jas. Brendan said the last rites in St. James' Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Vincent and William Hogan and Leo Geuthier of the R. of E. and R. N. Charles, John Moore and G. B. Saltter, Ford.

The late Mr. Smith was born in this city, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Smith. He entered the service of the C.N.R. as a brakeman some years ago. He is a retired conductor. Mr. Smith was overseas in the First World War and remained railroading on his discharge.

FLOYD SMITH

A resident of the County Home and well known in the city, Floyd Smith, veteran of World War I, died suddenly at the home early this Thursday morning, at the age of 72. He had been in failing health for some years, "Smitty" as he was familiarly known, went overseas with the 235th Battalion and suffered severe injuries in England.

He was the adopted son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Smith and was born in Cannifton, 59 years ago. He had lived most of his life in this community. He was the last of his family.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

HAROLD ROY GIBSON

The funeral of Harold Roy Gibson was held from the Thomas' Funeral Home to St. Thomas' Church on Wednesday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. W. J. Robinson, rector of the church. Reverend Arthur Smith, rector of Christ Church Deer Park, Toronto and former rector of St. Thomas'. There was a large number in attendance, including R. S. Robinson, R. Pitcher, W. E. Ecclestone, E. A. Cahil, senior officials of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, and others of the company from the immediate district.

On Tuesday night, Herbert H. Reed, Master of Tuscan Lodge No. 97, A. F. and A. M. with Everett Fairman, Harold Robbins, Robert P. Orse

United States Rbd said that the U.S. had a nine-billion-dollar deficit last year, and there was a seven-billion-dollar deficit this year, he remarked. But Canada had had surpluses in every year since 1945. These surpluses had been used to reduce the national debt.

"In good times you have got to have a surplus to make up for lean years. If an individual spends every cent he gets during good times comes the time of sickness and he is in difficulties. It is the same way with a country."

The meeting passed a resolution expressing confidence in the leadership of Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Harry Fuke Wins 'Y' Golf Trophy At Country Club

Harry Fuke, manager of the Bank of Commerce and treasurer of the Y.M.C.A., won the Robb, Ross, Cox & Hurley Y.M.C.A. gold trophy for scoring a low net of 83, at the first annual Y.M.C.A. golf tournament held on Tuesday members at the Country Club course yesterday.

2nd low net — Bob Johnson with a score of 69.

Best 9 holes — tie between John Ryrwack and Ron Cass with a score of 42.

Highest score — Donald G. Williams with a score of 123.

Sixteen members participated in the tournament.

Many U.S. Cars Seen in City

As the tourist season gains momentum, American cars are on the move by dozens. A survey along Front Street and in local parking lots this morning revealed some interesting figures. A total of 13 States of the Union have cars parked somewhere in the city.

Having the greatest representation is the State of Michigan. No less than 12 Michigan license plates were seen parked in local shopping, area today. Six cars were seen with Ohio plates, four from the State of New York, two Massachusetts cars and three from Illinois. Other American cars seen today included those from the Missouri area, Florida, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

Out of five, were three out-of-province cars in the city. Included were those from the province of Quebec, one from British Columbia and two from Nova Scotia.

A brief survey on the four corners turned up further information of interest. Within a period of 15 minutes, every three cars out of five, were Ontario, were from the United States. At times, all five came from south of the border.

HEADS ARE BODY

BRIGHTON, England (Reuters)—Brig. C. S. Booth representing Canada was appointed head of the administrative commission of the International Civil Aviation Organization at its seventh assembly session.

KEEP WHISKEY TAX

DUBLIN (Reuters)—A move to cut a seven-cent-a-glass tax on whisky was defeated in the call by a 71-65 vote. The proposal was put forward by an opposition member, Dr. T. F. O'Higgin, who said the tax imposed last year had produced a fall in consumption.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices eased as trading slowed to a crawl in opening stock market activity today.

Utilities lost most of the support they have received in recent sessions as they declined with the rest. Canadian Tire countered the trend with a $1 rise.

In the golds group, juniors showed the weakest as Preston East Dome sagged eight cents in active dealings. Ventures was a soft spot in holding companies. Senior were unchanged from Wednesday.

New Brunswick base metals firmed generally, led by a $1.25 rise for Brunswick. Uraniums moved as fairly wide list of issues at lower prices. Graham Bousquet and Chimo dropped about 10 cents each.

Western oils continued the softer trend that developed five days ago. On the downside were General Petroleum A, Pacific Petroleum and Jasper but Canada Oil Lands and Hardy firmed slightly.

Higher-priced base metals drew some support in the case of Smelters and Hudson Bay which gained weakness in juniors produced a mixed pattern. Quebec Metallurgical and East Sullivan led the decline in juniors.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter price prices were unchanged here today.

Sales were steady and prices were unchanged at the egg market. Quotations for grades eggs in fibre cartons delivered to the trade: 46; A small 50; grade B 47; grade C 44. Wholesale to retail: A large 72; A medium 71; A small 69; grade B 52; grade C 47.

Butter prices at grade tenderable 58; non-tenderable 56½-56¾.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar was at a discount of ¼ per cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Canada reported at noon today. Wednesday the rate was 99 7-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.79 13-16, against $2.79¾.

Woman Charged With Murder Of Four Persons

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—Smiling Mrs. Caroline Grills, 63, chatted brightly with a policeman as she stood in the dock here today charged with the murder of four persons during the last six years by feeding them rat poison.

The plump, kindly-looking housewife, wearing a light-blue dress and gray coat, showed no sign of emotion as the charges against her unfolded in the packed courtroom.

Defence lawyer E. N. Rowley said his client was "entirely innocent of all charges" and she was remanded in custody for a full hearing July 17. Her request for bail was refused.

Mrs. Grills was arrested Wednesday while out on bail on charges of administering thallium, a rat exterminator freely-bought in any drug store here, to two other women.

While she was on remand, police took a bigger interest in the case and discovered traces of thallium in two exhumed bodies and the ashes of another two.

Administered Thallium

They charged Mrs. Grills with the murder of the four, a man and three elderly women, and with intent to murder a second man, John Downey, 50, by administering thallium last April.

Her four alleged victims are Mrs. Christina Louisa Nickelson, 87, who died in Sydney Nov. 30, 1947; Mrs. Angelina Thomas, 84, in Lara, Port Kembla, Wales, Jan. 17, 1948; John Lundberg, 57, in Sydney Oct. 17, 1948; and Mrs. Mary Ann Nickelson, 60, widowed sister of the first of the four to die, in Sydney Feb. 15, 1949.

The prosecutor told the magistrate that examinations had revealed large quantities of thallium in the bodies of two of the women. Circumstantial evidence was "very substantial," he said.

TOUGH SPELLING

LONDON (AP)—The Queen travelled through North Wales today—to the consternation of newspaper men who have to spell the tongue-twisting Welsh place names.

One news agency sent out the following correction to its dispatch:

Please read in first paragraph "Nyvnasghard Park" thus substituting "Nynnasghard" for "Nyvnasghard."

CONFINED TO BED

UMTALI, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—Princess Margaret remained in bed all day today with a head cold and slight temperature at the Leopard Rock Hotel in the Vumbe mountains near here where she and Queen Mother Elizabeth are resting during their Southern Rhodesia tour.

Raspberries Bring 50 Cents Quart On Local Market

Raspberries made their initial appearance on the market this morning. They were selling for 50c a quart too. However, the offerings were very light.

Peas were at the Tuesday rate of 70c a quart. Beans were 30c a quart.

Blueberries were selling for 50 cents a quart or $2.50 for a six-quart basket.

Cherries were sold for $1.15 for reds and $1.40, $1.65 and $1.85 a basket for the blacks.

Mulberries were also offered for the first time on the market, selling at 35c a quart.

Strawberries and gooseberries were at the Tuesday price of 45c and 25c per quart.

Lettuce was sold for 10c a bunch and beets and carrots were 15c a bunch.

Beans were 30c a box and currants were 25c a box.

Canadian Crop Of Apples to Be Larger This Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Early estimates are that Canada's apple crop will be a little larger than last year, the bureau of statistics reported today.

Production of pears, peaches, plums and prunes also may be larger, especially in British Columbia.

The bureau estimates this year's strawberry crop at 28,980,000 quarts some 1,100,000 less than last year. Hot, dry weather in late June resulted in a decline of 2,700,000 quarts in Quebec province. The Nova Scotia ad Prince Edward Island crops are down 12 and 10 per cent respectively. Ontario, B. C. and New Brunswick will show increases.

The raspberry crop is placed at 13,000,000 quarts, 10 per cent higher than last year. The cherry crop, on the other hand, will be down 72,000 bushels to 449,000. Production of apricots is expected to be 255,000 bushels, 5,000 more than last year.

P.M. RESTING WELL

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill, resting in the country on doctors' orders, is "doing very well," R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, told the House of Commons today.

He also reported the "very satisfactory progress" of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Housing Minister Harold Macmillan, both of whom have had operations for gall bladder trouble.

Hastings-Frontenac Liberals Nominate Cleworth W. Foster, Moira Native, As Candidate

MARMORA (Staff) — Cleworth Ward Foster, 54, of Wednesday afternoon was chosen to represent the Liberal party in the riding of Hastings - Frontenac in the Federal election on August 10.

At a nomination meeting he defeated Dr. Thomas W. Warner, of Yarker, Addington County, by 31 votes to 37.

After the announcement of the result, Dr. Warner moved that the nomination be made unanimous, then took papers through the audience to obtain signatures for his rival's official nomination.

Mr. Foster is now a resident of Toronto, but was born at Moira, in Huntingdon township, and, to use his own words, his roots are deep in the riding. He is of United Empire Loyalist stock, the third son of the late John L. and Eleanor Bird Foster. He is known to his friends as "Clute". He attended high school at Stirling and Madoc, left this district in 1919 and 1924 received his degree in political science course at the University of Toronto. During the war he was a dollar-a-year man at Ottawa, serving as vice-chairman of the National Selective Service Board. On June 30 he resigned as vice-president of Dominion Stores Ltd.

On his way to Ottawa last Sunday, Mr. Foster stopped at Madoc to talk with an old friend, Thomas Caverly, well known in district Liberal circles. He asked Mr. Caverly who would be opposing George White, of Madoc, Progressive-Conservative member in the last House for the riding of Hastings - Frontenac - and Progressive - Conservative nominee for the new riding of Hastings - Frontenac. He was told that it looked as if things were in such a mess that nobody was going to carry the Liberal banner.

Was Irritated

"That irritated me," he told the Ontario Intelligencer reporter. He thought about the matter throughout his Ottawa visit, decided to offer his services and at the meeting Wednesday was nominated by John Bristol, Madoc, and Rourke Ferguson, of Norwood.

As it turned out, he need not have worried about the riding going to the Progressive-Conservatives by default. Dr. Thomas W. Warner and a group of Liberals from Frontenac-Addington had had similar feelings to those of Mr. Foster. Dr. Warner, who was nominated by John G. Walker of Murvale, and Herbert Tucker of Apsley told the convention that a meeting had been held at Peterborough at which he had stated he was prepared to contest the riding. Both he and Mr. Foster were emphatic in their declarations that there was no such thing as a hopeless case.

"This riding is nearly as big as Texas" Mr. Foster told the Ontario Intelligencer. He stressed the value of its natural resources. Evidence of his own long-standing conviction of the bright future awaiting the area is that back in 1935 he acquired, 200 acres of vacant land — he was ready to pay up to $500 but got it for $7. Now he and his son Bruce, of Toronto, own 600 acres in Elzevir township and since 1936 have planted 135,000 trees.

Besides his son, Mr. Foster, has another child, Joan, a nurse-in-training at the Toronto General Hospital. His wife is the former Jean Heath of Tweed, whom he married on September 12, 1924. Liberal Since Boyhood

As for his interest in the Liberal party, that dates away back, to the time he was fourteen, says Mr. Foster. Now, he admits, he didn't cast a vote then-but in those days he knows of instances when boys voted at the age of 16.

Both Mr. Foster and Dr. Warner addressed the convention twice, once before a standing vote was taken and once afterwards.

In his address before the taking of an open vote, Mr. Foster said that he desired an opportunity to pay part of the debt he felt he owed to the people of the riding, "It was a little difficult," he said, "to realize some of the things that have passed to Canada, the stature which the country has attained.

"We have had in this country," he said, "a government of which we should be proud.

He concluded by saying that he did not expect to come to a contest "and have people fall all over me," but that all he wanted was a chance to prove his sincerity.

"I have pitched enough hay and have picked enough stones to be able to talk to farmers and business," he declared, "and I organized and wrote the first union contract for retailers in Central Canada."

To Keep Conservatives Busy

"We are going to keep. While (George) White (the Progressive-Conservative candidate) and the Conservatives hang from now until the tenth day of August," declared Dr. Warner. "After August 10 there will be another tired man who will be retired — that's George Drew.

"When Drew was seeking election as Premier of Ontario he made 23 promises; now when he is seeking election as Prime Minister of Canada he had made 16 promises," said Dr. Warner. In 1943 he promised agricultural boards. They were not formed, and he makes 16 more promises now. He promised camps for underprivileged children" — and Dr. Warner said he would like to hear of any such camp having been opened by the Canada Government.

After the vote, Dr. Warner spoke again, stating that at the last election 7,000 votes were polls in the riding where 400 eligible voters did not cast their ballots. These votes must be got out, he urged.

"Let's get out and work to protect what we have had for the past eighteen years — the greatest era of prosperity in Canada's history."

"There are three things which will win this election," said Mr. Foster. "Work—and work—and still more work."

"I hope every one of you will go out of this hall and talk to ten different people."

He had earlier voiced his conviction that the task of the Liberals in the riding, while it might be difficult, could never be described as hopeless.

Two Britons Grab Lead In British Open

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (CP)—Two Britons—Eric Brown of England, and Max Faulkner of Yeovil—grabbed the lead with more than half the field in today in the second round of the British Open golf championship.

Each had two-day totals of 142.

Rees scored a sparkling 70 today, one better than Irvine Ben Hogan and four better than Wednesday's leader, Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O. who had 74 and 74.

Brown carded a 71 to tie the Welshman for the lead. Rees had a 72 Wednesday and Brown another 71.

An Argentine Smoothie, Roberto Vincenzo, followed up his 72 of Wednesday with a one-under 71 today and was second best among the early finishers with a 143.

Hogan, of Fort Worth, Tex., put together a 36-35 today and Stranahan, from Toledo, O., a 36-38 while Lloyd Mangrum, another U. S. threat, had a 36-37 for 78 which coupled with his 75 of Wednesday gave him a two-day total of 153.

Bobby Locke of South Africa, the defending champion, who shot a 72 Wednesday, carded a 37-36 today for a 73. This gave him a second-round total of 145 and left him in fifth position.

WHAT IS A "DECENT LIVING?"

Mattie Rotenberg, CBC women's commentator, has stunned the ire of at least a couple of that strange army of publicists we call "experts" who, in some manner, make a living by sending unsolicited contributions to newspapers, editorial comment on a wide variety of subjects.

The CBC commentator made the error of stating that a reason why so many married Canadian women are working today is because they have to do so. That was her opinion, and it has been self-evident that it did not had better, more expressive, phrase been used. Mrs. Rotenberg should have talked about a "satisfactory living," or "decent standard of living."

Now what is a "satisfactory living" depends partly on the individual. There are some people who would never be satisfied. But most of us have a mental picture of the standard of living which we, as individuals, would consider satisfactory for ourselves. Generally this consists of just a little bit more wealth than that possessed by our self-else in our immediate circle of friends, or acquaintances. If we are particularly broad-minded, we may even be willing to admit that we would like the standards of living for ourselves might fall a little short of satisfying some other people, accustomed to greater share of this world's goods.

The standard of living of any group is determined by change in which we live, the country and community in which we reside and the class to which we belong. What would be a satisfactory standard of living for a native of Kenya would be most unsatisfactory for a Canadian.

Getting back to Mrs. Rotenberg, does it take more than pay envelope to provide a Canadian family with satisfactory standard of living? In most cases the answer is in the affirmative, for a satisfactory living is generally a better-than-average living. We must hasten to add that we see no cause for alarm in the tendency of married women to seek work. Except in cases where the temptation of a job outside the home would result in children being neglected, the net result of the trend is likely to be beneficial. With more people working, more will be produced and Canada as a nation will be wealthier. Wealth is not everything — but it is important to nations as well as to individuals. There is great need for increased wealth, increased production, in both the world and the home. The easier it will be for us to help satisfy the multitude of "wants" of other less fortunate lands, "wants" which are obviously "needs" by any standard of judgment.

SHOULD SPEED LIMITS VARY?

Denmark recently abolished all speed limits for private cars. As a result of this new freedom, motorists were driving at a slower rate of speed. One explanation offered was that every driver was afraid every other driver would be really stepping on the gas.

Ontario and New Brunswick are the only provinces in Canada which have an unqualified open-highway speed limit. Quebec's arrangement is less generous. Under its provisions, "reasonable and proper" driving on paved highways free of buildings. But where paved highways are flanked by buildings there is a limit of 50 miles per hour. On paved roads under the straight gravel roads the limit is 40; on hilly, winding dirt roads it is 20.

Quebec is by no means alone in having a wide range of highway speeds on various surfaces. Quebec, too, has its winding dirt roads, as well as four-lane super-highways. Yet on all these roads the limit is the same, 50 miles an hour. Some feels there might be much limit on even the four-lane highways. Most drivers exceed the legal limit on the four-lane highways. There are frequent reports that it is intended to enforce this 50-miles-an-hour limit on the stretches between Montreal and other similar highways — but that is seriously attempted almost every motorist is going to get a summons during the first day or two of the campaign.

Wouldn't some arrangement similar to that in Quebec be more sensible? And here is an added suggestion. Should we not impose a low speed limit for a few miles after leaving four-lane roads. Highway No. 2, for instance, may appear of adequate width as one drives west from Belleville; but driving east that same highway seems dangerously narrow at Newcastle, when one enters it after driving for many miles on a four-lane road.

FAMILY PICNICS

At tables set beneath the trees
I see them in the parks again,
The happy families at their ease,
And hope that day there'll be no rain.

Little time to rest have they
Or know the soft delight of grass,
But hope, as I go on my way,
That pleasantest the day will pass.

They've come from roots to friendly trees;
From heat that stifles, night and day,
To feel the comfort of a breeze
And give their children space to play.

So short the time from care to stray!
So few the hours such joy to gain!
Although I know perhaps it may,
That day I hope it doesn't rain.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

VARIETY AND CHANGE

People who follow out the same line of work year after year grow weary and with little or no ambition, whereas that one who puts change and variety into his life becomes dreaming up new schemes and adventures—and he begrudges every moment he has to spend at his regular task.

A speech by the noted Emperish Prime Minister of many years ago, Benjamin F. Disdeeli, was a recital of a journey that coaches took to a certain village in Scotland, over a rugged and with many curves, the other route was over level terrain. He was surprised to learn that the horses which took the rugged route lasted twice as long as those that took the level road. He explained this by the fact that there were changes and variety to the rugged road. The horses were in better health because of all this.

It seems to me there is an important lesson in this story. People who go through hardships and mental and physical tests gain added spirit. They don't travel in ruts. They keep getting out of ruts. Hence they keep expanding their interests have fresh eyes for new horizons.

There is a program on TV that has always interested me. It is called "Life Begins at Forty." It is a bright and stimulating program, full of humor and human interest. The men concerned in the rendering get fun out of life—even the serious things in life—and ends until all its varieties and intricacies have been explored. Thousands of people have transplanted youth at Eighty or better!

A favorite author of mine was by Tennyson in his great poem on "Ulysses." The man never was satisfied that he was too old to attempt new adventures, even those far beyond the ordinary. Every time I read it I get a spiritual lift.

Another Dead Language

(By Caroline Bird, in The Los Angeles Times)

The other day I dropped into a diner for a fast sandwich. The waitress, a handsome lass, took my order, walked to a black microphone and whispered the order to the kitchen.

I suddenly realized that we no longer have the old-fashioned language of the beanery around Technology, in this electronic communication system, has killed another American art—and a very useful one.

Sitting in this hash house, I remembered the many ways my order might have been taken in the days before science intervened between waitress and cook. The waitress would have stood, gazing absently at the ceiling, while I studied the menu. Then, as I chose each item she would translate into the language of the beanery, and sing it out over her shoulder.

I would say, "I think I'll start with the split pea soup."

"Knits the sleeve of care," the waitress would cry.

"And a hamburger sandwich."

"Mangled steer."

"With onion."

"Spin a yarn on it."

"And shoestring potatoes."

"Don't knock the shoes."

"A large glass of milk."

"Stretch Sweet Alice."

"And a piece of custard pie."

"Slice of magoo."

I change my mind at that moment, to say, "I'd rather have jello with whipped cream instead of the pie."

The waitress, without hesitation, cries, "Hold the mayonnaise," and shivering liz in the snow."

"And a cup of coffee," I say, standard and a pair of eggs with descriptive additions such as "Adam and Eve on a raft," on toast; "Adam and eve looking at you," straight up, "Adam and Eve over."

But there were restaurants that used different terms. Eggs any way, particularly, "Head lights, a pair," and "red eyes." Some places simply used the word "two." Ham and eggs were "two looking at you on a slice of corpse."

"Sinkers and suds" was the standard order for doughnuts and coffee but one hunch stead I remember used "submarines and a cuppa." The intercommunication system has killed another American art—and a very useful one, too.

Are No 'Types' In Modern Life

(Windsor Star)

A Hollywood casting director has rejected an applicant for the part of a college professor, with the explanation: "You're just not the professor type." But it turned out that the rejected actor actually was a former professor.

This incident is not surprising. Too often types exist only in someone's mind's eye; and because duly are thrown at the public as they often are pretended some to believe these synthetic freaks resemble the real thing.

Here is the miscasting new. For generations a farmer was pictured as a drooping sort of fellow with a chin whisker. Actual farmers thus arbitrarily set characteristics no one was the rural type.

Similarly with all other contemporary villains are typed as suave fellow with sophisticated moustaches. But in real life the fellow who is going to sell you the Ambassador Bridge could be completely undistinctive.

In the matter of acting, judges must look stern, old lawyers completely handsome, and so throughout a long list of misrepresentation. Perhaps limited opportunity and heredity are the factors look to various professionals once, but that age is ending about the time the movies got established.

Noble Swan Now a Softy

(Brandon Sun)

Even so noble a bird as the swan gets a bad name when he tries to give to earn a living. Such, at any rate, is the case with those two white swans which, for the last sixty years, have been a feature of the lagoon in the city of Ottawa.

Time was, before Long Island became the chicken capital, that the male swan, or "cob" would demonstrate his family devotion by whistling his enemy and his mate came with striking instance of the nest where his cygnets were hiding. Today according to wild-life wardens in New York's Long Island area, the male swan will desert and leave his mate and the young offspring to fend for themselves at the mercy of dogs and cats.

The reason, according to game officials, is that the swans today rely exclusively on food thrown them by people living in that area and have come to be wholly unfit for anything for themselves or even to fight to protect their brood. Such harsh security," according to game wardens, has made the once proud male swans soft and cowardly.

Even Big City Has a Heart!

(Winnipeg Tribune)

A rough shelter on the Arctic tundra can be a less lonely place than a big city. A big city can be impersonal, cold and ruthless. But the big city was faced with a water shortage. Yet scientists have found a profound flavor for the first time in decades.

It has been sent out that water was to be used only for essential purposes. Lawns were not to be watered, nor cars to be washed, nor the hydrants. These were still the purposes for satisfying appetite waste comparatively little water.

The big city can have a heart.

Will All Ads Become Smelly?

(Ottawa Journal)

Our private spy, the one we keep on the top of the Building where we put our storm signals, has just brought in some bad news. The Washington Times-Herald ran an aromatic three-dimensional advertisement for Kipling, the soft soap, showed jars of pickles. By pressing a little tab in the ad you received, a 3-D effect could be obtained. Mixed with the ink used in getting the pickles was the concentrate of the aroma of pickles.

Our spy looked at this news with his hands over his nose and his eyes bugged out. "Pickles!" he said. "I'm going to do when you run the advertisements of Limburger cheese in the daily newspaper and does this mean that when an auction company sticks such ad in the paper we will be able to smell his politics three pages away?"

We sent our spy back to his crag and told him not to be silly. But our nose is twitching a bit. Is something burning?

Should Enjoy Every Minute

(Hamilton Spectator)

In youth, time seems unfair: It drags its feet on Sundays and on holidays, then changes to running shoes and swift sprints away. Yet every moment of youth is precious and unique and should not be wasted.

Kipling realized this when he wrote that the unforgiving minute should be filled with 60 seconds' worth of distance run. This does not mean that one should be working all the time to build for the future. Rather, that each minute should be savored and enjoyed, not allowed to skip by heedlessly.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

WHAT'S GOOD F OR YOUR LIVER

Dr. Brady

Cirrhosis or hardening of liver may get quite a start on the unsuspecting victim before he becomes aware of it. The cause of this condition is often inadequate nutrition although occasionally it follows the use of certain poisons.

The person who strives for years to attain that skinny form and who won't eat this or that because it is "fattening" is actually in training for cirrhosis of the liver. The chief candidates are the alcoholics. Alcoholics often have sufficient appetite for the solid protein foods which protect the liver against cirrhosis.

What is an alcoholic? While the "occasional" drinker, who takes a cocktail or two for social purposes on occasions doesn't qualify, my guess is that every person who is in the habit of having a drink while eating or "any" is another.

Still con cerned had its place in language, too. I particularly remembers the dish being called the "Mexican revolver" or "six shooter fire." One restaurant dubbed it "death in the afternoon."

However, it was hash that produced the cream of the beanery vocabulary. Hashers are very few physical abnormalities which cannot be find to substantiate the diagnosis of cirrhosis and special tests are required.

The liver disease becomes so far advanced as to be readily diagnosable the symptoms are serious situation.

The liver has many functions. When it becomes diseased (hardened) all of these functions suffer. Although advances in the treatment of cirrhosis have been made there comes a point where the degenerative changes in the liver are irreversible. The normal soft liver structure is replaced by fibrous functionless tissue. At this stage "dropsy," accumulation of fluid in the abdominal cavity — occurs and the veins of the lower esophagus dilate and often give fatal severe hemorrhage. A patient finding himself in this predicament is one who certainly has scorned preventive medical attention when it could have been helpful.

Cirrhosis of the liver can be produced in experimental animals by depriving them of protein food. Protein is absolutely essential to the functioning and preservation of the liver. A diet deficient in protein indicates that over a period of years is likely to produce cirrhosis in the human whether he is an alcoholic or not.

Meat is the principle source of protein food. The proteins of meat are necessary in that they lack none of the essential amino acids. The notion that a person should not eat meat because it is "stimulating," or because one has "kidney trouble" or "high blood pressure" is nonsense.

Fortunately, modern medical management of early cirrhosis is effective. The patient undergoing such treatment often has to give up some of his cherished notions about what's good for his liver.

Any person, besieged by the symptoms of fatigue, loss of appetite and low fat, high calorie and low calorie diet among the many, as well to first consult a physician for a thorough examination and scientific advice regarding nutrition. These trick diets are just too often not good for your liver.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Paris Correspondent

Since 20 per cent of Canadians are French, I suppose it is a queer thing that Canadians as a whole are by no means the equals of the fourth of the border at pronouncing lingerie.

It is a word every time. In the shops, on the radio, everywhere. Lon-jery. Yesterday I heard one of the best - known coast - to - coast news broadcasters call it Lon - gerie. And last casters call it lon-gerey. And last evening, on television, I heard a drowsy-talking sophisticated lady of the kind they choose to do the commercials on the little screen, elegantly advised the viewers how to wash their lon-jerey.

The French pronunciation is not three syllables but two. The dipthong, that is as launh-cee, accent on the last syllable. The word comes from the Old French word, lin, or lanje with a z sound, meaning linen, or things made of linen. But even in French, the word now includes all underwear, including silk, nylon and other modern materials.

While there is no ray on the end of the word by any stretch of the imagination or tongue, it is surprising that some American dictionaries, that is they say as one of the acceptable pronunciations. But no dictionary has on for the first syllable. They all give lan.

The truth of the matter is, we probably have a new word in our language. French as in French, dictionary be jiggered. Lon-jery it is. And it won't be the first time we have taken a French word, and many other languages for a word or phrase. Listeners who concentration will have learned with some astonishment that the Queen Porte in which was made in connection with Sir Winston Churchill, is not pronounced in any likeness to Sank Porte, out of deference to the French. Just Pink, again as can be. Warden of the Sink Ports.

And in these cars, I have heard Mr. Churchill, as was, and the Supreme Leader both pronounce Calais Callas.

So lon-jery she is.

INHALE DEEPLY

We have all seen the neat stone walls built around tree trunks when the regrading of a lawn would have covered the roots a foot or two above the natural level of the ground. The tree would die if soil were to be piled around it. So people who want to rather the level of their lawns and still keep their big trees build a little stone wall around these trees so that the roots can continue to breathe.

We found the same thing recently on our rose bushes. For some reason they were failing to bring forth satisfactory blossoms. And when a little of the soil was removed from around the bush, they very suddenly sprang ahead and bloomed in profusion.

There are thousands of lives today that are being smothered by circumstances that have been piled up to such an extent that they make it impossible for people in the midst of such circumstances to breathe and live. The idea of outdoing neighbour with the possession of automobile or TV set, with the biggest cocktail party or the most fashionable funeral, pathetic attempts to get up in the world, to get ahead, and to have the best and the biggest, and the most talked about; and all this to the destruction of personal ideals and the gradual smothering of satisfactory life.

Hundreds of folks, you must breathe—and your souls must breathe as well as your bodies.

Queen and Duke Arrive in Cardiff On Tour of Wales

CARDIFF, Wales (CP) — The Queen was met by a children's choir of 600 singing "God Save the Queen" as she and the Duke of Edinburgh arrived here today for the first day's celebrations of a two-day state tour of Wales.

Prominent absentee in the reception committee was Aneurin Bevan, left-wing Labor party leader. He sent a telegram explaining his duties had kept him at the House of Commons.

Crowds, cheering and waving flags, lined both sides of Cardiff's main streets as the Queen, sparkling-eyed and fresh in spite of an overnight train journey, drove in from nearby Newport, her first stop in south Wales.

Thousands had stayed up through a night of heavy rain showers to welcome the Queen and the Duke who holds the Welsh title of Earl of Merioneth and Thursday became a colonel of the Welsh Guards.

The Queen, who defied the black skies by wearing a tiny white hat with blue-tipped feathers, white coat and high-heeled shoes, is ending ar Coronation tours of Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

Along the royal route at Newport, watching eagerly for the Queen, was 103-year-old Mrs. Alice Underwood, who was taken to her place in a wheel chair. "I wouldn't miss this for anything," she said.

The Queen listened to several choirs, inspected war veterans, spoke to war heroes and watched children dancing traditional Welsh numbers.

Her 10-hour program in South Wales, centre of the coal mining industry and Labor's top stronghold in Britain, ends in Swansea tonight. Both the Queen and Duke will then board the royal train for an overnight journey to North Wales.

Twenty-five thousand school children, many wearing the Welsh national costume, put on a display of Welsh dances and sang Welsh songs. The little girls wore traditional black-pointed hats and grey uniforms with white aprons—in the style of Brittons.

Elizabeth was moved by the juvenile demonstration and smiled broadly as eight youngsters unfurled a huge banner embroidered: "Greetings to Your Gracious Majesty from the children of Cardiff."

Civic leaders of Wales let the children take over the show. They danced the traditional "Going With Davis' to Merioneth," did horn-pipes, and others in kilts danced "The Dashing White Sergeant."

The Queen, inspecting the Welsh guard of honor, stepped out of line to pat the regimental mascot—a white goat known as "Taffy."

Truck Collides With Transport, One Man Killed

KINGSTON (CP)—Cecil Raymond, 32, of nearby Odessa was killed and a companion injured today when their truck collided with a transport on Highway 2 five miles west of here.

Raymond, a passenger, was thrown to the road in the crash. Gordon Brown, driver of the truck, was brought to hospital here with undetermined injuries.

Police said the truck driver, Fred Niles of Toronto, veered off the road and knocked down seven guard-rail posts in an attempt to avoid the collision.

Three Injured, One Seriously, In Collision

Three persons were injured, one seriously, shortly after seven o'clock this morning in a truck-car accident two miles east of the city on Highway No. 2.

Betty Sparrell, 20 of Frankford is in Belleville General Hospital with severe facial and skull injuries. Joel Redden, 17 of Norwood has slight head injuries and shock while Jean Sparrell 21, of Frankford suffered a shaking-up. Paul Sparrell, 19, of the same village, driver of the car was uninjured but badly shaken.

The Sparrell car, which was taking four young people to New York State on a holiday was proceeding in an easterly direction. Ahead of them travelling in the same direction was a gravel-loaded truck driven by George Gow, R.R. Belleville.

Investigating provincial police officers said it is believed Gow had slowed down to make a left-hand turn across a highway by-pass when Sparrell car attempted to pass. It careened into the boulevard, turned turtle and came to rest on its top. The car was practically demolished.

Miss Barrell was rushed to the hospital where she was given treatment by Dr. Bruce Creek. The other three passengers were not hospitalized.

Corporal H.D. Barker and Constable H.D. Sears of the Ontario Provincial Police here are in charge of the investigation.

FOREMEN OVERCOME

OTTAWA (CP) — Four firemen were taken to hospital Tuesday night after being overcome by smoke from a fire in a confectionery shop in the city's west end. They were released after treatment. Damage is estimated at $27,000.

BLINDED BY CLOTHESPIN

TORONTO (CP) — A decision handed down Wednesday by Mr. Justice H. Wells at Osgoode Hall awarded an Ottawa woman $6,680 after she was blinded in one eye when a plastic clothespin broke in her face while she was hanging clothes. The action was brought by Mrs. Henriette - Marie Buckley against Lever Brothers.

Weddings

SANGUINS—HAGGERTY

Ferns and lovely summer garden flowers formed the setting in the Church of the Resurrection, Toronto, Ontario, Saturday, July 4, at 2 o'clock for the doubling ceremony when Colleen Haggerty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Haggerty, Ivanhoe, Ontario, became the bride of Russell Francis Sanguins, son of Mrs. Sanguins, Toronto, Ontario, and the late Mr. Russell Sanguins.

The Rev. G. S. Scovell officiated.

The church soloist sang, "A Wedding Prayer", before the ceremony, and "Through the Years", during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in her gown of white slipper satin, luminous under a soft cloud of nylon net to form a waltz length skirt, and featuring a sculptured hand-cut appliqued jacket of white Chantilly lace. She wore a matching, two tiered veil with a shoulder length veil of imported silk illusion and carried a white prayer book with white streamers and pink rosebuds.

Miss Jean Haggerty, sister of the bride was the bride's only attendant wearing an ice blue waltz length gown. The tiny bodice was of imported Chantilly lace and the skirt inset with a burst of pleated nylon net and adorned with two panels of corresponding lace with its own mittens, matching hat and sickle. She carried a nosegay of pink roses.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Frank Graham, of Detroit, Michigan, and Messrs. Kaye Sanguins and Harold Hardy acted as ushers.

The bride's mother, attired in dusky rose imported French lace with white accessories and a corsage of yellow roses, received at the reception, assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in blue, with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

For a wedding trip to Buffalo, Haliburton and points west, the bride chose a black and yellow dress complete with a yellow cluster and black accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Sanguins will take up residence at Beardmore, Ontario.

Out-of-town guests present were from, Peterborough, Msaoc, Belleville, Ivanhoe, West Guildford, Haliburton, and Detroit, Michigan.

Cherries Are Favorites With Most People

This is the month when the two large cherry growing provinces of Canada, British Columbia and Ontario provide us with sweet cherries to set out of hand. Red, juicy, sour cherries from British Columbia, Ontario and Nova Scotia are available too for pies, puddings and the like. Everyone enjoys cherries for they have such a bright color and a wonderful flavor.

There are several varieties of sweet cherries sold on the market and the most well-known is the Bing cherry which is grown in both Ontario and British Columbia. Lambets are a well-known sweet variety too and are grown, for the most part, in British Columbia while the Black Tartarian, the Schmidt and the Windsor are grown mainly in Ontario. British Columbia also produces Royal Ann cherries which are sweet white cherries. When it comes to red sour cherries, there is one main variety grown in Canada and that is the Montmorency. A few Richmonds are grown in Ontario.

Be sure to have plenty of fresh sweet cherries on hand in the refrigerator because everyone loves to have a handful to munch. Do not forget that you may add fresh sweet cherries to fruit cups to ice creams or to gelatine deserts. Pitted, sweet cherries mixed with cottage cheese and molded on a bed of lettuce make a wonderful luncheon salad.

Sour cherry pie tops the list of favorites with many pie lovers. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture also recommend cherry up-side-down-cake. It is very good served with generous dabs of whipped cream. All the wonderful cherry recipes are far too numerous to mention, so homemakers will do well to look up their favorite recipes and use plenty of cherries while they last.

Freezing Cherries

It is cherry time now and bright red sour cherries are on the market just waiting to be bought. Be sure to buy cherries that are plump and firm. They should not be over-ripe or have bruised spots or splits. Watch to see that the cherries are bright red all-over. They should not have any green spots. Now is the time for the homemaker who owns a home freezer, or rents a frozen food locker to freeze sour cherries or pie cherries, as many people call them. These are the recommendations for freezing from the home economists.

First stem and pit the firm, ripe red cherries. The cherries may be packed in dry sugar, using two cups of sugar to every eight cups of fruit or they may be packed in a cold heavy syrup to cover, that is, a syrup made with one cup of sugar and three-quarters of a cup of water. When using the dry sugar pack, be sure that the sugar is thoroughly mixed with the fruit. The home economists say that the best way to do this is to place a layer of prepared fruit in a bowl, then a layer of sugar, then another layer of fruit, then more sugar and so on, until all the fruit and sugar has been used up. Then stir slightly to mix the fruit and sugar evenly. If cherries are frozen this way, then they are all ready to use in pies or puddings. No additional sugar is needed, that is unless your family prefers pies that are very, very sweet.

Canning Cherries

The easiest way to can sweet cherries is by the cold pack method. Simply wash and stem the cherries and pack into scalers or in enamel cans which have a bright reddish gold lining. That is the type of can which should be used for red fruits. Cover the fruit with boiling thin syrup made with one cup of sugar and two cups of water, leaving a headspace of a half-inch in glass scalers and one-quarter inch in tin cans. Process the cherries for twenty-five minutes per quart in boiling water or thirty-five minutes per quart in 275 degrees Fahr. oven.

When canning sour cherries the solid pack method is a good one to use if the cherries are for pies or puddings. With this method, first wash, stem and pit the cherries. Then crush enough cherries to make a juice in the bottom of the preserving kettle. Add the remaining fruit and heat it for a few minutes. Pack the cherries occasionally just to be sure that they do not scorch. If the cherries do stick, add a little water. When the cherries are hot pack them in scalers or in enamel cans, the same type of enamel cans as used for sweet cherries, crushing the cherries down slightly so that they are covered with their own juice. Sprinkle between the layers of cherries, in every quart jar, one to one and one-quarter cups of sugar. Leave about half an inch headspace in glass scalers and one-quarter inch headspace in tin cans. Process these cherries the same time as the sweet cherries that is, twenty-five minutes in a boiling water bath and thirty-five minutes in a 275 degrees Fahr. oven.

Zellers Staff Enjoys Delightful Picnic

A most delightful time was spent yesterday afternoon when 26 members of the Zellers store staff held their annual annual picnic at Mrs. Oliphant's summer cottage on the Trent River.

Games, including scrambled shoe race, wheelbarrow race, and throwing the eggs (uncooked eggs), brought forth gales of laughter; while boating, swimming and softball held the more light for those whose inclinations turned in that direction.

Dinner was served at 6:00 p.m. to ravenous appetites which soon did justice to the delicious cooked hams, potato and cabbage salads, pies, cakes and ice cream.

Following the dinner, the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, with a sing-song of old, familiar songs rounding out a perfectly grand time.

Miss Isabel Bonny was the winner of the door prize.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Maybe This Will Remind Some Men of These

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a married man 26 years old. My wife is 23. We have been married for two years and have a six-months-old baby.

Recently my wife has been telling me that she thinks it is very odd to see home every day with a baby and myself and she wishes she had married another man she was in love with once. I can't believe she really means that though because she never mentioned this man until lately.

I love my wife very much, but this is getting on my nerves and I don't know what to do about it.

Peter

Dear Peter:

Possibly your wife is not well and should see the doctor for a checkup. Some women do have a physical and nervous stumble following the birth of a baby and this may be the case here. I suggest that you have a talk with your doctor about it and see what he says.

Perhaps, too, she has been staying too much at home with the baby and needs some outside recreation. See if you could take her out once or twice a week, and have friends in more often. Men who are away from home all day don't realize how closely their wives are confined to the house with the care of children and the household. To have some good times regularly might help this situation a lot.

He Stood Her Up—Should She Ask Why?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What should a woman do when a beau stands her up? That happened to me the other day, and some of my friends tell me to call him up or write him a letter and ask what happened, so he will know I care. Others, though, say that if you act as though you don't care, a man will get worried and come around, but I have also heard it said that if you act though you don't care, men believe you really don't and you never see them again.

I like this man very much and would be heart broken if I never saw him again, so what would you him to.

When your phone rings at the office and a cheery voice announces "Hi I've just hit town and want you to drive over and have dinner with me" (in a neighboring city), and the night before you have had twelve people at your house for dinner, and right now you are in the midst of planning a campaign for a client, and besides that you have had a flat tire on the way to work—and you couldn't care less if you ate dinner again for a week . . . then it's time steps were taken.

Well, this real flesh and blood business girl who is the heroine of our story still had a mind that clicked in emergencies, so she said to her exuberant friend on the other end of the wire "Why don't you jump on the late afternoon train and come over and have dinner with us?"

So that's the way it worked out. The only thing that was missing was energy enough to get the plaguy-y dinner ready.

Our brave girl did get dinner ready of course and was her charming self all the time, but advise me to do?

Dear W.T.L.:

If a man stands a woman up without offering any explanation on his own initiative, doesn't it seem pretty obvious that he doesn't care much what she thinks of him? And doesn't it follow that if he doesn't care what she thinks of him, he's not the least bit interested in her?

That's how I would feel about it, and consequently it would seem to me quite beneath your dignity to check up on this man and try to force an explanation out of him. If you were to do this, it would almost certainly result either in your getting an answer you wouldn't like, or having him make up some story to spare your feelings.

My advice is to do nothing whatever, but wait to see what happens. If he wants to see you again, he'll let you know. If he doesn't you shouldn't want to try and coax him again.

For Businesswomen Who Entertain

By Mary Moore

When you're entertaining business associates or customers the next morning I came into the picture.

You can guess what a firm friend this heroine is by our telephone conversation: "Listen, you, if you don't make up some menus that I can pin inside the cupboard to look at when I hit the house, and that tell me exactly what to do with supplies I have on hand, well, I'll cut you out of my will."

I meekly replied "Yes, my Pat, your wish is my command." (I wonder if she has a will, and if I'm in it?)

Notes:

You will see that we are bent on saving time—not money.

Staple supplies must be on hand if you are going to make a success of these last-minute meals.

Keep fruit juices and consomme and canned fruits (such as figs in No. 2 and grapefruit sections in No. 3) in the refrigerator ready to serve any time.

For the No. 1 dinner open a can of pork and beans tip it into a buttered casserole and cover with 1-4 inch thick slices from a piece of back bacon, allowing 2 slices for each person. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. until beans are bubbling and bacon is browned.

Keep bacon and eggs and cheeses on hand at all times. Have fish and steak and hamburg patties and a 1-lb. carton of ice cream in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator at all times. When these have been used replace them on your next food-shopping trip. Have cleaned, fresh vegetables in the crisper.

On the pantry shelves keep pork and beans, canned brown or date bread, soups, canned fruits and vegetables.

I ought to know—I'm right there with you in the rush.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

On Formal Cards It's "Miss" Falsely

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I received a commencement announcement from a young cousin of mine whose name is (let's say) Patricia Elizabeth Brown. I am enclosing in this letter to you her actual card, which was stuck in a slit in the announcement. As you see, it is a small pancled card engraved Miss Pat Brown. Was it correct for her to have "Miss" before her name on these cards to be enclosed with her commencement announcements? — Cousin

Yes. These personal cards, to be enclosed with commencement announcements, should be engraved with absolutely correct formality . . . for they are formal items. Therefore Miss should be used before the name.

But entirely incorrect was the use of the nickname—"Pat"—on these formal cards It was not at all necessary that your cousin use her middle name, if she didn't want to.

But even if most people call her "Pat" (and they probably do), she still should have used her real first name on these cards. (And a lovely name it is, one to be proud of, Patricia! As a matter of fact, it was quite ridiculous for her to use the informal "Miss" with the so-informal "Pat"!

Formal Name on Self-Addressed Envelope

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I enclose a self-addressed envelope in a letter, should I write "Miss" before my name or just (for example) Mary Robinson? The other day I was told that I should not write the "Miss" before my name on this kind of envelope . . . but I can't figure why not.

Reader

I too have often heard this advice — and I too can't figure out why it is given. After all, the name is written on a self-addressed envelope, like the name written on any other envelope, is for "public information," post office information. Therefore, it should be the formal name, the name with the title. . . Miss Mary Robinson.

Correct Name Form For Divorcee

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Since I am getting my divorce at the request of my husband, because he wishes to marry another woman, I am sure that as soon as possible after the divorce he will re-marry. We all live in the same community, all are employed here. Therefore what form of name do I use to distinguish me from the second "Mrs. John Smith," so that there will be as little confusion as possible as to mail and instore deliveries, as well as to social occasions?

Divorcee-to-be

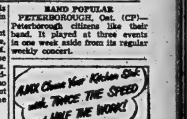
Drop your ex-husband's first name . . . and in its place use your maiden surname. For example, let's say your maiden name was Mary Graham. Then your after-divorce name would be: Mrs. Graham Smith. This form of name is the proper form for you to use in every practical and sensible, because it at once and clearly indicates your status, and avoids all the confusion you mention in your question.

If for any reason it is important for you to indicate your first name, indicate it by an initial . . . Mrs. M. Graham Smith. (Please, don't use the socially-incorrect form, "Mrs. Mary Smith." By thoughtlessly adopted by many divorcees who don't take the trouble to find out what's what in correct name forms.)

No Fee To The Minister

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My baby is to be baptized in church with a group of about twenty other babies. Is it necessary to give a payment to the minister for that? — Emma



No. Not necessary and not customary.

CHEER GUARANTEES YOU THE CLEANEST, WHITEST WASHES POSSIBLE — Without Bleaching or Bluing!

RAWDON

Memorial Service at Hubble Hill Cemetery Well Attended

RAWDON — Sunday, July 5, will be remembered as a red-letter day and the people who attended the first memorial service at Hubble Hill cemetery will recall the event in future years.

Mount Pleasant United Church was a bower of beauty with baskets and vases of seasonable blooms arranged in abundance.

Memorial Flowers

Memorial flowers with white predominating were placed in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. Byron Hubble by Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hubble, Stockdale, and their family.

White delphinium in memory of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Chard by Mr. Clarence Chard.

A spray given by Mr. and Mrs. G. Montgomery, Frankford, in memory of his mother, Mrs. E. Montgomery.

Two memorial baskets were placed on the communion table by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoard in memory of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hoard, and by Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen in memory of her mother and his grandmother.

Hubble Hill cemetery was decorated with a profusion of floral blooms and a triangle was arranged in the centre of the cemetery in front of the memorial vice took place.

Beautiful flowers were placed in the cemetery by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hubble, Glen Ross; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Masters, Springbrook, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. McMullen and family, Belleville.

Regret Lack of Response

The cemetery committee regret that a few families have not responded in a direct appeal for assistance. For the past five years the small group of workers has shouldered all the burdens and they do feel that children should honor their parents.

The church was filled to overflowing at an early hour and chairs were placed on the east lawn to accommodate the overflow. The actual count over 330 people were in attendance and 68 of these were from the Mount Pleasant community, with descendants of the early pioneers coming from Flint, Michigan; Lakeview, Belleville, Trenton, Campbellford, Eldorado, Kingston, Detlor, Tweed, Stockdale and many nearby points.

Programs were used with Bert the hymns of former days, which were chosen by Mr. Clarence Chard.

Recognition of Pioneers

The service was in recognition of the life and work of the early Baptist pioneer men and women and their descendants who rest from their labors in Hubble Hill cemetery, opposite Mount Pleasant church property, on which the old Baptist church is now situated and used as a church hall. This church was built in 1870 and in 1871 the Methodist church was erected.

Messrs. Norman McConnell and Orne Sharp acted as ushers while Mr. Bert Sharpe was in charge of registering the guests.

Mrs. Rose Hoard (former organist of Sidney Baptist church), officiated at the piano.

The pastor, Rev. R. R. Bonsteel presided and welcomed the guests.

Vocal solos were given by Mrs. Marguerite McMullen, Mr. W. Lindenfield and Mrs. Percy Hubble.

Letter Read

Rev. A. E. Baker read a letter from Dr. Harry W. Mack, Detroit, Michigan, who was unable to be in attendance. He said in part: "Your invitation to me is a very high honor. I had planned to read the lesson from my father's Bible (I intended to bring it with me) and it would be a sublime privilege to stand in the same pulpit where my father preached to overflow congregations. I know the service will be most impressive and inspiring and will long be remembered by those privileged to be in attendance."

Dr. Mack chose his Old Testament lesson and requested that his cousin, Mrs. Percy MacMullen, who is a direct descendant of the early Rosebush, Chard and White families, read those selections in his place.

Mr. Richard Chard read the second lesson found in Romans VIII.

The offering was gathered by Messrs. Clifford Hubble, Charles Hoard, Clarence Chard and Burton Bateman and dedicated by a former pastor, Rev. Fred J. Jobin, Port Perry.

Tribute To Pioneers

The guest speaker, Rev. Keith Daniel, minister at Victoria Ave. Baptist Church, Belleville, was ably introduced by Mr. Baker.

Mr. Daniel chose as his theme "The Meaning of Stones." He paid tribute to the work of the pioneers, many of whom were United Empire Loyalists. These brave men with their devoted partners and their descendants shaped and moulded the wilderness they found. They worked and toiled to build roads, schools and churches and today this large congregation has gathered to honor those brave souls who are laid to rest in Hubble Hill cemetery.

The speaker challenged his audience to carry on the torch and keep the flame alight.

Gives History of Cemetery

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave a brief history of Hubble Hill cemetery. She said in 1898 Reuben Hubble and his wife Melissa Mourel donated the land for the Hubble Hill cemetery. One full length plot from north to south was reserved for burials of the Hubble clan and many Baptist families selected and staked out their plots for future generations.

The first burial was David Chard, of Chard's Bridge, in 1870 and at that time the Regular Baptist Church of Rawdon was in process of erection at the location of the hill.

A cemetery clean-up campaign was started in June, 1948, and a few families have worked faithfully to improve the cemetery ever since and they are proud of their efforts.

Greetings Received

Mrs. MacMullen read greetings from Rev. W. H. Clarke who is ill at the home of his daughter at Selby. He said, "I trust that the service in honor those who served in that long past may be a day of inspiration to those in the service of God and His work in the district."

Special letters of greetings containing donations were received from Mrs. Margaret McKee, Mr. Franklin Hubbell, Humboldt, Mr. and Mrs. Herb Black, Toronto and Mrs. Samuel McMullen, St. Catharines.

The speaker extended thanks to all who had assisted in any way to make the afternoon a success with special thanks to Rev. R. Daniel, Rev. A. E. Baker, Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, Mount Pleasant church officials and caretaker. She also expressed thanks to the Mission Band and leaders and to those who provided flowers.

Rev. A. E. Baker asked for a moment of silence after which he dedicated the floral tributes. Mrs. Sid Demorest read a poem of "Remembrance."

About 20 children, nearly all direct descendants of the pioneers, carried the flowers to the cemetery, where a brief service was held.

Refreshments Served

About 125 visitors were served light refreshments in the church hall under the direction of Miss Ruth Linn and Mrs. Herbert Smith with Mrs. Will Potts, Mrs. Roy Thrasher and Mrs. Burton Sharpe as assistants.

The Mission Band members who served were Gail Jeffs, Raye David, Marie Simpson, Marilyn McConnell, Ina Scott, Billy Morgan and Malcolm Reid.

A large number of the Hubble clan were in attendance at the Memorial service, also Mr. William Wood, student minister of Sidney Baptist church.

Doctors Find Veteran Sound As Dollar at 110

HOUSTON (AP)—Walter W. Williams, at 110 the oldest of five men who survive the U. S. civil war, was found sound as a dollar Tuesday by veterans administration doctors.

The little, wrinkled man with facing sight and hearing hurried to get back to his 20-acre isolated farm near Franklin in central Texas.

"I don't like towns," he said. Chief medical officer R. S. Wolfe said Williams' physical condition was surprisingly good for a man of his age.

"Frankly, we were medically curious about him," Dr. Wolfe said. "You don't get a chance very often to study a man that old."

Williams was not surprised that doctors found him in good condition.

"My grandfather lived to be 120," he said. "And I'm going to beat that."

SALVATIONIST DIES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Major Margaret Anne Watson, 79, Salvation Army worker posted to the Caribbean with her husband in 1899, died here recently. The couple worked in the Canal Zone while the Panama canal was being built.

Eisenhower Says U.S. Atomic Energy Law Partly Outmoded

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower said today the United States atomic energy law is partially outmoded. He told a press conference the time has arrived when the allies of the United States should be given more information on atomic energy.

A reporter asked whether Eisenhower agrees with atomic scientist Robert J. Oppenheimer and Gordon Dean, recently resigned chairman of the atomic energy commission, that the United States should make available to its allies more information on atomic weapons and on what it knows about Soviet atomic development.

Eisenhower suggested that would mean amending the atomic energy law. Personally, he said, he thinks the time has arrived when the public must receive more information on atomic subjects if it is to act intelligently.

Since the United States knows A-bombs have been manufactured elsewhere, the president said, portions of the present law really are outmoded. He didn't specify the sections.

The United States law was written with the intent of keeping secret the processes for making nuclear weapons.

But both Britain and Russia have conducted atomic explosive tests.

HEAVY DOWNPOUR

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—This district has received its heaviest June rains since records were first kept in 1902. The precipitation passed the 1908 record of 7.01 inches with plenty to spare.

No Economic Aid To Iran Until Issue Settled

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—President Eisenhower has written Premier Mossadegh that the United States will give no economic aid to Iran until a settlement is reached on the oil question, it was learned today.

Iranian sources said Eisenhower's letter to the premier declared the United States was disturbed also over the freedom permitted to the Tudeh (Communist) party in Iran.

The oil question involves the nationalization by Iran of the $1,500,000,000 holdings of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company in 1951. Britain and Iran have held lengthy negotiations in an attempt to reach a settlement. The U. S. has attempted in vain to mediate the dispute.

SPEEDY TRIP

VANCOUVER (CP) — Truck driver Mike Allen, 32, made a record run trip to Windsor, Ont., which made even hardened customs officers blink. He drove the 5,451 miles in eight days and four hours, including a 25-hour stopover at 73 hours' sleep. "It wasn't trying to break any records," he said.

IVANHOE

IVANHOE — Mr. and Mrs. M. Farley and Ronald of Toronto, spent the week-end with Mr. P. M. Wood at Moira Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Reid, Niagara Falls, spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. John Gay and family.

Plants for Processing Seaweed May be Set Up in Que., Nova Scotia

By KINGSLEY BROWN JR.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Seaweed is on the threshold of providing Eastern Canada with an industry whose products may soon turn up in ice cream, medicine and food.

Dr. E. Gordon Young, director of the national research council's Maritime regional laboratories here, said in an interview that plants are expected to be established in Quebec and Nova Scotia "within the next six months" to produce seaweed extracts.

The Maritime provinces have for years been exporting one particular underwater growth, Irish moss, to the United States, where processing plants at New York, Chicago and New Bedford, Mass., have derived $500,000 worth of extracts annually.

Extract Jellies

Dr. Young said the two Canadian firms will extract jellies called carrageenin and algin from seaweed.

The jellies, for which scientists have found about 50 uses, are used in a number of industries to make products mix. Without them for instance, you couldn't have chocolate milk; the cocoa wouldn't blend with the milk.

The Nova Scotia research foundation is also experimenting with the use of seaweed as a fertilizer and soil conditioner.

Dr. Young said the processing plants would at first be competing with the United States, Canada's sole supplier of algin and carrageenin.

Then, if low-cost production warranted, they could compete with England and Scotland.

Seaweed on Canada's Pacific coast would not be adaptable to this unique industry because it is of the large kelp variety. Atlantic coast seaweeds are smaller and cling to inshore rocks.

Can Increase Yield

Dr. Young said the present harvest of Irish moss could be enlarged by five to 10 times. "We have not as yet estimated how much algin, derivative of the heavier seaweeds, could be gathered. But we believe Canada's resources are far better than those of the United States, England and Scotland."

The provincial research foundation has already photographed a large part of Nova Scotia's coast in an effort to find seaweed beds.

The plant is harvested by large rakes which claw it from the bottom. It is then cut off and allowed to grow again.

MIGHTY SHOVEL

HALIFAX, Alta. (CP) — The world's biggest dragline is being used in district coal fields here. Needing 13 railway flat cars to transport it, the dragline has a 385-foot boom and its huge bucket chews out 400 cubic yards of earth an hour.

OLD SPEARHEAD

KIPLING, Sask. (CP) — George Cross found an old spearhead on his son's farm nearby. Apparently hand-made from good steel, it is about 11 inches long and two inches wide at the broadest point.

Two U.S. Republican Senators Urge That Communist China Become Party to Korean Truce

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Republicans Senators sought today to gain time for more U.S. discussions with South Korean President Syngman Rhee by proposing that Red China be made a party to any Korean truce.

Senators W I l l i a m Knowland (Rep. Calif.) and H. Alexander Smith (Rep. N.J.) suggested that new efforts be made to bring the Peiping regime officially into any armistice signing. United Nations negotiations to date have been conducted with the North Koreans.

Knowland, who has supported Rhee's demands for prompt unification of Korea, told the Senate Wednesday that the Chinese Communists, while supplying men and guns to the North Koreans, would not guarantee any truce that was signed.

Will Provide Time

Backing up Knowland, Smith said in an interview he believes the raising of this issue will give the U.S. more time to continue discussions with Rhee, who thus far has balked at accepting Allied truce proposals.

"I think the Communists have put us on the spot by accepting the terms laid down in the letter to them from General Mark Clark, in which he indicated he would restrain the South Koreans if they did not accept the truce," Smith said.

"I think we must exert every effort to bring Rhee around to our way of thinking and I would like to see our government officially raise the issue of bringing the Chinese Communists officially into the armistice picture."

Double Truce Value

Smith, who heads a Senate foreign relations Far Eastern subcommittee, said he thinks an armistice signed for the Communists by the People's Republic of (North) Korea and the Chinese People's Volunteers "would be entirely ineffective."

Senator B o u r k e Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa), a foreign relations committee member, said he agrees with Knowland and Smith that the Chinese People's Volunteers are a fiction to cover Red China's participation in the war.

"But it is a fiction that has been accepted in the previous truce negotiations and I don't see any way to get Communist forces the Chinese Communists into joining in signing an armistice."

Slimy Creature Crawling Streets Likely Lizzard

NEW HAMBURG (CP) — The slimy three-toed creature that has been crawling the town's streets after dark isn't the monster it's cooked up to be.

That's what police chief George Thomas said Wednesday night. Reports of the animal's size have been "exaggerated."

"It's no monster and there's no cause for alarm," the chief said.

Chief Thomas says he has seen the animal several times and that it looked like a member of the reptile or lizard family. He said that he fired at it with his revolver Saturday night but doesn't know whether he hit it or not.

He said it is about 2½ to three feet long, about six inches in circumference with a long body and tail. He said the tracks are about "two inches in width and have three distinct claw marks".

The animal has the 2,200 residents of this southwestern Ontario town in a dither. The animal is believed to live in the Nith river and hides by day. It has left deep marks in the ground and its heavy tail has also left an imprint.

Premier Favors All-Canadian Gas Pipeline

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost said Wednesday he favors an all-Canadian natural gas pipeline to carry gas from Alberta's oil fields to Ontario.

The premier made public a brief his government has presented to the Alberta conservation board which is holding hearings on export of surplus natural gas from Alberta.

Stating that the pipeline project was comparable with the St. Lawrence seaway, Mr. Frost said there is nothing which would influence the development of Canada more than the natural development of oil and natural gas for Canadian markets.

The Alberta oil fields now had come to supply 40 to 50 per cent of Ontario's gasoline needs, Mr. Frost said he favors the route north of Lake Superior because the supply of natural gas would add growth of power-hungry Northern Ontario, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie and possibly Sleep. Rock were potential markets as other existing centres.

Current estimates of the cost of the all-Canadian route are at $315,000,000. The "in bond" route committee member, said he agrees with the United States would cost about $30,000,000 less. Premier Frost said he saw the gas as a possible alternative to hydro power for many industries.

Relief for Tornado Centres Offered By Premier Frost

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government said Wednesday it will help victims of last May's tornado in southwestern Ontario by contributing 50 per cent of any money donated by municipal councils.

Premier Frost made the announcement after a cabinet meeting and said the councils have until Aug. 1 to vote on donations to those who suffered in the twister.

The provincial government will also notify the federal government that the province considers tornadoes constitute an extraordinary disaster and thereby make them eligible to federal grants to disaster areas, Mr. Frost said.

He said the assistance given by the highways department and other government agencies will not be computed in the 50 per cent that the government will contribute. This assistance, the premier estimated, cost about $2,000 to date.

Mr. Frost's announcement received mixed reception from municipal officials.

Mayor William C. Nelson of Sarnia commented: "Wonderful news and we are very grateful."

He said he had discussed storm damage with then acting Premier George Doucett in company with other officials of Western Ontario municipalities and the premier's announcement "indicates the province has given us sympathetic consideration."

Warden T. F. Pellow of Oxford county, on the other hand, said:

"I haven't had a chance to study the report yet, but it sound rather disappointing."

"Oxford county raised about $35,000 through public subscription which, on the face of it, would not be increased through provincial help."

Wheat Board Opposes Proposal To Limit Imports

WASHINGTON (CP) — Opposition from the Canadian wheat board to proposal to limit Canadian imports into the United States Wednesday concluded a special hearing by the U.S. tariff commission.

Last of a long list of witnesses, George McIvor, chief commissioner of the board, said Canada is the logical source of reserves of feed grains for the United States.

But it is not a source that could be turned off and on at will, he said. It was necessary to have stability and the existence of an established source of supply was of mutual advantage to both countries.

Earlier Testimony

Earlier testimony indicated that Canada sent 75,000,000 bushels of oats to the U.S. in the last year and will ship close to that quantity in the year ahead. One of the pending proposals would cut the exports to 25,000,000 bushels.

Divided on Issue

United States witnesses were divided on the issue. Most of those from the northwestern states, where oats is mainly a poultry and dairy cattle feed, opposed the import curb. Favorable Canadian rail rates and the use of Great Lakes shipping hold down the cost of shipments to this area from Canada's Prairie provinces despite a four-cents-a-bushel duty.

Gamma Globulin Production Will Be Increased

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A program for the supply of blood for increased production of gamma globulin, the recently - discovered substance used to modify effects of paralysis in poliomyelitis victims, was announced Wednesday by Health Minister Martin.

Mr. Martin said in a statement released by his office here that a grant of $157,000 has been allotted to keep in operation the Chorley Park blood collection centre operated in Toronto by the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Gamma globulin is part of the fluid portion of normal human blood and it has been found effective in neutralizing the virus of polio and certain other diseases. A pint of blood is required to provide one dose of gamma globulin.

Mr. Martin said in a statement that Chorley Park clinic should provide sufficient blood plasma for the preparation of 80,000 units of the substance prior to the polio season of 1954. This would be between five and six times the amount expected to be available this year.

Mr. Martin said a committee made up of representatives from provincial public health and research institutions and university medical schools has been established to keep in touch with the Chorley Park clinic to ensure effective distribution of the limited stocks available.

GETS CNR POST

MONTREAL (CP)—J. D. Hayes of Montreal has been appointed Toronto terminals superintendent for the Canadian National Railways to succeed Austin Mahon, who has retired. Mr. Hayes, a native of Canmore, Ont., joined the railway in 1927 as a timekeeper at Horsepayne, Ont.

Union Nationale Faces First Test In By-Elections

QUEBEC (CP)—Three provincial by-elections today will be the first test of the Union Nationale government since it was re-elected a year ago and may also decide the political future of the provincial Liberal leader.

The by-elections will be held in Montreal Outremont and the rural ridings of Matapedia and Portneuf.

Standing in the 93-member assembly is:

Union Nationale 66; Liberal 23; Independent 1; vacant 3.

Eleven candidates have been nominated to contest the three seats. Four are running in Montreal Outremont, four in Portneuf and three in Matapedia.

Interest will centrally in Montreal Outremont where Geo. ges Lapalme, Quebec Liberal leader, is making his second bid for a seat in the legislature.

The Conservative and Liberal chief was scarcely known outside the tobacco-growing district of Joliette when he was chosen leader in 1950. He resigned the federal seat of Joliette - L'Assomption - Montcalm to take the provincial leadership. In his first by-election test in the legislature last year he was defeated by Labor Minister Barrette.

Only one political meeting was held in the Montreal riding and this was by Norman Rothenberg, Labor-Progressive. The Liberal and Union Nationale candidates thought their campaigns by radio speeches and newspaper advertisements.

The polls open at 9 a.m. EDT and will close at 6:30 p. m.

MOVING STATUE

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (CP)—Officials at Onehunhu, near Auckland, have discovered with alarm that a memorial statue of a soldier on horseback is moving forward on its pedestal. They are taking steps to tether the horse more securely before it leaves the borough.

Cock-Fighters Fined

BRANTFORD (CP) — Fifty-one persons were fined Wednesday a total of $1,725 as the result of a cock-fight which police raided on Onondaga township.

James O'Hara of Onondaga township was fined $200 and $20 costs June 24 for allowing a cockpit to be operated at his farm.

Fifteen of the found-ins at the fight came from Hamilton, eight from the Brantford district, seven from London, six from Woodstock and several each from St. Catharines, Dundas, Jarvis, Copytown, Delhi and Dunnville.

How Vote Increased

OTTAWA (CP)—Here is the way the popular vote (including rejected ballots) in federal elections has increased since the turn of the century:

1900 — 952,496; 1904 — 1,030,136—1911—1,307,328; 1917—1,853,329; 1921 — 3,119,906; 1925 — 3,168,419; 1926 — 3,373,62; 1930 — 3,922,481; 1935 — 4,452,97; 1940 — 4,672,851; 1945—5,305,192; 1948—5,903,572.

Se-first election with general women's franchise.

LAWYER DISBARRED

TORONTO (CP) — The Law Society of Upper Canada Wednesday disbarred Walter B. Reid, Toronto lawyer, wanted by police on charges of stealing $33,000. Police said Reid has been missing since a warrant for his arrest was issued June 8.

Commonwealth Fruit Growers Want Piece of British Market

LONDON (Reuters) — Fruit growers of the British Commonwealth feel they are being unfairly shut out of the British fruit market. They want to get back in again.

At the Empire fruit producers conference held here June 8-18, delegates unanimously demanded that British and Commonwealth governments end policies which amount to subsidizing of fruit exports by foreign countries.

The majority also resolved that, in view of the heavy increase in Commonwealth fruit production, an import tariff system similar to that in effect before the war should be levied in the United Kingdom on foreign fruit.

Britain's fruit consumption has increased since the 1930s. But as home production has increased, imports have dropped. Currency exchange difficulties, particularly dollar shortages, have been mainly responsible.

A. R. Lloyd of British Columbia, chief Canadian delegate to the conference, declared that the Commonwealth fruit industry was "confined to the status of the poor relation."

"Many of those areas which are now denied access to the United Kingdom markets were recommended to plant fruit trees specifically for that market.

Marmet Denied

"You do not plant for tomorrow but for 20 years ahead," he said. "The market now is being denied to us."

Martin Dykes, representative of the South African deciduous fruit interests who served as chairman of the conference, said:

"We believe, all things being equal, that the United Kingdom market should give first preference to the available supplies of home and empire produce."

In return, he said, it was the Commonwealth producers' duty to "provide the consumer with a product which will stand four-square against the winds of all fair competition."

Delegates represented Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the Union of South Africa, and the British West Indies.

Election to Cost Over $5,500,000

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal election will cost an estimated $5,500,000. Some of this will come back to the treasury in candidates' lost deposits.

Each candidate must post a $200 deposit, which is forfeited if he fails to poll more than half the votes of the winning candidate in his riding. In double ridings, he has to get at least half the total of the low-vote winning candidate.

In 1949, the treasury picked up $73,000 from the loss deposits of 365 candidates out of the 820 in the running. The high point in revenue from this source came in 1945, when 462 candidates lost $92,400.

By Geo. H. Carter, Sports Editor

FEW FLASHES

Vern (Montreal Gazette) DeGeer comes up with the warning to horse-lovers not to take the lyrical outpourings of American turf writers too seriously about "Native Dancer" being the horse of a century. "Oshkosh Joe's" says "it's true" Jack Harrigan is class the "Dancer" with such nags as Discovery, Equipoise, Alsab, Seabiscuit, Sun Beau, Man 'O War, Citation, and others." Says the greatest thoroughbred in America in the last half-century was "Exterminator" or "Old Reliable" as he was dubbed . . . Dink Carroll of the same Gazette, columns the story that Jack Kent Cooke, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs Baseball Club, and Branch Rickey, of the Pirates, are planning a huge spring training project in Florida for two major and two minor baseball league clubs. Frank Pollock, the Leafs general manager, Dink says, is now in the Orange State conferring with Winterhaven officials who have offered to build a park and clubhouse on an 80-acre site of land near Bliss Lake. The development would be available to the clubs on a long-term basis . . . Rickey, it seems, wants to have a park with four diamonds set up where the clubs could work out together. In the centre of the field would be a tower where team officials and scouts could watch all the teams at once. Players would live together in a central housing project. The two other clubs, besides the Bucs and Leafs, haven't been disclosed.' The deal is, Carroll says that the clubs will spend $310,000, if the city hands over the 80 acres gratis . . . A card of 274 should win the Canadian Open Golf Championship, according to the Scarborough host pro, Bobby Cruickshank. "I don't let those practice rounds of five-under-par 66's fool you," said Robert. He added he had talked with practically every golfer who played the course and they all agreed Bobby Locke's 1947 record of 288 is not safe. Cruickshank . . . "Anything's goin' just fine," smiled bridegroom-elect Master "Brian" (Mulvihill, that is), "she's a grand little gal, much more than a pal, and Saturday noon we'll be tyin' the knot." Saturday the dynamic little lad's daughter of the Glen Roys et al, hops off the dock of bachelordom into the deep waters of matrimony. Mighty Hogan, Locke Trail Stranahan in British Open

By Sterling Slappey

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—American amateur Frank Stranahan sank three long birdie putts Wednesday in the British open golf tournament to score a brilliant 70 and steal the thunder of the mighty Hogan and Bobby Locke.

Playing against stiff winds and through a 15-minute rain and hail storm, the Toledo millionaire's score tied two strokes off the unofficial par 36-36—72 of the 7,200-yard championship course with his 37-33. It gave him a one-stroke lead over Eric Brown, a 28-year-old Scot pro, two over Locke and three others with 72s, and three over Hogan.

Locke of South Africa, defending titlist and winner of this championship three times in the last four years, fired a 37-35—72 on this old Scottish seaside course.

Through 15 holes the little Texan was on the way to beating Locke's 1948 record of 288 for the links. Hogan's putting got timid.

Brown came through hail, wind, hot sun and rain with a 36-33—71.

Tied with Locke at 72 were: Roberto de Vicenzo of Argentina, British Open runner-up in 1950, with 36-36—72; Dai Rees, Welsh member of the British Ryder Cup team, with 38-34—72; and Peter Thomson, Australian runner-up to last year's Open with a 37-35—72.

Hogan and the long-hitting Irish pro, Fred Daly, tied with 72,

Mizell Mows Down Redlegs 7-3 As Brewtowners Bow to Sox; Indians Drop to Third Place

By Ken Fielder

Eddie Stanky, who says he'd rather manage from the bench is back on second base and his St. Louis Cardinals are flying high.

With their skipper on the field the Cards have won three straight and today are just half a game behind the second-place Milwaukee Braves in the red-hot National League pennant chase.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell mowed down Cincinnati Redlegs on only two hits Wednesday night to give the Cardinals a 7-3 victory that pushed them a full game closer to the faltering Braves who have been beaten by Chicago in six other 7-3 contest.

It was a bad night for home teams in the National League. In addition to the Reds and the Braves, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Philadelphia Phillies also lost.

Monte Irvin hit a grand slam home run in his 11th inning to give the giants a 10-7 triumph in Pittsburgh while the Philadelphia the Phillies dropped their fourth in a row 8-4 to Brooklyn.

Boston beat New York.

While the visitors celebrated in the second circuit, it was a night of mixed joy in the American League. All home clubs won, even the hapless St. Louis Browns who had lost 20 in a row in their own park.

The Browns upset Cleveland 6-3 and dumped the Tribe out of second place. Chicago replaced them by whipping Detroit 14-4. The White Sox trail the first-placing New York Yankees by six games.

The Yankees defeated Boston 4-2 but Washington received a home-run barrage by Philadelphia Athletics by 10-6.

Stanky, one of three managers who lists himself as active service player, was forced into the St. Louis lineup Sunday when Red Schoendienst, the League's leading hitter and No. 1 second baseman, was injured.

The Brooklyn victory marked the 22nd straight game in which the Dodgers have hit one or more home runs. They passed the old National League record in the first game of Tuesday's doubleheader at Pittsburgh and are only three games short of the major league mark. Carl Furillo and Gil Hodges were the distance clouters Wednesday night.

'Dark Horse' Steals Initial Thunder In Canadian Open Golf Tournament

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — They start sweating out the week-end golfers in the Canadian Open today and, unless some of the first-day hot shots suddenly develop the jitters, the $15,000 classic should stick to form.

A field of 124 trumped over the par-71 course in the opening round of the 72-hole medal play tournament Wednesday and after 18 hours of good, bad and indifferent golf, it returned with sub-par rounds. Others had to settle for high 40's or 50 over the slick 6,607-yard layout.

After today's 18-hole round the initial starting list will be trimmed to the low 100 and ties. Friday it will be boiled down again to the low 70 and ties.

Wednesday's play really belonged to 127-pound Ken Kroll, veteran from Panama City Fla. The 30-year-old former United States Army sergeant had been around before the tee-off, tied for the lead with veteran Ted Kroll of Utica, N.Y., and Tommy Bolt of Houston, Texas, with five-under-par 66s.

Dark Horse

Dickinson, out of the Army only three months, was not even mentioned in pre-tournament gossip and only a handful of spectators were around to see him take the team out of the northeast Toronto course.

The big gallery followed defending champion Jimmy Demaret of Rapila, N.C., possibly hoping for a scorching 13, but the stocky, black-haired chatterbox was only most of the way and came home with a bogeying 72.

It was a far different story from the 1952 performance at the Weston golf club when he practically swept the course off the map with 66-67-66-66 for a 265, for a 15-under-par total of 283. That is a Canadian Open record and it isn't likely to be broken here.

Included in the two-per-par contestants were two Canadians—Stu Mawhinney of Vancouver, whose unorthodox putt makes stylists wince, and Gerry Kesselring, Kitchener. Out-of-towner Mawhinney carded a 68, the same as Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, winner in 1950 and runner-up in 1951. He was low amateur of the day.

In fourth place with 69's were Americans Wally Ulrich, Doug Ford and Lew Stagetti.

Only one eagle was scored and it was a dilly. Harold Paddock, of Cleveland drove 290 yards on the par-four, 480-yard eighth hole, bounding in from his second shot and the ball hit the pin dead-on and dropped into the cup.

Paddock's 290-yard drive and his initial round was made by Bolt. Bolt, of the Texas and San Diego Opens this year. He was three over par after two holes but steadied after that with seven birdies and pars with his putter working hot and cold for one reversal. He had only 28 putts, however, for the 18 holes.

Canadian pros following Mawhinney were the big three of the Canadian Open—Stan Leonard of Shawbridge, Que., Lloyd Symington of Toronto and Stan Leonard of Vancouver—and third-place Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon.

Martell and Leonard matched par and Fletcher posted a 70.

Buffalo Has Short Stay On Top Rung

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was nice while it lasted. Buffalo Bisons had no sooner reached the top of the International League ladder, than they find themselves down a rung.

The Herd's 4-3 loss Wednesday night to the lowly Springfield Cubs, while Montreal split a pair with Syracuse, put the Royals back in the spot they lost to Buffalo Tuesday night. The Royals won the first game from the Chiefs 4-0 but lost the second 4-3.

The victory for the Cubs snapped the team's losing streak at 14 games. Big Jim Pyrcha was the winner, giving up four hits in seven innings before being removed for Don Elston.

In the opener at Syracuse, Tom Poholsky limited the Chiefs to only four hits, Al Hartley went the distance for Syracuse in the afternoon, giving up six safeties.

Late-inning rallies gave the Red of Wings a split with Toronto Maple Athletics. The Wings won the first game 5-3 and the second 7-4, with reliefer Jack Crimian getting credit for both. In each game second baseman Jim Ortiz drove in the winning run.

Baltimore stretched its string of consecutive victories to seven on Dick Kryhoski's 24th circuit clout before a home-town crowd. Stars limited the Maple Leafs to four hits.

Sport in Brief

FT. ERIE POLICEMAN TOPS

HAMILTON (CP) — A Fort Erie policeman and an Ontario provincial police team Wednesday captured top individual and team honors in the Ontario police revolver shoot.

Sgt. Walter Leslie of Fort Erie scored an aggregate of 462 points to win the P.A.O. Trophy. He also was top marksman in the sharpshooter class to win the Marco Welding Trophy.

The OPP team of D. Darby, R. Dibbley and F. Petty scored 673 to win Class A, while the Hamilton police team, Sgt. William Slack, Herb Connolly and V. Lesperance.

Police officers from Toronto, York township, Weston, St. Catharines, Niagara Falls, Stratford, Kitchener, Welland and Forest-Sarnia took part.

The results:

Class A—Sergeants, W. Leslie, Fort Erie; Master class, I. B. Hamnett, St. Catharines; S. D. Darby, OPP; J. W. Slack, Hamilton. Sharpshooter class, I. W. Leslie; Z. R. Dibbley, OPP; R. J. Williamson, Guelph. Expert class, I. G. Reid, St. Thomas; J. Pryor, OPP, Guelph; J. W. Jackson, Forest Hill. Tyro class, I. C. Clavert, Kitchener; J. Bob Tyrrell, York township; J. J. Harvey, RCMP, Hamilton. Time and aim class, Sergeants, I. W. Leslie; 2. J. H. B. McDonald, Weston; 2. R. Dibbley, OPP.

5 JOCKEYS BARRED

CHICAGO (AP) — The Illinois racing board Wednesday ruled five jockeys and a jockey's agent off Illinois race tracks for life for participation in an alleged series of fixed races at Fairmount Park last year.

The jockeys were Bob Bennett, 19, Richard Ivy, 18, Johnny Philips; D. A. Bates, 21, and Hector Sanabria, 34. The jockey's agent involved was Joe LaBlanc.

Speculation Rife Regarding Results Jap-American Davis Cup Tournament

By DON MATHESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tennis experts—and the fans—are speculating freely about the outcome of the Japanese-American Davis Cup tennis matches opening here today.

Jim Mackan, a Canadian tennis star, put the speculation into words.

"The Americans are strong but the condition and speed of the Japanese may bring some surprises," he said.

That sort of speculation about the American side, top-heavy favorites to sweep aside Japan and others in the early rounds and meet Australia in the cup final, is surprising in itself.

Missing Sheets

Mackan, a Canadian Davis Cup player in 1948 who was named to the team last year but withdrew for business reasons, had just watched the Americans and Japanese work out during the week on the courts to be used today.

The American team — captain Tony Trabert, 23, Ham Richardson, 26, and Tom Brown, 30—were providing their own practice opponents but booming services and returns.

"But they were missing their sheets," said Mackan. "Jerry were going over a foot or into the net."

"If that happens in the singles so they may have to slow down on the power — and then watch out."

The "big" games—and the services putting the opponent on the defensive, then a rush to the net to volley"—is the top American brew.

On the next court, the Japanese side—captain Jiro Yamagashi, 41; Masanobu Kimura, 30; Atsushi Miyagi, 21, and Koei Kano, 19—kept their game under wraps.

Flashes of unexpected hidden power brought comment from a gallery of onlookers.

Trabert, 23-year, ranked third in American tennis before his two-year stint in the U.S. Navy, meets the second-ranked Japanese singles player, Kano, in the opening singles match.

Slight, 125-pound Miyagi, a member of last year's team who extended third-ranking American Art Larsen to five sets, meets Richardson, seventh-ranked American and national intercollegiate champion, in the second singles match.

A doubles match, with opponents not yet announced, is scheduled Friday. Singles players switch opponents in the final two matches Saturday.

Trabert and Richardson arrived here Monday for two days' hard practice on the grass, their first since last year's Davis Cup final in Australia. Brown had not been on grass since 1951.

Stengel Target for 'Pitching Pick; 'Chuck' Helps Cause, Ignores 'Bums'

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — The way Casey Stengel's Yankee pitching has been going lately, it's a wonder he didn't pick 11 pitchers for his American League all-star squad and let the fans' eight starters go all the way.

Everybody's pitchers must look good to old Case. Still he left out Bob Porterfield, and Mel Parnell, both of whom have had big winning champs within the last 10 days.

Six pitchers don't leave Stengel much room for error in a series where he already has lost three straight to the Yankees. Two pairs of lefthanders, with the lone exception of Chicago's Billy Pierce, is amazing.

Stengel has a pretty fair record of pitcher juggling when it comes to World Series games. Nobody who saw it every will forget how he called in lefthander Bob Kuzava in the late innings of the last game two years in a row, to get out the righthanders!

Likely Pierce

Although Stengel won't pick his starter for Tuesday's game at Cincinnati until next week, everybody is sure it will be Pierce. The National League starting lineup is loaded with righters, men like Ray Mathews, Stan Musial, Ted Kluszewski and Duke Slaugther who can knock down fences.

Selection of Satch Paige, venerable St. Louis Browns' relief ace, stemmed from the job Satch did on the Yanks the night St. Louis his best.

broke their 18 - game winning streak.

You can't say Stengel slighted any shortstops or first basemen. He picked four of each on the club, counting the two voted by the fans. An experienced baseball man, like Jim Dyhrs of the Athletics, said recently he thought the two would be Harvey Kuenn of Detroit and Billy Hunter of St. Louis, rated with the top shortstops in the league.

With Mickey Vernon, Johnny Mize, Eddie Robinson and Ferris Fain, Stengel can four-platoon at his souls delight, just as though he were back at Yankee stadium.

Some of the wolves are on Stengel's all pitching picks, and he does seem to have gone heavy on shortstops and first basemen but ignored some good pitchers, but Chuck Dressen of the National squad is very satisfied most everybody.

Dressen didn't pick a Dodger pitcher, natch. He's been hollering for a relief pitcher for years but more pitching help. And now he has added the final analysis.

With lefthanders like Curt Simmons, Harvey Haddix and Warren Spahn and righties like Robin Roberts, Murry Dickson, Gerry Staley and Hoyt Wilhelm he has all set for a juggling Stengel act with.

Colt Victor In Rich Trot

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—Jamie, a $1,250 bargain-basement colt owned by Charles McKinley of Fort Wayne, Ind., won the $7,900 Historic-Dickerson trot Wednesday in a four-heat test that proved to be a big test for the Hambletonian here Aug. 12.

Jamie, however, wasn't nominated for the $150,000 Hambletonian but his courage was. He won the three-year-old brown son of Dariey-Holley Spencer.

Mike Lee was entered in the Historic-Dickerson — 12 of them Hambletonian eligible—the race was started by two elimination heats, with the first five in each to come back in—separate races for the decision. Each of the required four heats to determine a winner was a mile.

The first elimination went to Dr'Artagnan, owned by the A. Cano Farms, Shafter, Calif.

Jamie finished second in the second elimination heat taken by Riley Hanover, Saunders Mill, Toledo, O.

Jamie travelled in 2:05 3-5 for the second fastest of the year. It was a sophomore trotter in the third heat, his final time was 2:13 with tired horses.

St. Kitts, Petes Lacrosse Victors

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There's no stopping St. Catharines Athletics in the Senior Ontario lacrosse playoffs.

The powerful A's have led the league from start of the season and have built up a comfortable margin. Wednesday night the Athletics kept up their winning ways, Toronto-Orillia West Yorks 14-10.

Cyril Gaskin was the big gun with a 4-3 first-quarter lead but the Athletics had to fight for their win next two periods. In the only other game, Peterborough Trailerman defeated Hamilton Tigers 17-8 at home. With the exception of a 4-2 first quarter lead by the Tigers, the Trailermen led all the way.

Four St. Kitts players — Leo Fox, Gerry Davies, Vic Brown and Bill Bradshaw—scored two goals each and Stan Mahon, Jim Mahon, Jim Bradshaw, Doug Smith, Max Wolley and Norm Corbett one goal apiece.

Playing coach Don McPhail led the Petes with five goals. Ken Mackenzie and Tony Demico scored two each.

Ken Mackenzie topped Peterborough with four goals while Don McPhail collected four and Nunzi Slater, Jerry Fitzgerald and Ross Lawless had a pair apiece. The other goals were by Grant Burns, Roger Smith, Curly Mason and Bob Fitzgerald.

Leading marksman for Hamilton was Jack Dorney with four.

MACK DALZ SWIFTEST

EXETER (CP) — Mac Dale, Strathroy, driving for the Lions Club of Petrolia captured honors in the three-heat trot Wednesday at the Exeter Turf Club's harness racing program, winning the second heat in 2:10 1-5, fastest time of the meet. Mac Dale nosed out High Lee Baldwin.

Yukon Eric, the fabulous Alaska lumberjack, whose chest is so big it has to be photographed with a panoramic camera, will meet Don Leo Jonathan, a big, fat, young athlete who has just as big designs on the world championship, in the feature wrestling match at the Memorial Arena on Friday night.

The imperturbable Yukon never hesitates to meet all comers. He's taken on clever ones, rough opponents, fast ones, big ones, any way they came. And has handled all manner of them in the usual, effective Yukon style. In meeting Jonathan, Eric will be in against a star who combines many of the best qualities of all the mat stylists. The match figures to be a ring classic.

EXERCISES START

NAPLES (Reuters) — Combined Italian and French air-sea exercises by the readiness of Italian and French convoys against air and submarine attacks in the Tyrrhenian sea have started off Naples. The exercises are known as "Champagne IV."

RARE VISITOR

HAMILTON (CP) — An albino sparrow, considered a rarity, is visiting the garden of Mrs. John King. The bird, still a fledgling, gets more than the usual amount of attention from its mother.

There are good reasons why bridge survives for centuries. One is because the most scientific and skilful methods will always be unpredictable in a certain number of cases.

Correct bidding and play is based upon certain expectancies of the unseen cards. Of the hundreds of different deals at least ten per cent of them will not be as fundamentally expected.

When this minority is encountered the basic science is futile. Nor is there any advance notice as to which deal will produce this variety. And only a long match would discover it in time.

So is it in the deal shown here:

NORTH

The players got stubborn in competition for the purchase of the contract. West was in bad shape after going beyond his initial stages. But south finally reached six diamonds which west doubled.

By all known accurate methods of bidding and play, south should not take more than ten tricks. With a little luck, he should hope to take no more than 11. But look what happened.

The opening lead from west was the king of hearts. With what is then seen in dummy, declarer expects to lose a trick in each suit but clubs. And even this may need careful play. It would first seem.

However, south won the first trick with heart ace and cashed two top trumps straight up in king-ace order. He drew the first break when all the opponent trump fell in dummy's favor.

Now south led a club and finessed the queen successfully. When he then cashed club ace and picked up the west king it was more than he should expect. But all this happened.

Dummy's club ace was covered by east jack and south ruffed. Dummy was entered with a trump. On three more clubs, south cast his three losers and thus took 13 tricks. Like stumbling onto a gold mine.

TRUCK KILLS FAIR

MONTREAL (CP)—Lisa Barry Werbowecky, 8, and her brother, Michael, nine months, were killed Wednesday night when a truck struck a group of children on a sidewalk at an east-end intersection. Another child, six-year-old Mary Gedeon, was reported in critical condition in hospital. Police said two panel trucks collided at the intersection and Roland Perrier, the driver of one truck, lost control of the vehicle.

Queen Mother, Princess Visit Haunted Valley

UMTALI, Southern Rhodesia (Reuters)—The Queen Mother and Princess Margaret Wednesday night moved into the isolated Leopard Rock Hotel perched on a 5,000-foohigh jungle cliff.

From their luxurious top-floor suite, the royal couple stared down into the floored depths of "Haunted Valley" of the Vumba mountain range. Africans swear the ghostly cries of villagers killed by an avalanche 400 years ago drift up nightly from the forested valley.

Today, the Queen Mother and Margaret are to have a day's rest at the half-way point of their 1,500-mile tour of this self-governing colony. They will stroll through the Witch's Cave, Gremlin Grotto and many other eerily-named places in this legend-steeped area of Africa.

The hotel, built mainly by Italian internees during the Second World War, resembles a French chateau. It sits in a sloping 300-acre site complete with golf course, swimming pool and magnificent mountain walks. The nearest community is Umtali, 23 miles away.

The Queen Mother's bedroom is unveiled a life-size bronze statue of Umtali as a memorial to Kingsley Fairbridge, a South African who founded farm schools throughout the Commonwealth for British children. Fairbridge came to Umtali in the 1920s and lived here until he went to Oxford in 1908.

Lord Salisbury Sails for States For Conference

LONDON (AP)—The Marquess of Salisbury, acting foreign secretary, left for the United States Wednesday night and was reported to be under orders from Prime Minister Churchill to press for early big power talks with Soviet Russia.

Lord Salisbury will be Britain's representative at a "Little Bermuda" conference in Washington with the American and French heads expected beginning Friday.

Before boarding a plane at London airport, Lord Salisbury told reporters that the ailing Churchill had given him a "good briefing." He said the prime minister was "in his usual good spirits" when they talked Tuesday night.

The "Big Three" foreign ministers' meeting was set up as a substitute for the Bermuda conference when Churchill's ill health forced him to call off his scheduled talks with President Eisenhower and the French premier. This conference had been set for July 8.

The anti-Communist uprisings in the Soviet zone of Germany are on the agenda for the Washington conference.

The prime minister is standing firm in his belief that a meeting with Soviet Premier Georgi Malenkov is essential even though the suggestion got a cool reception in Washington.

90 MPH NOT DANGEROUS

BARRIE (CP)—Edward Levy of Weston Wednesday was acquitted on a charge of dangerous driving although he travelled at speeds estimated at 90 miles an hour for 27 miles along four-lane Toronto-Barrie highway May 3. Defence counsel G. A. Martin claimed the speed was not excessive under the conditions.

TOUGH ON BANDITS

OTTAWA (CP) — Hesse (Pop) Hassan, 73, had a way to deal with hold-up men. For the second time in four years, Hassan wrestled a gun out of the hands of a would-be hold-up man Wednesday and pinned him to the floor until police arrived. Police booked Lawrence Legree, 21, on a charge of armed robbery just as they did Raymond H. Brown four years ago.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

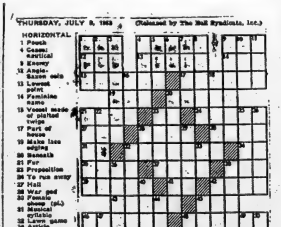
Look in the section in which (Scorpio)—Mars and Saturn warn against being testy when good humor is especially important! Be your natural fine self and all will succeed.

November 22 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Just the sort of day to pause and get better acquainted with yourself, with possibilities yet untried. Venture some, but wisely.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Read Scorpio. Similar influences now. You will get more, do better being genial and patient. Don't fret if things seem slow.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You can be shrewd and ambitious and today calls for both. Money and business matters need extra attention. Day can be grateful.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—You now have greater abundance of friendly planetary aspects. But you must be cautious not overdue, nor be too lenient. Be prompt, accurate.



YOU BORN TODAY are generous, gracious, truly religious and loyal to family and old traditions. Can be most successful in work requiring artistry, finesse, salesmanship. May tend to be too pugnacious at times; don't allow argue yourself into trouble. Be careful about that. Pray daily for stability, guidance.

TO BUY A HOUSE

For us the going has been rather rough,
What with sickness, operations and stuff,
On top of all this an occasional drunk
And doctor bills took us for all we were worth.
But this stage it seems was a real spree
And some doctor we started to see
But after the fun we don't add up to a sou
So eight hundred dollars is all that you've got.
The situation in brief I have just depicted
We are in no danger of being evicted
Now if some kind person with money galore
Has all he wants, doesn't want no more
To go a fool's errand, or waste his money
Let him call Belleville 1-2-3-4-5
And we'll be there.
I could of a thousand dollars and no easy terms,
Just pay his way clear to sail us
Then I would be happy, myself, and my wife

To Give Program Of Recorded Wildlife Sounds

TORONTO (CP)—An hour-long broadcast of recorded wildlife sounds by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation had its inspiration six years ago during a duck hunt on the Delta marsh at the southern end of Lake Manitoba. The program will be heard over the Trans-Canada network at 9 p.m. EDT, July 12.

Thom Benson of the CBC had a shotgun in his hand instead of a microphone, but he thought the wide variety of bird sounds on the marsh would make good material for a live record.

When the CBC set up its new special events department last fall, he started laying the groundwork for the recordings at the Delta waterfowl research station, about 15 miles north of Portage La Prairie.

The first essential, Benson writes in the CBC Times, was to find equipment capable of catching and distinguishing between delicate bird songs, often at long distances. The engineers settled on a 40-inch bowl-like reflector, with a microphone mounted 10 inches from the centre and facing into the curved surface.

Operated Under Handicap

The recording crew operated under troublesome natural handicaps. They found that the reflector which picked up the trilling of a bird 150 yards away, also had a habit of capturing the croak of a frog exercising his vocal chords, unnoticed in the same area.

"Sometimes we had to wait hours for the right soundtrack," Benson says. "Then, when the birds finally co-operated, we were as likely as not to find a dozen Harvards in the sky from a nearby training base. Airplanes were anywhere within five miles completely ruined our chances of picking up bird calls."

Sometimes the birds got too close. One little yellow warbler intrigued by the equipment, flew over and sat right on the microphone. Finally, in anger, he melodiously emerged as shrill, whistle-like blasts.

The birds, Benson found, had absolutely no respect for normal working hours. They were in best voice between 4 and 7 a.m.

For Summer Listening

Listeners to the CBC's Trans-Canada Matinee are getting their summer reading without opening a book. A new feature of the show is the serialized reading of a contemporary Canadian novel in 25 daily instalments.

The first book is "Home is the Stranger," a romance set in the midwest, by Edward McCourt, professor of English at the University of Saskatchewan. A West coast writer, Sally Creighton, prepared the serialization for reading by Lloyd Henry of Vancouver.

The story concerns an Irish girl who marries a Canadian airman overseas, but finds life in his Prairie farm not to her liking. McCourt knows both his backgrounds well. He is an Irishman who came to Canada as a boy, won a Rhodes scholarship and later taught at various Canadian schools and universities.

Coroner's Jury Says Death Was Accident

MILLBROOK (CP)—A coroner's jury Wednesday night found that the fatal shooting here of Wm. Hamish Scott, 20, on his mother's farm near here was accidental.

However, the jury reported that there was "an element of negligence" on the part of Scott's friend, Teddy Zralko, 18, in firing toward a neighbor's farm building.

Zralko Wednesday fired three shots while vacationing in the same spot from which the death bullet was fired, but missed a screwdriver piece of plywood which was placed where a hay rack had been. Smith was hit by the bullet while repairing a hay rack.

Zralko told the five-man jury he heard a starling chirping and fired, missing the bird. When he returned home later he was advised of his friend's death.

New Editor Named

EDMONTON (CP)—W. A. MacDonald, publisher of the Edmonton Journal, announced Wednesday the appointment of Bruce M. Gerrie as editor. Mr. Gerrie, who will also continue managing editor, succeeds J. Dixon Craig who died June 18.

Mr. Gerrie, a native of Toronto, joined the Journal as sports editor in 1940 and assistant reporter-night editor, assistant city editor, city editor and managing editor before becoming managing editor.

Mr. Gerrie served nearly four years in the Pacific War with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. He's married; now Mrs. M. D. McKee, lives in Preston, Ont.

He began his career on the Stratford Herald in 1936 and later worked on the Stratford Beacon and the London (Ont.) Advertiser. In 1941 he became editor of the Windsor Star (Ont.) Times. Later he worked for the Edmonton Bulletin before joining the Journal.

System at Standstill

OSHAWA (CP)—Oshawa's transit system was brought to a standstill Wednesday night when some 100 bus drivers walked off the job.

However, Dorland Windover, president of local 1255, Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railways of America, said the walkout was not authorized by the union and the drivers have agreed to return to work this morning.

While Mr. Windover declined to reveal the reason for the work-stoppage, he did say that a union-management dispute has been evident during the last two or three weeks.

He said the walkout had nothing to do with wages.

Secret Service Remains Silent Over Statements

LONDON (AP)—The British Secret Service remained silent Wednesday over statements by a former German officer that it had been completely hoodwinked for 20 months in the Second World War by the German counter espionage service in Holland.

The story of spy-beats-spy was told by a former German lieutenant-colonel, Wilhelm Leuteritz, who, said in a book, "London Calling North Pole," that for 20 months in 1942-43 the Germans virtually controlled the British and Dutch spy system.

The Germans obtained control of a Dutch underground radio transmitter and sent many faked messages to London, Gisbes wrote. Replies they received gave them advance notice of underground volunteers being landed in Holland by parachute, and of 53 caught 47 were executed, he said.

Causes a Stir

The book caused a stir when it was published here last January and there was agitation in Parliament for a British version of the events described by Gisbes, who now is a business man in Hamburg.

"But we ran up against a stone wall," said Arthur Lewis, Labor member of Parliament who demanded a public airing of the affair.

"I am still trying, but it seems that this is a secret the government wants to keep to itself. . . .

"Yet it is conceded in highly informed quarters that the story related by the German officer is substantially correct."

HAD INDIGESTION, HEADACHES
"Full Of Aches And Pains"
... Tells Of Grand Relief
"Felt Completely Rundown," Says This Man. Limbs and Joints Sore, Painful. Tells How Syntona Helped Him.
The many thousand of letters that come from men and women all over the country offer convincing proof of the good that people get by taking Syntona Herbal Compound. So many letters are received that it is impossible to publish all of them. But here is the general experience of Mr. William Sidall, 7 Pegler Street, London, Ontario, who said:
Felt Sick All Over
"For several years I was troubled with rheumatic pains in my limbs, joints and muscles. The condition grew worse until I became rundown, nerves were all on edge, and I couldn't get my proper sleep. I would get throbbing headaches and my stomach was so sour I would have indigestion, gassy cramps and heartburn almost every meal.
Tried Many Things
"I had tried just about everything I knew or both got no satisfactory relief. Then I read about Syntona, and I definitely say that it gave me the first relief I had ever got from anything. I am glad to tell you that now I can eat well and have practically no stomach distress, and I sleep like a log 100% better at night. Headaches are a thing of the past. I feel I owe it to others to have it not trouble me now and my nerves are steady as a rock. I will certainly recommend this medicine to anyone suffering as I did."
Has Helped Thousands
Thousands of men and women suffering from rheumatic pains, nervousness, sour, sour stomach, nervousness, rundown condition say that Syntona has given relief by taking Syntona. Why not let the Fyfe Herbal Medicine help you, too?
Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan Bros. Druggist.

RAWDON

St. Paul's United Church Continues Centennial Services

BY MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — Sunday was an important day in the life of St. Paul's, Stirling. The church was filled to capacity for both morning and evening services and many flowers which included a basket of Rambler roses, added much of beauty.

The first worshippers, who arrived Sunday morning in time for Sunday school were strangers from Pennsylvania, U.S.A., who never miss church when on a holiday.

Rev. David Gray, retired minister, living at Northfield, Ont., and a beloved former pastor of St. Paul's, brought the special message on "The Meaning of Inheritance." He graphically pictured to his audience, the fact that the church had come down to this generation through their inheritance. "Our forefathers planted the church in this district many long years ago and each generation has kept it alive and so the church has come to the folk here at Stirling and it is up to the congregation to cherish it."

Rev. Fred G. Joblin, Port Perry, a former resident of Stirling when he served the Rawdon pastorate for 12 years, honored St. Paul's with his presence and read the Bible lesson.

Thanks Returned

Rev. R. W. Rowland, Peterborough, a former pastor of St. Paul's, offered a gracious prayer that this congregation might grow in grace and be a leader in Christian principles in future years. He included a prayer of thanksgiving for all God's blessings during the 100 years of ministry in Stirling.

Rev. Grant A. Mekkejohn, B.A., B.D., of Lucknow, Ontario, and Jack Wood, home on furlough from the navy, were prominently honored at this service. Other guests were in attendance from Oshawa, Toronto, Ottawa, and many other distant points.

Rev. A. E. Baker, B.A., pastor of the church, presided and graciously welcomed the various ministers and read greetings from those who were unable to be in attendance.

Mrs. A. E. Baker, A.R.C.T., chose as her organ number, "Festo Burg", "Pilgrims" and "Dennis."

The senior choir rendered "Dear Land of Home," which was most appropriate for this "Old Home Day" service.

Mr. Walter Lindenfield, Marsh Hill, a former member of St. Paul's congregation, sang "The Model Church." He also repeated this selection at the memorial service for Hubble Hill cemetery that afternoon and sang it again at St. Paul's that evening by special request.

Old favorite hymns were sung and the service will long be remembered.

Sunday Evening

Rev. Keith Daniel, B.A., B.D., minister of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, Belleville, and a motorcade of members of his church together with Mr. William Wood, student minister of Sidney Baptist Church, and several members of his flock, gathered at St. Paul's United Church, Sunday evening. The edifice was filled to capacity and history was made as a real down to earth Baptist message was given in a United Church.

Mr. Daniel had been guest speaker that afternoon when a special service of Baptist recognition and a memorial service for Hubble Hill Cemetery was held at Mount Pleasant United Church with almost 200 people in attendance.

The evening service at St. Paul's was a commemoration of the long and fruitful ministry of the Baptists of Rawdon and Stirling during the past century.

The township of Rawdon was the community prior to the incorporation of the village of Stirling in 1858 and the earliest settlers were Joseph and Hannah Rosebush, Sr., of Ballston, N.Y., who came to Rawdon and Sidney with their ten children, married and single, in the early 1790's. They and their descendants are among the core of the Baptists who first organized churches in this district.

Elder Reuben Crandell, a pioneer Baptist preacher of Saratoga County, New York, State came in 1793 and later Elders Turner and Winn followed.

These men travelled on foot, fording creeks and preached in shanties, barns and open air settlements. When school houses were erected they used that as a meeting place and there three preachers organized the early Baptist work in Rawdon.

In 1806 "The Baptist Professors in Christ" held a special organization meeting in the home of Samuel Rosebush, 2nd concession of Rawdon, and "from this beginning, Baptist churches were built with Elder Turner the first pastor at Rawdon.

The early ministers were missionaries as they served one church and attended other missions. The first deacon was Joseph Rosebush, Sr. Owing to deaths, removals and intermarriages the Stirling church and the Hubble Hill church both dissolved in 1914. Many prominent members of St. Paul's United Church are descendents of these early Baptists.

It was regretted that Dr. Barry W. Mack, Detroit, Michigan, was unable to attend the service due to ill health. He is a descendant of the earliest Rawdon Baptists and is a son-of-the late Rev. Henry Wilson Mack, who labored in the Master's vineyard in Rawdon and vicinity from 1870 to 1892 as a church and song leader, Sunday school teacher and as an ordained Baptist minister. His message in part, is as follows:

Greetings

"On behalf of many of my kin and myself of Baptist stock, who have our roots in Stirling and vicinity, although now domiciled hundreds of miles distant, may I extend 'greetings' and 'congratulations' to the pastor, Rev. A. E. Baker, U.E., and the congregation of St. Paul's United Church, in reaching—and your observance of—your Centennial year. Also congratulations in the compiling, editing, and publication of the Centennial book which will long be cherished.

"As you have been firm all these years in the strong, simple faith of your fathers, may you so continue, giving thanks to God for the many opportunities with which you are blessed in Stirling, in the land of the Maple Leaf, seeking spiritual guidance and strength to build a greater future.

"May the 'Baptist gathering' this evening, with Rev. Daniel's message bring you a measure of strength for future days."

Rev. Keith Daniel gave a distinctive Baptist sermon to a packed audience and he felt highly honored to have this privilege. His pictured the basis of Baptist theology and explained the points of difference between Methodists and Baptists 100 years ago. In a most concise and graphic detail, he outlined the heritage of the Baptists and explained fully the worship of their church and how they differ today from the United Church of Canada.

The Baptist congregation have five points of special mention—"The Lordship of Jesus Christ"; "The Liberty of Conscience"; "The Authority of Scripture"; "The Autonomy of the Local Church" and lastly "The Baptism of Believers Only".

The last audience gave rapt attention as the speaker eulogized the Baptist work and all that it stands for.

Mr. Wm. J. Connor, M.A., organist of Victoria Avenue, was in charge of the evening music.

Miss Phyllis W. May, A.R.C.T. choir director and about 30 members from Belleville, rendered two anthems, "Bostinawsky's Cherubim Song, and "By, Baby-lon's Wave". Mr. C. M. Irwin delighted with a baritone solo.

Mr. William Wood, student minister of Sidney Baptist Church read the Bible lesson.

The service closed with "Lord, Dismiss Us With Thy Blessing".

A fellowship hour was held in the dining hall when over 150 people enjoyed a social half hour over a cup of tea.

Mr. Daniel delighted with two Negro spirituals. Mr. Walter Lindenfield sang with Mrs. Baker as accompanist.

Mr. Baker conducted a birthday quiz and folks were present who had been born in England, Scotland, Wales, Newfoundland, and the 10th province, various sections of the United States and Canada.

The Centennial Year Book was on display and Dr. Mack has given valued assistance in its preparation.

On Sunday, July 12, a monster Orange Service for Hastings County will be held at 11 o'clock at St. Paul's under the leadership of the immediate Past Grand Master of Ontario East R. W. Bro. Fred C. Bateman of the Loyal Orange Association.

R.W. Grand Marshal Archie Miller, Brockville, will met the brethren and there will be a special color party.

On this historic occasion the 1953 Centennial stone will be laid in St. Paul's Church and the band will be in attendance.

She's Got Fleas, Wants a Dog To Catch Them

CLEVELAND (AP)—It was an ordinary day at the Cleveland Animal Protective League office. Then the phone rang.

"I want to borrow a dog for a couple of days" shrilled an excited female voice.

"Why?" asked the league director Henry J. Leffingwell.

"I've got fleas and I'm allergic to 'em," thought one of your dogs could roam around the house a couple of days and pick them up."

"We don't lend our dogs" said Leffingwell.

The receiver slammed on the other end.

"What would my dogs have thought?" he asked.

Elizabeth First Reigning Queen To Enter Castle

CAERNARVON, Wales (Reuters) Queen Elizabeth II today became the first reigning queen of England to demand entrance to crumbling, 13th century Caernarvon Castle.

In a ceremony more than 600 years old, the Queen, in a lavender coat and small cream hat, placed her foot on the door and said, "I demand admission in the name of the Queen."
